NIXON TO AIR DETAILS OF 'PHASE 2' CONTROLS

PRESIDENT NIXON will go on television and radio tonight at 7:30 EDT to tell the nation what economic controls will replace the wage-price freeze expiring Nov. 13. Although details of Nixon's long awaited "Phase II" plans to control inflation and stimulate the economy were not disclosed, they were widely expected to provide for limited wage and price increases pegged to productivity and the cost of living. White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said only that the speech, to be delivered from Nixon's oval office, will "describe what further steps will be taken to stablize the economy." The President worked on his speech Wednesday in his private office in the Executive Office Building adjacent to the White House after studying the recommendations of the Cost of Living Council during the weekend and consulting Tuesday with Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and his budget director, George P. Shultz. The House meanwhile shouted approval of Nixon's tax cut proposals—totaling $15.4 billion in the next three years—and sent them to the Senate, where hearings will start today. Fewer than 50 members were on the floor when the bill passed on a voice vote — unusual for legislation of such importance. Through 1973, the bill drafted by the House Ways and Means committee and approved intact would reduce corporate taxes by $5.7 billion and individual taxes by $9.7 billion. The AFL-CIO insisted the cuts still were weighted heavily in favor of big business, and vowed to continue its fight in the Senate.

SENATE VOTES FEDERAL PAY INCREASE JAN. 1

THE SENATE voted Wednesday to give a Jan. 1 pay raise to all 4 million civilian and military federal workers equal to the average pay increases private employes are permitted after the wage-price freeze. However, for the action to take effect, the Senate today in a second vote must override President Nixon's order postponing any federal pay raise until July 1. If the Senate votes to veto the postponement, the measure it approved Wednesday would — if approved by the House — limit the federal pay increase to the average permitted non-government workers under "Phase II" of the President's economic policy. Wednesday's vote was 60 to 27 and pay raise supporters said its size heralded a victory today that would be the first congressional rebuff to Nixon's anit-inflationary program. Eighteen Republicans deserted the President and voted in favor of the modified pay raise despite warnings from Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott that approval would "shoot a grievous hole" in Nixon's program.

PRESIDENT MOVES TO HALT WEST COAST STRIKE

PRESIDENT Nixon moved Wednesday to obtain a back-to-work court order halting the west coast dock strike and a grain elevator tieup in Chicago, but he withheld intervention in the east and Gulf coast longshoremen's walkout. Acting under the Taft-Hartley act, the President ordered the Justice Department to seek an 80-day cooling off period in the Pacific coast strike, now 98 days old, and in the Chicago dispute in the U.S. district courts. In San Francisco, U.S. Attorney James Browning said he was filing the necessary papers in the U.S. District Court late Wednesday afternoon. The White House said Nixon believed fruitful negotiations were still possible in the walkout of 45,000 east and Gulf coast longshoremen, so he decided against seeking a back-to-work order in that dispute.

NORTH VIETNAMESE GUNNERS SHELL ALLIED BASES

NORTH VIETNAMESE gunners shelled a dozen allied bases along the Cambodian border in Tay Ninh province Tuesday night and early Wednesday despite statements by Vietnamese generals that the Communist forces were beaten and retreating from the area. U.S. warplanes continued to apply tremendous amounts of firepower against Communist positions in the border area, flying two strikes by B52 bombers and 33 other air raids with smaller tactical fighter bombers. American jets also struck across the North Vietnamese frontier at radar-controlled antiaircraft guns and missile sites that threatened them as they flew bombing runs against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in nearby Laos, spokesmen said in Saigon.

PALESTINIAN GUERRILLA LEADER ESCAPES AMBUSH

UNIDENTIFIED gunmen ambushed the car of Yasser Arafat Tuesday night on the Syrian-Israeli cease-fire line but failed to harm the Palestinian guerrilla leader, General Command of the Palestinian revolution announced in Damascus. The spokesman said Arafat, who is commander of the Palestinian revolution and chairman of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, escaped unhurt but his driver was killed. The spokesman said the incident occurred when Arafat, accompanied by leading members of the guerrilla movement, was inspecting guerrilla advanced positions east of Kuneitra, near the Israeli-occupied Syrian Golan Heights. He said Syrian authorities have arrested a number of those who took part in the operation and started investigations.

EGYPT ENVOY ASSAILS U.S. FOR ARMING ISRAEL

EGYPTIAN Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said Wednesday in the United Nations that Washington's action in continuing to arm Israel while asserting support for Middle East peace moves is a "basic contradiction" in U.S. policy. Israel's insistence upon expanding and annexing Arab territories is "a categorical rejection of peace in the Middle East," Riad said in a policy speech to the General Assembly. Riad brushed aside the six-point program for Middle East peace outlined to the assembly by Secretary of State William P. Rogers last Monday. He said an interim agreement, such as the one Rogers proposes for reopening the Suez Canal, would be used by Israel to frustrate conclusion of an overall peace pact.

QUINN CLARIFIES RULING ON STUDENT VOTER RIGHTS

STUDENTS don't have to promise to remain in a community for the rest of their lives to be eligible to vote, Attorney General Robert H. Quinn said Wednesday in clarifying residency requirements for voter registration. "Requiring that a prospective voter state that he will remain in a community is not realistic and not in keeping with the traditionally accepted legal principle of what constitutes residency," Quinn said. The attorney general made the statement to clarify an opinion he issued July 21 regarding ground rules for registration of students. "Although six months residency in a city or town prior to registration is required under the law, this does not mean that the prospective voter cannot be absent at some point during that period," he said. A few communities, including Cambridge, Wellesley and Quincy have refused to follow Quinn's opinion which said students could register where they went to school regardless of their financial position or whether they lived in a dormitory.

DR. JOHN S. VIALL

Pastor Named President Of N.E. Conclave

Dr. John S. Viall, Pastor of the Evangelical Baptist Church, 23 Chapel St., Newton, has been voted president of the New England Evangelical Baptist Conference for the thirteenth consecutive year.

Longevity Pay Reinstated In Rush Session

Longevity payments for city h clerks were approved 20-1 at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen Thursday night.

The vote, which reversed a decision made it another special Board meeting the previous Monday, came on the last possible day on which salary increases could be voted this year. A special state law, which officials feel may apply to Newton, prohibits salary increases covering less than three months in an election year.

Di Carlo Project Is Rejected In Hot Session

$1-Million Telephone Depot Defeated As Traffic Hazard

The Board of Aldermen quashed a million - dollar construction project by developer Dino DiCarlo in heated debate Monday night.

DiCarlo's plan to build a depot for 85 telephone construction trucks and 150 employees on Rowe St. near Auburndale Square was opposed by Franchises and Licenses Committee Chairman Harry Walen on grounds that it would create an "intolerable" traffic problem in the Commonwealth Ave. - Lexington St. area.

DiCarlo, the owner as well as developer of the land, had petitioned Walen's Franchises and Licenses Committee for permission to install fuel storage tanks as part of the depot. There was no land use hearing since the area is already zoned for manufacturing.

After the committee rejected DiCarlo's petition by a vote of 5-1, Alderman Alan Barkin, in a minority report, attempted to persuade the Board to override the committee report.

In a debate with strong political overtones, Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle, Arthur Sullivan, David Jackson, Harry Crosby, Matthew Jefferson and Harry Walen spoke against the petition, while Aldermen Barkin, Robert Tennant, Jason Sacks, and Adelaide Ball spoke in favor.

Citing strong neighborhood opposition, Bullwinkle declared that city officials have been "inundated" with complaints about the traffic hazards in the area.

Jackson contended that the streets, which date from the days when Auburndale was a "rural backwater," are too narrow to handle the load of

Incinerator Debate Flares Over Repair

After nearly an hour of debate on whether to junk or to repair the old Eliot St. incinerator, the Board of Aldermen Monday night voted to send the matter back to committee for further study.

The Department of Public Works had requested appropriation of some $7100 to repair the chimney of the old incinerator, which is now used for burning tree stumps and leaves.

One question at the root of the dispute was the relationship between the Board of Aldermen and heads of City Departments.

Expressing concern that repair money would be wasted if the state shut down the incinerator as a pollution source, Alderman Michael Antonellis moved to send the request back to committee until Public Works Commissioner Willard Pratt replied to a letter asking whether the state had okayed use of the incinerator.

Capt. McMullen Is Feted On Retiring

Members of the Newton Police Department tendered a farewell luncheon to Capt. John N. McMullen, retiring Detective Bureau Commander and Court Prosecutor, Newton District Court, at the Blue Bell Restaurant, Newtonville, Mass.

Capt. McMullen, retiring after thirty - one (31) years of service with the Police Department, was an outstanding investigator and was known throughout New England for his ability, and his knowledge of law, as the police - assigned prosecutor at the Newton District Court, where he handled everything from parking tickets to murder.

Folowing the Miranda decision, and police officers throughout the country were criticizing the court for handcuffing the police, McMullen gained national recognition when, in the course of a speech, he stated, "I am not mad at the Supreme Court; their decision just means better investigations by police officers, more and improved training for all officers."

Wed. Deadline For '71 Voter Registration

With only six days left in which to register to vote for the municipal election Nov. 2, two special all-day registrations will be held at City Hall.

Saturday registration will be available Oct. 9 from noon to 10 p.m., and on deadline day, Wesnesday, Oct. 13, the Election Department will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

In addition to a roster of some 60 candidates, voters will be asked to rule on the proposed City Charter, the product of two years' discussion by the Charter Commission. By state law, a question on the legalization of Beano will also be on the ballot.

The municipal election will be the first test of the influence of the 18-21 year old vote. According to Alan W. Licarie, Executive Secretary of

Mrs. Cutler To Be Recipient of Award

Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler, former Massachusetts State Senator and prominent local civic leader, will be the recipient of the Annual Achievement Award of the Newton - Needham Chamber of Commerce on October 19th at Marriott Motor Hotel, Auburndale. Dinner will be served at 6:45 p.m., preceded by a social hour beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the salons adjoining the Grand Ballroom.

Mrs. Cutler, a native of Boston, has been especially prominent in Needham civic life. In 1924 she was elected to serve in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Ten years later she was elected to serve in the Massachusetts State Senate, where she served until 1968.

She also served as a member of the Needham Board of Health for more than forty years and in 1955 established the first Council on Aging in the United States. Three years later she was one of the founders of the Needham YMCA.

Her major legislative accomplishments included a 26 year effort ending in 1949 when jury service for women was adopted; legislation passed in 1941 which requires blood testing before marriage; 1946 legislation for the establishment of Logan Airport as a major international airport and in 1961 the establishment of the Women's Bureau in the Massachusetts State Department of Commerce.

Call Off City-Wide Halloween Parties

Halloween this year falls on a Sunday, October 31. Newton Recreation Commissioner, John B. Penney, reports that there was a difference of opinion whether or not to hold parties this year; and if so, which night to select.

At a meeting of elementary principals, a vote was taken with majority approval to ask the Recreation Commission to consider a one - year trial in 1971 of not holding the city - wide parties program.

The Recreation Commission conducted a written survey on this question amongst schools, P.T.A.'s, Halloween party chairmen and executive committee members. The results of the survey was that a majority voted for the idea of having no city - wide Halloween parties program this year.

However, a few schools indicated a desire to hold parties - some on Friday night October 29th and a couple on Sunday night, October 31st.

The Recreation Commission after reviewing the situation described above, noted to withdraw for a year the administration of the city - wide Halloween program. Individual schools and P.T.A.'s are encouraged to handle their own parties on an individual basis.

Liturgical Comm. To Meet Here Oct. 16

The Liturgical Commission of the Archdiocese of Boston has announced an open meeting to be held on Friday October 15, at 7:30 p.m. at Our Lady Help of Christians Parish Hall in Newton.

In addition to reports and discussion by the Commission, the program is scheduled to allow ample time for open discussion from the floor.

An added feature of this annual public meeting will be exhibits of art and literature connected with the liturgical renewal.

The meeting has been designed to allow the Commission to be accountable to the clergy and laity of the Archdiocese regarding the progress to date, present pro-

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Old-Time Politico Unhappy With Powder Puff Campaign

The old-time politician lowered himself into a chair, unbuttoned his vest, breathed a nostalgic sigh and observed sadly that election campaigns aren't what they used to be in the good old days.

Nowadays, he declared, candidates for high public office engage in powder puff fights, treat each other with kid glove politeness and think mostly of the image they present to the voters.

Even the most bitterly contested present-day campaigns would not compare with the knock-down battles of a generation ago when the first requisite of any candidate was a thick skin, the old-timer continued.

Gone, he asserted, are the James M. Curleys, the James J. Galvins and their like. Harry Truman was probably the last of the two-fisted campaigners to stand for the Presidency. Even Spiro Agnew wouldn't qualify to stand with the hard-hitting politicos of yesteryear.

GOING OVER ANCIENT PRAYERS: Rabbi Albert S. Axelrad, of Brandeis, points to a portion in the prayer book which was read by Dr. Ber M. Shegloff, a resident of Weston Manor Nursing and Retirement Home, during Rosh Hashonah services held in the Weston Manor Chapel. In addition to its own guests, both Jewish and non-Jewish, Weston Manor played host to a group of patients from the Katherine Barton Nursing Home of Wayland who came to Weston for the services and a Kiddush which followed. The non-Jewish guests found the service so delightful and informative that "we plan to have all residents attend each others' Holiday services to promote a greater understanding for all," stated Robert E. Smith, Administrator of Weston Manor.

He went on, "Meticulous court preparation by well trained investigators, with all rights observed, can result in greater protection for all."

The remarks were picked up by the national news services and had an effect in creating greater acceptance of changes in Law Enforcement.

McMullen was educated at Our Lady's High School, and later attended Northeastern University, and at the time of his retirement was an instructor in law for the Mass Department of Education, University extension courses.

He also graduated from the F.B.I. National Academy and has been prominent in Police Academy programs.

Detective William P. Mahoney, Jr., was chairman of the luncheon program, Sgt. Charles E. Feeley was toastmaster, and the group presented the Captain with a plaque inscribed:

"This remembrance given to Captain John N. McMullen First among equals in Law Enforcement and second to none in vigorous prosecution of the lawless."

By his brother officers signed William F. Quinn, Chief"

Chief Quinn, absent due to his attendance at the International Chiefs Association Convention in California, left a statement: "Captain Mac's retirement leaves this department with two jobs to fill. He has been an outstanding police officer, Detective and Prosecutor; we are going to miss him, and the only good part of this retirement is that he shall be able to enjoy the luxury of being without the responsibilities he carried for us, for so long and so well."

In attendance for the luncheon, and sitting at the head table were Capts. Richard F. Donahue, A. Charles Mascia, and Walter D. Drew. In all, forty of his associates gathered to wish him good luck.

McMullen, in accepting the accolade of the group, stated he didn't care to say other than, "I couldn't find a finer group of men to work with than members of the Newton Police Department or my associates at the Newton District Court," and he had a slight wish to be just starting a police career, rather than finishing.

Pay-

Associates, the union of city hall clerks and secretaries, had suggested the union might seek an unfair labor practice ruling against the city after the aldermen voted the previous Monday to withhold funds for a longevity increase written into the 1970 contract.

The original agreement gave $4, $5, and $6 a week bonuses to employees on the fifth step of the salary scale for various civil service grades.

In a compromise worked out Thursday, the bonuses will take effect only after a minimum of four years' service with the city.

The total cost for this year's increases will be $1800. The cost of the increases was cut $400 by the provisions of the compromise, according to Alderman Eliot Cohen.

Reconsideration of the salaries of department heads was also on the agenda, but that item was shelved. Some board members are unhappy about one or another of the salaries approved by the board, Cohen said, "but most members feel satisfied with the over-all package."

Planned Parenthood League Launches Fund-Raiser Here

The Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts has launched a fall fund - raising and publicity campaign to increase membership in the Newtons. "We feel that many more of our neighbors would support our work if they just knew more about us," said Mrs. Henry Gesmer, long - time Planned Parenthood League Supporter and Newton resident.

The 41-year-old organization which moved its headquarters to Newton Centre in August, maintains an extensive information and referral service while developing additional programs to meet the changing needs of the Commonwealth.

"We are a state - wide health education and planning agency," explained Executive Director Richard B. Rogers, himself a Newton resident.

"Last year we were instrumental in the inception of family planning services in Lowell, Springfield, Fall River, North Adams and Worcester. This year we will continue working to promote extended family planning services, particularly for our low - income citizens.

"And increasingly we will focus our attention on education in an effort to insure that the freedom and knowledge to determine the number and spacing of their children is available to all who desire it," he said.

A private non - profit organization, the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts depends on individual contributions to sustain its programs. The goal of te fall membership drive is to attract 1000 new contributors. Volunteers, including several newly trained Newton women, answer hundreds of requests each week for information, ranging from questions concerning contraception and sterilization to requests for referral for infertility problems and adoption.

"The office is at 93 Union street," the Executive Director added. "The public is cordially invited to visit, to use the library, pick up some literature, or simply satisfy your curiosity as to what we're all about.

Annette Feldman Fund Is Opened With A $500 Gift

Virginia A. Tashjian, Director of the Newton Free Library, announces the establishment of the Annette Yanco Feldman Art and Music Fund with an initial gift of $500. This will be a continuing trust fund with sums of money being donated by friends, relatives and admirers of Mrs. Feldman.

Annette Yanco Feldman was a frequent library user, and a great lover of chamber music and the fine arts. She and her children enjoyed particularly the many story hours given by Mrs. Tashjian.

Presentation of this gift was made Tuesday evening (Oct. 5) by the committee which included Mrs. Dina Gilbern, chairman, Mrs. Frank Flaschner, and Mrs. Hilton Hindus, and was accepted by Virginia A. Tashjian.

Other recent donations which the librrary has gratefully received include Mrs. Leslie H. Graffam's gift in memory of her father, Mr. Harold V. Currie, to the Auburndale Children's Room, and such continuing gifts as the fund in memory of Mrs. Doris Getter and the Loretta M. Ex-Congressman Curtis Defends Viet Policy

Editor
Newton Graphic

Extremist voices have proclaimed that the one-man election in South Vietnam makes a mockery of our proclaimed war aim of self-determination for South Vietnam. This is based on the belief that "self-determination" meant that the internal government of South Vietnam must be democratic.

There is strong evidence against that view. The context of President Johnson's speeches demanding "self-determination" for South Vietnam makes it clear that "self-determination" meant freedom of South Vietnam from external domination and freedom from a communist take-over. It did not mean that we wished to dictate to South Vietnam what form of internal government it should have.

There is other evidence in support of that conclusion. Our policy of providing this type of aid had its beginnings in the "Truman doctrine" of 1947, relating to aid for Greece and Turkey.

In his message of March 12, 1947, President Truman urged the support of free peoples who were resisting attempted subjugation by outside pressures. He added: "I believe that we must assist free people to work out their own destinies in their own way."

In 1966 our Secretary of State, after quoting President Truman's words, said they had been "central to the attitude of United States in the postwar period insofar as Southeast Asia is concerned."

The one-man election in South Vietnam is not a denial of our war aim towards that country. Our war aim relates to its freedom from subjugation from without and not to its form of internal government.

Before people here condemn the one-man election in South Vietnam, it should be remembered that the inhabitants of Southeast Asia have for hundreds of years been accustomed to autocratic forms of government, that it took centuries for the western-type of democracy to develop, and that it is a mistake, which we have made before, to apply Western standards to the strivings of Asian countries to move into the era of democracy.

Since the Recreation Department will not be administrating the programs, the usual funds for food, entertainment, favors and custodial costs will not be available from the department because of regulations and policies covering the use of such funds.

However, if any schools plan an evening party, the cost of one policeman on duty at the party can be paid for by the Recreation Department budget. Schools should contact the Police Department directly for coverage.

The Recreation Commission will be interested in knowing the reaction to this change in policy after the Halloween season has passed in order to determine what their procedure should be for Halloween 1972.

Mrs. Peter L. Goldstone of 11 Graylyn Rd. in Newton was Program Chairman of the first fall meeting of the Aid to Speech Therapy of Emerson College, held yesterday at the Abbot Library in Boston.

Aid to Speech Therapy is a group of women dedicated to helping support the Robbins Speech and Hearing Clinic and the Thayer Lindsley Nursery School for deaf children of preschool age.

Other Newton officers of the group are Mrs. Paul Abramson of 45 Juniper Lane, Newton Centre, Vice - President; Mrs. Stanley Forman of 208 Country Club Rd., Recording Secretary; and Mrs. Herbert Margolis of 816 Commonwealth Ave., Co-President.

Yesterday's meeting featured the presentation of a plaque to Mrs. Joy McKinley, wife of the former Emerson College President.

The guest speaker at the affair was Mr. Samuel Hirsch, Drama Critic of the Herald Traveler, who was introduced by Mrs. Goldstone.

Parents Attend Family Lecture; Plan Workshop

An audience of parents from Newton and surrounding towns gathered Monday night to hear a lecture on methods for improving family communications. Parents from Newton, Brookline, Medfield as well as from Wellesley heard James B. Richard speak on "Parent Effectiveness Training."

Mr. Richard stressed that parents of children of all ages can learn to increase their capacities for listening and responding to their children. When these skills are acquired, he said, a significant improvement in family relationships can occur.

He involved his audience in identifying kinds of parent-child relationship problems and demonstrated how the skills of "active listening" and response awareness aid their resolution.

A workshop in "Parent Effectiveness Training" begins Monday night, October 4, in Rice House of the Unitarian Church of Wellesley Hills at 309 Washington street. It will meet every Monday and Thursday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. for four weeks. There is a fee for the class, but the first evening is open to the public.

Joint Services For Methodists-Central Church

Central Congregational Church in Newtonville has accepted the invitation of the United Methodist Church of Newtonville to join in worship with them for the first two Sundays of October while the chimney is being repaired in the Congregational Church.

The worship will be held at 10 a.m. The Church Schools will also be united with nursery through grade 6 meeting at 10 a.m. and the Junior High and Senior High classes meeting at 9 a.m.

Admissions Dir. Of Rider Visits

The director of admissions at Rider College in Trenton, N.J. will be in West Newton October 10-12 for meetings with Boston area students interested in attending Rider and their parents.

Earl L. Davis will be available for consultations at the Holiday Inn off Route 128 in West Newton Sunday afternoon and evening, October 10, Monday afternoon and evening and Tuesday evening.

Rider is a private, co-educational college located on a new 306-acre suburban campus between Trenton and Princeton. There are 3,7000 students enrolled in the Schools of Liberal Art and Science, Education and Business Administration.

Pupils At Dean Junior College

Three young Newton men are among more than 500 members of the class of 1973 at Dean Junior College in Franklin, Mass.

Starting their freshman year at the school are Andrew M. Sanderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanderson of 40 Windsor Rd., Waban; Kevin F. McCabe, son of Mrs. Francis McCabe, 105 Pearl St., Newton; and Robert E. Chalmers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chalmers of 254 Auburndale Ave., Auburndale.

Hospital Party Day October 27

Invitations to the Newton - Wellesley Hospital Aid Association's 19th PARTY DAY are being mailed to the more than 1,300 members who annually participate in the Aid's only fund raising effort. On Wednesday, October 27, members and guests will gather in homes opened in the Newton, Wellesley, Needham and Weston areas for dessert - bridge parties where women will gather to play bridge, sew, knit or indulge in friendly visiting.

Funds from the parties will underwrite equipment for the handsome Gift Shop, which is located in the newly opened West Wing of the 360-bed hospital, a teaching affiliate of Tufts University Medical School. Mrs. Chester E. Borden of Auburndale is chairman of the Gift Shop.

Mrs. Edwin Hawkridge of Newton and Mrs. Jack S. Parker of Wellesley are co-chairmen for the Party Day. They are being assisted by the following chairmen: Mrs. Shepard F. Williams, Waban and Mrs. William Elfers, Wellesley, treasurers, tickets, reservations and contributions; Mrs. Borden, prizes; Mrs. John W. Carleton, Waban and Mrs. Walter A. Moor, Wellesley, refreshments and Mrs. Worthing L. West, Newton Centre, publicity.

Junior Aid liaison chairmen are Mrs. Carl L. Recco, Newton and Mrs. John C. Carpenter, Wellesley.

Seven Area Students At Montserrat

Seven students from the Newton area are enrolled this year at Montserrat, School of Visual Art, in Beverly. Among the 180 full-time students are Rick Cone, 22 Woodhaven road; Nancy Flessas of 32 road; Peter Colton, 54 Rosalie road; Nancy Flessas of 32 Woodbine Terrace; Lester Goodman of 34 Lafayette road; Eric Madsen of 32 O'Rourke Path; Kristina Seeglitz of 315 Franklin street; and David Salk of 37 Wyman street, all of Newton.

Founded in 1970 by the North Shore Community Arts Foundation, the Montseratt curriculum teaches both commercial and "fine" arts, making no distinction between the two forms and placing equal emphasis on concepts and techniques for success in both fields. The faculty are all practising professional artists, sculptors and designers.

Visit Daughter At Northampton

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schwab of 126 Sumner Street, Newton Centre, parents of Catherine Schwab are planning to attend Parent's Weekend at Northampton Junior College on Oct. 16 and 17.

Students and faculty have planned a fashion show, exhibit, carnival, chicken barbecue, and dinner-dance for the event.

Catherine is enrolled in the Fashion Merchandising degree program.

Gas Station Hours Eased

The Aldermanic Franchises and Licenses Committee Thursday night revised an ordinance limiting the hours which gas stations could be open. The original ordinance had two purposes. One was to prevent youngsters, particularly those taking drugs, from using the stations as meeting places. The other was to help station operators resist pressure from oil companies to stay open at unprofitable hours.

The original ordinance closed gas stations from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. except when special permission for extra hours was granted by the aldermen. The aldermen received so many applications for special permission that the effective date of the ordinance was postponed twice, for three months each time.

The revised ordinance, which is scheduled to take effect at 7 a.m., January 1, 1972, raises the evening deadline to 10 p.m.

The ordinance also stipulates that only the station operator may apply for extra hours. The aldermen had received applications for extra hours from oil companies without the knowledge of the station operator in some cases.

To prevent youngsters from using station lavatories as a place to take drugs, the ordinance requires that during non-business hours all rest rooms, including those with coin-operated entrances, must be locked so as to be inaccessible to the public.

Begins 5th Year Aiding Students In Math Skills

The Scholastic Achievement Center, with offices in Melrose and Newton Centre, has begun its fifth year of helping students develop confidence in their Verbal and Math skills, confidence that will be an important part of their College Boards performance.

The Center's SAT Reviews, Math and Verbal, are not "cram" courses. Rather they are courses designed to reinforce what has been taght in the high school. They are, in other words, presented to strengthen recall of what has been taught over a period of time.

The SAT REVIEWS, given by experienced, student-oriented teachers - in a small classroom situation - not only develop the students' confidence in the Math and Verbal fields, but also develop their confidence in the general area of test-taking.

For those students whose verbal SAT scores were below 450, The Center offers a secial program that will present in-depth examinations of the Verbal field. This special program, having 10 more hours than the standard SAT Review, will inspire those who had scored low to try again - knowing that they have actively prepared for higher SAT scores.

Students and parents are invited to call the Scholastic Achievement Center at Newton Centre, 527-5474, to find out more about these stimulting courses that will begin the week of September 27.

BILL CARMEN ISN'T AFRAID TO TELL YOU WHERE HE STANDS ON HOUSING.

When Bill Carmen was chairman of the Newton Housing Authority, a junk yard like this . . .

In Nonantum — Yanco's Junk Yard

— was turned into Elderly housing like this.

Parker House, Newton Centre

Bill Carmen knows there is a vital need for low rent housing in Newton.
Our senior citizens, municipal employees and young people need a decent place to live.
Bill Carmen knows there is a right way to get this done. And a wrong way.
Bill Carmen believes that sub-standard housing must be replaced by decent housing.
Bill Carmen believes in replacing gutted structures, abandoned buildings and blighted sites with low rent, high quality housing.
Bill Carmen believes in garden style apartments on scattered sites.
Bill Carmen believes in individual housing units with provisions for tenant purchase.
Bill Carmen believes in solving Newton's housing problem. One step at a time.
That's why Bill Carmen, as chairman of the Newton Housing Authority went door to door talking with people in each neighborhood and listening.
He does not believe in ramming unsatisfactory programs down the throats of neighbors.
He does not believe in high-rise, concentrated housing projects.
He does not believe in taking open land for housing.
There are enough blighted areas in Newton to build on and restore, without taking open land for high-rise nightmares.
Newton can and should have adequate housing for our citizens.
And then the garden city will be a garden city for all Newtonites.

Latest in Education

At 54 Donald Barr is creating quite a stir on the educational front. In a field in which ultra and near-ultra modern concepts and procedures keep popping like corn on a grid he's an anomaly but a successful anomaly.

His ideas and principles appear like something borrowed from the 18th Century. They are so old they look brand new in this permissive era of swift change.

Mr. Barr is a school master. He's a firm believer in discipline as a sine qua non in the art of education. He sneers at en masse intelligence tests — even the almost universally-used Scholastic Aptitude Test. He rejects "new" reading, mathematics, science and English teaching methodoligies, even those backed by such multi-million-dollar organizations as the Ford, Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations.

He thinks cramming for an exam never did any student harm. He believes much is to be learned by the study of Latin.

He's headmaster of one of the nation's most selective, expensive and successful private schools, with classes ranging from kindergarten to the 12th grade. Parents of his pupils demand and get only the very best.

Some of the latter created a big to-do, when they asked the school's board of trustees to get Mr. Barr to ease up on his strict "old-fashioned" ideas. The majority would have no such compromise, even with a hint of permissiveness.

He has written a book that bids fair to take the spotlight away from some of the voluminous outputs of moderns who've been ont-doing each other in introducing new slants in progressive education.

The book is going to make a lot of puzzled parents happy. Many of them will be hoping his ideas will soon begin to find root through the entire educational community from kindergarten through the top universities.

If it sounds the "red-school-ouse" in approach—so be it!

Bill For $53,575

It's unlikely Lieutenant John F. McCullough, USAF, will have $53,575 readily available if the federal courts sustain a suit brought against him by the U.S. Attorney's office in Colorado. The young officer is only 24. His earning capacity has been somewhat limited thus far in his life.

In June, 1970, McCullough graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. Besides his Air Force commission, he was awarded a bachelor's degree in engineering. Behind him now was an excellent education.

Purpose of the education was to make him a competent officer in the Air Force. The cost was an investment in taxpayers' dollars. The young man knew that the day he accepted his appointment. He knew, too, he was the envy of many another young man.

Things changed recently. McCullough discovered he was a conscientious objector. He asked the Air Force for his discharge. The Air Force said, "No." He went into Federal Court. The judge overruled the Air Force and ordered the young man be granted his discharge.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Attorney's office at Sacramento, California, announced it is billing McCullough for the cost of his four years of training and education at public expense. It's an interesting case. Many taxpayers will hope the U.S. Attorney wins it.

Aside from the moral and ethical questions involved, does the action betoken a switch in the long-standing policy or non-policy of the service academies? Conscientious objecting may be new, but the loss of young officers to professional sports, principally football, has been going on for a long time.

How about those talented football players who suddenly lose their desire to serve Uncle Sam in uniform after a professional scout shows up with a pen in one hand and a lush contract in the other?

Will the Navy sue Roger Staubach, for instance? He graduated at Annapolis at about the time McCullough finished up at Colorado Springs. Currently Mr. Staubach is employed by the Dallas Cowboys in an important position — quarterback. Financially, he'd probably be able to sustain the impact of a $53,575 judgment with less strain than McCullough.

Whether the officer attrition is due to shifts of conscience or the appeal of football cash, perhaps something can be done about it. Possibly young officers-to-be could be obliged to put up cash bonds before they are awarded their cadet appointments — a sort of pledge of good faith.

Political Hightights

Political scenes which will never be witnessed again came vividly back to life as he described the memories which flooded back of campaigns in which men fought in two-fisted fashion and employed every trick they knew to achieve the offices for which they were running.

There was the gubernatorial campaign in 1924 when Curley stumped from town to hamlet across the Commonwealth. Curley's favorite target for his attacks, apart from his opponent, was the Ku Klux Klan which, he told his cheering supporters, was working with might and main to prevent his election.

As Curley spoke at an outdoor rally, a flaming cross suddenly would burst into a flame on a hillside not too far away, and Curley would point dramatically to it as evidence of the truth of the words he uttered.

It was a bit of strategy which didn't work, for Curley went down to defeat, but the flaming crosses on the hillside still burned brightly in the memory of the old-time politician because he had been a member of the party which was sent on ahead by Curley to touch off the conflagrations.

Once, he said, they started the fire on the wrong hil, an error which momentarily threw Curley off stride. Curley later told his workers he wondered for a moment whether some of his enemies really had started a fire when he couldn't find it in the place it was supposed to be.

Perhaps the most hectic campaigns of all, the old gentleman related, were in Roxbury's old Tammany Ward where Curley himself grew up and made his political start.

A candidate for local office then usually made his rounds in a horse and wagon, taking an empty beer barrel along with him. At any corner where he could attract even a handful of persons he would turn the beer barrel upside down, jump onto it and unleash his barrage of oratory.

There was one local office-holder, the old-timer recalled, whose popularity had worn thin but who managed to stave off defeat by blasting his opponent as a "milk-bottle robber."

He convinced his listeners that they should not vote for a man who went from step to stoop picking up bottles and then carried them to the neighborhood grocery store for refunds.

The target of this verbal assault was unable to persuade the voters whose milk bottles were missing that he had not taken them. The office-holder had instructed his own workers to steal the milk bottles in order to give him an issue, according to the old-timer.

Probably the lustiest mayoralty campaign in Boston's modern history, the old-timer went on, was when Curley and James J. Galvin of South Boston squared off at each other.

Curley was making a speech in South Boston when Galvin arrived on the scene and loudly berated Curley for intruding his presence on the people of that area.

"You don't belong here with decent people," Galvin shouted. In the midst of an oratorical outburst, the old-timer related, Galvin's false teeth flew out of his mouth. But Galvin, an old Harvard first baseman, caught them on the fly and popped them back in again.

Even so dignified a figure as Frederick W. Mansfield got into some unseemly exchanges. Mansfield was particularly incensed when Curley referred to his big feet. He retorted that his feet had gone to Curley's head.

Later, Mansfield was to blast Curley as a "hit and run Governor" and hurled a few simliar barbs in his direction.

"You don't have a personal touch like that any more," the old-timer complained. 'Nobody calls his opponent a thief or talks about his big feet or his South Boston face.

'Instead, they hire a fancy public relations company, hand out position papers, talk about the issues and worry about the image they project. Usually, they get up on such a lofty plateau that they're way over the heads of the voters.

"Sometimes they don't really understand what they're saying themselves. They're just reading what somebody else wrote for them." He paused for breath after his burst of indignation.

What is the reason, the old-timer was asked, for this frightful change which has transformed the manly art of politics to its present state where a candidate might lose an election because he verbally chastised an opponent too caustically.

The women, he replied, were the No. 1 reason. When they began to vote in increasing numbers, the political roughnecks gradually were pushed to the sidelines.

Then the old-fashioned political rally and the barnstorming tour fell as victims before the coming of television.

"Can you imagine it?" the old-timer demanded. "Now a candidate will go into a television studio and put on powder and rouge so his beard won't show and he'll project a better image.

I'm glad I lived when I did," he concluded.

Shift of Baseball Senators Annoys Many Congressmen

Members of Congress are annoyed over the transfer of the Washington Senators to Texas and are likely to give professional baseball the back of their hands when the opportunity presents itself.

Professional baseball will lose some of the consideration it has received on Capitol Hill unless it moves swiftly to shift another major league team into Washington.

The first reprecussion from moving the Senators probably will be a rejection of the request for a merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

This would involve an exemption from the anti-trust laws and most Congressmen at the moment are not in a mood to grant one.

GOP State Committee Snubs Both Sargent and Brooke

Like some of his predecessors, Governor Francis W. Sargent has better luck persuading delegates to the Republican State Convention to abide by his wishes than he does in getting members of the GOP State Committee to follow his recommendations.

Political eyebrows clicked up and down like shutters in a windstorm when a majority of the members in attendance at a Republican State Committee meeting, in voting for a new chairman, snubbed both Governor Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke.

Governor Sargent last year was twice able to line up enough delegates to the GOP State Convention to assure the nomination of his handpicked candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

He lined up a majority of the delegates behind one candidate who withdrew. Then he did it a second time for Donald Dwight in an impressive display of political muscle.

But he was not as successful when he tried to dictate the choice of a new chairman of the Repuolican State Committee.

His candidate, Philip J. Richer of Worcester, a 36-year-old telephone company employee, received only 22 votes of the 60 that were cast and placed second in a three-man contest.

This brought a variety of expressions from the GOP State Committee members, one of whom observed that the stock of the Governor's office had dropped to a new low.

However, it was not the first time such a thing had happened. Back about eight years ago, ex-Governor John A. Volpe, Senator Brooke and former Senator Leverett Saltonstall all endorsed a candidate for the Republicn State Chairmanship.

The Republican State Committee members rejected their recommendation and elected Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine who proved to be quite a chairman during the period he headed the committee.

Governor Sargent may still get his way with the State Committee since no candidate polled a majority of the votes and no one was elected. But he probably will have to do a little more effective lobbying to accomplish his objective.

Sargent Changed Strategy Too Late In Lottery Fight

Governor Sargent lost a fight in which he should not have involved himself when his veto of the State Lottery Bill was overridden by both branches of the State Legislature.

Senate President Kevin B. Harrington demonstrated that he is a political as well as a physical giant by shifting three Democratic Senators in order to obtain the precise 26-13 vote needed to overturn the Governor's veto.

House Speaker David Bartley had an easier time than did Harrington as 15 Republicans joined with 156 House Democrats to override the Governor's veto by a margin of 171 to 53, with votes to spare.

Representative Sidney Q. Curtiss whom the Governor deposed as Republican House leader at the start of the legislative session stood with the Governor on the Lottery issue and was one of the 53 House members who voted to sustain his veto.

Governor Sargent could have killed the Lottery Bill on the basis of its obvious weaknesses if he had not previously indicated his support of it provided he could have control of the patronage connected with it.

Although he eventually declared that the lottery would not provide any meaningful financial assistance for the cities and towns of Massachusetts, the Governor earlier had declared he "liked the dough" a lottery would provide.

When Republican House Leader Francis W. Hatch, Jr. led a fight on the floor of the House to uphold Mr. Sargent's veto, he described it as "a third-rate way of raising an indefinite amount of money," characterized it, "a masquerade of the New Jersey plan," and declared it would give State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane "a monarchy."

That did not reflect the Governor's original attitude toward the bill.

There is a substantial difference of public opinion as to whether a State Lottery would be a good thing and an effective means of raising money to aid the cities and towns.

But if there is to be a State Lottery, the average person doesn't really care whether it is administered by Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent or Democratic State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane.

When Governor Sargent made it a partisan political issue, which he did prior to his actual veto of the Lottery Bill, he placed some Democratic law-makers in a position where they felt virtually obligated to vote to override the Governor's veto even though they actually were not enthusiastic about the idea of a lottery.

Mike Mansfield Urges Hart Enter Race For President

Senate Majority Leader Mansfield indicated his lack of enthusiasm for the present crop of prospective Democratic Presidential candidates in an interview the other day.

Mansfield declared that someone of the caliber of Senator Philip A. Hart of Michigan should seek the right to stand against President Nixon in next year's election.

This was immediately interpreted as meaning that he is less than happy with the existing field of Democratic Presidential contenders, including front-running Senator Edmund Muskie.

Mansfield, incidentally, expressed the opinion that President Nixon "is doing the best job he can" and is "doing a very good job" in foreign affairs.

The Democratic Senate leader said he saw no prospect of a complete U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam at this time, but that public pressure is building up for one, and it could come before next year's election.

Senator Mansfield said President Nixon has two big problems: one the war in Vietnam and the other the economic situation at home. "If he can overcome both, he will be most difficult to defeat," was his appraisal.

He sees Muskie as the front-runner in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination and said that while Muskie is losing a little strength, he still is out front by a comfortable margin but then added that he would like to see Senator Hart get into the contest.

SECOND HURDLE

Daylight Thefts Net Over $1500

Two burglars forced doors two crawled through unlocked windows, and one just walked in, to snatch up a total of more than $1500 in cash, plus valuables, in thefts this week. All the thefts apparently took place before 10:30 p.m., three during daylight hours.

Arthur M. Rogers, of 35 Cross st., West Newton, reported a loss of more than $600 from a small strongbox and a purse. He said a thief apparently walked through an unlocked rear door while his wife was emptying the garbage around 9 or 9:30 Friday morning.

Another burglar apparently slipped through a window between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. to claim a coin collection and camera at the home of Mrs. Charlotte E. Devlin, 9 Circuit Ave., Newton Highlands, who reported the loss at 10:15 Friday night.

Anthony J. Minichiello reported that someone pried open the door leading to his second - floor apartment at 8 Lenglen rd., Newton, to make off with $850 and two watches. The theft, which apparently occurred between noon and 4 p.m., was reported at 10:27 p.m.

A color television and $75 cash were reported missing from the home of Mrs. Isabel M. Fortune, of 63 Bontempo rd., Newton Centre, after the door was forced open between 9 and 10 Friday night.

And while the family visited on the second floor, between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Thursday night, someone apparently entered the home of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Maynard of 37 Suffolk rd., Chestnut Hill, through an unlocked window. Mrs. Maynard reported $20 missing from a wallet.

Seek Election Law Changes To Increase Primary Voting

Two bills designed to encourage greater voter participation in primaries are awaiting action on Beacon Hill and probably will be enacted and sent to Governor Sargent.

One measure requires that polling places in each community throughout Massachusetts must be open at least 10 hours for a primary or final election. The present law provides that the voting places must be open for only two hours.

A second bill would allow absentee voting in primaries. Under the existing law, a person who is out of town, ill or for any reason unable to get to his or her

Slater To Head Advance Gifts

Paul D. Slater of 33 Oak Vale road, Waban, has been appointed chairman of the Advance and Special Gifts Division of Temple Reyim's Building Fund Completion Campaign.

The Newton temple is seeking $350,000 to liquidate all capital debts currently outstanding on its property. "Mortgages alone," said Ruben Brown, temple president, "have drained $200,000 in interest charges from our treasury."

Mr. Slater, a trustee of the Combined Jewish Philantrophies, is also a vice-chairman of its Businessmen's Council. In 1970, he received the C.J.P. President's Young Leadership Award. Recently he was named co-chairman of the C.J.P.'s Special Solicitation Unit for 1972.

During the coming year, Mr. Slater will also serve as chairman of the Corporate Division of the State of Israel Bonds, state chairman of the Massachusetts Heart Association and chairman of the Board of the Association's Greater Boston Chapter.

He is vice - president of the Men's Associates of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged and a director of the Brandeis University Associates.

Things changed recently. McCullough discovered he was a conscientious objector. He asked the Air Force for his discharge. The Air Force said, "No." He went into Federal Court. The judge overruled the Air Force and ordered the young man be granted his discharge.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Attorney's office at Sacramento, California, announced it is billing McCullough for the cost of his four years of training and education at public expense. It's an interesting case. Many taxpayers will hope the U.S. Attorney wins it.

Aside from the moral and ethical questions involved, does the action betoken a switch in the long-standing policy or non-policy of the service academies? Conscientious objecting may be new, but the loss of young officers to professional sports, principally football, has been going on for a long time.

How about those talented football players who suddenly lose their desire to serve Uncle Sam in uniform after a professional scout shows up with a pen in one hand and a lush contract in the other?

Will the Navy sue Roger Staubach, for instance? He graduated at Annapolis at about the time McCullough finished up at Colorado Springs. Currently Mr. Staubach is employed by the Dallas Cowboys in an important position — quarterback. Financially, he'd probably be able to sustain the impact of a $53,575 judgment with less strain than McCullough.

Whether the officer attrition is due to shifts of conscience or the appeal of football cash, perhaps something can be done about it. Possibly young officers-to-be could be obliged to put up cash bonds before they are awarded their cadet appointments — a sort of pledge of good faith.

Political scenes which will never be witnessed again came vividly back to life as he described the memories which flooded back of campaigns in which men fought in two-fisted fashion and employed every trick they knew to achieve the offices for which they were running.

There was the gubernatorial campaign in 1924 when Curley stumped from town to hamlet across the Commonwealth. Curley's favorite target for his attacks, apart from his opponent, was the Ku Klux Klan which, he told his cheering supporters, was working with might and main to prevent his election.

As Curley spoke at an outdoor rally, a flaming cross suddenly would burst into a flame on a hillside not too far away, and Curley would point dramatically to it as evidence of the truth of the words he uttered.

It was a bit of strategy which didn't work, for Curley went down to defeat, but the flaming crosses on the hillside still burned brightly in the memory of the old-time politician because he had been a member of the party which was sent on ahead by Curley to touch off the conflagrations.

Once, he said, they started the fire on the wrong hil, an error which momentarily threw Curley off stride. Curley later told his workers he wondered for a moment whether some of his enemies really had started a fire when he couldn't find it in the place it was supposed to be.

Perhaps the most hectic campaigns of all, the old gentleman related, were in Roxbury's old Tammany Ward where Curley himself grew up and made his political start.

A candidate for local office then usually made his rounds in a horse and wagon, taking an empty beer barrel along with him. At any corner where he could attract even a handful of persons he would turn the beer barrel upside down, jump onto it and unleash his barrage of oratory.

There was one local office-holder, the old-timer recalled, whose popularity had worn thin but who managed to stave off defeat by blasting his opponent as a "milk-bottle robber."

He convinced his listeners that they should not vote for a man who went from step to stoop picking up bottles and then carried them to the neighborhood grocery store for refunds.

The target of this verbal assault was unable to persuade the voters whose milk bottles were missing that he had not taken them. The office-holder had instructed his own workers to steal the milk bottles in order to give him an issue, according to the old-timer.

Probably the lustiest mayoralty campaign in Boston's modern history, the old-timer went on, was when Curley and James J. Galvin of South Boston squared off at each other.

Curley was making a speech in South Boston when Galvin arrived on the scene and loudly berated Curley for intruding his presence on the people of that area.

"You don't belong here with decent people," Galvin shouted. In the midst of an oratorical outburst, the old-timer related, Galvin's false teeth flew out of his mouth. But Galvin, an old Harvard first baseman, caught them on the fly and popped them back in again.

Even so dignified a figure as Frederick W. Mansfield got into some unseemly exchanges. Mansfield was particularly incensed when Curley referred to his big feet. He retorted that his feet had gone to Curley's head.

Later, Mansfield was to blast Curley as a "hit-and run Governor" and hurled a few simliar barbs in his direction.

"You don't have a personal touch like that any more," the old-timer complained. 'Nobody calls his opponent a thief or talks about his big feet or his South Boston face.

'Instead, they hire a fancy public relations company, hand out position papers, talk about the issues and worry about the image they project. Usually, they get up on such a lofty plateau that they're way over the heads of the voters.

"Sometimes they don't really understand what they're saying themselves. They're just reading what somebody else wrote for them." He paused for breath after his burst of indignation.

What is the reason, the old-timer was asked, for this frightful change which has transformed the manly art of politics to its present state where a candidate might lose an election because he verbally chastised an opponent too caustically.

The women, he replied, were the No. 1 reason. When they began to vote in increasing numbers, the political roughnecks gradually were pushed to the sidelines.

Then the old-fashioned political rally and the barnstorming tour fell as victims before the coming of television.

"Can you imagine it?" the old-timer demanded. "Now a candidate will go into a television studio and put on powder and rouge so his beard won't show and he'll project a better image.

I'm glad I lived when I did," he concluded.

Shift of Baseball Senators Annoys Many Congressmen

Members of Congress are annoyed over the transfer of the Washington Senators to Texas and are likely to give professional baseball the back of their hands when the opportunity presents itself.

Professional baseball will lose some of the consideration it has received on Capitol Hill unless it moves swiftly to shift another major league team into Washington.

The first reprecussion from moving the Senators probably will be a rejection of the request for a merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

This would involve an exemption from the anti-trust laws and most Congressmen at the moment are not in a mood to grant one.

GOP State Committee Snubs Both Sargent and Brooke

Like some of his predecessors, Governor Francis W. Sargent has better luck persuading delegates to the Republican State Convention to abide by his wishes than he does in getting members of the GOP State Committee to follow his recommendations.

Political eyebrows clicked up and down like shutters in a windstorm when a majority of the members in attendance at a Republican State Committee meeting, in voting for a new chairman, snubbed both Governor Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke.

Governor Sargent last year was twice able to line up enough delegates to the GOP State Convention to assure the nomination of his handpicked candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

SECOND HURDLE

He lined up a majority of the delegates behind one candidate who withdrew. Then he did it a second time for Donald Dwight in an impressive display of political muscle.

But he was not as successful when he tried to dictate the choice of a new chairman of the Repuolican State Committee.

His candidate, Philip J. Richer of Worcester, a 36-year-old telephone company employee, received only 22 votes of the 60 that were cast and placed second in a three-man contest.

This brought a variety of expressions from the GOP State Committee members, one of whom observed that the stock of the Governor's office had dropped to a new low.

However, it was not the first time such a thing had happened. Back about eight years ago, ex-Governor John A. Volpe, Senator Brooke and former Senator Leverett Saltonstall all endorsed a candidate for the Republicn State Chairmanship.

The Republican State Committee members rejected their recommendation and elected Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine who proved to be quite a chairman during the period he headed the committee.

Governor Sargent may still get his way with the State Committee since no candidate polled a majority of the votes and no one was elected. But he probably will have to do a little more effective lobbying to accomplish his objective.

Sargent Changed Strategy Too Late In Lottery Fight

Governor Sargent lost a fight in which he should not have involved himself when his veto of the State Lottery Bill was overridden by both branches of the State Legislature.

Senate President Kevin B. Harrington demonstrated that he is a political as well as a physical giant by shifting three Democratic Senators in order to obtain the precise 26-13 vote needed to overturn the Governor's veto.

House Speaker David Bartley had an easier time than did Harrington as 15 Republicans joined with 156 House Democrats to override the Governor's veto by a margin of 171 to 53, with votes to spare.

Representative Sidney Q. Curtiss whom the Governor deposed as Republican House leader at the start of the legislative session stood with the Governor on the Lottery issue and was one of the 53 House members who voted to sustain his veto.

Governor Sargent could have killed the Lottery Bill on the basis of its obvious weaknesses if he had not previously indicated his support of it provided he could have control of the patronage connected with it.

Although he eventually declared that the lottery would not provide any meaningful financial assistance for the cities and towns of Massachusetts, the Governor earlier had declared he "liked the dough" a lottery would provide.

When Republican House Leader Francis W. Hatch, Jr. led a fight on the floor of the House to uphold Mr. Sargent's veto, he described it as "a third-rate way of raising an indefinite amount of money," characterized it, "a masquerade of the New Jersey plan," and declared it would give State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane "a monarchy."

That did not reflect the Governor's original attitude toward the bill.

There is a substantial difference of public opinion as to whether a State Lottery would be a good thing and an effective means of raising money to aid the cities and towns.

But if there is to be a State Lottery, the average person doesn't really care whether it is administered by Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent or Democratic State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane.

When Governor Sargent made it a partisan political issue, which he did prior to his actual veto of the Lottery Bill, he placed some Democratic law-makers in a position where they felt virtually obligated to vote to override the Governor's veto even though they actually were not enthusiastic about the idea of a lottery.

Mike Mansfield Urges Hart Enter Race For President

Senate Majority Leader Mansfield indicated his lack of enthusiasm for the present crop of prospective Democratic Presidential candidates in an interview the other day.

Mansfield declared that someone of the caliber of Senator Philip A. Hart of Michigan should seek the right to stand against President Nixon in next year's election.

This was immediately interpreted as meaning that he is less than happy with the existing field of Democratic Presidential contenders, including front-running Senator Edmund Muskie.

Mansfield, incidentally, expressed the opinion that President Nixon "is doing the best job he can" and is "doing a very good job" in foreign affairs.

The Democratic Senate leader said he saw no prospect of a complete U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam at this time, but that public pressure is building up for one, and it could come before next year's election.

Senator Mansfield said President Nixon has two big problems: one the war in Vietnam and the other the economic situation at home. "If he can overcome both, he will be most difficult to defeat," was his appraisal.

He sees Muskie as the front-runner in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination and said that while Muskie is losing a little strength, he still is out front by a comfortable margin but then added that he would like to see Senator Hart get into the contest.

Daylight Thefts Net Over $1500

Two burglars forced doors two crawled through unlocked windows, and one just walked in, to snatch up a total of more than $1500 in cash, plus valuables, in thefts this week. All the thefts apparently took place before 10:30 p.m., three during daylight hours.

Arthur M. Rogers, of 35 Cross st., West Newton, reported a loss of more than $600 from a small strongbox and a purse. He said a thief apparently walked through an unlocked rear door while his wife was emptying the garbage around 9 or 9:30 Friday morning.

Another burglar apparently slipped through a window between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. to claim a coin collection and camera at the home of Mrs. Charlotte E. Devlin, 9 Circuit Ave., Newton Highlands, who reported the loss at 10:15 Friday night.

Anthony J. Minichiello reported that someone pried open the door leading to his second - floor apartment at 8 Lenglen rd., Newton, to make off with $850 and two watches. The theft, which apparently occurred between noon and 4 p.m., was reported at 10:27 p.m.

A color television and $75 cash were reported missing from the home of Mrs. Isabel M. Fortune, of 63 Bontempo rd., Newton Centre, after the door was forced open between 9 and 10 Friday night.

And while the family visited on the second floor, between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Thursday night, someone apparently entered the home of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Maynard of 37 Suffolk rd., Chestnut Hill, through an unlocked window. Mrs. Maynard reported $20 missing from a wallet.

Seek Election Law Changes To Increase Primary Voting

Two bills designed to encourage greater voter participation in primaries are awaiting action on Beacon Hill and probably will be enacted and sent to Governor Sargent.

One measure requires that polling places in each community throughout Massachusetts must be open at least 10 hours for a primary or final election. The present law provides that the voting places must be open for only two hours.

A second bill would allow absentee voting in primaries. Under the existing law, a person who is out of town, ill or for any reason unable to get to his or her

Slater To Head Advance Gifts

Paul D. Slater of 33 Oak Vale road, Waban, has been appointed chairman of the Advance and Special Gifts Division of Temple Reyim's Building Fund Completion Campaign.

The Newton temple is seeking $350,000 to liquidate all capital debts currently outstanding on its property. "Mortgages alone," said Ruben Brown, temple president, "have drained $200,000 in interest charges from our treasury."

Mr. Slater, a trustee of the Combined Jewish Philantrophies, is also a vice-chairman of its Businessmen's Council. In 1970, he received the C.J.P. President's Young Leadership Award. Recently he was named co-chairman of the C.J.P.'s Special Solicitation Unit for 1972.

During the coming year, Mr. Slater will also serve as chairman of the Corporate Division of the State of Israel Bonds, state chairman of the Massachusetts Heart Association and chairman of the Board of the Association's Greater Boston Chapter.

He is vice - president of the Men's Associates of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged and a director of the Brandeis University Associates.

A director of the Rental Housing Association, Greater-Boston Real Estate Board, Mr. Slater is also a director of the Barclay Bank and Trust Co. He and his wife Judith have four children.

MRS. DAVID BEEBE LOSEE

Pretty September Bridal for Miss Reynolds, Mr. Losee

In Sudbury's Martha-Mary Chaptel on September's second Saturday, the 11th, Miss Linda Anita Reynolds exchanged marriage vows with David Beebe Losee.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winslow Reynolds of 7 Walden road, Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Walsh Losee of Litchfield, Ct., are the groom's parents.

The Rev. Wilbur J. Kingwill officiated at the four o'clock service which was followed by a reception at Longfellow's Wayside Inn.

Given away by her father, the bride chose a Victorian gown made of peau de soie and trimmed with Venice lace. Her fitted bodice had a wedding band neckline and bishop sleeves while her skirt was designed with a bustle back.

Her full length illusion veil was highlighted with similar lace. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. George Flett of Jacksonville, Fla., was matron of honor. Her navy chiffon Victorian gown was marked with Irish lace and pink gros grain ribbon. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with baby's breath.

Similarily attired, the other attendants were Mrs. Robert L. Ziegenhagen of Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss Rebecca Hill of Westfield, and Mrs. Marc W. Dietch of Philadelphia, Pa.

James Van Tassel of Indianapolis, Indiana, served as best man. Ushering were Leon W. Losee Jr., Bruce S. Losee and Peter G. Losee, brothers of the groom, Peter Corbin of Redbank, N.J., Jeffrey H. Talmage of Hopkington, Kesley Boynton of Millis, Andrew Harris of Watertown, Ct., and Robert L. Ziegenhogen of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Following a honeymoon at Martha's Vinyard, the couple plans to live in Avon, Ct.

The bride, a graduate of the University of Connecticut, is a physical therapist at Newington Children's Hospital.

Mr. Losee was graduated from the Kent School, Wesleyan University and the University of Connecticut School of Law. He is now a practicing attorney in Hartford, Ct. (Photo by Bradford Bachrach)

MR. and MRS. JOHN deBETTENCOURT

John deBettencourt and Bride Are Living in Manchester

Now living in Manchester, N.H., are John Thomas deBettencourt and his bride, the former Miss Marianne Catalano, whose marriage was solemnized recently at St. Anthony's Church, Revere.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Catalano of Chelsea and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph T. deBettencourt of 18 Sterling street, West Newton are the couple's parents.

The Rev. Michael Ferrara celebrated the afternoon nuptial mass in a pretty floral setting of yellow and white mums. A reception was held at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an ivory silk organza gown marked with precious lace. The empire bodice had a wedding band collar and short sleeves, while the shirred back A-line skirt cascaded into a chapel length train.

Her full length illusion mantilla was edged with lace and she carried a bouquet of orchids, baby's breath and fern.

Miss Patricia Catalano of Chelsea, sister of the bride, was honor maid. She wore a pink and white silk print caught with a deep pink velvet sash and carried a bouquet of deep pink fuji mums.

Identically attired, the bridesmaids were Miss Diane deBettencourt of Newton, sister of the groom; Miss Anne Bowen and Miss Rita Guidi, both of Chelsea; Miss Susan Tropeano of Wakefield, Miss Linda Varricchio of Lynnfield, cousin of the bride; and Miss Jean Vigliotti of Everett.

Lt. Joseph M. deBettencourt, U.S.N., of Pensacola, Fla., brother of the groom; served as best man.

Ushering were Roger Blake of Rochester, N.Y., Mike deBettencourt of Bethesda, Md., John Dolan of Needham, Richard Pezzuto of Chelsea, John Rothenberger and Steve Woodward, both of Wyomissing, Pa.

Mrs. deBettencourt, a graduate of Salem State College is teaching the first grade in Londonderry, NH.

The groom was graduated from Babson College and is presently associated with John E. Rich and Company, Concord, N.H. (Photo by Leo D. Breda)

Yiddish classes for adults will be offered by the Brookline I. L. Peretz School of the Workmen's Circle beginning the week of October 18. Both beginner and intermediate classes will be offered in the evening at the School, 1762 Beacon St., Brookline. Miss Roslyn Kalifowicz is the teacher.

Cultural secular Jewish classes for children will begin on Sunday, October 17, 1971, according to the Brookline I. L. Peretz School of the Workmen's Circle. Miss Roslyn Kalifowicz, the teacher at the School, announces that Sunday and afternoon classes will be held this year. Subjects taught will include Jewish history Jewish current events, Yiddish and Hebrew songs and the Yiddish language. The School, now located at 1762 Beacon St., Brookline, has been holding classes for many years and has been in Brookline for the past 9 years.

Miss Kalifowicz believes that at this time, when many groups are taking pride in their individual ethnic identities, it is especially important receive a revelant Jewish for Jewish youngsters to education upon which they can build solid identities and function creatively in a pluralistic society.

Newtonites Aid Women's Caucus

Several Newton women are working on arrangements for the Massachusetts Women's Political Caucus, to be convened in Boston in the late fall. The Caucus is open to all women interested in more participation by women at decision-making levels in politics and government.

Ann Lewis of Norman Road, Jane Bachner of Glenwood Avenue, Nancy Korman of Waltham Street, Gittel Simon of Greenough Street, Mrs. Betty Taymor of Fairfax Street and Eleanor Mamber of Kewadin Road are busy planning the Caucus which they hope will attract statewide participation.

Mrs. Ann Lewis explained that, while the Massachusetts group is "co-ordinating" with the National Women's Political Caucus that met in Washington D.C. on July 10, "the structure and aims of the Massachusetts Caucus will be determined solely by the women who attend the convening session in November."

MRS. MARK H. WHITEHOUSE

Miss Segal-Mr. Whitehouse, College Juniors, Marry

Centenary United Methodist Church, Auburndale, was the setting for the pretty September bridal which united Miss Judith Anne Segal and Mark Henry Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Segal of 495 Walnut street, Newton, and the Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Whitehouse of 25 Winona street, Auburndale, are the couples' parents.

Officiating at the nuptial ceremony were the grooms' father, the Rev. T. C. Whitehouse, and the Rev. Arthur B. Osgood. A reception followed at the Auburndale Congregational Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white sata peau gown. Venice lace woven with satin ribbon edged the square neckline, empire waistline and hem of her smartly styled skirt.

Her sheer bishop sleeves were fashioned with deep cuffs and her train was detachable.

Similar Venice lace styled the Camelot cap which held in place her double tiered fingertip illusion veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow and white flowers.

Miss Jan Blumenthal of Norwood was her cousin's honor maid. She wore an apricot colored gown made with a Venice lace vest and carried a basket of white daisies.

Similarily attired, the bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas G. Whitehouse of Beverly and Mrs. Lawrence D. Kistler of Boston.

Young Karen Osgood was flower girl. Carrying a yellow and white daisy bouquet, she wore a full length yellow dotted Swiss full length dress.

The best man was Thomas G. Whitehouse of Beverly, brother of the groom. Ushering were Peter L. Segal of Newton, brother of the bride, and David Reynolds of Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse are making their home in Boston.

The bride is a junior at the Boston University School of Education where she is majoring in secondary education.

Mr. Whitehouse is in his junior year at the Emerson College School of Communications. (Photo by the Nourses)

Carmen Says Volunteers Should Plan Centennial

Criticizing the Newton Historical Commission for failing to provide for citizen involvement in planning Newton's 1973 Centennial Observance, Alderman William Carmen announced opposition to the Commission's Sept. 27 request for $4,440 in planning monies.

The commission listed as expenses for a three month planning period this year "professional and clerical personnel, printing, telephone, travel, and miscellaneous," and said it expected revenue from the centennial would offset planning costs. Mayor Basbas approved the request and recommended that the Board of Aldermen grant the funds to the commission.

Alderman Carmen stated that at a time when Newton is searching for ways to save money, the city cannot afford to grant funds to projects that could be conducted by qualified citizen volunteers.

"Many of our citizens have a genuine interest in the history of our city and are willing to donate their time and experience to this project.

"I suggest a committee of one hundred such persons be given the responsibility of planning and conducting our centennial program with each village represented, and that there be no commitment of funds or duties until all members of our community are given the opportunity to participate."

The Historical Commission's request will be reviewed by the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

Students To Plan Format Of Seminars On Govt.

Miss Amy Zoll, who lives at Kodaya Road in Waban and attends Newton South High School, and Miss Marsha B. Starr, who lives at Cotton Street in Newton and attends Jackson College have been appointed to the 1972 Washington Workshops National Student Advisory Committee. The announcement was made in Washington, D.C., by Leo Tonkin, Director of The Washington Workships Foundation.

The Washington Workshops is a nonpartisan, nonprofit association of educational leaders and private citizens, founded in 1967, to offer a series of unique American government seminars in Washington, D.C., to high school students selected from across the country for their leadership and academic accomplishments.

During the Summer of 1971, some 1,000 students took part in the Washington Workshops fourth annual series of seminars in the Nation's Capital. The program was held in cooperation with Mount Vernon College, where the students lived and attended evening dialogue discussions.

Each seminar day, the students attend classes on Capitol Hill, followed by special dialogue conferences with Members of Congress, Cabinet officials, and other national leaders both in and out of government.

During 1972, the Washington Workshops will hold six seminar sessons in February, March, June and July. Members of the National Student Advisory Committee will assist in planning seminar format for these sessions, and will advise the Director on the aspects of national student interest and participation in the 1972 program.

Special Congressional Seminar topics for consideration in 1972 will include: application of the 18 Year Old Vote Amendment, Environment, International Relations, Consumer Affairs and Educational Reform. As in the past many members' of Congress and ranking governmental officials will participate in this unique series of high school student study seminars.

Name To Public Relations Post

William S. Brines, Administrative Vice President of Newton - Wellesley Hospital, announces the appointment of Miss Caroline Harrison as Director of Public Relations and Development. She replaces Wilfred G. Solimene, who has resigned to take another position.

Miss Harrison was Director of Public Relations at Boston's Museum of Science during the first 18 years of its development at Science Park. She left that post to become a public relations consultant and in the past three years has been Director of Public Relations and Development at the Massachusetts Audubon Society and consultant to the Boys' Clubs of Boston.

An accredited member of the Public Relations Society of America, Miss Harrison is a former president of the Society's New England Chapter and is a member of the Executives Club of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Cecilia Singers Practice Purcell-Britten Masque

Newton singers Mrs. Anne Baxbaum, Mrs. Holly Zeeb, Mrs. Susanne Potts, and Mrs. Elise Rosenfeld will participate in the century-old Cecilia society, a granddame among choral groups, as it opens its 96th season.

The 60 member chorus, which is drawn from the greater Boston area and spans a wide range in age and occupation, regularly presents concerts of secular and religious music, from traditional to contemporary in repertory. "What they do is worth hearing," acclaimed Boston music critic Michael Steinberg after a concert in June. Auditions for all voice parts were held during two open rehearsals, Sept. 13 and Sept. 20.

Mr. Donald Teeters, conductor of the Society, is an honors graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and has previously been assistant conductor and accompanist of the Boston Chorus Pro Musica and the Handel and Hayden Society. He has scheduled four concerts for the 1971-72 season, opening in November with the Boston premiere of Purcell's masque, "The Faerie Queen," in a revised edition by Benjamin Britten. It is scored for chorus, orchestra, and solo voices. A Christmas offering, a March program and an a capella concert in June complete the season.

Further information concerning the Society and membership, call Mrs. John Potts 969-2848, or Mrs. Stephen Rosenfeld 244-8575.

A Mammoth Bazaar will be held at the Y.M.C.A. in Brighton on Nov. 20th and 21st. This affair is open to the public as well as members and friends of Bn'ai Br'ith. Values galore!!! Chairman of the committee is Mrs. Helen Stiller.

1st Church Of Christ Service

All are invited to the services to be held this Sunday at 10:45 a.m. at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut street, Newtonville, in which the Bible Lesson-Sermon will be "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?"

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; Who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction."

This text from Psalms highlights the Bible Lesson-Sermon.

One of the selections from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states: "As time moves on, the healing elements of pure Christianity will be fairly dealt with; they will be sought and taught, and will glow in all the grandeur of universal goodness."

Newton High Soccer Team Begins Season Strongly

By DAVID SOLOMON

Last year's undefeated (regular season) soccer team could barely muster a pre-season victory and late this summer the same situation arose. Yet after having been mediocre in pre-season showings, the Tigers have gotten together and played fantastically while earning a 5-0-1 record.

Two weeks ago the Tigers faced Medford, fabled to be their toughest league competitor, and came away with a 3-0 victory. This was really a superbly played game in every respect; the Tigers out-hustled, out-thought, out-played, and out-spirited their frustrated opponents. Coach Mike Buzzi commented that "our passing was very good. We improved overall as a team, we were more aggressive and the defense is becoming much more solid."

The Tigers' defensive depth was shown in this game, as Tommy Fentin and Steve Schulman were both unable to play and Paul Marigni incurred a minor injury early in the game. Buzzi has called Marigni the team's "most improved player, a standout on defense." The remaining starting defensemen played an outstanding game and co-captain Fred Whoriskey, Tom Gerlach, Steve Zimble and Mark Donovan were aided by the strong defensive performances of Ben Friedell and Bob Roche.

The three goals were all scored by different players; Vinny Meglio scored first on a pass headed to him by co-captain Tim Tsochantaridis. Then Meglio had the assist on a goal by Dave Douglas. The third goal was a result of pure hustle; Timmy T. scored on a beautiful set-up by Tommy Brazier and Stan MacNeil.

Newton experimented with a "rover" in the Medford game. Timmy Tsochantaridis and Vinny Meglio alternated being stationed behind the forward line to collect stray passes and feed them in again. Buzzi said that this experiment "seemed to improve our overall field coverage."

Here is an award unique to the NHS soccer team given out after each game. Coaches Buzzi and Flanagan chose the player or players who showed the "most overall poise and aggressiveness on the field in a particular game." Fred Whoriskey, Steve Zimbel and Vinny Meglio were all cited by the coaches for their play in the Medford game.

On September 24 the Tigers' opposition was Cambridge Latin, and Newton again rolled to a 3-0 victory. The game was highlighted by the two-goal output of high-scoring forward Tim Tsochantaridis. Timmy's first goal was assisted by Gary Shabanean, an impressive-looking sophomore. After Bruno Viscomi scored the second goal with an assist from Dave Douglas, Timmy scored again on a cross-field pass from Tommy Brazier.

Buzzi's intial reaction to the game was that Newton was a bit sloppy and "perhaps played down to the level our weaker opponents." One of the reasons that could explain some of the sloppiness was the playing surface, a tiny, poorly kept field which had a two-foot hole in front of one of the goals. For as assistant coach Bernard Flanagan kept telling his players, it was indeed necessary to "be careful with the bloody pitch." Timmy Tsochantaridis received the coaches' award for this game.

Goalie Richard Chaisson and the Tigers earned their fourth straight shutout with a 4-0 win over Brookline last Tuesday. Tim Tsochantaridis again scored two goals, on assists from Tom Fentin and Stan MacNeil. Marty Hurwitz opened the scoring at 1:40 of the first period on a passing play from Dave Douglas and Mark Donovan. Bruno Viscomi scored the remaining goal. This was a very physical game, with tempers on both sides high. Some of Brookline's moves however, tended to be on the "cheap shot" side. Such is what often occurs to a powerhouse team such as the Tigers.

Dave Douglas and Steve Zimble shared the award for overall hustle and poise in this game, yet it should be remembered that a victory is seldom the result of one player's performance. It is instead the product of overall proficiency and depth among the players and the guidance and experience of the coaches. The success of NHS soccer lies largely in the fact that their team is remarkable strong throughout.

On October 1 the Tiges faced Arlington, the Suburban League's only other undefeated team, and the game ended up in a 1-1 tie. Newton's goal was scored by Tim Tsochantaridis on a headed ball, and the Tiger co-captain now has seven goals in six games. Newton was behind 1-0 until the third period, and Coach Buzzi felt that the team "played well. We controlled the game, we just couldn't get the ball in the net." Newton outshot Arlington 25-6 and almost scored a goal late in the game during a goal-mouth scramble. Newton's rematch with Arlington will be October 26 and it shapes up to a very big game.

Newton High plays its home games at Allison Park in Newton, which is located off California St. near MacDonald's.

For the nest three Fridays the Tigers have games at home against Rindge Tech Medford, and Cambridge Latin.

4 Score Goals As South Wins First Decision

Newton South High's soccer team got goals from four different players last week, and the Lions held on for a 4-2 decision over Bedford for their first win of the season.

Rich Izen, Elliot Loew, Aris Bidianos (his third of the season) and Bob Kwasnick, each tallied a goal as South led from start to finish.

Gary Ross recorded his first triumph in the Lion nets, making seven stops. The Lions outshot Bedford, 13-9.

Powerful Weston High manhandled South later in the week for its fifth consecutive shut-out victory. South had trouble penetrating the stiff Weston back-line and on the rare occasions it did, found stalwart netminder Gary Larsen in the way. John Littlefield did all the scoring in the 2-0 contest.

The booters are 1-4.

The Lion cross-country team also tumbled to a 1-4 slate.

Undefeated defending Dual County League champion Acton-Boxboro whipped the harriers, 15-50, taking the top nine places in the race.

Acton's top runner Howie Scribner, league record-holder in the mile and multi-cross-country course record-holder, romped to a 13:06 victory and eight of his teammates steamrolled across the line within 1:37 before Howie Frutkoff captured the tenth spot in 14:57 for the Lions.

Howie Haimes Super-back On South High '71 Squad

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

A couple of years ago a guy named Tom Rezzuti played football for Newton South High. Rezzuti was a fantastic all-purpose back who quarterbacked, ran, threw, and even kicked a football with equal versatility.

This fall, Newton South has another super back, Howie Haimes, whose range rivals Rezzuti's. Haimes, now a senior, is not exactly unknown. He led the Lions in scoring in 1970 with 30 points and was a starting halfback both on offense and defense.

Newton South was trampled by Bedford, 19-6 in its opening game, getting beat on the big play. The first quarter was a scoreless one. Bedford tallied first, but South came back with an electrifying 78-yard pass play from Ron Izen to Haimes only six seconds before the half. Izen's short pass was deflected, but bounced right into Haimes' arms. Haimes, also a sprinter for the track team, juggled the ball, then gathered it in and flew down the sideline.

Bedford took over in the second half and scored twice, once on a 24-yard pass. The key play came on a fourth down and one-yard situation for the Lions on their own 20. The gamble failed and Bedford took over, driving for the clinching score in just four plays.

Co-captain Dave Lelchook headed the South ground game with 59 yards. Haimes had 32 yards in seven attempts.

Haimes was only warming up in the opener, though. South pulverized Lincoln-Sudbury, 28-8 for its first Dual County League win, Saturday.

The speedy back powered his way for four touchdowns to propel the Lions to an easy win. Haimes started things off in the first quarter with a 20-yard run around end. Junior Ned Moan took a pass from Izen for the conversion and an 8-0 lead. Haimes added two more TD's in the second period, the first on an eight-yard run, followed by an Izen two-point extra-point run, and the second on a 50-yard return with an intercepted pass.

At the half it was 22-0, South. The second half was a little slower paced and Haimes tallied his final touchdown on a six-yard run in the third period. At the time it was 28-0, Lincoln broke into the scoring column in the final stanza.

In only two contests Haimes has equaled his scoring output for the 1970 season and at his present rate he's heading towards a 100-point season.

The Lions have a bye in the schedule this week.

N.A.A. At Brookline In Battle Of Undefeateds

The N.A.A. Lions won their third Pop Warner League game by a score of 22-0 over the South Boston Titans last Sunday at Southie. The win leaves the Lions league record at 3-0-1 and sets the stage for a clash with the Brookline Rams who won a 4-0-0 record.

The "Big Blue" compiled 22 first period points before coasting in.

Unveiling the I formation for the first time this season, Quarterback Matt Sabetti led back Jim Bizakis, halfback Brian O'Halloran, and tailback Ed Tompkins to a perfect performance.

The Lions kicked off and had Jim Vizakis recovering a fumble on the Southie 30. The fumble was caused by a Frank Otten hit. Eight plays later Matt Sabetti scored the first touchdown from one yard out on a Quarterback sneak. Ed Tompkins rushed the points and the Lions led 8-0.

South Boston in its first series fumbled and tackle Dave Fialkow recovered it on the Southie 22 yd. line. On the Lions' first play from scrimmage Ed Tompkins went off tackle for the score. Halfback Dave Proia rushed the conversion and the "Big Blue" led 16-0.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Titans were forced to pass. Defensive halfback Joe Pepper intercepted an errant aerial at the 12 and ran it in. Brian O'Halloran rushed the conversion and Newton led 22-0 after giving way to the subs. Before the half ended Joe Pepper intercepted another pass along with Ed. Tompkins.

In the third period the Lions marched from their own 35 down to pay dirt with fullback Jim Vizakis piling in from the 4. The conversion failed and the scoring for the day was terminated.

Joe Pepper intercepted three passes for the day. Al Flynn and Matt Sabetti continue to be dynamic as line backers. Nose man Jim Vizakis ruined the Southie offense by punishing their center.

Next week the Lions will travel to Brookline where two undefeated teams will do battle at Eliot Playground.

In other action, the Jr. Midget Tigers won their first game of the season over South Boston 22-0 while the Mustangs were losing to Waltham 12-0.

In Pee Wee action, the Oak Hill Raiders upset the Highland Huskies 12-8. The Newton Centre Jets won their second straight over the Waban Warriors 36-14.

N.A.A. Football schedule for next week is: Oct. 10, Lions at Brookline, 1:15 p.m.; Tigers at Brookline, 12:30 p.m.; and Mustangs at Arlington, 12:30 p.m.

Also on Sunday, the Pee Wees will be at the Newton Highlands Playground: Huskies vs. Jets at 12:30 and Raiders vs. Warrior at 1:30.

YMCA To Offer Weight Training, Seasonal Sports

The Newton YMCA, on October 6, will be offering a new sports program for boys and girls, between the ages of 8 and 14. The Seasonal Sports program will be conducted on Wednesdays from 3:30 to 4:15 and Saturday mornings from 9 to 10.

The program will parallel what is happening in professional sports. For boys, the fall schedule will include flag football, speedball, and soccer. Winter will see basketball, gymnastics, and hockey. Baseball and polo will be played in the spring. Girls will be involved in field hockey, basketball, gymnastics, and softball. Participants in the program will have a voice in what some of the actities will be.

Weight Training, for boys from 12 to 18, will be offered at the Newton YMCA starting Monday, October 4, with classes Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4:00 to 4:45. The specific objective of the course is to increase muscular fitness and confidence. Weight training has a "carry over" value to other sports such as football, baseball, gymnastics, and wrestling. Contact the Newton Y at 244-6050, ext. 5.

Hut Bowling's Second Week Features Series Of Upsets

The second week of the N.C.P. "Hut" Bowling League featured a series of surprising upsets in both team and individual play.

The Chiefs, combining some fine team play with clutch shooting, vaulted from fourth place to the number one slot, totaling 2,792. Andy Linn highlighted the Chiefs' attack, rolling some 13 pins above his norm.

The Giants fought off a cold day, hanging on to second place at 2,744. And the Saints made a climb in the standings; backed by a spirited attack, they boosted their total to 2,734.

Individual match upsets included Brian McNulty's victory over Frank Gable. Linn managed to engineer his second straight upset, downing Nick Siciliano. Dave Fishman was leveled by Neil Levitan and Bob Worden handed Mike McClory his second consecutive defeat.

Two matches saw playoff boxes deciding final outcomes. Brian McDonald nipped Harold Sternberg and Steve Pozzi stopped an upset-primed Malcolm MacMillian.

In other matches G. Cullen beat Pescosolido, Finklestein edged Hite, Medoff forfeited to Freiman, Taillacq came back to upend L. Cullen. Freedberg outpinned Freedman, Rubin downed Pepper, and Peters blasted Cutrone.

Pozzi posted the Highest single of the campaign, compiling 133. He also holds high no-mark and top four string totals.

Other highlights include the raise of two Rookies Brian McNulty and Dougie Pepper, who have begun strongly.

Newton High Soccer Team Beats First 4 Opponents

1-4? 1-2-1? Could these possibly be the records of a perennial super-team that will be fighting for a state title? Don't these instead refer to a mediocre team hovering on the brink of incompetence?

Well, in reailty, these are the records of a standout team, but only the exhibition records, and for the second straight year the NHS soccer team is in the process of proving that pr-season records don't mean a thing. Last year's undefeated team could barely win an exhibition game and late this summer the same situation arose. But after indeed having been mediocre in pre-season showings, the Tigers have gotten together and have been playing steadily well. This has earned them a 4-0 record so far.

Recently the Tigers faced Medford, their toughest league competitor, and came away with a 3-0 victory. This was a superbly played game in nearly every respect; the Tigers outhustled, out-thought, out-played and out-spirited their frustrated opponents. Coach Mike Buzzi commented that "our passing was very good. We have improved overall as a team, and our defense is becoming much more solid."

The Tigers' defensive depth was shown in this contest as Tommy Fentin and Steve Schulman were both unable to play and Paul Marigni incurred a minor injury early in the game. Buzzi has called Marigni the team's "most improved player, a standout on defense." Substitute defensemen did an outstanding job in this game and were one of the reasons responsible for the victory.

The three goals were all scored by different players; Vinny Meglio scored first on a pass headed to him by Timmy Tsochantaridis, then assisted on Douglas' goal. The 3rd goal was a result of hustle; Tim Tsochantaridis scored on a beautiful set-up by Tommy Brazier. Stan Macneil also made a good play on this goal.

The soccer team has a tremendously high level of spirit, and one of the reasons, or perhaps one of the results, is a unique citation given out after each game. Coaches Buzzi and Flanagan choose the player or players who, they think, showed the most overall aggressiveness and poise on the field. Fred Whoriskey, Steve Zimble and Vinny Meglio wer all cited by the coaches for their play in the Medford game.

On Sept. 24 the Tigers were again victorious by a 3-0 score, this time over Cambridge Latin, a weaker team. The game was highlighted by the two-goal output of Timmy Tsochantaridis, who now leads the team with four goals. Timmy's first goal was assisted by sophomore Gary Shabanean, and his second was the product of a cross-field pass by Tom Brazier. Bruno Viscomi scored the other goal with Dave Douglas providing the assist.

Buzzi's initial reaction to the game was that they "perhaps played down to the level of the opposition. We were a bit sloppy." One of the explanations for this sloppiness was the playing surface; a tiny, poorly-kept field which had a two foot hole in front of one of the goals.

Newton High plays all of its home soccer games at Allison Park, which is located off California St. behind MacDonald's.

Newton Job Bank Aids City Youth

Opportunity knocks for the citizenry of Newton to help youth and in so doing helping themselves.

Newton Job Bank provides an opportunity for the adult population of the community to invest in the future of youth through employment. This non-profit service to employer and employee has been established by the Newton Youth Center through the impetus of the Newton Youth Commission and funds provided by the City of Newton.

The Job Bank will match job applicants with opportunities in the home or business on a part-time or full-time basis. In commenting on the program Mr. Martin Cohen, Senior Counselor, stated that we are seeking a wide range of job offerings. No job is too big or too small.

Temporarily the Job Bank office located at 429 Cherry street (the Newton Community Center building) is open Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. and Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Inquiries may be made Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and Wednesday evenings by phoning 969-5908.

Youths Petition Board For "Place to Stand and Talk"

In pursuit of "a place to stand and talk," some Newton youngsters are learning the game of municipal politics.

They showed up, some 50 to 75 strong, to lobby at a meeting of the Aldermanic City Planning Committee, for freedom to gather until 10:30 p.m. at the Newton South High School parking lot.

When they learned that the Board had been summoned to a special meeting, they left City Hall, and came back an hour and a half later to meet with the committee.

"I think that shows a lot of spirit," declares Gary Barron of 66 Homestead St., Waban, one of the organizers of "Newton Youth for Change." "If we didnt 'want this recreation place really bad, you wouldn't have gotten all these kids coming back for the late meeting,' 'Barron adds.

Newton South Parking Lot in the summer, according to Barron, is a sort of promenade, with as many as 100 young people chatting and socializing. "It's a place to find out what's going on," he explains. "The average person is only there for an hour. You find out if there are any parties, or you arrange to go bowling, or you go over to someone's house."

Ice-cream trucks and other vendors, who sniff out crowds of young people as bees find honey, follow the crowd to the Newton South Parking Lot.

Following mass arrests involving as many as 23 youngsters on charges of trespassing, the South High group organized as "Newton Youth for Change," under the leadership of Leland White, of 81 Bracket St., to get official permission to use the parking lot until 10:30 at night as a "Youth Recreation Area."

They presented the Aldermen with a petition containing 500 signatures asking that the lot be lighted, and that no one be liable for arrest for trespassing, until after 10:30 p.m.

Present at the City Planning Committee meeting in opposition to the plan were half a dozen residents from Greenwood St., who complained that they were annoyed by young people speeding on Brandeis Rd. and littering the parking lot.

A letter from Nathan Lemes, of 74 Greenwood St. testified that "in the spring of '71, one car careened over my lawn, knocked a tree down, and ended up in my neighbor's house."

The evening ended however in good political fashion, with suggestions for a compromise and the setting up of another meeting.

The youngsters agreed to police the area for litter, and to curb what they say is the small minority of dragsters among them.

At the same time, they insist that a "harsh" and unfair "stereotype" persists in the minds of neighbors and aldermen at the hearing.

"We're good kids, asserts Barron. "We stay home all week and do our homework, and just like our parents, we want to get out on the weekend and talk to our friends."

The only difference, Barron insists, is that "our group of friends includes 60 or 70 people. We can't all fit in one den or play room." A relatively unsupervised Youth Center, where Newtonites could mingle, and the opening of the Newton South High gymnasium for informal basketball games may, he suggests, provide a long-range solution.

Robert Stiller, of 21 June Lane, Newton Centre, spoke in favor of the parking lot proposal, saying that public buildings are not fully utilized.

In answer to published criticism of the plan by Alderman Michael Lipof, youth leader Lee White stated, (1) that the parking lot is open at present only to 8:30, not 9:30, as stated by Lipof, and (2) that younger children do not frequent the parking lot even before 8:30, "so I'd tend to doubt that these 11 or 12-year-old kids would be running around all by themselves until 10:30 p.m."

A proposal for a 90-day trial period was whittled down to 60 and possibly 30 days by the aldermen. The youth were not perturbed, admitting that, as they saw politics, "you ask for three times as much as you want, and they cut your proposal in half, and then it comes back for review, and they cut you again,and you end up with exactly what you want."

Donald L. Cutler, a Greenwood St. resident who came to the Planning Committee meeting to oppose the parking lot proposal, must have been convinced by the youths' presentation, because he ended up stating that he would be "honored" to work with the youths during the trial period.

The Aldermanic committee, however, decided to set up a further hearing Oct. 19, at which representatives of the Newton Police Dept., the School Dept., the Youth Commission, and the Park and Recreation Commissions will be invited to discuss the proposal.

Girls' Field Hockey Team Begins Twelve-Game Season

By DAVID SOLOMON

Entering their second season in the Suburban League, the Newton High Girls' Field Hockey team will be trying to improve upon last year's 3-2-1 record. "Last year we had a very young team," noted coach Judy Davidson, "and this year we're even younger. However, there is some more experience on the team and we should have a stronger team."

There are six returning members from last year's varsity and these girls should provide a nucleus around which the squad will be built. These include co-captains Doreen Quintilliani and Sue Martin, Andy White, Terry Bontempo, Janet Ryan and Sue Ekezian.

The Tigresses opened their season on September 28 with a 3-0 victory over Brookline. Andy White scored the first goal on a "hard, clean shot." Sue Martin scored the second goal and Doreen Quintilliani scored the last on a scoop shot. According to Miss Davidson, "Newton dominated the play of the game. We were passing well, getting to the gall fast, anad working well as a team. These girls have come a long way in practice; we have a lot of potential. There is no question in my mind that these girls certainly want to play hockey, for there is a tremendous spirit on the squad."

There are several differences between field hockey and conventional ice hockey. The obvious difference is the playing surface. Also, a field hockey stick is smaller than a regular stick and the blade curves upward. Moreover, only one side of the blade may be used to handle the puck, i.e., there are no backhand shots or passes.

In terms of strategy and set-up, field hockey is closely related to soccer. There are eleven players, five forwards, 3 halfbacks, 2 fullbacks and a goalie. Only the goalie can handle the ball with her hands. Shots can only be taken within the 'striking circle,' a semicircle sixteen yards in radius around the goal.

The varsity team, which will play twelve games this season - eight of them being league contests - consists of Terry Bontempo at left wing, Sue Martin at left inside, Andy White at center forward, Doreen Quintilliani at right inside, Stephie Rose at right wing, Judy Curby at left halfback, Paula Dargan at center halfback, Sue Laning at right halfback, Mary-Eve Mahoney at left back, Marion Carpenter at right back and Sue Ekezian in the goal.

The girls' schedule is as follows:

Oct. 7 Waltham
Oct. 14 at Brockton
Oct. 19 Arlington
Oct. 21 Brookline
Oct. 26 at Waltham
Oct. 28 at Newton South
Nov. 2 Brimmer and May
Nov. 10 Weston

Karate Classes Start At YMCA

If you are interested in a highly disciplined and unique form of unarmed self-defense course, perhaps South Korean Tae Kwon Do is for you. As a student of this martial art, commonly called Karate, you will be taught total body control to enable you to execute quick and decisive maneuvers with your hands and feet.

Self-confidence, poise, and body condition will improve as you work your way up the ranks, perhaps to a black belt.

The YMCA in Newton is offering this course in Tae Kwon Do taught by master instructor Dongpil Kim, a sixth degree black belt. The course is held on Tuesday evenings at 8:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The course is for co-ed adults ages 15 years and older. Applications are being accepted for the course, which begins next Tuesday (Oct. 12). Contact the YMCA at 244-6050 for more information.

Alderman Sidney Small, supporting the Antonellis motion, stressed the idea that a department head must be answerable to the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman Edward Uehlein, on the other hand, pleaded with the Board to heed the "expert" advice of the Public Works Commissioner and appropriate the money before further deterioration of the stack took place. The $7000 expenditure is "peanuts," Uehlein said, compared to the amount that will be necessary if the chimney deteriorates further.

Alderman David Jackson urged that money be appropriated before cold weather made repairs difficult.

Alderman Harry Walen cautioned that if the stack were not repaired, crumbling brick would create a hazard for residents. There are cracks running down the stack ranging from one-fourth to one-half inch in width. Walen added that since the incinerator is being used to burn wood only, it is no longer a source of polluting fly-ash.

Objecting that repair of the incinerator would be "throwing good money after bad," Alderman Peter Harrington proposed that the incinerator be taken down.

"Since I've been on the board, we've made three or four appropriations for incinerator repairs," agreed Small.

Opposing the vote to send the measure back to committee were Aldermen Ball, Egelson, Jackson, Magni, Sacks, Tennant, Uehlein, and Walen. Absent were Aldermen Carmen, Dietz, McDonnell, Wolf, and Bauckman.

South High Cross Country Team Faces Uphill Season

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

If last week is any indication of how things are going to be for the Newton South cross - country team it could be a long season.

South, beginning its second season in he Dual County League has already equaled its 1970 output, when the squad finished 1-13 and last in the conference.

Wayland High, a second - place finisher last year, demolished the Lions (and Lynnfield) on opening day by a perfect 15-50 score, taking the top seven places. But South erased Lynnfield its only victim last season) 23-48. The race over Mt. Ida Junior Colleges' 2.6 mile route, was taken in the swift early-season time of 13:36 by Rich Salazar.

Captain Matt Williams led the charge against Lynnfield, finishing ninth overall, but second in the head-to-head encounter, with a time of 15:14. Williams' best mark is 14:47.

Sophomore Byron Ress, football transfer Jack Ferreri, Jim Thorne, and John Mason completed the scoring group.

South found Westwood, 15-44, and Bedford, 18-44, even more formidable in its second tri-meet, to quickly drop its record to 1-3.

Howie Frutkoff, a 15:00 runner on Souths' home course, last year, ran first for Newton over the 2.8 mile Bedford course. Frukoff, who struggled with stomach cramps in the opening meet, toured the distance in a good 15:17. Ress, Williams, Mason and Thorne followed as Ferreri was troubled by a tendon injury.

The Lions race Acton - Boxboro, defending league champ, in a dual meet and then face Weston and Lincoln - Sudbury in a tri-meet, this week.

Ballot Design Changed Again

Newton City Election Commissioners have voted to reinstitute a vertical arrangement for names on the ballot in the mayoralty race of the preliminary election. This year the Commission had voted to experiment with a new arrangement, using two parallel columns of names, but reverted back to the old vertical arrangement when one candidate dropped out, leaving only four in the mayor's race

The names will be arranged in alphabetical order.

Order of names on the ballot is frequently considered an important factor in elections, particularly in the primary, where the voter is confronted with long lists of relatively unknown names.

The side-by-side arrangement will still be used to list names of ward aldermen where there are more than three candidates running.

The Charter Commission in the proposed City Charter to be voted on in November, suggests that order of names on the ballot be chosen by lot, rather then alphabetically.

trucks from the depot, while Sullivan asserted it would be "absurd," Jefferson "unreasonable" to introduce 200 to 300 extra vehicles into the area.

Noting that the telephone company depot would be a valuable tax asset, Bullwinkle urged that a more suitable site be found for the building.

In an attempt to revive the petition, Barkin stated that denial would be "discriminatory," since there are already warehouses and construcion companies in the area.

Crosby criticized as a "red herring" a speech by Barkin on the importance of telephone service.

Barkin declared, "When we lose our telephone service, the most important thing we can think of is to have it restored. The telephone is a necessity today, vital to health, safety, and well-being."

Dismissing Barkin's speech as "hearts and flowers," Crosby pointed out that the telephone company trucks to be stored and serviced at the site were for construction, not for repair service.

Aldermen Robert Tennant, Jason Sacks, and Adelaide Ball, joined Barkin in favor of the petition.

Tennant criticized the Board for delaying the petition "at great expense to the petitioner." Aldermen Ball and Tennant both urged the board to consider only the question of storage of inflammables presented in the petition, and not the traffic question.

"If we go into the question of traffic, we could study every street in Newton," declared Alderman Ball, who asserted that "those employees' cars won't bring any more cars than you'd find on any street in Newton — maybe a few more."

Alderman Edward Uehlein, in a question on traffic volumes, disagreed. "If there are really going to be 200 cars in that area, it would be a mess," he mused.

Aldermen Barkin and Sacks urged the Board to "make the best of a bad situation," stressing that if the petition were granted, the aldermen could impose restrictions on the property and thus have some control over future development. Otherwise, since the area is zoned for manufacturing, they suggested, "we could wind up with something much worse."

The petition was defeated 15-5, with Aldermen Barkin, Ball, Magni, Sacks, and Tennant supporting DiCarlo's claim, Alderman Uehlein abstaining, and Aldermen Dietz, Wolf, and Bauckman absent.

Petitioner Dino DiCarlo said he thought the Board's decision was "ironic," since if the petition had been approved, he would have moved earthmoving equipment now stored on the site "much more of an eyesore," according to DiCarlo to land he owns outside the city. DiCarlo stated that he owns several hundred acres of land in Littleton, Wrentham, and other towns.

DiCarlo also stated that he thought the board foolish to ignore tax revenues from the proposed $1 million building.

Dino DiCarlo's brother Mario is well-known in political circles in Newton. Also a contractor, he is a former campaign aide of Mayor Monte G. Basbas, former chairman and currently a member of the Newton Redevelopment Authority, and a member of the Board of Newton Junior College.

the Newton Election Commission, about 44 per cent of voters in the 18-21 category have registered as of July 1. This left 56 per cent of the voters still eligible to register for the 1971 election. Since July 1, approximately 2700 new voters have registered.

National turnout for Newton municipal elections is about 50 per cent of registered voters, as opposed to over 90 per cent for national elections. One question that will be answered this November is whether youth voters will swell the ranks of voters for municipal elections.

Across the Kitchen Counter

By RUTH B. LENSON

"I love to cook and I love to eat," admitted Dinah Shore at a luncheon in Boston celebrating the publication of her cook book, SOMEONE'S IN THE KITCHEN WITH DINAH.

"Isn't it beautiful? I still can't believe I've actually written a book! Writing is hard work. I had to choose 200 recipes from about 400 I've collected through the years. Some of them were my own concoctions, others were given to me by my mother, friends, famous chefs, as well as favorites from my television show.

"Proofing the recipes and recording them accurately was something else," she added, "because my wonderful cook, Pauline, always shoos me out of the kitchen. I had to wait until she left on a three week vacation before calling in my cooking friends, and, by allocating recipes and work areas, we were able to test every recipe in the book.

"One non-cooking friend volunteered to become our human dishwasher because the automatic one just wasn't fast enough to take care of the number of dishes, pots and pans used. "The kitchen," she laughed, "was bedlam, and we all gained weight in the testing . . . but it was worth it!"

There must be special energy ingredients in Dinah's recipes that enable her to keep up a rigorous schedule of taping Dinah's Place (seen Monday through Friday, 10-10:30 a.m., Channel 4), visit key cities publicizing her book, paint, play an excellent game of tennis and entertain on a large scale.

Dinah's home in Beverly Hills is a favorite gathering place for her tennis friends. "Sometimes the gang gets too big," she said, "and I have to send a few down the street to Kirk Douglas' courts, and then they all come back to my place to eat."

Dinah's a happy person. She's quick and witty, answering questions gracefully and openly. Even more attractive in person than on television, her sun-tanned face bears few traces of makeup. How does she remain slim with all this cooking and tasting? "I diet constantly by eating small portions . . . I always stop eating before I feel full.

SOMEONE'S IN THE KITCHEN WITH DINAH reflects Dinah's Tennessee background and West coast lifestyle. The recipes are unique and their introductions well written in her informal manner. Prediction: The book will catapult onto the best seller list before Christmas. Published by Doubleday, 179 pages, $4.95.

A peek into Dinah's kitchen . . . from her book:

TENNESSEE LASAGNA

Cook one 1-pound package of elbow macaroni in salted water until just done.

1 pound of sharp Cheddar cheese, cut in cubes
Parmesan or Cheddar cheese, grated
Sauce:
2 pounds ground meat (ground chuck or 1 pound hot Italian sausage, if you like)
1 small bunch celery, coarsely cut
2 cloves of garlic, chopped fine
1 medium onion, chopped coarsely
1 green pepper, cut in broad strips
6-8 whole mushrooms, sliced thin
4 cups tomatoes (2-16-oz. cans)
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
Pinch of oregano
1 teaspoon chili powder
Red pepper flakes
¼ teaspoon cumin

Brown onions and garlic in oil, then add celery and green pepper. Cook until a little soft. Remove from pan. Add ground meat to oil and brown well. After meat is browned, add salt, pepper, chili powder, cumin, Worcestershire sauce, oregano (easy on this), mushrooms, onions, garlic, celery and green pepper. Sprinkle with red pepper flakes. Add tomatoes and tomato sauce.

Allow to cook slowly for 1 hour until sauce blends. Assemble by putting a layer of macaroni in casserole—dot with butter, add cheese cubes and then a layer of the sauce. Sprinkle with red pepper flakes. Then another layer of macaroni, butter and cheese cubes, etc., finishing with a layer of sauce. Top with grated Parmesan or Cheddar cheese. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes until cheese is melted inside and dish is thoroughly heated.

This can be prepared ahead and reheated 30 minutes before serving. This is good the next day too. Just reassemble what you have left over in a smaller casserole, add a little tomato juice if it seems dry, grate cheese over top and heat through thoroughly. Serve with crusty French bread. Serves 10-12.

RICE PUDDING FROM THE RIVIERA HOTEL

½ cup regular rice
1 cup water, salted
1 quart whole milk
⅛ pound (½ stick) butter
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup plump raisins
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Pour rice slowly into rapidly boiling, slightly salted, water in a large pot. Do not stir. Cover tightly and cook exactly 7 minutes, at which time all the water will be absorbed and the rice will be slightly undone. Add the milk and butter. Stir a little. Bring to a boil, cover and cook slowly over a low flame for 1 hour. Meanwhile, beat eggs; add sugar, raisins and vanilla. Pour the mixture into the rice, stirring slowly until the rice starts to thicken. Serve hot, warm or cold with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar sprinkled lightly and evenly over the top. This should serve 4 people, unless they're show folk, in which case it will serve 2.

Receiving a platter of mouth-watering cookies from a neighbor is heavenly, but when it's accompanied by recipes it becomes a double pleasure. Our thanks to Mrs. Como's mother, Mrs. Beth S. Kirk for the following recipes:

OLD STURBRIDGE VILLAGE BAKE HOUSE HOBNAILS
1 cup light brown sugar
½ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup raisins

Cream sugar and shortening well; add beaten egg and continue beating for 2 minutes. Combine flour, soda, salt and cinnamon and add slowly to creamed ingredients; add vanilla and raisins. Drop from teaspoon on well greased cookie sheet; bake in 375 degree oven 10-12 minutes. Remove to rack to cool.

SESAME CRISPS

Spread ¼ cup sesame seeds and ½ cup coconut on baking sheet and bake in 350 degree oven until seeds and coconut are light brown. (Watch closely).

¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup light brown sugar
1 egg
2 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy; add egg, vanilla, sesame seeds and coconut; mixing well. Add dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape 1 teaspoon dough into balls; flatten on ungreased baking sheet to ⅛ inch thickness. Bake in 350 degree oven for 12 minutes. Cool on rack.

Sent in by Mrs. E. T., Newton the following two recipes:

EDITH'S HAM ROUNDS
2 cups herb seasoned stuffing croutons
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¾ pound ground cooked ham
¾ pound ground fresh pork
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Soak croutons in milk about 5 minutes, or until soft. Beat until smooth and fluffy with a fork. Add onions and Worcestershire sauce, blending well. Stir in ham and pork; mix thoroughly. Shape mixture into 12 balls about 2-inches in diameter. Place in muffin pan cups or a shallow baking dish. Combine brown sugar, corn syrup, vinegar and mustard in small saucepan, stir until smooth. Bring to a boiling point, stirring constantly; cook for 1 minute. Pour over ham rounds. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes, or until browned. Meanwhile, about 10 minutes before end of baking time, place 12 pineapple slices on a cookie sheet and heat through. To serve, place ham rounds on pineapple slices. Spoon any extra glaze over the rounds. Serves 6.

APPLESAUCE SWEET POTATO PUFF
3 pounds sweet potatoes, peeled and quartered
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup applesauce
¼ cup pineapple syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup miniature marshmallows
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Cook potatoes in salted water until tender. Drain. Melt butter or margarine in milk and pineapple syrup. Mash potatoes and add butter mixture, blending well. Add remaining ingredients, except marshmallows, and blend well. Pour into an ungreased 1-½ quart casserole and top with marshmallows. Bake uncovered, at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes, or until marshmallows are browned. Serves 6.

Question: I'd like a recipe for baked pork chops, preferably one serving 8.

Mrs. W., Dedham

Answer: Vegetables and pork chops in one dish:

BAKED PORK CHOPS WITH VEGETABLES
3 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions
6 medium white potatoes, peeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
6 medium carrots, peeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 pork chops, 1-inch thick
1 envelope seasoned coating mix for pork

Melt butter in oven in 13x9-inch baking dish. Cut each onion into 6 wedges. Toss vegetables in melted butter in baking dish until evenly coated. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover tightly with aluminum foil and bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, trim fat from pork chops and coat chops with seasoned coating mix as directed on package. Place chops in single layer on top of partially cooked vegetables. Continue to bake, uncovered for 40-45 minutes longer, or until pork chops and vegetables are tender. (Always cook pork thoroughly). Serves 8.

Sent in by Mrs. A. M., Walpole, her original recipe for Baked Salmon Pilaf:

BAKED SALMON PILAF
½ cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup raw rice
1 teaspoon salt
1 lb. can salmon
13-¾ oz. can chicken broth

In heavy casserole or baking dish, melt butter. In it saute onion until transparent. Add rice and stir until rice is well coated with butter. Add salt, liquid from can of salmon and chicken broth. Bring liquid to a boil; flake and add salmon. Stir to mix; cover and bake in 400 degree oven 35 minutes. Fluff with fork. Serves 4.

HINT: To use with meats as well as for a spread combined with cream cheese: Sweet Red Pepper Jam: Grind 12 large sweet red peppers and mix with 1 tablespoon salt. Let stand overnight. Drain and simmer with 2 c sugar and 2 c vinegar until mixture is thick. Pack in sterilized containers and seal.

DOMESTIC DIARY

BY ANNE MULLIN

Here it is, time to turn the calendar page to October, and to concede, once again, the race against the telescoping seasons to all the fleeter, more efficient homemakers. At least half the people reading this column have, I'd be willing to bet, their Christmas cards all ordered, if not addressed, and I am not even quite ready to think about Hallowe'en.

As a matter of fact, there are a few birthdays that occurred during the summer that I haven't quite gotten around to remembering. And, to tell the truth, I'm not entirely sure of the menu for tomorrow night's dinner, let alone wanting to order my Thanksgiving turkey early.

I haven't even unwrapped the catalogues of Christmas gifts that have been arriving in a steady stream, so naturally I haven't looked through them. What good would looking do, if there's no list of probable recipients prepared? And how is one supposed to become inspired by pictures of snow-fringed window panes and fur-clad carol singers when one's offspring are calling for help in finding their bathing suits, because it is still balmy enough for aquick swim?

There used to be some solace in the fact that most of the women's magazines seemed to be geared for procrastinators. I always felt cheered, despite the overwhelming gun-jumping of department stores, when the December issues of most of the major publications would feature decorations and instructions for hand made presents. I relished the euphoria, however false, that emanated from pages showing jewel-like candles and pyramids of cookies and gingerbread houses and granny-square afghans . . . the implication was clear that, so what if there were only eleven days until Christmas, it was never too late to get into the spirit.

But this year, good heavens, even the old stalwarts have begun making me feel discouraged because I haven't ordered a kit during the July special offer. I haven't laid away yarn, or picked any cat-o'-nine-tails, or gathered a single pine cone.

So it can't be any wonder that I'm conceding this year. What I do wonder, though, is whether there is any significance that could be attached to my concession. Most other years, it never came until December 24. One year, I think, it was December 31. This year, I'm definitely ahead of schedule!

Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette

COMMON-SENSE, MODERN ADVICE

EMBARRASSING A CHILD

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: Do you think it is polite for the teachers to tell your mistakes in front of the class? Do you think it is right for people to call you names? Do you think it is right for teachers to read personal things? — M. S., Needham.

On your first question, no. I think that teachers should take children aside and tell them privately about their mistakes. Of course, no one should call anybody else names, but it is best not to be offended if they do. Name-calling is a very common thing, especially at a certain age. I think teachers should not read personal things. They may have to confiscate them from time to time, but they should give them back at the end of class with a warning.

MEN'S ROOM

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: If you are out with a girl in a restaurant and have just sat down at the table, do you order first before asking to be excused to go to the men's room (and how do you phrase this?) or do you excuse yourself first and leave the girl alone without ordering? — E. D., Canton.

You order first, then wait a few minutes to see if the girl wishes to be excused. If not, then you merely say, "Will you excuse me for a few minutes?" (You omit that old chestnut "to wash my hands.") The girl, once you have ordered, presumably will have something to sip or nibble on while you are gone.

If the girl leaves the table first you should stay there unless you are sure that it will remain reserved for you. If there is any doubt about this, you wait until she comes back and can hold the table for you both.

MISTAKEN ORDER

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: When I am out with my boyfriend and we have beef, I like it well - done and he likes his rare. Sometimes my order arrives rare, or something else goes wrong such as a fly in the iced tea. Should I tell the waiter or should my boyfriend? — C. P., Norwood.

You should tell your boyfriend tactfully that something is wrong if he doesn't notice himself. He in turn should call the waiter. If food had to be returned to the kitchen for you and he has his, you should urge him to go ahead while his food is hot (if it is hot) rather than wait.

TEACHER'S PROBLEM

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: As parents often become evasive and even irate when their children are criticized, can you tell me a positive approach a teacher can use when it becomes necessary to consult with a parent concerning the behavior of his child? — From Westwood.

First say something positive such as "I've enjoyed very much having Johnny in class." This is a little weasley, but will cover the problem, "Johnny is a most interesting child." But. . . " When you have finished, again add a positive statement, "Johnny is an intelligent boy and I know that with your help he will overcome this problem."

No Time or Place of Birth

G. My oldest son Donald was born on October 10th, 1962. I do not know the time but could you tell me something about him please? Stamped envelope enclosed.

D.L.

A. Both the City of birth and the Time of the day are necessary to calculate a horoscope therefore the following opinions are based only on the position of the planets in the particular Signs of the Zodiac on that date. Everyone born on that date had the same planetary positions and obviously are not alike in many ways. The difference showing in the complete horoscope by the changing Signs on the various House Cusps and the different House positions of the planets.

Also in your son's case the Moon was in the Sign of Aquarius until 12:28 a.m. Eastern Standard Time and then for the balance of most of that date was moving through the Sign of Pisces. So the Moon's position in the Signs is in doubt without a specific time of day of birth.

His Sun and Mercury were in Libra; Venus and Neptune in Scorpio; Saturn in Aquarius; Jupiter in Pisces; Mars in Cancer; and Pluto and Uranus in Virgo.

Generally, the Sun and Mercury in Libra is associated with one who is apt to be tactful, considerate of others, likely to weigh facts before making decisions, fair, unbiased and gentle, preferring peace and quiet.

They also indicate a dislike for arguments as quarrels can be quite upsetting. Noise and coarse or vulgar behavior can prove irritating.

There may be some natural talent along artistic lines but at least there should be some ability to appreciate art and that which is beautiful.

These positions also are indicative of an ability to cooperate and get along with others since the desire to please is strong.

Fashionettes

By United Press International

Large, flush sleeves, elaborated by flounces or smocking, give a round soft feeling, a good body line in the Jerry Silverman collection by Shannon Rodgers. In the same collection, deep flounces at the hem of late day clothes give pretty movement to skirts.

In his fall collection for Suzy Perette, Victor Costa extends and widens the shoulder without involving padding or a hard mannish cut.

Gayle Kirkpatrick's school girl dress for fall comes in brown or gray and is made of a light knit that looks like flannel. The white collar and cuffs make the skirtwaister "school girl". This one is in Kirkpatrick's collection for Boymini.

Fashions and Chit Chat

By RUTH B. LENSON

Bonnie Cashin is a designer who has mastered the technique of fine tailoring and demands perfection of every garment worthy of her label.

Her self assurance is well earned. As she says, "I can't remember when I didn't have a needle in my hand and a love for designing clothes. When I was six I used to pull the bastings for my mother who was an expert dressmaker. She encouraged me, and it was at her side that I learned the art of fine tailoring."

Simplicity and functionalism play important roles in Bonnie's designs; she expresses her fashion ideas eloquently as witnessed recently at a Saks preview of her sportswear.

"I don't like linings in coats or suits unless they have meanings. I absolutely don't like rayon linings because after they're cleaned they look tacky. You'll notice when you open one of my coats everything is bound off nicely. Sometimes I use the selvedge itself as an edge. A lining in a coat or suit must mean something."

Miss Cashin, an uprooted Californian, designs defensively against our Northern winters. Comfort is always important, and a favorite of hers is the hooded coat. "My hooded coat is wonderful for all women, and for those who say, 'Oh, I can't wear a hood . . .', my suggestion is to wear the hood as a cowl. The cowl frames the face and is really quite flattering."

On being told of a woman who had taken a Bonnie Cashin classic out of the closet for the tenth season, her reaction was: "I'm very pleased to hear it . . . when I visit Liberty's of London, in England (where they sell my things), I'm told again and again that my clothes never seem to wear out.

"My feelings are," she added, "that women today are a lot more knowledgeable about good design. They aren't interested in junk or gushy talk. I'm straight-forward and use the finest fabrics . . . I feel that design should work for women.

"We all want to be free, and clothes can be tyrannizing. I don't maintain a stable of young designers and pick and choose from their ideas — everything that bears my label is my design."

The clothing industry keeps a sharp eye on Miss Cashin because of her many successful fashion firsts:

1953 . . . Alpaca lined storm coats that revolutionized the rainwear industry. All leather pants, pullovers, ponchos. Attractive hardware closures, nylon pile robes, canvas designs.

1955 . . . The industrial zipper in women's dresses and sportswear.

1958 . . . Tweeds loomed specifically for her in Scotland and Ireland. Indian inspired sports clothes with lots of swinging fringe. Raccoon lined red leather coat that revived the raccoon craze and is still going strong.

1959 . . . Fun furs (a term she now loathes) were given life on her drawing board.

1969 . . . Winner of the highly coveted Coty Fashion Critics Award and the Leather Industries American Handbag Designer Award.

Miss Cashin speaks glowingly of her summer vacation in Ireland, Scotland and England. "I combine business with pleasure. Because I cannot work a loom, I present a handful of colorful yarns to those incredible craftsmen who then weave my fabrics."

A standout tweed coat in her collection: Purple, green, white, rust and gray plaid sprinkled with tiny flecks of gold. The coat is narrow at the shoulders, sweeping to a full back, banded in soft green suede. Around the neck a matching plaid fringed scarf.

Bonnie's flawless leather design is evident in her full length orange leather coat with bushy raccoon collar and cuffs. Her leather skirts have hardware closures from waist to hem . . . the designer wore this skirt over a lightweight cashmere wool turtleneck dress. The skirt may be worn open or closed.

No bovine residing on a gentleman's farm, is Bonnie's Plush Cow. It's a hardy leather she's had dyed all the rich deep tones she loves. Her deep purple plush cow coat is fitted with brass closures and narrow half belt . . . the coat is perfect for both daytime and evening wear.

Hemlines? Bonnie is emphatic: "There is nothing wrong with the longer ballet look, but it is NOT for daytime. It doesn't make sense being bothered with that length when getting in and out of cabs or cars. During the hemline controversy, I received masses of letters congratulating me for not joining other designers in going long. The result was I did business when others were in trouble.

"It's gratifying to know that women appreciate the honesty and sincerity I put into my clothes designs."

Antiques BY Nancy Elwell

These crisp fall mornings which are occurring with ever increasing frequency serve to remind us that Holiday season is not very far off. The fall season also marks the end of the outdoor flea markets for another year and many dealers are eager to reduce their stock before winter sets in. Therefore it is an excellent time to go bargain hunting for unusual antiques to hide away for Christmas gift giving.

Last weekend I attended a country flea market and was intrigued with one dealer's display which featured nothing but Victorian accessories for "Milady's Boudoir".

The variety of items was so great that I was able to buy a gift for virtually every female on my gift list. Furthermore, the prices I paid were remarkably reasonable which made the shopping all the more pleasurable.

Most of the items I purchased are for the dressing table. Because they were made of either cut glass or a combination of glass and elaborate silver plate, they will be attractive and decorative as well as usable.

My first purchases included two glass "puff jars" with lovely embossed silver tops. They are just the right size to hold a generous handful of cotton balls. Although most of us are used to compressed powder compacts, I couldn't resist buying an elegant footed powder box which will make a perfect container for earrings and other small jewelry.

Another find was a chamois covered, silver handled nail buffer, with matching cuticle stick and nail file. All three items were in mint condition and the total price was $5!

Without a doubt, my very best "buy" was a complete set of basic dressing table items, each article elegantly embellished with sterling silver. Included in this set are two combs, a hair brush, a clothes brush, puff jar, a pair of glove stretchers and a beautiful hand mirror with heavy beveled glass.

The dealer mustn't have realized that the items were silver and not silver plate when she priced the entire set at $18.

Over the next two months I will be keeping my eye open for other unusual antiques which might prove to be just the right thing for someone on your list in hopes that I might just be able to help you avoid the last minute panic at Holiday time!

Household Hints

Do not attempt to operate a microwave oven with the door open. Likewise, do not use the microwave feature if the door is damaged — that is, has a tear or gap in the closure seal, a broken hinge, bent or warped door.

City Officials Testify At NCDF Housing Hearing

The city of Newton shifted gears yesterday in its presentation before the Massachusetts Department of Community Affairs Housing Appeals Committee, and advanced technical experts to testify in support of the Zoning Board of Appeals decision to reject a low-income housing proposal by the Newton Community Development Foundation.

Ulderico M. Schiavone, City Engineer, and Victor J. Taglienti, Assistant Building Inspector, were called upon to give a technical critique in support of the zoning board refusal of variances on such matters as number of feet of set-back from the edge of the property line, and type of building materials proposed.

According to Robert Stiller of 21 June Lane, Newton, whose "Newton Civic and Land Association" urged the zoning board to refuse NCDF's petition, among the past objections of the Engineering and Building Departments, have been criticism of drainage facilities in the proposed NCDF plans, and of layout of Sewers and Water Lines. It has been alleged that there was no plan to separate hydrant water from regular water lines, to prevent a cut-off to the hydrants in the event of a break in the water line. City officials have claimed Stiller says that NCDF plans provide insufficient evidence on contour lines and on size of water pipes.

Yesterday's was the ninth DCA hearing on the housing dispute.

Marks 25 Years With Phone Co.

James J. Martin of 11 Rossmere St., Newtonville, recently marked 25 years of service with New England Telephone.

Martin joined the company in 1946 as a central office repairman in Newton, and was appointed foreman in 1961.

A native of Newton, he's a 1940 graduate of Newton High School, an Air Force veteran of World War II, and a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Pioneers is the largest social-industrial organization in the world and is composed of employees of the telephone industry with over 21 years of service.

Martin is married to the former Helen Schultz of Boston. They have four children: James, Jr., 11, Brian, 8, Mark, 6, and Joanne, 1.

New Professors At Boston State

Two Newton residents are among the 40 new faculty members this year at Boston State College.

President Kermit C. Morrissey announces the appointments of Ronald E. Polito of 495 Watertown Street as an Assistant Professor of Art and Linus Travers of 4 Warren Terrace as an Assistant Professor of English.

Professor Polito received his B.S. and M.S. degrees at Boston University where he currently is an Ed.D. candidate. He has taught at Boston University. In addition he has been a film consultant for the Curriculum Resources Group, Institute for Services to Education in Newton and an assistant filmmaker for the Mental Health Training Film Program at Harvard Medical School.

Professor Travers earned both his A.B. and M.A.T. degrees at Yale University and is a Ph.D. candidate at Boston University. He has taught English at Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Va., Boston University and Pine Manor Junior College.

Fire Prevention Week
Can be a Life Saver

how much?

Courtesy Newton Fire Department
1. . . . is the average loss in lives in the U.S. per year due to fire? What are the 5 greatest fires in U.S. history.
2. . . . has Fire Prevention Week been honored?
3. . . . did the Coconut Grove fire cost in lives? when? how does that compare with the Chicago fire?
4. . . . does a false alarm cost the City of Newton?

Ever since Mrs. O'Leary's cow tipped over the pail and started the fire in Chicago, the horror and chaos caused by carelessness have deprived thousands of their homes, their lives and their livelihoods.

Another in our series "Count Your Blessings"

Answers: 1. The annual loss of life due to fire is 12,000. Will you or a loved one be included in next year's figures? The five greatest fires in U.S. history and amount in damage in millions of dollars are: 1. 1906 — San Francisco earthquake and fire, $350 million; 2. 1871 — Chicago — $168 million; 3. 1872 — Boston, $75 million; 4. 1947—Texas City, Texas, $67 million; tie for 5th at $30 million are 1947 — Maine forest fires and 1961 — Los Angeles. 2. This is the 100th anniversary of the Chicago fire and Fire Prevention Week has been observed for 50 years. 3. 491 persons and injured hundreds, on November 28, 1942. In the great Chicago fire in 1871, there were 250 killed and 17,430 buildings destroyed. 4. Around $500 per alarm depending on number of men responding and equipment used.

Students, Tutors Matched In Day Jr. H.S. Program

Day Junior High School in Newtonville has its own match-mate program, but it's not a computer dating set-up.

It is, instead, a matching of adult tutors from the community with students who need extra help with reading and study skills.

Now in its fourth year of operation under Principal E. Van Seasholes, the tutoring program has already helped some 120 students to be more effective in their work.

Mrs. Barbara Michaels, who heads up the 1971-1972 program at Day, this week invites all potential new tutors to speak with her at the school (244-3670 or 332-0156). Adults have come into the program from all over Newton, and need no special educaton, skills or experience - merely the wish to help a junior-high student. Tutors with some knowledge of a foreign language are particularly welcome.

Day Jr. High sponsors a 6-session workshop, to begin on October 26 and 28 from 11 a.m. to 12 noon to familiarize its volunteer tutors with the program and with school-system resources available to them and their students.

Specialists like Paul Welch, head of student services; Bob DeIulio, psychologist; Kay Torrant, supervisor of remedial reading; Grace Mancini, counselor for non-English-speaking students; and Nina Cooke, reading disabilities teacher, participate in the workshops and share their expertise with the volunteers.

During the initial training period, tutors are matched with their students, then study together two periods a week. As the work progresses, the pairs may plan useful field trips to explore common ingerests such as soccer and other athletic events, museum, and the cities of Boston and Newton. The students and interests such as soccer and art work, tapes and typewriters to round out conventional reading matter.

Volunteers who completed the 1970-1971 season are Mrs. Maria Arcese, Mrs. Sarah Biselle, Mrs. Cynthia Bond, Mrs. Phyllis Bott, Mrs. Nancy Brown, Mrs. Edith Clayman, Mrs. A. Cimo, Miss Donna Cole, Mrs. Barry Curhan, Miss Ann Duffey, Mrs. Alice Freedman, Mrs. Miriam Freedman, Mrs. Richard Freudberg, and Mrs. Babette Gelles.

Also Mrs. Myra Goodman, Mrs. Betty Hershfield, Mrs. H. Hindman, Mrs. A. Hochberg, Mrs. M. Hootstein, Mrs. Gloria Karas, Miss Gail Karas, Mrs. A. Klein, Mrs. Sue Levine, Mrs. Edward Levy, Mrs. Charles Lorant, Mrs. Ellen Maxwell, Mrs. L. Mitchell and Mrs. Claudia Moyne.

Also Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mrs. Millie Resh, Mrs. Albert Samick, Mrs. Jean Schreiner, Mrs. Arlene Seigel, Mrs. M. Simon, Mrs. R. Stroyman, Miss Mimi Thurman, and Mrs. Elaine Thurman.

Joins National Steering Group

Jerome Grossman of 115 Dorsett Rd. in Waban has joined the National Steering Committee of the New Democratic Coalition, headquartered in St. Louis.

Mr. Grossman received his invitation to join the Committee by Marvin L. Madeson, Chairman. He will join other members of the group at a meeting in Baltimore this month.

Dr. Nuttall Is Candidate For School Committee

Dr. Ronald L. Nuttall of 106 Washington Street (Ward 1) is a candidate for election to the Newton School Committee. Dr. Nuttall is an Associate Professor and Director of the Division of Educational Research at Boston College. He is a Social Psychologist and has three degrees (A.B., M.A. and Ph.D.) from Harvard University. At 33 years old Dr. Nuttall and his School Psychologist wife, Dr. Ena Vazquez Nuttall have two children. Their son, 7 year old Key, attends the Underwood School. Their daughter, Kim, is three years old.

Dr. Nuttall is currently involved in research on educational policy making in Pittsburgh, New York, Boston and Bayamon, Puerto Rico. He is active in the Massachusetts Psychological Association as Chairman of the Board of Professional Affairs. Dr. Nuttall is also President of the Boston Systems Group. He is an Institute Associate at the Institute of Human Sciences at Boston College. Dr. Nuttall has a Brown Belt in Judo and advises the Boston College Judo Club.

Dr. Nuttall feels the major issues facing the Newton Schools revolve around responsibility. On the one hand the schools must be responsible to each parent for the education his children are being given. On the other school programs and their costs must be responsible to the Newton taxpayers.

Each parent, Dr. Nuttall feels, should participate as much as possible in the education of his children. The school is responsible for clearly spelling out the goals and educational philosophies of each educational program.

The parents should be offered a choice of goals and philosophies and allowed to choose, with consultation from the school staff, what kind of education his children are to receive. There should be more freedom for parents to switch their children from one Newton School to another if such a change would be better for their child. The School Committee must pay attention to and try to reduce the feelings of powerlessness and alienation which many parents have toward the schools.

At the same time that the schools are responsible to the parents, the School Committee must be responsible to the Newton taxpayers. Dr. Nuttall believes that each educational program should have cost figures and goals attached to it. The School Committee must then evaluate the cost-effectiveness of each program and allow those programs which are inefficient or are not reaching their goals to die while expanding and continuing effective programs.

Dr. Nuttall believes that his experience in Educational Research and in Social Psychology as well as the viewpoint of a young parent with children attending Newton schools will be valuable to the School Committee.

'Masher Ban Reconsidered

Alderman Eliot Cohen, head of the Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee, is changing his mind about his committee's ban on the "Transhmasher" Rubbish Compactor, after tests at the city incinerator Tuesday.

The tests themselves were inconclusive, Cohen stated, but added that when he saw the huge volume of trash coming in to the incinerator, he realized that compacted trash was only a small part of the load.

"We saw automobile engines, doors, metal barrels — lots of things that offer far worse disposal problems than compacted trash," declared Cohen.

Questioning whether a ban on compacted trash could be effective, Cohen pointed out that much of the incinerator's volume comes from contract trash brought in from other communities. "If we banned the trashmasher here, we'd still be bringing in compacted trash from Cambridge and other communities. So in effect we'd just be penalizing our own Newton citizens," he asserted.

In the incinerator test, the Whirlpool Co., manufacturers of the trashmasher, brought in 10 bags of trash they had compacted themselves, and another 10 collected from homes with trashmashers.

The 20 bags of compacted trash, says Cohen, were dumped, picked up, dropped, mashed, and dropped into the incinerator. When the residue emerged one and a half hours later, it was impossible to tell the compacted remains from the rest of the garbage.

Public Works Commissioner Willard Pratt and aldermen who were witnesses feel the test is inconclusive because it doesn't answer the question of the effect of large volumes—2,000 or more bags — of compacted trash on the incinerator.

Cohen adds, however, that "We don't have a problem presently," and that he doesn't expect one for many years to come. "I think it would probably be inappropriate to legislate against the trashmasher at this time," he commented.

The Public Works Committee will review movies of the test at its Oct. 7 meeting.

Service Centers Plan Autumn's Activities

Registrations continue to pour into the office of the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc. for activities, according to Mr. Anthony J. Bibbo, Executive Director.

The enrollment procedure, coordinated by Mrs. Dorothy Aston, has been arranged to take place at the Newton Community Center building at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton and the Rebecca Pomroy House at 84 Eldredge Street in Newton, from 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

To date openings are available in most of the activities listed in this year's Centers fall brochure. In commenting on the program, Mr. Bibbo stated that the Centers are most fortunate in that all key staff have returned this year and programs should be enhanced as a result of the experienced staff.

The Centers nursery school, held at the First Unitarian Society in West Newton, has a few vacancies due to provisions made to increase the school's size this year. Under the Direction of Mrs. Herbert Stearns, the nursery school functions Monday - Friday during the hours of 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Pre-school youngsters, ages 3 and up are included in this activity.

Among he Centers' regular offerings is the popular "Lecole de la dance" under the direction of Miss Katherine Dickson. Scheduled for each Monday or Tuesday beginning October 4 and 5th, the school offers a schedule of graded classes set for regular progression from pre-school through advanced.

Mrs. Marjorie Gilbert will again this year direct the Centers' Baton School each Thursday afternoon at the Community Center. Elementary as well as junior and senior high students will have the opportunity to learn the art of Baton Twirling. The starting date is October 7th.

Another of the Centers' regular offerings is the varied creative art program. Designed to build a childs' awareness of himself and the world around him, the competent experienced art staff offer programs for Mothers and Tots, Nursery, Kindergarten and elementary age children. Further information is available on individual programs information sheets.

An exciting offering geared to the needs of special education youngsters will be offered under the coordination of Mrs. Avis Jacobson. This program will give these children an opportunity to gain social skills, to make friends, to function in a democratic social group, to increase their abilities to function on a social level.

Highlight of the season promises to be the "Open Activities" to be held at the spacious West Newton Armory facility. The program to be developed, depending on the interests of those children involved, will vary with athletics, games, craft projects, etc. Concurrent activities will be offered each week allowing each paarticipant to choose areas of his particular interest. This activity is open to boys and girls ages 9-12.

Other activities to be offered at the Centers are woodkorking, Kiddie Klub, cooking, sewing, crocheting, knitting, craft embroidery, drama and, for the for the adults there is women's craft, mother's clubs, sewing, ladies physical fitness, golf, yoga, women's liquid embroidery, cake decorating, badminton, weight watchers, and adult drama.

In addition to these activities, the Centers operate a Nursery, administers the Newton Youth Center, Headstart and Day Care programs, and offers programs for Senior Citizens and adults.

Further information is available at the main office at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton or by phone at 969-5906.

Garden City Trust Joins Growing Credit Card Plan

American Express Company's Card Division has announced that the Garden City Trust Company of Newton has joined its Executive Credit Card Plan along with hundreds of banks throughout the U.S.

Under an agreement signed recently, the Bank and American Express are offering jointly sponsored Travel and Entertainment Card carrying a minimum $2,000 line of credit, plus all privileges of the existing American Express Money Card.

The Card is easily recognized by its new gold format, and the words "The Executive Money Card." he name Garden City Trust Company appears on the reverse side. It will be available through the Bank to individuals who can meet the Banks 'requirements for an unsecured line of credit of $2,000 or more.

The line of credit feature of the new Card enables a member to obtain funds at the Garden City Trust Company in cash or Travelers Cheques, or credit to his checking account.

Similarly, the cardmember can obtain funds while away from home: anywhere in the world, at American Express Company, its Subsidiaries and its Representative Offices. He can purchase up to $500 in Travelers Cheques in the U.S. and $1,000 overseas, at any of its offices.

As another feature of he Plan, the cardmember can transfer his monthly travel and entertainment charges into a loan against his bank hne of credit. To do this, he will complete a simple form contained in his monthly American Express statement.

"The Executive Money Card is literally as good as gold," according to Richard G. Gerraughty, Treasurer of the Garden City Trust Company. "It provides instant cash, instant credit, plus the full range of international charge privileges of the regular American Express Money Card. The Executive Money Card is designed for persons with above - average incomes who do substantial business, pleasure travel and entertainmnent."

In case of a lost or stolen card, the Bank's customers have liability protection. American Express assumes responsibility for any fraudulent charges at credit card establishments against a lost or stolen card except for a deductible provision. However, if the Company receives notice of a lost card before it is used fraudulently, the member is protected against all liability.

To guard against fraud, the American Express Inspector's Office — an elite worldwide private investigation force of several hundred — has been expanded to also protect the Bank Card Plan.

The Company said that its regular American Express Money Cards will continue in effect and members holding them will continue using them as before. However, those members in the Newton area who wish to obtain an Executive Money Card may apply for it at the Garden City Trust Company or at any participating bank.

Hospital Will Host Classes On Baby Care

Expectant parents are invited to learn what to expect in caring for their baby in a fall course of five free classes designed just for them and to be held at Newton-Wellesley Hospital beginning Thursday, October 7.

Held on consecutive Thursday evenings in the hospital's Usen Auditorium and lasting two hours from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., the program will focus on pre-natal care of the mother and infant, the process of birth and care of the infant through its first year.

Sponsored by the Hospital and the Dy-Dee Service Company, the course includes demonstrations of bathing and diapering, instructions on infant feeding and development, and films and discussions about infant and maternal care.

Expectant parents may attend the free series regardless of the hospital they may elect to use. Refreshments and door prizes are provided at each class meeting and diplomas are awarded parents who attend all clsses.

Held three times annually, enrollment in the classes averages nearly 200 future parents. Information about the up-coming fall course may be obtained by calling the Hospital at 244-2800.

Back-t-School Prog. Preps Housewives

For the third consecutive year Newton Junior College is offering a unique program for adult women in its Adult Education Program. This educational program is designed for women who have been away from academic study for some time and are contemplating resuming their formal education with the possibility of working toward an Associate or Bachelor's degree. The tuition for this course is ten dollars.

Included in the course material are: the improvement of study skills such as listening, reading, notetaking, and reviewing; aptitude and interest tests; and an inquiry into educational and vocational opportunities for women.

Following the regular group meetings, each member of the class is given an individual appointment with the instructor who is a member of the Counseling Department of the College. These counseling sessions are designed to help each woman to understand her individual abilities, interests, and goals, and to come to some decisions regarding her future.

Since the initiation of this course, members of the classes have subsequently been admitted into the College as part-time students.

For more specific details regarding this educational program for women at Newton Junor College please call the College office, 969-9570, and ask for Mrs. Armine Thomason, who is the instructor of the course.

Service Centers Sponsors Cake Decorator and Golf Instruction

Mrs. Ruth S. Lucas, who holds the Master Cake Decorator diploma from the Wilton School of Cake Decorating, will conduct a six-week course in the art of Cake Decorating beginning Tuesday, October 5th from 7:30-9:30 p.m. The classes are part of the Fall and Winter Program of the Newton Community Service Centers and will be held at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge Street in Newton.

Mrs. Lucas, formerly the head baker of the Schraffts store in Boston, has had many years of experience specializing in birthday, wedding and Bar Mitzvah cakes. She is widely known for her creative conversation cakes "This is your life."

Mrs. Lucas stated that the "average homemaker with little or no experience can easily learn to decorate beautifully and professionally." As in previous years, Mrs. Lucas will continue the practice of giving a decorated cake to one of the individuals present at the first class.

The Newton Community Service Centers also announces that Mr. Dan Meany will again this year conduct Golf Lessons at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry Street in West Newton. The classes are scheduled to begin on Wednesday evening, October 13th and Friday evening, October 15th.

The course consist of seven one-hour lessons covering stance, driver, fairway woods, long irons, middle irons, chipping and putting. Classes will be offered at 7, 8 and 9 with groups limited to six per class.

All teaching equipment is supplied, although pupils may use their own clubs if they wish. Sneakers or some other type of comfortable footwear should be worn.

For additional information contact the Newton Community Service Center at 969-5906 Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Guild of St. Francis of Assisi, Newton Centre is having its famous "Mystery Ride of 1971" on Friday, October 22.

Riders will meet promptly at 7 p.m., and will travel by Greyhound Bus. As for the price, "No mystery here," says publicity chairman Mrs. Henry P. Sullivan, "It's $10 per person. Be a sport and bring your husband or a friend."

Reservations must be made in advance and paid for by Wednesday, Oct. 13. "The bus company and our hostess do not like mysteries," comments Mrs. Sullivan.

For tickets contact Mrs. James Downey (332-3940) or Mrs. Richard Murphy (527-6007). Send a check. Tickets will be sent by return mail.

"Tell all your friends about our Mystery Ride," urges Mrs. Sullivan. "We promise an exciting evening - happy hour, a great dinner, and dancing."

Durkin Named to Services Group

Richard J. Durkin of Newton, a former language teacher at Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton, has been appointed a member of the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) Division of Governmental Services, according to an accouncement made today by Dr. William H. Hebert, Executive Secretary of the MTA.

Educated at St. Michaels College in Vermont, Durkin took his M.A. at Boston University and has done additional graduate work at Pennsylvania State University.

Before moving to Newton, Durkin taught in Chatham. He served as president of the Chatham Teachers Association, the Barnstable Counnty Education Association, the Newton Teachers Association and the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

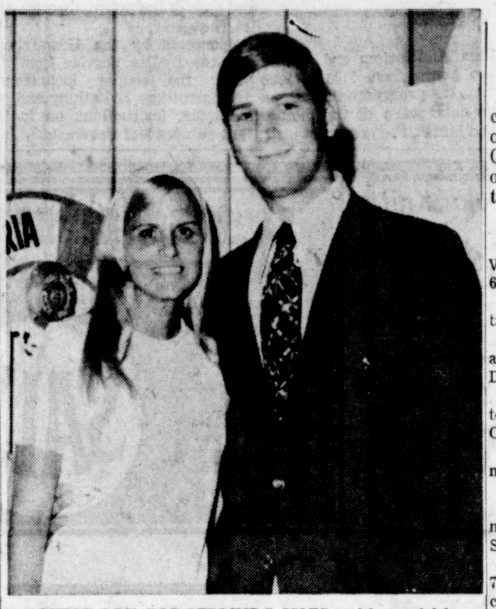

In this new job, Durkin will serve as a legislative agent, will represent the MTA before the General Court, and will work with local teachers and teacher associations to supply information and counsel on governmental operations as well as develop political awareness among teachers.

Durkin, a native of Clinton, Mass. is one of nine new staff members added to the MTA as part of a major expansion program. The teachers' organization, because of a growing membership and stepped-up demands for services, will also establish two new regional service centers, one in Pittsfield and another in the southeastern part of the state.

Flaschner Tells League About District Courts

Franklin N. Flaschner of Newton, Chief Justice of the District Courts of Massachusetts, recently addressed the annual fall conference of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters in Framingham. His topic was the district court system, which he attempted to explain and defend before the League members and a panel of newsmen.

In his remarks Flaschner points out that the workings of the District Courts are often criticized but frequently misunderstood. Because of the importance of his topic we reproduce here some of the highlights of his talk, which limitations of space prevent our printing in full:

"It is a fact when I was sworn in as Chief Justice 11 months ago the District Courts of Massachusetts were reeling under a two-pronged attack. The 1-2 punch was provided by the filing of a petition in May, 1970, with the Supreme Judicial Court by the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute and the publication in October of a Report on the Quality of Justice in the Lower Courts by the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law.

"While the context of these documents varied considerably, theri main thrust constituted a general indictment, largely unwarranted, of the handling of criminal cases in the District Courts, especially as this process was alleged to discriminate unfeelingly, if not unconstitutionally, against indigent defendants, many of whom are admittedly blacks and Puerto Ricans.

"Let me say at the outset that this undertaking of yours is in the mainstream of a new national movement of public interest in the Courts, which I, for one, believe is essentially healthy. If it can be sustained and nurtured with objectivity and maturity, I believe it can contribute significantly not only to the improvement of the judicial process, but to the education and enlightenment of large numbers of citizens.

"One of the little appreciated, if not little known strengths of the District Courts is the dedication and talent of the Court personnel, particularly the 62 full time Judges. Contrary to the stereotype so often publicized of the self-indulgent Judge with the soft job, I find almost all of these Judges to be hard-working and entirely committed not only to improving the administration of justice in their own Courts, but in the District Courts as a whole. My judgment on this score was first evidenced when on February 1, 1971, I announced the formation of 10 Standing Committees of the District Courts to assist me in the improvement of Court procedures and in making recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature in areas which may be identified by the titles of the Committees: Criminal Procedure, Civil Procedure, Juvenile Procedures, Juries of Six, Mental Health, Drugs, Alcoholism, Non-Support, Organization, Grievances.

Historically, the District Courts of Massachusetts were local Justice of the Peace and Police Courts dealing in petty offenses. At one time I suppose the Boston Municipal Court, which is the only District Court not included in the Courts under my jurisdiction, had as much business as all the other 72 District Courts put together. Only 15 years ago, more than one-half of these 72 Court were operated on a part time basis. Today that fraction is down to one-sixth and fast shrinking.

Today the criminal business of all 72 Courts amounts to almost one-half a million cases a year not including parking complaints. The civil case entries in these Courts of about 110,000 per year is now over four times that of the Boston Municipal Court.

"Not only are other big city Courts like Springfield, Worcester, Cambridge, Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn, New Bedford and Fall River creaking at the joints, but the suburban Courts like Quincy, Malden, Woburn, Dedham, Framingham, Hingham and many others have gone through transformations from comfortable bailiwicks to beehives of activity, and even the District Courts in Cape Cod and other resort areas are busy all year and madhouses all summer.

"My interest in centralization of administrative supervision should not be misinterpreted as a criticism of the community de-centralization inherent in the 72 separate Courts. While a strong case could be made out for consolidation of a few small Courts in comparatively rural areas, I submit that one of the greatest strengths of the District Courts of Massachusetts is the existence of so many of them. I suppose for every person person who goes into the Superior, Probate or Land Court, there must be a thousand persons who go into their local District Courts. These are the people's Courts. As such it is important that they be as close to the people as possible.

"A citizen should not feel frightened or intimidated when he is summoned to apper in his local Court. I shudder at the dehumanization of people's Courts in urban areas throughout the country located on upper stories of tall towers of justice, frigidly emanating their impersonality and offering the bewildered citizen an elevator trip into a maze which ends up in crowded corridors of smoke-filled confusion.

"Finally I want here and now to start my own campaign to eliminate the reference to the District Courts of Massachusetts as the lower Courts. This term is not appropriate to the District Courts of Massachusetts as the lower Courts. This term is not appropriate to the District Courts of Massachusetts because the scope of their jurisdiction is so much greater than the so-called lower courts of most other states. But this is the least of my reasons. If we are in fact and not merely in pious utterance to measure the significance of each case by its importance to the litigant or the defendant and not by the amount of money involved or the seriousness of the offense, then we do indeed have to elevate the dignity of the District Courts and our proceedings," Chief Justice Flaschner said.

Youth Charged With Forging Stolen Check

A twenty-year-old youth was arrested in Gateway Center last week after he allegedly tried to cash a check at the Newton - Waltham Bank stolen from the mailbox of a teller who worked at the bank.

Arrested on charges of forgery and attempted larceny was Stephen Tabaldi of 125 Bridge St.

According to police, Tabaldi tried to cash a check signed with the name of Mrs. Florence Zeno, and allegedly stolen from her mailbox at 39 Faxon St. Mrs. Zeno is a teller at the Newton - Waltham bank.

The teller to whom Tabaldi presented the check worked just two windows away from Mrs. Zeno. When the teller refused to cash the check, Tabaldi allegedly ran out into the parking lot, where he was captured by bank employees and turned over to the police.

In arraignment at Newton District Court Friday, the case was continued to Oct. 5 and Tabaldi was released on personal recognizance.

Drinan Opposes Fuel Oil Quota

Congressman Robert F. Drinan of Newton, together with the entire New England congressional delegation, have expressed strong opposition to an Interior Department proposal to renew oil import quotas on residual fuel oil.

Such a move could lead to a dangerous shortage of residual oil, and would drastically increase oil prices in the Northeastern United States, they claim. The Congressmen have expressed their position in a letter to Rogers Morton, Secretary of the Department of the Interior.

Residual oil, used principally by schools, hospitals, power utilities, and businesses to import quotas since 1966. More than 90 percent of the residual fuel oil currently used in New Engand is imported.

ACLD Panels On Learning Disabilities

The Newton Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will hold its first meeting of the 1971-72 series next Wednesday, October 13, at 8 p.m., at the Elks Hall on Centre St. in Newton Corner.

"Our initial presentation is aimed at the in-house efforts of the Newton school system to meet the needs of the perceptually handicapped child at the Elementary, Junior High, and High School levels," said Dr. Thomas Kent, President of the local chapter.

A "Panel of Involved Teachers" who are conducting the programs at the various grade levels throughout the school system will be introduced by Dr. Jesse Grimes, Director of the Learning Disabilities Program.

Directory Of Local Agencies Now Available

Robert P. Freeto, President of the Newton Community Council, Inc., announces the 1971 edition of the Directory of Newton Agencies and Organizations, compiled and published by the Council, has just been completed and is ready for distribution.

This handy Directory is the ideal book for quick and easy references, phone numbers, and names of leaders of Newton organizations. This is also an appropriate and inexpensive gift for board and committee members of your organization. A complete index for easy reference is contained in the back of the Directory.

Included in the Directory are the leaders of all public and private agencies, city departments, churches and synagogues, with their major affiliated groups, government elected officials, as well as public, private and parochial schools, and colleges.

Also contained in the Directory are all major social, civic, service, fraternal, political and professional groups in the city. Nursing and rest homes are listed, as well as all parent - teacher associations.

A brief description of each health and welfare agency and department is in a special section in the front of the Directory.

Copies of the new Directory are now available at all Newton Libraries, at the Newton Chamber of Commerce, and at the Community Council office, 12 Page Road, Newtonville, for $1.25 a copy.

State Will Foot Hospital Costs Under New Bill

A bill providing that the state reimburse counties for the operating expenses of county hospitals was endorsed by the legislative committee on Counties, sponsor Representative Paul Malloy of Newton announced today.

The bill, which is now before the House Ways and Means Committee, would save the city of Newton county hospital costs of $134,698, or 40 cents on the tax rate, if passed in 1971, according to Rep. Malloy.

Councillor Thomas Atkins Outstanding Public Leader

It is unfortunate that City Councillor Thomas I. Atkins, who was knocked out of Boston's mayoralty campaign in the preliminary city election, is leaving the Hub's municipal government at the end of the year.

Atkins is much more than a run-of-the-mill representative of the blacks. He is an extraordinarily capable individual.

Things didn't work out the way he expected in the preliminary election. He didn't get the solid support he anticipated from his own people or the financial help he expected from the liberals.

But these developments do not wash out the tremendous ability Atkins has displayed during his four years as a Boston City Councillor. He demonstrated a keen understanding of municipal affairs during that period.

Councillor Atkins graduated from Indiana University. He obtained a moster's degree in Middle Eastern studies from Harvard University. He has spent some time in the Near East and speaks and writes Arabic.

He is a graduate of Harvard Law School where he received the Doctor of Jurisprudence degree. Presently, he conducts a course in government at Wellesley College.

Whether he will run again for public office in the future is something only time will determine. He already has left his imprint upon Boston's city government.

Baptist Church Adult Education Begins Oct. 10

Next Sunday (Oct. 10) Dr. Gene E. Bartlett will preach a sermon on the subject "What's the Sense of Suffering" at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

The worship service will be followed at 11 a.m. by a choice of three adult discussion groups running for a six-week period: "The History and Future of First Baptist Church" led by Dr. Ross Sanderson, a pioneer worker in the urban church and the ecumenical movement at the School of Theology, Boston University; "The Gospel of Mark" led by Rev. Glen Platt, Assistant Librarian at Andover Newton Theological School; and a discussion of The Purple Pulpit by Richard L. Keach, an Andover Newton graduate and former Assistant Minister at First Baptist Church.

At 6:30 p.m. Arnold Kenseth, minister-poet of Amherst, will conduct a Poetry Reading and Interpretation. This event is a continuation of the Fall Arts Festival entitled "Man's Search For Meaning" being conducted at the First Baptist Church through November 21.

Couple Sponsors An Indian Girl

Mr. and Mrs. R. Van Nostrand, 197 Walnut street, Newtonville, are sponsoring Joselyn, a seven-year-old American Indian girl of the Apache tribe, through Save the Children Federation, international child welfare organization of Norwalk, Conn.

The sponsorship will help provide funds for the clothing, school supplies, personal books and spending money which will enable the child to take part in school activities. The average Indian youngster leaves school before the eighth grade, often for lack of these bare essentials.

Newton Artist Features Works at Brockton Show

A retrospective exhibition of paintings, drawings and prints by the gifted Newton artist Arthur Polonsky, is now underway at Brockton Art Center - Fuller Memorial and will continue through Oct. 24.

The exhibition covers works beginning in 1943 and includes some of his just - completed pieces.

Brockton Art Center is located on Oak Street at Upper Porters' Pond and is open from 10 to 5 weekdays, Thursdays 10 to 10 and Sundays from 1:30 to 5:30. It is closed to the public on Mondays.

Polonsky, who teaches at Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Art, considers art a "concrete and experience of seeing." For him, he says that the human act of seeing, what he calls "that full, spontaneous recognition of meaning as vision" is more important in the creation of his work than the influence of any artist.

In the 1940's he was in the avant garde group in Boston that included David Aronson, Bernard Chaet, Kahlil Gibran, Jack Kramer and Conger Metcalf. The group, later known as the Boston School, were for the most part students of Karl Zerbe and admired the older Boston artists Hyman Bloom and Jack Levine who achieved national reputations.

Between 1948 and 1950, Polonsky lived and worked in Paris. His work during this period shows the influence of Matisse, Redon, and Picasso in his rose and blue periods.

Like other Boston School painters, he never entirely succumbed to abstrartion. By the mid-50's his characteristic motifs appeared: the tender and melancholy face of a woman derived from the face of his wife; the wrinkled and bearded old man and the figures in landscapes. He continued to study the work of the old masters — he mentions Degas and Cezanne particularly — and was influenced by artists such as James Ensor and Max Beckman.

In the 1960s' Polonskys' style changed. He tightened the techniques of the figures, while simplifying the backgrounds and smoothing out large areas of brushwork. Polonsky used effects of light and space to create a symbolic representation of the real world outside.

During the past summer, an important new development appeared in his works. A recent painting, an abstraction, reveals Polonskys' characteristic lavenders, oranges and pinks that flare up and fill the canvas. The color and feathery brushwork make this painting instantly recognizable as Polonsky's despite the abstract format.

Over 100 of his works are on display and range from "Study," an oil done in 1943, through "Invalid," ink, 1949; "The Last Time," oil, 1955; "Marine Samson," charcoal, 1959; "Afternoon Dream," oil, 1963; "Earth Wave," lithograph, 1969; to "Reflected Fire," oil, 1971.

Bowen Nursery Offers New Method Of Music Education

Bowen Nursery in Newton starts off the year with a new program, the Kodaly Method of Music Education. It is directed by Dr. Irving Litwitz, a psychologist on the staff of the Children's Hospital Medical Center.

The Kodaly Method is a project which tests whether a rhythm and training program has an influence on the learning potential of children. The children may sing and act out folk and other tunes with emphasis on their own natural forms of expression such as tapping, clapping, singing, etc.

Dr. Klara Kokas of Budapest, at the Kodaly Institute in Wellesley will serve as coordinator for the nursery group designated as receiving the Kodaly instruction. Upon termination of the study they would hope to arrange meetings with parents and nursery school staff to discuss findings and implications.

Miss Ernestine Smith of Belmont is head teacher again this year. Her new assistant teacher, Miss Lucy Rava has a Master's degree from Boston University in Early Childhood Education and a Bachelor's in Art History. The student teacher, Miss Alexina Thun, is starting her second year at Bowen and is enrolled at Wheelock College.

The atmosphere at Bowen Nursery is open, informal and exciting, based on discovery and experimentation as each child is free to do his own thing, whether in clay and sticks, styrofoam sculpture, fabric and glue, or the sheer joy of large poster paint on discarded window shades.

Natural materials are used, such as wood, sand, water and pine cones, as well as machine lots, cardboard and large containers to roll, crawl through or build with.

Old clothes for dress up captures the dramatic impulse in these children and allowes them to act out desired roles with one another. Quiet corners are always available for the child who wants to look at books, listen to music or daydream.

Bowen Nursery has two groups, a morning session 5 days a week from 8:15 to 11:45 and an afternoon class Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 12 noon to 2:30 for ages 2 year 9 months and older. There is one opening in the afternoon session. If interested please call Mrs. Joan Pollack at 244-4691 for more information.

Long Wait

In 1923, private first class Takeo Senda was serving in the Japanese Imperial Army on Sakhalin Island off Siberia. A pistol being cleaned by a comrade discharged, sending a bullet into Senda's left knee. This spring the Sendai district court finally ruled that Senda, now 70 years old, was entitled to a government disability pension for the injury suffered 48 years ago.

First Meeting Of Newton Branch Alliance On Wed.

Mrs. Grace Whitmore, of West Newton, President of the Newton Branch Alliance of the First Unitarian Society, extends a special invitation to the community at large to attend the first meeting of the Alliance to be held Wednesday, October 13th at the Parish Hall of the Society. Mrs. Florence Rubin, Chairman of the Newton Charter Commission has been invited to be the opening guest speaker. The program will be held between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

The Alliance is embarking on a new format for its monthly meetings to attempt to meet the ever - demanding schedules of the new 'lifestyles' of today's women.

The new time schedules will find the meetings moved up to 11:00 a.m. for the devotional service and business meeting. Programs will begin at 11:30 a.m., and the luncheon will be served at 12:30. The programs and luncheon are open to the public and the community is invited to attend and participate in the programs.

A small luncheon fee is charged for non - members, and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Brenda Roberts, 332-5082, or Mrs. Ann Neumann, 332-1172, the day before the meeting.

This month's speaker will have much information to share with the women of the community, having been deeply involved in Newton public life for many years. In addition to her activities with the Charter Commission, Mrs. Rubin is First Vice President of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, a member of the Newton Community Relations Commission, a Director of Newton Junior College, member of the Special School Buildings Commission.

Her academic background covers a Bachelor degree from Cornell University in Chemistry, Master's degree from Columbia, a research chemist and Science teacher. Mrs. Rubin has three sons who are presently college, high school and elementary school members. Her husband, Dr. Lawrence Rubin, is a physicist.

The discussion of the new Charter proposals will be most significant at this time in view of its place on the November ballot. The nine - member Commission, which is an elected body, has before the electorate a series of proposals for new Charter for the City of Newton.

After 33 formal meetings, and three public hearings - all open to the public - and after much study and deliberation, the Charter Commission prepared a final report which includes this new Charter which is intended to modernize the Newton constitution. The last time any revisions were made to the city constitution was 74 years ago.

President of the Alliance, Mrs. Whitmore (who is also a former member of the Newton School Committee) notes that, "The proposed new charter has important implications for the future of Newton, and every citizen should become as thoroughly informed as possible to cast their ballot in a more discerning way." Mrs. Rubin will hold a question and answer period following her presentation.

Teen Actors To Stage Musical

An old-fashioned "mellerdrama" is how the Newton Library Players, a teenage repertory company sponsored by the Newton Free Library and the Newton Recreation Dept., describe their fall production, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" or "Tempted Tried or True".

The musical play will be presented Friday and Saturday, Oct. 8 and 9 at 7:30 p.m., at the Bigelow Junior High School.

The cast includes Christine Bresnahan, Stephen Brook, Andy Golov, Nancy Wolfe, George Hurley, Judy Banks, Donna Carleo, Judy Austin, Lillian Spatz, and Amy Texeira.

The pianist is Tom Temin, and the directors are Dick and Carole Power.

Admission is free, and the production is open to all ages.

Is Sargent gazing toward Washington?

Is Frank Sargent going nationwide?

Publicly and privately, the governor has discouraged such speculation. But there is more than a little evidence around that at least some members of his staff and 1970 political organization may have a touch of Potomac fever.

No one recalls with more poignancy than Sargent does the disastrous effect upon the affairs of the Commonwealth caused by John A. Volpe's devoted pursuit of the Republican nomination for Vice President in 1968, and earlier. Any suggestion that the governor has ambitions to go to Washington is bound to diminish his influence on Beacon Hill.

But continued fund-raising activity at Sargent parties around the state, maintenance of membership in the select Governor's Club and the emergence of Sargent positions on major national issues are feeding strong suspicions in and out of Republican ranks that something is in the wind.

Then too, the defeat of Sen. Charles Goodell in New York and the defection of Mayor John V. Lindsay leaves a major hole in liberal Republican ranks in the Northeast. If President Nixon should decide to dump Vice President Agnew and look this way for a running mate, Sargent might as well be ready.

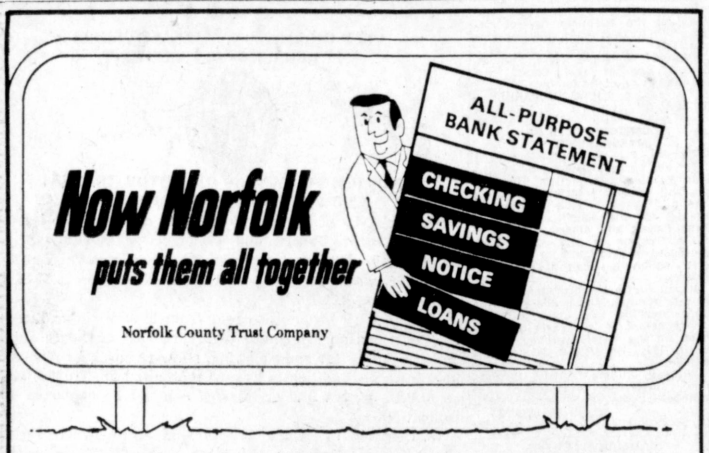

There is also the possibility that Sarge may be asked to run in the April primary next year as a "favorite son" stand-in to spare the President possible embarrassment, or to head off California Cong. Paul N. McCloskey's New Hampshire Primary raid somewhere around Crawford Notch.

Cooperation of Sargent staff members in the preparation of a magazine piece booming the governor for the 1972 Presidential nomination did nothing to allay Potomac fever suspicions. Perhaps the governor owes it to himself to indulge in some clarification.

Open Activities Program For 5th And 6th Graders

Openings are still available in the Newton Community Service Centers' Open Activities Program for fifth and sixth graders, according to Mr. G. Michael Gardner, coordinator of the activity.

The program has been developed as a result of numerous requests from the community to provide an activity which will provide the active fifth and sixth grade students with an opportunity to participate and experience a variety of pursuits. To enhance the possibility for a varied program the Centers have leased the facilities of the West Newton Armory located on Washington street, just before West Newton square.

Participants include fifth and sixth graders from all of the Newtons. Highlighting the beginning activities, Mr. Gardner stated that trips, athletics, games, craft projects and general socialization events are to be included. Concurrent activities are to be held and youngsters will participate in the planning and scheduling to insure that the programming will fall into an area of his or her particular interest.

For additional information phone the Centers at 969-5906 or visit the main office at 429 Cherry street in West Newton.

Music Series To Open At Sacred Heart On Tues.

Organ virtuoso Anthony Newman will open the seventh annual music series at Newton College of the Sacred Heart next Tuesday (Oct. 12).

The concert, which will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Chapel on Newton's Centre St. campus, will feature the works of Johann Sebastian Bach.

The renowned young organist was the recipient of a French Government Scholarship and was graduated from the Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris in 1959. Subsequently, he received his B.S. degree from the Mannes College in 1963, his M.A. in composition from Harvard University in 1965 and his doctorate from Boston University.

The concert is open to the public. A donation of $2.00 may be made at the door.

Free Library Camera Club Will Hold Meeting Monday

The first meeting of the season of the Newton Free Library Camera Club will feature two specially arranged Kodak 16mm sound films; "Films for Snapshot Cameras" and "Films for Adjustable Cameras."

President Jim Saret of the Camera Club announces the start of the '71-'72 season at the Nonatum Branch Library next Monday (Oct. 11) at 7:30 p.m. Plans for a Color Slide and Print Competition will be announced.

Arnold Kaplan of Quincy, International Photography exhibitor, award winner, lecturer and judge will be the guest speaker at the Camera Clubs' special meeting November 15 at 7:30.

Field trips, invited lecturers, and special events including joint meetings with other area camera clubs and a full series of educational movies and slide presentations from Kodak complete the Club's plans for the year.

Current club officers and Board members are James Saret, president; Philip Coyne, vice president; Hal Siegel, treasurer; Florence Coslow, secretary; H. Leo Myers, program chairman; Robert Hunt, color slide chairman; Penelope Smith, black and white photography chairman; and NECCC representative Stan Cronig.

The Library - sponsored Camera Club meets the second and fourth Monday of each month and new members are always welcome.

Braille Classes Open Oct. 25 At Newton Temple

The 1971-72 classes in Braille Transcription are now being formed in the Boston area under the sponsorship of the New England Federation of Temple Sisterhoods and the National Women's League of the United Synagogue of America.

The classes are open to anyone in the general community who feels the strong desire to be of service to blind people of all ages.

Morning Classes — 9:30 a.m. starting October 25 at Temple Mishkan Tefila, Hammond Pond Parkway, Newton.

Braille is a series of contractions and dots worked in raised symbols which a blind person interprets through his fingertips. These lessons will enable a person to transcribe from inkprint into braille with the use of a slate and stylus.

There is no charge for the course which runs for a period of approximately 25 weeks, about 1½ hours each session. The student will be expected to purchase her text book and supplies.

The registration meeting will be on Monday, October 25 — find out about the interesting, educational, and valuable work of a braillist. For further information, please contact Mrs. Edward R. Masters, 19 West Boulevard Road, Newton Centre, Ma. 02159, 527-4565.

Pelicans Flock In Summer To Star Island Vocations

Star Island, New Hampshire sends word that the island's summer denizens included a flock of Pelicans from Newton. "These birds are of the non-feathered variety; they are the employees of the Oceanic Hotel, which caters to various educational, religious, scientific, and family conferences during the ten-week summer season," according to a cheery dispatch from the Islands.

Newtonites working at the summer retreat site included Marjorie Spiller Neagle of Parker St., Newton Centre, who served as hostess for the island's museum facilities, Lexy Otis, of Walker St., Newtonville, a Newton H.S. senior worked as a waitress, and Janet Smith, of Park Pl., Newtonville, a second-year Northeastern student also worked as a waitress.

In addition to "flocking enthusiastically to their jobs every day," according to the Star Island News Service, the hotel staff puts on a weekly "Pelican Show" with talent ranging from serious choral arrangements to bizarre buffoonery. This year the group presented the musical comedy "The Fantastiks".

The Pelicans held a summer Christmas party with home-made gifts on July 25, and maintained a summer-long losing streak in weekly softball games against guests of the hotel.

Salaries are minimal, according to Star Island sources, but there is rumored to be pirate treasure cached somewhere on the Island.

Turnabout to Graduate 40 Here Tomorrow Night

Turnabout, the Boston based drug rehabilatation program, is saying thank you to the public on Friday, Oct. 8 at the Newton Armory, Washington St., Newtonville.

The occasion will mark Turnabout's second anniversary. William McCue, the group's program director, said the event is being held to show appreciation to the thousands of persons who have helped to keep the program in existence. The high-light of the evening will be the graduation of those who have successfully completed the Turnabout program. More than 40 persons will receive diplomas, McCue said.

Paul Bright, director of special services and chairman of the event, announced that Paul Benzaquin, WEEI's afternoon talk-master will be the master of ceremonies.

The Turnabout official added, other events of the evening include, a cocktail party, buffet and dance. Bright said, another important event of the evening will be the presentation of a new three-act play, "The Road Back", written and produced by project personnel.

The play demonstrates the concept used at Turnabout and attitudes of drug users as well as the changes that come about through therapy at the programs centers.

Mr. McCue said more than 3,000 invitations have been sent to persons who helped to keep Turnabout alive.

McCue started Turnabout two years ago with a telephone on the wall of the Brighton YMCA. It has grown to include a crisis intervention center in Newton, a day care center in Boston, a resident therapeutic center in Hull and a new 24 hour therapeutic center in Hingham. Other facilities include drop in centers in Hull and Brighton, three on going Careabout-Turnabout chapters and a thrift shop.

The new Hingham facility, located at the former Naval Ammunition Depot, includes the abandoned bachelor officers' quarters, another 9 room house, a barn, 2 garages and enough land for an athletic field.

Turnabout nearly collapsed early this year when funds ran out but public support brought it back to life.

The project faced a second crisis last month when Hull Health Board officials notified Turnabout they would have to move 35 excess residents at the Hull facility.

State officials intervened and helped gain federal approval to take over the Hingham site. Bill McCue noted that Turnabout has a good reason to say "thank you" on Oct. 8th.

DAR Chapt. To Hear Lecture On Books Oct. 18

On Monday, October 18, Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, DAR, will present Mrs. Beryl Robinson, in "A Morning With Books." The benefit lecture will be held in the Workshop, 72 Columbus Street, Newton Highlands.

A coffee hour will precede the introduction of Mrs. Robinson, who will speak at 10:30. Mrs. Douglas L. Eckhardt is in charge of refreshments.

Superintending the accompanying Food Sale is Mrs. Joseph P. Maloney, assisted by Mrs. Sterling G. Thomas and Mrs. Joseph P. Toussaint. A large selection of home made rolls, pies, cakes, fruit breads and cookies will be offered.

Proceeds from both lecture and food sale will go toward the Chapter's project of helping students at Hillside School for Boys, Marlborough. Two fifty-dollar scholarships are given annually, rewarding students proficient in American History, besides "history prizes" in February, American History Month.

When Natural Gas heat comes into your home it brings along a good friend

Of course Boston Gas and your independent Gas Heating Contractor appreciate it when you decide to change to Natural Gas heat. What we appreciate even more is the chance to show you what kind of people we are after you switch. That's when you can tell people care about you as a person, not as "just another customer." And that's when you can expect your contractor's personal installation work to be as dependable as Natural Gas heat itself. Because it is.

Your Gas Heating Contractor is easy to reach, reliable and efficient. Call and find out for yourself.

And if you change to Natural Gas heat now, there's even a little bonus: We'll arrange to remove your old oil tank at no charge. And we'll save you from the "Montreal Express."

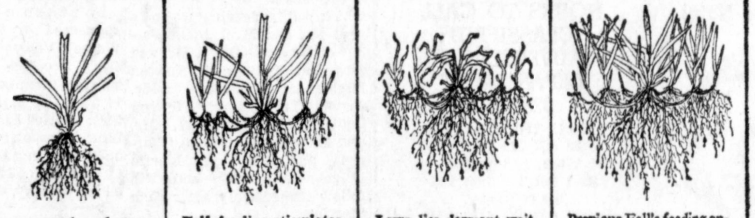

HERE ARE HEATING CONTRACTORS WHO HAVE SOLD AND INSTALLED GAS HEATING FOR BOSTON GAS CUSTOMERS.

Why it pays to feed a lawn in Fall

The Fall-fed Lawn

Summer-weakened grass needs feeding badly to "bounce back" from hot weather and wear and tear.

Fall feeding stimulates root and rhizome growth. Encourages new side shoots (tillers) and restores good green color.

Lawn lies dormant waiting for Spring weather to start the growth cycle again.

Previous Fall's feeding encourages early green-up. Last Fall's new tillers and rhizomes develop rapidly making thick green turf.

To fertilize your lawn this Fall we recommend Scotts TURF BUILDER. It is the prolonged-release fertilizer that gives up it nutrients only as the grass needs them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing. Instead TURF BUILDER makes your lawn grow thicker, greener and sturdier. TURF BUILDER is a pleasure to use it's clean, odorless and light in weight. This week end would be a great time.

"SCHOOL'S OPEN" BUMPER WARNING—Chief William F. Quinn, Sgt. Charles E. Feeley, and Patricia Burke of the American Automobile Association display the 1000th (School's Open) bumper sticker to be distributed by the Newton Police Department in the "School's Open" safety program conducted by the AAA and the Boston Auto Club.

Split on Housing, Schools At Thurs. Candidates Forum

Candidates divided on the issues of low-income housing, the city charter and school expenditures in a mayoral candidates' night held Thursday evening at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

Alan G. MacNeil criticized "constant experimenting" and called for an end to wasted administrative expenditures in the School Department.

Rep. Paul F. Malloy suggested budgeting changes to show how much was spent on each school, while Rep. Theodore Mann suggested increased use of closed-circuit T.V. to cut down on the need for additional teachers' salaries. Mann also suggested a "watchdog" commission on finances, to examine all city expenditures.

Carmen said that rather than press for savings from the School Department, he would try to pare expenditures in Public Works and other branches of city government under the direct control of the mayor. A recent report, according to Carmen, stated that $2 million could be saved in operations of the Public Works Department.

On housing, MacNeil said he was opposed to the Newton Community Development Foundation (NCDF), and Malloy said he was opposed to NCDF but not to low-income housing in Newton, while Mann said he was opposed to the particular six NCDF sites now before the state Housing Appeals Board.

Carmen said he would "stand on his record", having been chairman of the Housing Authority when the NHA built housing for the elderly in Newton.

Malloy and Carmen endorsed the charter, while Mann and MacNeil opposed it.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR GLAUCOMA CLINIC — Mayor Monte G .Basas (seated) flanked by John Athans, M.D., Commissioner of Health for the City of Newton left and Victor A. Exact Fare System to Start on MBTA Oct. 11

Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority general manager Joseph C. Kelly announced today that an exact fare system will begin on Monday, October 11, on all of the Authority's surface vehicles - buses, streetcars and trackless trolleys.

"We are going to the exact fare for one main reason," Kelly said, "the safety of our operators and our passengers. Experience in other cities has proven that an exact fare system has eliminated robberies and robbery - related assaults on bus drivers. And what has been successful in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Washington D. C., Detroit, and Cleveland will work in Boston," Kelly stated. "I know that we will have the co - operation of all our riders."

The MBTA exact fare system simply means that, beginning October 11, any passenger boarding a bus, streetcar or trackless trolley must have the exact fare. The drivers will carry no money and will not make change. The exact fare will be deposited in a locked farebox that the operator cannot open.

Change may be obtained at all MBTA collector's booths at rapid transit stations and MBTA officials stressed the importance of this fact to homeward bound commuters who ride a rapid transit line fron downtown Boston and then take a surface vehicle home necessitating payment of a fare when they alight. They are urged to be sure to get enough change fron the collector to pay the exact fare on the surface vehicle.

Should a passenger forget to obtain change and have nothing but bills, the Authority has devised a form of redeemable script. The passenger gives the driver a bill and receives a small piece of paper called "script" with the denomination of the bill and the amount of the fare punched. The bill and a similarily punched script are put into a small envelope and deposited in the locked farebox. The passenger can obtain his change by presenting his script at the Cashier's Office of the Authority at 500 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Zimbler Exhibit At Newton Bank

Paintings by Lillian Matzkin Zimbler, in the style of the French Impressionists, are on exhibit until Nov. 5 at the Newton Savings Bank in Newton Centre.

Mrs. Zimbler has had several previous exhibits and one-man shows in New England. Portraits, landscapes, seascapes, still-lifes, flower - pieces, etc. by Mrs. Zimbler may be seen at the Matzkin Zimbler Gallery in Newton, tel. 969-0541.

PTA Council To Sponsor Five Candidates' Forums

The Newton Council of PTAs, in co-sponsorship with the League of Women Voters of Newton, is completing arrangements to provide five candidates' forums to present School Committee.

The PTA Boards of each of the Junior High Schools will serve as special hosts at these meetings which are scheduled to be held at 7:30 on: October 18th (Day), October 20th (Weeks), October 21st (Meadowbrook), October 27th (Warren), and October 28th (Bigelow). Information on the proposed new Charter will also be presented at each of the meetings.

This is the third year the Council has presented such opportunities for the residents in the community at large to get out and meet and hear all the candidates seeking election to this office so vital to the quality of education in Newton.

In co-sponsoring with the Council, the League will depart this year from its traditional practice of presenting all the candidates for public office at one meeting, and will therefore only be presenting the Mayoral and Aldermanic candidates at its own annual forum to be held this year on October 26th at the Newton South High School.

President of the League, Mrs. Ellen Lipson, stated that it was felt that this year the large numbers of candidates for the various offices in this city make it very difficult to provide adequate exposure to candidates for the office of school committee at the regular LWV Candidates' Night. "This new approach," she noted, "is an attempt to give the voters additional opportunity to more thoroughly evaluate the merits of all candidates."

Mrs. Ernest H. Picard of Newton Centre, Program Chairman of the PTA Council and Mrs. Myron Simon of W. Newton, Voter's Chairman of the LWV, are serving as co-chairmen of these events. They are most anxious that members of the community take advantage of this unique opportunity to get to know their candidates.

Presidents of the PTAs which will be serving as hosts are: Mr. and Mrs. John Webber of Newton (Day), Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ryter of Newton Highlands (Weeks), Mr. Arnold Lezberg of Newton Centre (Meadowbrook), Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Galton (Warren), and Mrs. John Martin (Bigelow). A coffee hour will follow immediately after each meeting.

Pratt Skeptical of Plan To Recycle Waste Paper

Public Works Commissioner Willard Pratt expressed skepticism last week over a proposal to recycle paper collected by Newton trash trucks.

Bid invitations went out Thursday from the Purchasing Dept. to 37 waste paper dealers to find out how much they would pay the city per ton for waste paper.

Two prices were requested: one, for pickup and delivery by the city, two, for pickup by the dealer from a central collection point.

Public Works Commissioner Pratt, who must evaluate all the bids, said he thought the proposal was a political gesture and that he had not been consulted.

"When I see what the prices are, when I see what the problems are, I will make my estimate on the proposal," Pratt said. "After I see what the costs are, I will investigate what it would cost the city to pick up the papers." Bids are due back Oct. 14.

Alderman William Carmen, who sponsored the recycling proposal, is recycling papers at his campaign headquarters, and receiving $6 per ton for waste paper, aides report.

A related proposal asked Purchasing Director William Dery to investigate the cost of purchasing recycled paper for city use.

Dery stated that bids are being sought on recycled paper for use by the city and the school department, but that the only genuinely recycled paper he had seen was for use in cardboard boxes.

Newsprint has too much ink to be used for paper towels, toilet tissue, etc., Dery explained, adding that paper which comes marked 'recycled' frequently turns out to be made of tailings and clippings normally re-used as part of the paper-making process.

League of Women Voters Launches Annual Drive

The annual fund drive of the League of Women Voters begins this week. Contributions may be sent to 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands.

League activities include sponsorship of candidates' nights and the publishing of a voters' guide.

League members also observe at all Aldermanic School Committee and Housing Authority Meetings; assist with voter registration; and study in depth issues and units of government.

This year studies are being prepared by members of the League of Women Voters of Newton on the Newton Charter Commission Report, Newton's Open Space and Recreation Facilities, the Massachusetts Judicial System, Massachusetts Laws on Birth Control and Abortion, the U.S. Congress, and the Management of Solid Waste.

Forthcoming events sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Newton include a coffee hour for prospective members on October 14 at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Lipson, 5 Malubar Lane, Newton Center and an open meeting on the Charter of the City of Newton scheduled for Sunday, October 17, 8:00 p.m. at the Peirce School to which the nine-member Charter Commission has been invited.

Candidates' Night for the offices of Mayor and Aldermen will be held October 26 at Newton South High School at 7:30 p.m.

All meetings of League of Women Voters of Newton are free and open to the public. For more information, call Membership Chairman Mrs. Yonathan Bard, 244-7688.

Scholarship Association Telethon Held

A highly successful Telethon was held this week by the Women's Scholarship Association at the Chestnut Hill office of Bache & Co. Over 150 new members and 5 life members were recruited at this event, headed by Mrs. Melvin Bardin and Mrs. Carl Ostroff, Mrs. Hyman Waldman is Chairman of Membership. Life Membership Chairmen are Mrs. Lawrence Phillips of Newton and Mrs. David Kosowsky of Newton.

Association President is Mrs. Stanley Golembe of Newton.

Hospital Plans Dedication Of New Pharmacy

Contributors to the new Wilfred Chagnon Memorial Pharmacy at Newton-Wellesley Hospital are invited to a formal dedication of the new facility at 4:00 p.m., October 12, in Usen Auditorium.

Hospital Trustee, Murray Sholkin, co-chairman of the Memorial Fund Committee, has arranged the event which will include tours of the Pharmacy.

Mr. Chagnon, to whose memory the Pharmacy has been dedicated, was former President and Treasurer of the Hubbard Drug Company, Newton. In addition to his active participation in community and civic affairs here, he was known nationally in the pharmaceutical field.

Relocation of the Pharmacy in its new quarters has enlarged the facility. It is staffed by six registered pharmacists, 2 registered part-time pharmacists, and four pre-pharmacy students who are part of the Northeastern cooperative program. It regularly fills some 300 in-patient prescriptions a day, which may account for as many as 500 individual items.

Weeks Jr. High PTA Plans Two Open Meetings

The Weeks Jr. High School PTA in Newton Centre will hold two Open House meetings this coming week Tuesday evening, October 12 at 7:30 p.m. and Monday evening, October 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday evening, October 12, has been set aside for parents of the seventh and eighth grade students and Monday evening October 18, the parents of the ninth grade students have been asked to come.

PTA Presidents Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ryter will conduct a regular business meeting after which our acting Principal, Mr. Irwin Blumer will introduce the teachers.

At this meeting, parents will also have the opportunity to visit the classrooms and meet with their children's teachers.

Free Glaucoma Eye Tests At City Hall On Wednesday

For the first time, Newton residents can have their eyes tested for glaucoma free of charge. The program will take place at Newton City Hall in the cafeteria, Wednesday, October 13, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The program is jointly sponsored by the Newton Lions Club, the Newton Health Department, and the Ophthalmology Department of Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Cooperating in the program are Ralph Hinckley, M.D., Chief of the Ophthalmology Department of Newton-Wellesley Hospital; John Athans, M.D. Commissioner of Health for the City of Newton, and Victor A. Nicolazzo, Chairman of the Glaucoma Clinic for the Newton Lions Club.

Glaucoma is a serious eye disease which is characterized by high pressure inside the eyeball causing damage to the optic nerve at the back of the eye.

Unless this is controlled early in the course of the disease it can lead to blindness. If diagnosed in time, glaucoma can be well controlled in a large majority of cases by eye drops.

All Newton residents are invited to take advantage of this free service by attending the Clinic on Wednesday, October 13, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. There is absolutely no charge and no appointment is necessary.

Golden age residents may call 244-4519 for free transportation. Members of the Newton Lions Club will provide transportation to and from the Clinic at the Newton City Hall.

New Education Graduate Program At Sacred Heart

To meet the need for teachers better trained to understand and to work with rapidly changing educational concepts and innovations, Newton College of the Sacred Heart has recently begun a new graduate program, The Institute for Open Educaton.

The program, leading to the degree of Master of Philosophy (in Education) began this summer under the direction of the college's new Academic Dean, John Bremer.

In describing the exciting project, Bremer outlined three principles for training prospective teachers. The fundamental problem of professional training programs, he noted, and the purpose of this program is the maintaining of a balance of these principles:

— to help the prospective teacher to know, understand and respect the educational system for what it is; to see what it can and cannot do; and to be able to work within it, without succumbing to it.

— to envision the possibilities of renewal, the new forms, structures and purposes which can be developed out of the exciting school system in a continuous, emergent manner.

— to regard teaching as a helping and enabling activity through which others can achieve their purposes.

The first segment of the Master's Program, which this year began in June, lasted for seven weeks. The central focus was the personal and professional growth of the participants.

Faculty and students examined their own approach to teaching and learning within the structure provided. Through the matrix they were active in learning groups organized around the following foci: a common text, the function of professional roles, a topic of study, a nonverbal workshop, a lecture series. The core matrix was supplemented by a film series, several guest lectures, additional workshops and special field trips.

The first component of the program aims at preparing the student to take full advantage of the learning opportunities of the internship, ths second component, which take place in a regular professional setting. A large proportion of the student body is made up of experienced, practising teachers who can continue in their regular salaried positions.

The internship is primarily concerned with helping the student develop the professional skills through which subject matter can be made of use to the school students. It also affords an opportunity for diagnosis of special difficulties including lack of subject matter mastery. These difficulties have to be attended to, and provision is made in the third component for this remedy.

The college is involved in placement of interns in suburban and urban systems, parochial schools and independent schools. They will be placed, as far as possible, in groups so that throughout the year they will be able to support each other, day by day, and hold regular group meetings for mutual encouragement and for the exploration of common problems. The groups will be linked by a weekly newsletter containing personal and professional items.

Hospital Aid Fundraising Party Slated

Saturday, Oct. 9th from 11 'til 5

H.H. SCOTT® tuner clinic

The Scott Tuner Clinic will check your tuner (or the tuner section of your receiver) free of charge, to make sure you're getting the performance you paid for. In addition, Scott measurements will tell you how your tuner will perform in areas other than your present location. In testing your tuner's sensitivity, for example, the Scott Clinic gives good indication of how well your unit will receive broadcasts in a weak signal area (where perhaps an antenna might be necessary). A graph of your tuner's quieting curve, showing the ultimate quieting figure, will give you an idea of the clarity of reception to be expected under almost any signal condition. Stereo separation at different frequencies will be determined, providing a measure of your tuner's effectiveness in turning a stereo radio signal into realistic stereo music. Tech Hifi invites you to compare the performance of your receiver's tuner with the tuners of the new Scott receivers, Models 357, 367, 377 and 477. For the enthusiast who prefers totally separate components, Scott has introduced the Models 431 and 433 tuners. Be sure to check out the 433, the first digital readout, card-selected tuner.

Although Scott's clinic will be of value to anyone who uses the tuner section of his music system, Tech Hifi recommends it especially to those who tape "off the air". As we have emphasized before, the purity of the final performance of your music system can be no better than the purity of the music source.

Introducing the new Scott 357 in a $349 music system

Tech Hifi was impressed by the appearance of the new H.H.Scott units at the Chicago Hifi Show. More recently, we received our first sample of the Model 357 AM/FM receiverand we were really pleased after we'd put it on our test bench. Here's what we found out about the amplifier section: 50 watts RMS into 8 ohms from 25 Hz to 20 kHz. Less than 0.7% harmonic distortion at rated output. A 75 dB signal to noise ratio. Up to 50 dB stereo separation. The tuner section tested out equally well: FM sensitivity of 2.5 microvolts. A 65 dB signal to noise ratio. A 2.5 dB capture ratio. Less than 0.6% harmonic harmonic distortion. Channel separation of 30 dB. 40 dB selectivity. We were equally impressed with the features available .

Tech Hifi has been lucky enough to get one of the early shipments of the Scott 357 receiver, and we've designed a system around this unit that gives value at the price.

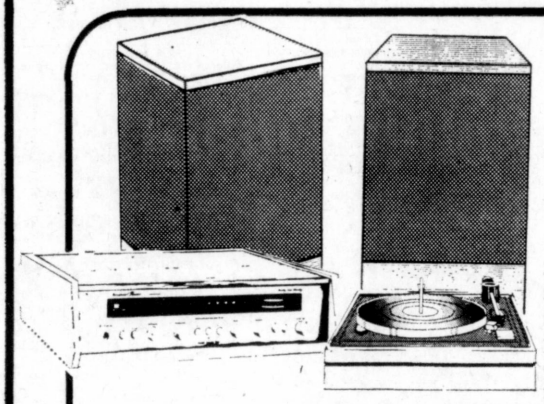

We matched the receiver with a pair of Dynaco A-25 Aperiodic loudspeaker systems. This speaker got an outstanding review in the leading consumer testing magazine, and the reviewer of one of the audio magazines said,"We will even go so far as to say that they are probably the best buy in high fidelity today.".

The BSR 510X turntable used in this system has all the most important features. A synchronus motor driving a cast and machined platter assure constant, accurate speed. Damped cueing, low mass tone arm with low bearing friction, micrometer calibrated stylus pressure setting, muting, pop filter, base and dustcover... if there's a useful feature needful, this BSR 510X has it. The BSR factory even installed a Shure M75 cartridge with diamond stylus to insure optimum performance. We've priced this system at $349.00 - $110.00 under List Price.

Enjoy special savings at TECH HIFI on this Marantz music system $549 List price $765

Tech Hifi took advantage of an opportunity to buy a large number of these Marantz Model 25 receivers at a price which makes this system a particular performance value. The Model 25 is the same as the famous Marantz Model 27, but features a factory-installed oiled walnut case instead of the 27's metal case. You get 60 watts RMS into 8 ohms over the full audio range, plus a 2.8 microvolt FM sensitivity combined with less than 0.3% distortion and a 3 dB capture ratio. The 25's features include a headphone jack, provision for remote speakers, separate bass and treble controls for each channel, tape monitoring, FET and IC circuitry, oversize signal strength meter, loudness contouring and muting - all covered by the Marantz three year parts and labor "Golden Warranty".

The Bose 501 is a floor-standing speaker system that gives you the benefit of Professor Bose's DIRECT/REFLECTED™ sound principle for only $250 per pair. Each Bose 501 contains a 10 inch woofer and two 3½ inch tweeters in a 15" by 15" by 24" walnut finish enclosure. Rave reviews of the sort received by the Bose 901's are now being given to the 501's as well. Listen, and we feel you'll write your own rave review.

The Miracord 620U automatic turntable features feathertouch pushbutton operation, a low friction, low mass tonearm, damped cueing that protects your stylus and records, a heavy, pressure-formed platter and a powerful, high torque, four pole induction motor for smooth, steady operation. The 620U is an improved version of the 620, recommended as a top value by the leading independent consumer testing lab. Molded walnut finish base and bronze tinted operating dustcover are included.

The ADC 230XE magnetic cartridge with diamond stylus is provided as the ideal match for this reliable turntable.

marantz® amplifier clinic

The Marantz Audio Analysis Program will check your amplifier or the amplifier portion of your receiver, free of charge, to make sure you're getting the performance you paid for. Marantz will check harmonic distortion - a measure of how "purely" your amplifier reproduces music; intermodulation distortion - which can cause listening fatigue; and signal to noise ratio - a measure of how quiet your amplifier is during soft passages. Poor performance in any one of these areas could be the reason for your music system sounding less than satisfactory. While your unit is being tested, Tech Hifi invites you to examine the superb performance of the new Marantz receivers, Models 2215, 2230, 2245 and 2270. All of these units provide their full rated performance over the entire audio range (including the critical bass frequencies, where many other units fail to perform adequately). If time permits, Marantz technicians may be able to provide descriptive graphs of the action of the tone controls or filters on your unit. As we described in our previous flyer, proper use of these tonal controls can make a very positive contribution to your listening pleasure. In addition to giving you the state of your amplifier's health, and adding to your knowledge of its actual performance specifications, Tech Hifi hopes this clinic will help anyone understand a bit more about what goes into a quality component system.

AFL-CIO, C. OF C. DIFFER ON CORPORATE TAX CUTS

THE AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed Wednesday over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The dispute occurred before the Senate Finance Committee, which is expected to side with the chamber and pass nearly intact President Nixon's bill to cut corporate taxes by a total of $78 billion and individual incomes by $13 billion over the next decade. Wednesday's disagreement centered on the bill's 7 per cent investment tax credit provision, which would provide $52 billion in tax relief to encourage expansion of machinery and equipment. Robert B. Statham, the chamber's finance manager, argued that in the past U.S. business was able to meet foreign competition because it had more modern equipment. "Now we are competing with cheap labor that is using the most modern machinery and equipment — in many cases more modern than our own," he said. "If you adopt a tax policy that encourages the replacement of obsolete and inefficient plant machinery and equipment, American enterprise will outproduce its rivals, provide jobs at the highest wages on earth and maintain American leadership in the world markets. "But Andrew J. Biemiller, chief AFL-CIO lobbyist, said the tax cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit and pollution control. What the economy and corporations lack at present is customers and jobs — not labor-saving equipment machinery." The dispute focuses on the 7 per cent investment tax credit.

LAIRD TO VISIT VIETNAM FOR WITHDRAWAL ASSESSMENT

DEFENSE SECRETARY Melvin R. Laird said Wednesday he would go to Vietnam just before President Nixon's eighth withdrawal announcement in November to give him a last-minute assessment of how many more Americans can be brought home. He said he was making the trip — his fourth as defense secretary — at the request of the President and would be accompanied by Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Laird said U.S. strength in Vietnam has dropped from a high of 543,400 men in 1969 to 210,000 and "I can assure you that we will meet or beat the President's goal of 184,000 by Dec. 1." There has been considerable speculation that Nixon's announcement, expected about Nov. 15, might order the U.S. presence in Vietnam down to a residual force of 50,000 or less by next spring. The President has cautioned reporters on speculating how large the new troop cut might be. Laird offered no hint how large a cut was being considered. He said simply that Nixon had ordered the report before the middle of November.

HUMPHREY, McGOVERN URGE FREE MEAL DAILY FOR STUDENTS

SENS. HUBERT H. HUMPHREY and George S. McGovern proposed Wednesday that each of the nearly 25 million grammar and high school students in America get at least one free meal each day they attend classes. Neither offered any estimate of the total cost of the plan, but they agreed federal government should pay 80 per cent of the cost of each meal. Testifying before McGovern's Senate Select Committee on Hunger, Humphrey said the present program of providing free lunches only for the poorest children had created "economic segregation by separating school children into those who pay and those who do not." He said it is "an unnatural distinction which the public and private schools have dropped when it arose in relation to books, transportation, physical education, health and other common services." McGovern's committee is holding its first hearings on a bill Humphrey introduced Sept. 28. Under it, every child in a day care center, grammar or high school, would receive a free meal if he chose to eat it.

RUSSIA AGREES TO STRENGTHEN EGYPT'S FORCES

THE SOVIET UNION has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces following an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced Wednesday. A Radio Moscow broadcast and Tass Agency dispatch summarized highlights of a joint communique issued upon the completion of a three-day visit by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for talks with the Soviet troika: Communist Party Chairman Leonid I. Breshnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorney. The Russian pledge of assistance to Egypt was coupled with a condemnation of "anti-communist and anti-sovietism" in the Arab world. In Jerusalem, meantime, the Israeli government said it was still willing to negotiate a partial peace agreement with Egypt but only under its already-stated conditions. Israeli newspapers hailed the statement as one of unity and strength in the face of what was called the "erosion" of the U.S. diplomatic policy in the Middle East.

COMMUNISTS BLOW UP 5 HELICOPTERS AT VIETNAM BASE

COMMUNIST COMMANDOS blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon Wednesday in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling Di An base, scene of a 1969 visit by President Nixon during a one-day trip to Vietnam, and laid at least six satchel charges inside UH1 Huey helicopters parked there, spokesmen said. As they were leaving, an American guard spotted two of them, but before he could fire a shot, five of the satchels went off, destroying two Hueys and doing what was described as "heavy damage" to three others. The guerrillas escaped in the early morning darkness. It was the fourth attack on a U.S. helicopter base in South Vietnam in the last three months. An 18-day-old Communist offensive against Krek, last South Vietnamese foothold in the Cambodian rubber country and its supporting bases inside South Vietnam, continued Wednesday at a somewhat reduced pace from that of the previous day.

SARGENT SIGNS BILL ESTABLISHING HOUSING COURT

GOV. FRANCIS W. SARGENT signed a bill Wednesday establishing a Housing Court for Boston which will have jurisdiction over all disputes between tenants and landlords involving the condition of housing. "Today I sign the first bill in the nation that creates not only a specific housing court but a housing court with equity powers," the governor said. "This is a landmark piece of legislation — one that establishes a housing specialist in the judiciary with the real authority to do the job." He added: "The story of deteriorating housing in the city of Boston and the failure to arrest it is well known. Boston lost more of its housing stock during the last decade due to deterioration than all the new housing built." The bill will give Sargent the patronage power to appoint a new judge at a salary of about $26,000 per year.

102 Years Old

Friends bearing flowers greeted Miss Florence Kieser at the Baptist Home of Massachusetts on Commonwealth Ave., on the occasion of her 102nd birthday Oct. 1. Miss Kieser, a former Newton Centre resident, was born in Roxbury in 1869 and came to the Baptist Home in 1949. On her 100th birthday, she had a big party, including a visit from the Mayor of Newton and telegrams from the Governor of Massachusetts and the President of the United States, but since then, has preferred quiet celebrations.

Decision Reversed On Zone Change For Falls

Turning off the all-clear signal to the Newton Redevelopment Authority the Aldermanic Land Use Committee Tuesday night reversed its last week's decision to approve zoning changes for to private residence and limited manufacturing in the Newton Lower Falls Project Area.

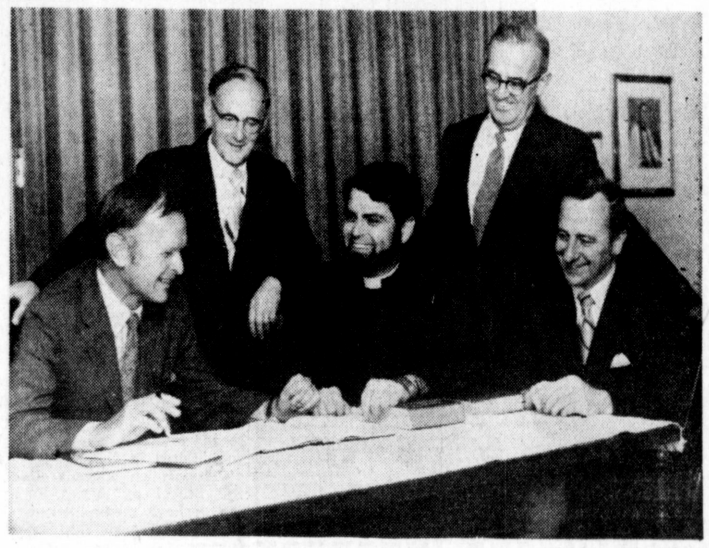

Stated purpose of the aldermen who moved reconsideration of the zoning change was to keep a watchful eye on the actions of the NRA. Relations between the aldermen and the NRA have been tense since former NRA chairman Mario DeCarlo was involved in a dispute with Land Use Committee members over bidding procedures in selecting a developer for the project.

The aldermen had pressured the NRA to throw out the first set of bids received on the grounds that the bidding period was too brief to allow most developers not familiar with the project to prepare plans.

After this dispute the Land Use Committee for nearly a year made approval of the manufacturing zone contingent on the resignation of DiCarlo from the NRA chairmanship, on the grounds that he didn't get along with people in the Project Area. DiCarlo resigned last spring, but his resignation was not accepted by NRA members until September.

Canvassing Ban Weighed

Some aldermen can advocate Legislation and Rules Chairman Eliot Cohen's anti-canvassing ordinance on the basis of personal experience.

"When I walked into my house the other day, there was a kid there, and when I asked him what company he worked for he ran away," declared Alderman Richard Bullwinkle.

The ordinance is designed to prevent thefts by imposters who "case" a house under the pretense of door-to-door selling schemes.

On hand to negotiate for changes in the proposed ordinance were representatives of Avon and Tupperware products, who contended that licenses required by the proposed ordinance would cause unnecessary procedural hassles for their sales force of neighborhood women,

Boston State Seen Taking Local Site

The Chestnut Hill Country Club in Newton is slated to become the site of part of Boston State College, according to information received by the Graphic this week.

Located on Algonquin St., near Commonwealth Ave., the golf club's 95 acres apparently will be sold to the State for an unusual, new educational venture jointly sponsored by the Boards of Trustees of the State College and of the Community Colleges.

The Board of Governors of the Club was making no comment as the Graphic went to press, but Senator James Kelly of Oxford, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, was expected to tack an amendment onto the capital outlay bill for higher education which would appropriate money to purchase the Newton property.

Boston State College is now located at two sites in Boston. Its main campus is at Huntington and Longwood Avenues in Roxbury. Another campus is located a few blocks away on Ipswich St. behind Fenway Park in what was once the Internal Revenue Service Building. The college has a day-time enrollment of about 5800 students.

Mayor Charges Bias In Charter Summary

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has criticized the language to be used on the ballot in summarizing the proposed new charter. Basbas called the summary "editorial, and not in a strict sense a summary." Printed copies of the charter, containing the summary on the front cover, arrived in City offices Tuesday.

The City Solicitor's office backed up the Mayor's statement, saying that the "summary would be unfair to the voters, because it contains conclusions."

"The summary should be a summary of the facts, not an opinion on the effect of changes in the charter," declared City Solicitor Melvin Dangel, adding that because the summary "in some areas prevents the voters from making his own judgement," it could open the city to a suit to have the results of the election on the charter question invalidated.

Eliot Cohen, chairman of te Aldermanic Committee on Legislation and Rules, which recently discussed the charter summary, stated that there was some feeling also at the Attorney General's office that the summary was not impartial.

Board Meeting Has Kindergarten Theme

At Tuesday night's School Committee meeting a report was made on the Newton Kindergarten programs and schedules being held this fall.

The open session, held at the Administration Building on Watertown St., drew a large audience which included kindergarten instructors in the Newton School System and various candidates for School Committee membership.

Henry H. Atkins, Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Program, presented a lengthy progress report on the Kindergartens, a report which was enhanced greatly by the showing of film clippings shot in spontaneous classroom situations.

Edwin Hawkridge, Committee member from Ward 5, lauded Mr. Atkins' speech and Tax Repeal Move May Cause Havoc in State Government

A move is underway by the Conservative Party in Massachusetts which could disrupt and raise havoc with the orderly operation of the State government.

The conservatives are now staging a drive to obtain the valid signatures of 28,000 voters in order to place on next year's Presidential ballot the question of whether Governor Sargent's $212 million tax program should be repealed.

There is little doubt that the Conservative Party will collect the necessary signatures to place the tax issue on the ballot and even less question that the voters will throw out the new taxes if they have an opportunity to do so.

What Does It Take To Get A Stop Sign?

"It's the same old story - someone has to get killed before you get a stop sign," declared Alderman Michael Lipof at a recent Board of Aldermen's meeting.

He was speaking in support of a motion to re-open the question of a traffic sign for Lawmarissa road and Caroline park.

The petition for a stop sign was turned down by the Street Traffic Committee and the Traffic Commission on grounds that the site does not meet State Department of Public Works requirements.

Street Traffic Committeeman Chairman Matthew Jefferson said there must be two collisions within a year of the application or limited visibility making the approach unsafe above 10 miles per hour to qualify for a stop sign.

Alderman Sidney Small declared that there have been not only three accidents at Lawmarissa road but three accidents within three weeks time.

One youngster was in the hospital four months as a result of an accident at the intersection, he asserted.

Small urged the Street Traffic Committee to "put up a good argument" before the DPW at the next meeting of our committee. "I

Pastor To Occupy 2 Church Pulpits

The Rev. William Charles Lowe has been called to serve as Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Newtonville, and the Church of the Messiah (Episcopal), Auburndale.

The two churches under Mr. Lowe's rectorship are embarking on a new experience, particularly in the City of Newton, whereby the individual identity of each parish will be retained but they will join together for various programs and activities and the combining of resources for furthering community outreach.

Mr. Lowe is a native of Pasadena, Cal. and a graduate of its High School. He holds a B.A Degree from Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York, and the B.D. Degree from the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.

While at Bard, where he majored in Religion and Ancient Languages, he was a William E. Thorne Scholar. Then followed a year of graduate theological study at Cuddesdon College, Oxford, England, under the sponsorship of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

His background further includes business experience and service with the United States Army.

In June of 1969, The Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr. ordained Mr. Lowe as a Deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church. His ordination to the Priesthood followed in may of State Okays Ward Lines

The State Legislature has accepted, and the Board of Aldermen have approved new Ward and Precinct lines. This means that Newton Voters will have only two years, instead of a possible 13, to vote in "swing" precincts. The new Ward lines will be effective for the 1974 state elections.

The "swing" precincts came about as a result of redistricting, which necessitated a redrawing of Ward lines to even out populations between more and less populous wards.

the movie, calling it "the finest presentation I've seen here." Mr. Hawkridge was named Acting Chairman of the School Committee meeting at the start of the evening. Manuel Beckwith, the Chairman, was absent on account of illness.

Mr. Atkins had drawn up an eight-page progress report on the scheduling of the Kindergarten classes. A Massachusetts law passed recently requires that by September, 1973 all towns hold Kindergarten classes two and one-half hours every day five days a week.

Newton Kindergartens currently hold morning and afternoon sessions. The children in the morning classes are already fulfilling the state mandate, but those attending programs in the afternoon do not go on one day, Tuesday, leaving a two and one-half hour discrepancy.

Tuesday afternoons are filled by a school system-wide workshop. In order to comply with the Mass. law within two years, said Mr. Atkins, attention must be paid to "a painful shifting of priorities.

"We're looking for flexibility, not just hours." He noted that a state law must be followed, but the main concern is providing better education for the children.

Adding an additional two and one-half hours a week to the afternoon sessions is a problem which Mr. Atkins is striving for; he plans to add more parents to his committee this fall to help him in computing "a workable schedule of hours."

The audio-visual film presented was shown on closed-circuit television, and was a graphic report on the Primary Education classes, which feature the mingling of Kindergarten pupils with first and second graders. The clippings were taken in the classroom of Mrs. Helen Jones at Oak Hill School by James Robison, school media technologist, and his assistant, James Morrow.

There were completely spontaneous and candid shots of the children interacting. "We see children in real involvement," stated Mr. Atkins; "children acting with the written and spoken word, learning how to relate to each other, acquiring coordination, and acting as teachers."

Alderman Harrington, on the other hand, contended that former Chairman DiCarlo controlls three votes on the Authority, while Davidson could only count on two, and that the new chairman might well be voted out again in January.

McDonnell noted that when bid invitations went out to developers for the first time early in 1970, "the Authority didn't even think about coming to us for rezoning before they acted. So it's foolish to talk as if we (the Land Use Cmmittee) are holding up the project." Barkin countered, "I wouldn't want to spend $1,000 on plans if the zoning had not been approved."

Insisting that bids should be sought before the zoning change is approved McDonnell said: "It's fortunate that we didn't rezone the first time." The aldermen in 1970 persuaded the Redevelopment Authority to throw out the original bids, he reminded committee members on the grounds that the time allowed for advertising the bid was too short, and might have worked in favor of developers who already knew about the project.

When discussion turned to the redevelopment plan, Jefferson asked that the record be searched to find out what had happened to an amendment he proposed that provided that housing must be built before tenants were removed from the area. "Half the people are no longer there, and no housing has been provided" agreed Carmen.

The stage is set for a showdown on rezoning in two weeks. Barkin expressed an intention to try to override the committee vote at the Oct. 18 meeting of the full Board of Aldermen. "Perhaps the NRA would prefer to go out to bid without pressing for rezoning," warned McDonnell. "If you try to move rezoning, there's a real possibility it will be defeated."

One man was bound to be disappointed when the Aldermanic Land Use Committee Tuesday night withdrew approval for zoning changes in the Newton Lower Falls Redevelopment Area.

That man is Robert Davidson, newly elected Chairman of the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

Davidson, who appeared before the Land Use Committee last week to argue the case for rezoning, came away with what he thought was the go-ahead signal for getting the project on the road.

Davidson told the Land Use Committee last week that the zone chang ewould make it possible for the Authority to advertise for bidders to develop the manufacturing zone. "When the development wasn't clarified by law (before the area was re-zoned) many bona fide bidders would not bid at all," Davidson claimed it.

He added that if the rezoning were approved by the full Board of Aldermen, which requires a two-thirds vote, he would begin "pre-advertising" within a month or six weeks.

In securing a developer for the parcel, Davidson planned a month of pre-advertising" in developers' trade magazines to generate interest in the project, followed by a six-week or 60-day bidding.

A developer selected by the NRA in 1970 when the Authority was under the chairman ship of Mario DiCarlo was rejected by the Board of Aldermen, on the grounds that the bidding deadline (30 days) was too short to allow fair competition.

After nearly two years of controversy, the rezoning slipped by the Land Use Committee on its first go-round without a word of opposition from area residents.

According to Davidson, the Project Area Committee, made up of Lower Falls residents, gave approval of the development plan at a hearing two and a half weeke before the Land Use meeting. However, John Young, a Lower Falls resident and long-time foe of the project claims that most members of the community were not advised that the land Use Committee planned to consider the rezoning.

Young claims to have a new petition from 17 area residents opposed to the project, which they would have presented at the Committee.

Formerly an opponent of the land clearance portion of the project, which has taken land and a house belonging to his mother-in-law by eminent domain, Young stated that he is no longer opposed to the land-taking portion of the project, but is opposed to plans for low-income housing in the area. His group wants to keep "welfare people" out of a row of private homes scheduled to be built as part of the renewal project along Mounton street.

The party will be held in the eighteenth - century ballroom of The Vale, in Wrentham, designed and built in 1793 by Salem master - carver Samuel McIntyre.

Tickets are five dollars, and may be had from Mrs. J. P. Wiellette, 291 Buckminster Road, Brookline.

PROGRAM PLANNERS — Mrs. Ellen Lipson, president, Newton League of Women Voters, and S. Wendell Kravitz, president, Newton Council of PTAs, go over plans for five School Committee Candidates' Nights which begin next Monday night.

School Board Candidates Nights Begin On Monday

Five noted Newton residents will be Moderators for the five School Committee Candidates' Nights being presented by the Newton Council of PTAs in cosponsorship with the League of Women Voters of Newton which begin next Monday evening. Programs will begin at 7:30 at: Day Junior High, Oct. 18th; Weeks Jr. High Oct. 20th; Meadowbrook Jr. High, October 21st Warren Jr. High, October 27th; and Bigelow Jr. High, October 28th.

President of the Council S. L. Kravitz and Mrs. Ellen Lipson, President of the League of Women Voters urge citizens to seek out their most convenient meeting place and participate in the question and answer period. This is a unique service to the Community at large, they note, and the quality of education in the Newton Schools rests to a great degree with the body of people elected to this office.

Moderators for each meeting are: Bigelow, Mr. Michael Ambrosino of Newton Corner, Executive Producer of WGBH, having recently spent a year's leave producing and directing TV programs for BBC; Weeks, Mr. Robert Capeless of Newton Highlands,former Mayor of Pittsfield and Mass. Tax Commissioner, and past President of the Newton Conservators; Meadowbrook, Dr. Harry Olin of Waban, psychiatrist and presently on the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital and Medfield State Hospital; Warren, Mr. Newton Teixeira, Manager of Systems Projects for RCA-Burlington and presently Moderator of the First Unitarian Society in Newton; and Bigelow, Dr. Louis Grzack,sociologist, and presently Professor of Sociology at Rutgers University.

Each of the five meetings will present only candidates for School Committee from all Wards. They will be divided into three segments. First segment will contain information on the proposed new charter. The next two segments will be one-hour each, with half of the candidates present during each hour.

Candidates will be questioned by Ward with the Ward order rotated during the five meetings. Five questions have been developed and one of these questions will be asked at the beginning of each Ward's presentation. On a given evening, the questions will be rotated among the wards and, over the five-night period.each ward will be asked all five questions.

Co-Chairmen for these meetings are Mrs. Joyce Picard of Newton Centre representing the PTA Council and Mrs Myron Simon of West Newton, representing the League of Women Voters. This co-sponsored event is a departure from the usual custom of both the Council and League.

The League will have its usual Candidates' Night again this year on October 26th at the Newton South High School,but it will not be presenting the School Candidates. The Council in past years has also developed candidates' nights through the five Junior Highs, but this year joined with the League to bring a more comprehensive program for the community at large, in an attempt to give the voters additional opportunity to more thoroughly evaluate the merits of all candidates.

PTAs of each Jr. High will serve as hosts and a refreshment hour will follow each meeting at the various schools.

Recreation Board Meets

The Newton Recreation Commission has scheduled its next regular meeting this coming Monday, Oct. 18, at 7:45 p.m. in the Recreation Department offices at 70 Crescent St,. in Auburndale, according to Commissioner John B. Penney.

Boston State College will stay at its present location in Boston, in addition to the new site, according to newly installed President Kermit Morrissey. Morrissey came to Boston State College, once known as Boston Teachers' College, after many years of experience in Community College administration in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The goal of the joint plan of the Community Colleges and the State Colleges is partly economical. It is expected that substantial savings will be accomplished by avoiding duplication and permitting joint use of common facilities such as library, athletic areas, student union and laboratories.

The total estimated students to be enrolled at the new site is calculated at 5000 to 5500, of whom 3000 would be enrolled in the Community College and a maximum of 2500 in the Upper Division Branch of Boston State College.

According to President Morrissey, an entirely new academic program will be created that will be designed in cooperation by representatives of the two governing boards. All the Massachusetts Community Colleges will be able to transfer students to the new upper division branch of Boston State College.

Morrissey declared: "The upper division branch will be exclusively dedicated to professional, career, and technical programs that will link with appropriate two-year segments within the Community College system. In addition, the plan will provide a flexible center for adult education and will incorporate appropriate and related work experience for academic credit toward the Bachelor's degree."

Both Morrissey and Chairman John Cataldo of the Massachusetts State College trustees stressed the opportunities for persons beyond the normal college age at the suburban branch of Boston State College.

Cataldo asserted: "Boston State College will continue to serve effectively in Boston, but it must also recognize substantial public and human investments in the Community Colleges serving the region. The new thrust of the upper division branch of Boston State College will provide far greater choice for students and adults and much more effective preparation for future employment of our students."

President Morrissey of Boston State has been assisted in planning by the college's director of planning and development, William T. Morrissey (no relation to the President). Contacted last night night by the Graphic, William Morrissey said he could not confirm the Chestnut Hill site but did state that the new branch of Boston State College will have direct MBTA access to Boston.

Planning and Development Director Morrissey added that the new site would have ample room for on-campus parking and even indicated that he hopes that the topography and landscaping of the proposed site will hide the parked cars from the surrounding neighborhood.

Both Morrisseys seem well aware of possible community objections to their projects and anxious to head them off by careful planning for traffic and architecture.

Mental Health Board Plans Dialog For Services, Kids

The state Department of Mental Health Area Board thinks youth counselors and kids ought to get together and talk things over.

In the past two or three years, they say, there has been a growth of services available to young people in the Newton-Wellesley-Weston area. Many agencies have been established to assist youth. There is, however, a gap between the providers and consumers of services, as well as a gap between the various agencies.

The Area Board Subcommittee on Youth, consisting of representatives of agencies, youth and concerned citizens, has been set up to explore possible solutions to alleviate the lack of communication and coordination. The Subcommittee feels that a two-day conference is an effective and efficient way of providing youth and service-givers an opportunity to exchange information on services now available and those services which are needed but now lacking.

The conference will be organized on a workshop basis, with representatives from the high schools in the three communities and all agencies serving youth. It will be held at the Oblate Fathers' College and Seminary in South Natick, Saturday and Sunday, October 16 and 17.

The goals of the conference are, first, to allow dialogue and an exchange of information between the young people and the agencies which are attempting to provide services and second, to develop new dimensions and concepts of service which can be targets for action by the Youth Subcommittee.

Jewish Congress Hosts Luncheon At Country Club

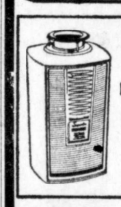

Rabbi Gerald B. Zelermyer, spiritual leader of Temple B'nai Moshe, Brighton, will address members of the Newton - Chestnut Hill Chapter, American Jewish Congress, next Tuesday (Oct. 19) at the Sidney Hill Country Club. A luncheon at noon will precede the meeting.

Mrs. Louis E. Altshuler, president of the chapter, will preside, and Mrs. E. Louis Friederman will introduce the speaker. The invocation will be given by Mrs. Charles Brown, and Mrs. Louis Mirsky will sing the national anthem, with Mrs. Frank Rosenthal as accompanist.

Pushed by a taxpayers suit, the city redrew Ward lines for the purpose of city elections, even though state law prohibited redistricting at this time for state elections.

Voters in "wing" precincts therefore will vote in new redistricted wards for city elections this year, and in the old, unredistricted wards for the state election of 1972. These ten precincts carved out of old wards and patched onto the new bring the total number of precincts to 42.

After the state elections swing precincts will be abolished, and the newly approved precinct lines, which distribute voters in 32 more - or - less equal precincts will take effect for the city elections of 1973 and the state elections of 1974.

Ward lines will be the same as for this year's city elections. The new ward lines will also serve as the base for a redistricting census for the 1974 - 1984 state elections.

If the legislature had failed to approve the new ward lines this year, the city would have had to use swing precincts for ten additional years, until 1984, the next redistricting.

and that badges would have a "derogatory" effect on the appearance of saleswomen.

The purpose of the badges, according to Alderman Cohen, is to serve as an instant credential for the housewife. "If the housewife doesn't see a registration tag, hopefully she would close the door" on the solicitor, Cohen said.

New Fabric Shop To Open In Needham Next Tuesday

A unique fabric shop, Andrea Hunter Fabrics, is coming to Needham and it will sell designer aand dress fabrics at discount prices. Some of the newer kinds of fabrics as well as the traditional used by the finer ready - to - wear stores will be offered at the most competitive prices.

In addition, Ruth Ann Moriarty of Needham, owner of the shop, will be introducing to the area a new innovation to home sewers by using manufacturers' methods of sewing on knits.

These knits can be used to make skirts, suits, slacks, sweaters, ponchos, and sweater dresses. And, when the warm weather returns, two-way stretch, chlorine resistant swim suits will be taught.

The Andrea Hunter Fabric Shop will carry a selection of fabrics plus the patterns to be used with these new methods.

Seminars will accommodate four people for a three-hour class which results in the finished garment.

Mrs. Moriarty just completed a special school in New Jersey to learn and to teach the unusual techniques of sewing with knit and stretch fabric. Then, sewers can continue to duplicate these methods in their own home and have attire which is the latest fashion.

Andrea Hunter fabrics opens next Tuesday (Oct. 19) at 1116 Great Plain Ave. in Needham, and arrangements for classes can be made at the shop.

Mayor-

Charging that the summary written by the Charter Commission seems to be "telling Mr. Citizen that he's going to have a better form of government" if the new charter is adopted, Legislation and Rules Committee Member Louis Egelson cited as "subject to dispute" the words "strengthen" and "improve" in the summary.

Charter Commission Chairman Florence Rubin countered that she felt the summary was a "reasonable explaination of the differences between the old and new charters."

The summary "picks out the most important and outstanding changes - not the ones we thought the public would love," asserted Mrs. Rubin.

At a special Thursday night meeting of the Board of Aldermen, an appropriation of $650 was voted to reprint a revised form of the summary on the front page of the charter report that is being mailed out to all homes in Newton. The item was first chartered by Alderman Peter Harrington, a member of the Charter Commission as an "eleventh-hour attempt to discredit the work of the Charter Commission by innuendo."

The item passed at a second special meeting called by the Mayor some two hours later. The city solicitor declared that if the item were not revised, He would go to court with a writ of mandamus to attempt to prevent the Election Commission from mailing out the summary with the report, which by law must be sent to the home of every registered voter in the city.

Harrington charged that the Mayor had "abused the power of his office" to secure a change in wording by the "implied" threat that the report would be mailed out without the summary.

Alderman Joseph McDonnell quipped in reply, "It appears that Alderman Harrington is just coming to realize that we already have a strong-mayor government in Newton. Some people don't think it should be strengthened further."

Alderman Harrington further claimed that a change in the summary at this time be illegal, since the Home Rule Amendment states that the final wording of a resolution must be in the hands of the City Clerk or Election Commission 35 days before the election.

The city solicitor accepted an interpretation by the Election Commission that the law was simply designed to provide sufficient time to print the ballot. Executive Secretary of the Election Commission Alan Licarie asserted that there was sufficient time to make the change, as ballots have not yet been printed.

At a special meeting of five members of the Charter Commission with the Mayor and members of the Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee, it was voted to delete the words (strengthen the role of the individual citizen", and "improve" in the revision.

The summary as it was to have appeared on the ballot appears below, with the deleted words in brackets. Some additional grammatical changes were made in the revised version.

QUESTION I

"SHALL THIS CITY APPROVE THE NEW CHARTER RECOMMENDED BY THE CHARTER COMMISSION SUMMARIZED BELOW?"

SUMMARY

1. RETAINS EXISTING FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The proposed Charter retains the basic frame of government under which the City has operated for many years. The term of office of the Mayor, however, would be increased from two to four years and he would have to serve the City full time. The composition, method of election, and term of office of the School Committee and Board of Aldermen would remain unchanged, except that School Committee members would be limited to four consecutive two year terms.

2. NEW PROVISIONS

The proposed Charter would (strengthen the role of he individual citizen) by: requiring preliminary elections to simplify the ballot in the regular election and insure election by majority vote: providing initiative and referendum procedures whereby citizens may submit certain issues to the voters; requiring special elections to fill longer-term vacancies in elective office; and authorizing the Board of Alermen to create and dissolve, upon petition of a substantial number of voters, locally elected neighborhood councils with limited-purpose authority. Ordinary maintenance and repair of school buildings would become the responsibility of the School Committee subject to an annual maximum limit.

3. CLARIFIES UNCERTAINTIES IN OLD CHARTER

The proposed Charter would clarify (and improve) many internal operating procedures including the Mayor's veto power, the "charter objection" by Aldermen, and the appointment powers of the Mayor.

After the meeting to revise the summary, Mrs. Rubin maintained that the original summary drawn by the Charter Commission was a "fair and accurate representation of the major provisions of the proposed new charter."

"Summaries are by nature brief, and being brief in regard to a lengthy document obviously means that some things will be left out," Mrs. Rubin asserted. "We sincerely hope that the public reads the whole charter - or at least the longer summary we included in the Final Report - and notices all the lesser changes which complete the modernization of our 74-year-old charter," she added.

In regard to actions by the Mayor and Aldermen, Mrs. Rubin contended that the Home Rule Amendment and the Home Rule Procedures Act (Chapter 43B) defined Charter Commissions as independent of city control."

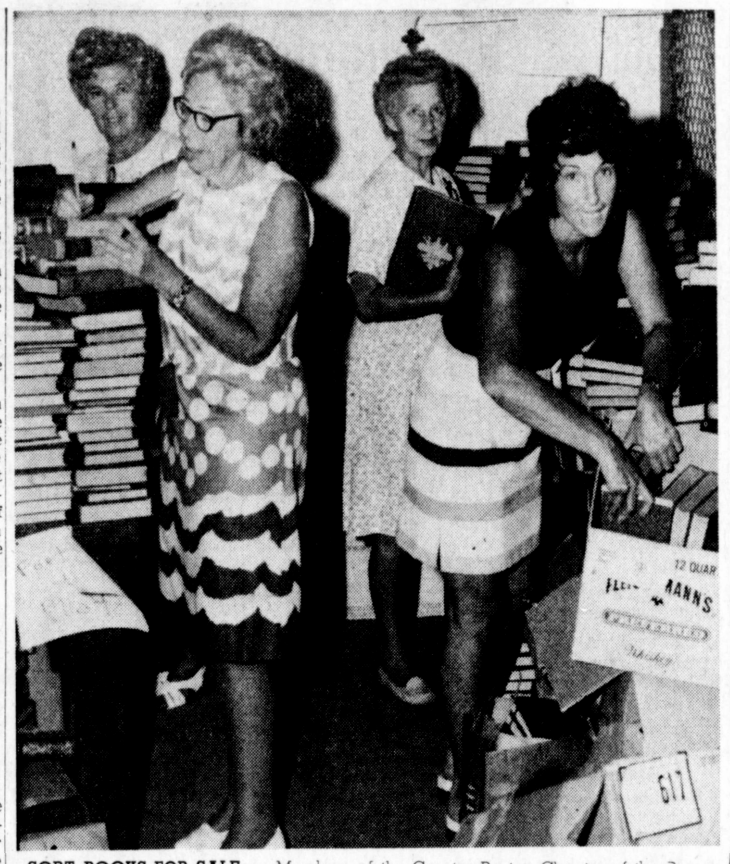

"They are initiated by citizen petition, established by vote of the people, and their final report - the new charter - is subject only to the approval of the voters; not the city fathers. The General Court recognized full well that a commission established to revise a local constitution would not necessarily be beloved by the establishment. It, therefore, gave no power to the Board of Aldermen or the Mayor to approve our work. We were elected by the voters and are responsible only to them," she stressed.

In describing the meeting at which the summary was revised, Mrs. Rubin stated, "There were certain words in the summary which we were requested to change. Since in our judgment these revisions did not change the substance of the ballot summary, and since we were anxious to have the city proceed with the distribution of the proposed charter without delay, the Charter Commission agreed to make the requested changes subject to the inclusion of the new ballot summary on the front page of the city-wide mailing - if the Board of Aldermen should decide to reprint the Final Report.

The Charter Commission kept in mind, Mrs. Rubin said, that the Mayor had requested money to reprint the Charter Commission Report whether or not the summary was revised. Charter Commission members interpreted this to mean that if the summary were not revised, it would be deleted from the Report.

The Mayor and the Aldermen who were present at the meeting agreed that with these changes they had no further reservations about the ballot summary, according to Mrs. Rubin.

The Charter Commission reminded the voters that "the ballot summary, however worded, is not the complete text which resulted from a year's deliberation by nine popularly elected commissioners." Mrs. Rubin, Commission chairman, urged all citizens to read the entire city mailing dealing with the charter "so that they can make an informed choice at the polls on this important matter."

Laughter Can Hurt

Third-rate comics in the Northwest have hit a pay lode that's paying off in storms of laughter in night clubs and hotel supper rooms. Their writers are hard put to keep up with the demand.

The jokes are based on ecology and environmental backgrounds. Some of them are pretty bad; most border on the malicious but they're getting a reception reserved usually for only top-flight humor. No psychiatrists are needed to provide an explanation.

Seattle, the State of Washington and the whole Northwest took rejection by Congress of the SST plane with bitterness. Lost to the region were jobs — a lot of jobs. Rightly or wrongly much of the blame was fixed on fears, many felt were promoted by leaders in the ecology movement.

There's no question but that the United States and other countries are facing a monumental task in correcting the abuses which man has been inflicting on his environment. It is going to be a long and expensive job. One thing is certain it will not be done over night.

However, there is no question but that in their enthusiasm to arouse the public many ecologists have gone even further than Rachel Carlson when she sounded the tocsin of alarm. Doomsday, however, will not be tomorrow nor even the day after. Those who resort to unbridled forecasts of a world disaster, which cannot be averted, grossly under-estimate the resourcefulness of civilized man.

Recently an angered industrialist, whose firm has earmarked millions for ecological research over a 10-year period took to task a politician who told a woman's club gathering that Lake Erie was dead and could no longer support fish or even the most miscroscopic form of life. The industrialist was able to show Lake Erie, whatever it has lost in pristine beauty, still yields 60 million pounds of commercial fish a year.

Ecology should be a concern of everyone but over-exaggeration isn't going to promote that concern.

The industrialist resorted to fact to bring down the politician's flight into purely imaginative realms. Potentially far more dangerous and devastating is the laughter the comics are producing.

In these early days of the environment movement the sound work of many cannot be productive if laughter created by the over-exaggerations of the few is allowed to prevail.

Sign Of The Times?

Beacon Hill residents, particularly those whose bookshelves contain many thousands of the best in literature and the book publishers' art, are up in arms. They want to rid their neighborhood of a store which is selling books considerably less than classic in reading and illustrations.

Not too long ago some of the stores' tomes would be found on open sale only around 42nd street and Times Square. Now they may be found not only on Beacon Hill but even in village squares across the country.

At a well-attended mass meeting, the Beacon Hill objectors were told by both elected and appointed officials there was no easy way of getting rid of the offending store by legal means. It was sugegsted a real estate assessment might make the rental too costly, or stern enforcement of building codes might drive out the unwanted business.

There's no question but that the books which are attracting customers in volume are compendiums of filth, completely void of any pretense at literary value. Yet, there's not much police or the courts can do about it these days.

Even in those cases in which Justice Douglas has voluntarily absented himself, the U.S. Supreme Court has consistently failed to come up with a ruling which would strike fear into the hearts of today's pornography operators on whatever level they find themselves. Justice Douglas who has authored articles for a national magazine, featuring female nudity, undoubtedly has some ideas on the subject.

He'd probably go along with the majority report of the national commission created to tell the President, Congress and the people all about pornography. In the commission's eyes the new multi-million-dollar trade is really no scourge. In fact it advised the U.S. to follow the example of some of the Scandinavian countries where "anything goes."

Parents from Maine to California will sympathize with the frustrated residents of Beacon Hill. However, their empathy won't rid the section of its store or change the character of its book stock.

Maybe, it's a sign of the times and our overall moral values. If it is, the times are not good.

-Political Highlights-

It may be argued that this would be an irresponsible action and would create a crisis in the State government, but the hard fact is that a big majority of the people don't want to pay the heavy taxes now being levied upon them.

The situation is reminiscent of the actions by Jack Molesworth is placing legislative pay raises on the ballot for approval or rejection by the voters.

The ink was hardly dry on a bill members of the Legislature had enacted to give themselves a pay hike when Molesworth would begin gathering signatures to place the question of repealing the raise on the ballot.

The voters would knock out the wage boost when the matter came before them but only very rarely would punish the law-makers who had voted for it.

At the earliest opportunity the legislators would vote themselves a slightly larger pay raise than the one that had been repealed and would make it retroactive to the date the previous increase had stopped.

It was a sort of merry-go-round affair that accomplished nothing and wasted time.

However, the average legislator is not likely to have the same determination to pass a tax program that he did to give himself a pay raise.

If the voters wash out the $212 Million tax program, that may be it as far as the Democratic-controlled Legislature is concerned.

A majority of the law-makers may decide to let Republican Governor Sargent worry about the crisis which would result from the repeal of the new taxes.

Most law-makers probably would take the position that they should not enact the same taxes the voters had repealed. The choice left to them would be neither a wide nor appealing one.

They could increase the sales tax which they declined to do this year. But if they did, the conservatives probably would place it on the ballot in 1974, make it a campaign issue and repeal it.

The tax increase was necessitated largely by a rise in welfare costs. This apparently does not impress the leaders of the Conservative Party who declare that they are going to force economy in government, come what may.

State officials reply that if the voters cut the Commonwealth's revenue by $212 Million, it obviously will be necessary to curb or eliminate some services for the public.

Crane Says Gov. Sargent Might Run For State Treas.

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, who will oversee the State Lottery in Massachusetts, can still see the amusing side of things despite the fight made by Governor Sargent to control the patronage connected with the lottery.

Crane smilingly dismissed the possibility that the publicity he will receive as the lottery boss might cause him to run for Governor in 1974.

"It might make Governor Sargent want to run for State Treasurer," responded Crane.

Nixon In Unusual Position To Remake Supreme Court

Political observers predict that one of President Nixon's campaign issues when he stands for reelection next year will be that he has fulfilled his promise to turn the U.S. Supreme Court around.

This probably will be reflected by the decisions in the coming weeks when the high court rules on such matters as capital punishment, wiretapping, voter residency and discrimination against blacks and women.

The President, of course, has two vacancies to fill on the Supreme Court, and it is expected that he will fill them with justices who pretty much share his own thinking.

Political experts anticipate that Mr. Nixon will be in a position next year to make law and order a top issue in the campaign by pointing to his fulfillment of his promise to reconstitute the court.

President Nixon, they declare, will go before the voters in 1972 to tell them he appointed supreme court justices who are tougher on crime and criminals and give greater support to the police and their methods of combatting crime.

One political analyst asserts that this message should appeal to the great mass of middle-aged, middle class and middle-minded voters.

It is unusual that a President in a span of less than three years has been afforded the opportunity to remake the U.S. Supreme Court to the extent Mr. Nixon has.

How Far Can Prison Inmate Go With Reform Committee?

An interesting question has arisen in connection with a convict who is serving on a committee created by Governor Sargent to study correctional institutions in Massachusetts and recommend possible prison reforms.

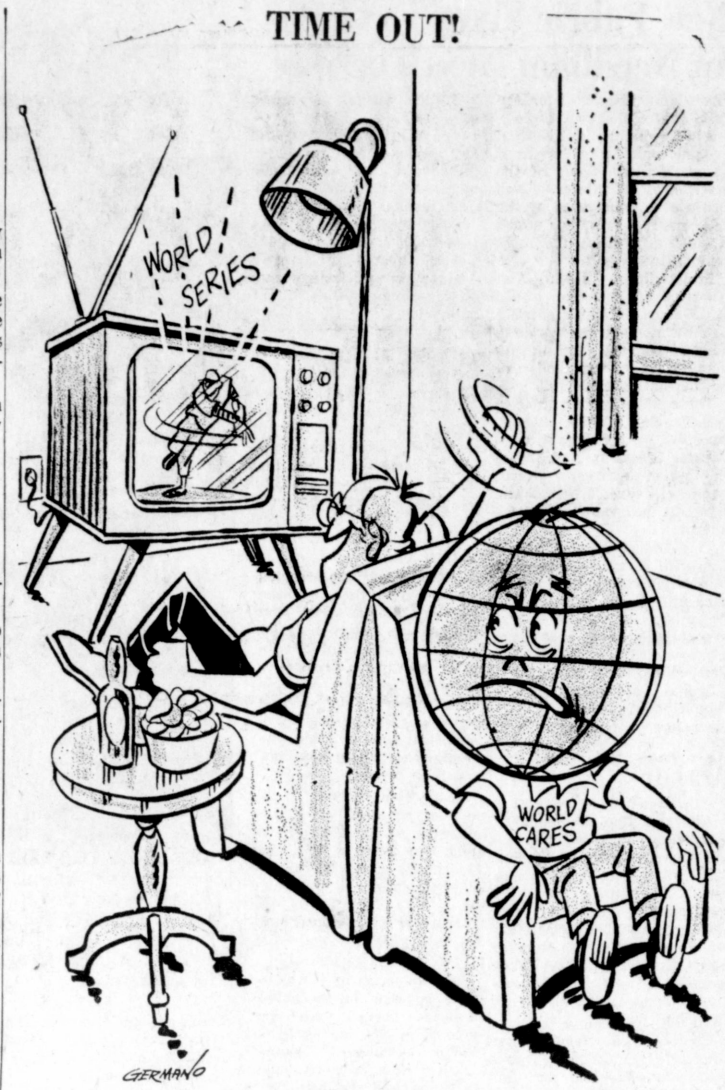

Michael Kelly, who is serving five to eight years for kidnapping, was named to the committee by one of the reform groups at Concord Reformatory.

State Correction officials say that under the law Kelly can travel with the committee from institution to institution. But they are uncertain whether Kelly also will be able to participate in other committee work outside the state's institutions.

State Health Dept. Boosts Medical Qualities of Wine

A recent news release from the State Health Department went so far in extolling the medical value of a glass of wine that it sounded like a publicity handout from some vineyard. Here are some of the things it said:

"Wine was not only the nectar of the Gods of ancient times. It was also a favorite beverage of the Plebeians. Today in the 20th Century, wine still holds reign as a favorite potable, a fact that only goes to prove that both ancient and modern people, who could hardly qualify as Gods, recognize a good thing.

"Medically speaking, it is true wine is good for us in moderation, of course. In fact, the medical uses of wine are on the increase as many physicians are taking a second look at its restorative qualities as aids to the sick and infirmed.

"We know that during ancient civilizations, wine was used as a safe and healthful beverage. It provided calories and vitamins before the science of nutrition, as we know it today, was established and, at a time, when food was not always either plentiful or of good quality.

"Life then was more physically strenuous and wine offered the tranquility and relaxation necessary to bind societies together, as well as, comfort and relieve man of pain.

"Today we know that wine contains many of the elements essential for quick energy and body maintenance. It also provides support and repair qualities. The energy element is largely derived from alcohol, a simple carbohydrate.

"In addition to the alcohol, other sources of calories in wine are the simple sugars, principally levulose and dextrose. It has been shown that levulose acts in the repair and maintenance of the liver and also as an agent that breaks down foods more readily, thus allowing utilization for immediate body needs.

"Dextrose is considered the most important single factor in the prevention of fatty infiltration of the liver, a condition which often leads to cirrhosis It's strange that alcohol in moderation can be like a food and is actually nutritious to the liver, as it can be to other parts of the body. However, when taken in excess, it is harmful and often leads to alcoholic cirrhosis

"A recent study of many wines for sodium and potassium content shows that the sodium content of most table wines make them especially suitable for use in low sodium diets. Furthermore, wine will provide a welcome relief from the dullness and unpalatability of such a diet.

"In recent years many hospitals and nursing homes throughout this country have started serving wine with patient meals, with the approval or on the prescription of a qualified physician.

"In institutions where wines are included in the diet, it has been noted that patient complaints have lessened considerably and residents are more relaxed. When wine is served with dinner, patient morale also seems to markedly improve.

"In sipping a convivial glass of wine, evidence appears to indicate that we not only enjoy the pleasant bouquet and taste of the nectar of the Gods, but, equally important, we give a lift to our general health and well being."

Here Is What No-Fault Auto Property Damage Plan Does

Prospects are bright that starting Jan. 1, Massachusetts' automobile owners will have the "no fault" concept of insurance protection, introduced nine months ago for bodily injury coverage, extended to property damage.

While a segment of the insurance industry frowns on the immediacy of the effective date — pleading the need of up to a year to give insurance firms and the Insurance Commissioner's staff an opportunity to provide for an orderly transition from the present system —the switch now appears inevitable, sooner or later.

The 206-to-16 House vote given the proposal is hardly indicative of any desire for a "paperwork" slow down.

Just what will the extension provide?

Basically, it follows the bodily-no-fault. Regardless of who is to blame in the case of property damage, the car owner's insurance company will be called upon to make payment on his legitimate claims.

Major features of the legislation include:

A compulsory provision that all Massachusetts motor vehicle owners hold the property-damage coverage.

Each owner will be given his choice of one of three levels of insurance protection, according to his

The owner himself shall meet the first $100 cost of any damage or loss he claims.

Insurance companies will be obliged to settle claims within 15 days after the accident report and repair-or-replacement costs are submitted.

Implementation of the program by Jan. 1, 1972.

The 15-day limit on meeting claims and the Jan. 1 implementation date give rise to objections on the part of the insurance companies.

Fifteen days, some claim, is an inadequate time period in which to permit an insurance adjuster to check out a claim. Industry representatives, including those who favor the overall idea of no-fault property damage coverage, maintain at least 30 days would be needed.

As passed by the House the 15-day settlement deadline is not without its sharp teeth. Under the House version a claimant, failing to receive compensation with 15 days, would be empowered to initiate court action against his insurance company. If his litigation was successful the insurance company would be obligated to pay court costs, plus double the amount of the original claim.

Underscoring the need for an orderly transition from the present system and problems inherent for a change-over in the legal machinery, some insurance company spokesmen would postpone the effective date a full year.

The three options open to motor vehicle owners under the legislation are: (1) All-risk; (2) Restricted coverage; (3 Minimal coverage.

Rates for each level would be set by the Insurance Commissioner. With his approval and under certain conditions, insurance companies could offer policyholders a $50 deductible coverage.

Most costly and most complete of the option choices is the "all-risk" policy. Beyond the $100 deductible cost, the insurance company would meet all damage costs up to the "cash value" of the vehicle, whether or not the owner was guilty of "negligence, comparative negligence, gross neligence or any kind."

Sr. M. Gorman Named to CRC

Sister Margaret Gorman, newly appointed member of the Community Relations Commission, expressed her intention "as an educator, to show my students how worthwhile it can be to work within the system to improve government."

The Board of Aldermen at its last full meeting approved the Mayors' appointment of Sister Margaret Gorman, Chairman of the Psychology Dept. of Newton College of the Sacred Heart, to the CRC, which was set up "to advise and assist the mayor in promoting understanding'' between races and enthnic groups of the city.

In addition to her 11 years' experience as Psychology Dept. chairman at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, the sister is also Director of the Division of Social Science and Religion.

She is a member of Boston Mayor Kevin White's Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse, a director of the Newton Community Center's Pomroy House, and a member of "Psychologists Interested in Religious Issues."

A graduate of Trinity College with a B.A. in English, Sister Margaret has a M.A. in Philosophy from Fordham and a Ph.D. in Educational Psychology from the Catholic University of America.

She is on the Board of Directors of the Garden City Trust Co. and has served as a psychological consultant to the U.S. Air Force and the U.S. Army at Fort Monmouth, N.J.

SHAPE SHIFTER
Beats Exercise

An Independent Research Survey shows that Shape Shifter Beats Exercise when it comes to losing inches and weight.

People wore Shape Shifters and lost 71% more inches than people who only followed a program of exercise.

A third group who wore Shape Shifters and also exercised lost 80% more inches than those who just exercised without Shape Shifters.

This survey proves that an active person loses inches by wearing Shape Shifter.

R. H. Flashman and Bride Living in Manhattan, Kansas

Now living in Manhattan, Kansas, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris Flashman (Joan Ellen Ginsburg, whose marriage took place recently at Temple Emanuel in Newton.

Dr. and Mrs. Leon M. Ginsburg of 126 Manet road, Chestnut Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis I. Flashman of Melrose are the couple's parents.

Two rings were exchanged at the nuptial service at which Rabbi Samuel Chiel officiated. A reception was held at the temple.

Dr. Ginsburg gave his daughter away. Her ivory organza gown was fashioned with bands of Venice lace woven with matching satin ribbon at the Victorian neckline, empire bodice, leg - of - mutton sleeves, A - line skirt and chapel length train. A matching headpiece was fastened with a tiered bouffant illusion veil and she carried traditional flowers.

Miss Debra Jane Ginsburg of Newton, sister of the bride, was her only attendant.

Mark Flashman of Reading, brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Philip Ginsburg of Chestnut Hill, Adam Birenbaum of Milton, Bruce Rubin of Newton, Jerry Rubin of Boston, Stephen Arnst of Kansas and Gary Weck, also of Kansas.

Canada was the honeymoon destination of the bridal couple.

A graduate of Boston University, Mrs. Flashman is now a teacher.

A graduate of Kansas State University, Mr. Flashman is attending his alma mater's graduate school where he is majoring in family economics.

MRS. ROBERT H. FLASHMAN

Miss Helen Alman Becomes Mrs. Russell S. Griffith

At an 11 o'clock ceremony in Trinity Episcopal Church, Bridgewater, recently, Miss Helen Williams Alman was married to Russell Steven Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Alman Jr., of Waban and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Griffith of Pembroke are the couple's parents.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Freedom Wentworth 2nd, who was assisted by the Rev. Harold McGee. A reception was held in the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's organza gown was belted at the empire waistline with velvet ribbon and streamers edged with Veince lace which matched the trimming on her bateau neckline and chocker collar. A deep border of Schiffli embroidery misted with seed perls, decorated the long bell sleeves and hemline.

A headpeice of white roses and stephanotis held in place her double veil to elbow length silk illusion veil. Matching flowers and streamers trimmed the heirloom prayer book used by her paternal great - great - grandmother and carried by the following three generations.

Miss Nancy J. Holmes of Bridgewater was maid of honor. Her sheer marquisette old fashioned print over taffeta gown was fastened by a velvet belt at her empire waistline. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white daisies, chrysanthemums and pink miniature carnations to match the garland on her head.

Wearing similar gowns in pale pink, the bridesmaids were Miss Paula Griffith of Pembroke, sister of the groom, Miss Dorothy Foster of Framingham, Miss Joyce Wilcox and Mrs. Linda Hazelton, both of Bridgewater. Miss Pamela Bouldry of Bridgewater, the junior bridesmaid, was dressed like the honor attendants.

Mark Tirrell of Hanover was the best man.

Head usher Lester Doherty of Bridgewater was assisted by John E. Alman 3rd of Waban, brother of the bride; Peter Lennon of Middleboro and Robert Huff, Jr., of Medfield.

Mrs. Alman, mother of the bride wore a pale green ensemble while Mrs. Griffith, the groom's mother, chose a rose colored gown. They both wore an orchid.

Following a trip through the state of Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith will make their home in Bridgewater.

MRS. RUSSELL S. GRIFFITH

Miss Finn, P. F. Kukura Exchange Vows

In the garden at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Nancy Rose Finn became the bride of Philip Frank Kukura, of Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finn of 1364 Commonwealth avenue, West Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kukura of Deland, Florida, are the couple's parents.

Cantor Alex Zimmer officiated at the 4:30 afternoon nuptials at which two rings were exchanged. A reception followed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an embriodered white linen empire gown made with a high neckline and short sleeves. She had a fresh flowers in her hair and carried a single white rose with her silver covered bible.

Miss Jodi Finn of Freeport, N. Y., was honor maid for her cousin, while Mrs. Nancy B. Finn of Holliston, sister - in - law of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Ruth Johnson of Deland, Fla., and Miss Carol Harding of Norwich, Vt.

Roderick Dugliss of Stockton, Calif., served as best man. Ushering were S. Dick Johnson of Deland, Fla., and Carl Cooper of McLean, Va.

The couple left on a trip through Vermont and are now making their home in Chapel Hill, N. C.

A graduate of Girls Latin School, Boston, the bride received her B. A. Degree from Connecticut College and her M. A. degree from the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Kukura was elected to Phi Beta Kappa while at Davidson College and is presently doing graduate work at the University of North Carolina.

Schecter School Holds Reception

Mrs. Herbert M. Gann of 62 Lovett Rd., Newton, was among those present at a reception held in Brookline recently for parents of new children enrolled at the Solomon Schecter Day School in Newton Centre.

Mrs. Gann heard Stanley Cohen, Educational Director of the School, address the group of 100 persons at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Neipris, PTA President Mrs. Bernard Pucker spoke on the goals of her organization.

Solomon Schecter, with an enrollment of 123 students, is located at Temple Emanuel in Newton Centre.

Miss Cincotta Becomes Bride Of Paul Lissell

St. Susanna Church of Dedham was the setting on Saturday, October 2, of the wedding of Miss Linda Diane Cincotta, daughter of Mr. Vincent Cincotta of 95 Webster street, Needham, and Mrs. Priscilla Cincotta of Brighton, to Mr. Paul V. Lissell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Lissell, Sr., of 31 Rexhame street, Roslindale.

Rev. Louis Bougeios, officiated at the 3:30 o'clock, double ring ceremony, which was followed by a reception at Amaru's in Dedham.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had Miss Jo-Ann Buddington of Newton Centre as her maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Carol Brunner of Huntington, New York.

Serving as best man was Mr. Al Grant of Dorchester, and ushers included Mr. Tom DeYoung of Somerville. Weston Buddington was among the other attendants.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Nassau, the couple will reside at 25 Parker road, Newton.

Grand Coulee dam is the largest concrete structure in the world.

Baby Girl

Of interest here is the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bender of Wrentham which makes known the recent birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Schulman of Middletown, Ct., and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bender of Waban are the proud grandparents. Mr. Harry Shapiro of Middletown, Ct., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen of Brookline are the great - grandparents.

don't know who a stop sign he said, but warned the committee that "anything less than a good argument" would be defeated.

A serious search for further evidence in favor of the petition would be necessary, Small declared.

One resident described three accidents, two involving bicycles, which had occurred at the intersection, but were not in police records, Alderman Michael Antonellis added.

There are 30 children of bike - riding age in the vicinity of the three-way blind intersection, Antonellis asserted.

Traffic Committee Chairman Jefferson said a Traffic Commission study found visibility not gravely reduced at the intersection.

The question was returned to the Street Traffic Committee for further study.

1970, when The Rt. Rev. Edmund Knox Sherrill performed this rite.

Most recently, Mr. Lowe has served as Curate at the Church of the Redeemer (Episcopal), Chestnut Hill.

As Rev. Lowe commences his ministry at the two churches, he is honored to participate in the Church of the Messiah's Centennial Celebration Sunday, October 17, at the 10:30 a.m. service of Holy Communion.

Preceding this service parishioners are gathering at various homes for breakfast. Church school is scheduled as usual and nursery care will be available during the service.

The following Sunday, October 24, Rev. Lowe will celebrate Holy Communion and preach the sermon at St. John's, Newtonville. A welcoming reception for Rev. and Mrs. Lowe is planned following this service. Nursery care will be provided and the church shcool will be in session.

Presently, the fall schedule at both churches includes a service of Holy Communion at 8 a.m. each Sunday, except on October 17, when it is being omitted at the Church of the Messiah.

Services of Morning Prayer and-or Holy Communion will take place at 10 a.m. at St. John's and 10:30 a.m. at the Church of the Messiah, respectively. Also, an Assistant Minister's appointment is expected shortly.

The Rev. Lowe and his family plan to reside in Auburndale. He is looking forward with great anticipation and enthusiasm to the challenges and opportunities presented by the joint ministry of the two churches.

A most cordial welcome awaits friends of the church of the Messiah near and far as it celebrates its Centennial; at the same time, the hospitality of St. John's, Newtonville, is extended to its parishioners as well as newcomers to join in greeting the Lowe family.

Newton Members Of Alofa Malia Club Committee

Seven Newton residents are members of the General Committee of the Alofa Malia Club which is sponsoring a Marist Bazaar at the John Hancock Hall in Boston next Wednesday and Thursday, (Oct. 20 and 21).

The committee members from Newton are: Dr. and Mrs. James F. Conway, Mrs. Kay Delaney, Mrs. Anne McGivney, and the Misses Dorothy Horgan, Maxine Tremaine, and Lee Curran.

Proceeds of the Bazaar will benefit the Marist Missionary Sisters.

Decision-

zoning approval was 5-2, with Aldermen William Carmen, Peter F. Harrington, Matthew Jefferson, Arthur Sullivan, and Joseph McDonnell voting against consideration of rezoning, while Aldermen Michael Antonellis and Alan Barkin were in favor. The vote is not a denial of the petition to rezone, but a decision not to grant it at this time.

At last week's meeting, with fewer aldermen in attendance, Aldermen Barkin, Antonellis, and Michael Lipof approved the rezoning, with Harrington and McDonnell recorded in opposition.

"You're conjuring up visions of Christmas past," Alderman Barkin maintained when Committee members speculated that former Newton Redevelopment Authority Chairman DiCarlo, remains the most powerful member of the Authority.

Calling the new NRA chairman, Robert Davidson, "a breath of fresh air," without "the least political orientation," Barkin urged committee members to give a go-ahead to the Redevelopment Project. "We keep talking about the tax revenue we're going to get from this project, but we keep delaying the blessed event," Barkin exclaimed.

Antonnelis added that the NRA was an "independent authority, and we should depend on them to do their job."

"The way it looks to me"

"Newton's 17,500 children of diversified backgrounds deserve every opportunity for educational growth. To accomplish this in the face of rising tax pressures, we must reach out as never before for the very necessary contributions that can only come from community involvement. We must plan wisely, and constantly re-evaluate, to be certain that every child gets the most from every dollar spent."

Troop 272 Plans Weekend Outing At N.H. Mountain

Scout Troop 272 begins another year of climbing and winter camping with a planned ascent of Mt. Carrigan this weekend. Mt. Carrigan is one of the more spectacular of the high peaks in the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

The troop scouting year began in September when the new tenderfoot scouts were taken to a nearby Scout Reservation for two days of preparation for next weekend's demanding back - packing ascent.

The winter program includes at least one weekend "under canvas" each month. Featured, in addition to the White Mountain trip, are a snowshoe trip and a canoe camp - out on the upper Charles River. Training weekends precede each of these featured trips. The tentative summer schedule includes a four - day trip to the Katahdin mountains in northern Maine and two weeks at Hidden Valley Scout Camp in New Hampshire.

Troop 272 is fortunate in having a large nucleus of experienced older scouts and this provides for several more first year boys than are now registered. Any boy, 11 years old or older, is eligible to join. Prospective members are invited with their parents to attend one of the regular weekly meetings. These are held in the cafeteria of Meadowbrook Junior High in Newton on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m.

Population Gain

Mexico's population gained 30 percent from 1930 to 1950.

History Was On Parade At Baptist Women's Centennial

From hoopskirts to hot-pants, women's attire at the Centennial Costume Tea reflected the changing scene during the hundred - year history of the Women's Union of the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

In honor of the hundred - year anniversary of the Union, Mrs. Ginny Richmond of Waban arranged a skit representing the group's history, and women of Mathi Circle served refreshments.

The Women's Union, according to president Mrs. Wilfred Esty, has always been involved with the pressing issues of the era, through the Post - Civil - War period two World Wars, the struggle for women's suffrage, Prohibition, and the Great Depression.

Today the issues that concern women in the group range from civil rights, racial injustice, drug abuse, to the War in Vietnam, ecology, the problems of aging, and women's liberation.

Miss Hendricks Becomes Bride Of George Cohen

The Star of the Sea Church in Marblehead was the setting recently for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Hendricks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hendricks of 17 Central street, Marblehead, to Mr. George Barry Cohen of Newton. The groom is the son of Mrs. Myer Glickstein of Stoughton and the late Mr. Leonard B. Cohen.

The Rev. James Powers officiated at the pretty afternoon ceremony which was followed by a bridal reception in the Ward Room, Glover Landing in Marblehead. The couple honeymooned in Canada.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza over ice pink peau de soie with imported Italian lace on the bodice and fashioned with a high neckline, lantern sleeves with full A-line skirt that ended in a chapel length train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a spray of pink and white flowers and she carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations, stephanotis and gypsophilia.

Serving as matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Mitchell P. Lichtenberg, Sr., who wore a gown of pale chiffon over pink taffeta with a bodice of Venice lace and a floral headpiece to match her bouquet. Identically dressed was bridesmaid Miss Patricia Pinter of Mt. Ephriam, N.J.

Best man for his brother was Mr. Allan R. Cohen of Newton and ushers were Mr. Mitchell P. Lichtenberg Sr. of Shrewsbury and Mr. Barry Schneider of Hull.

The bride is a graduate of Northeastern University in speech therapy and will teach in the Lynn School system this year. The groom is a senior in the Northeastern University School of Engineering. They will live in Danvers.

Montreal - This Canadian city of more than 1 million persons is the second largest French - speaking center in the world, exceeded only by Paris.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

What does the life of Christ Jesus mean to people in today's world?

An answer to this question will be given Sunday at Christian Science church services in a Bible Lesson - Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement."

"God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," a Bible text states.

From Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be read: "Jesus aided in reconciling man to God by giving man a truer sense of Love, the divine Principle of Jesus' teachings, and this truer sense of Love redeems man from the law of matter, sin, and death by the law of Spirit, - the law of divine Love."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville, are held at 10:45 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

MRS. WILLIAM M. BEAN

Candlelight Ceremony For Miss Hubley and Mr. Bean

At a 7 o'clock candlelight ceremony in the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, Newton Centre, on Sunday evening, September 26, Miss Elizabeth Jean Hubley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hubley of 62 Norwich road, Needham, became the bride of Mrs. William M. Bean, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. William Bean of Wellesley.

Rev. Robert Griesse officiated at the double ring ceremony, and a reception followed in the parish hall of the Lutheran Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown fashioned with peau d'ange front bands, long bishop sleeves, an illusion yoke, a round collar edged with lace, an empire waist, an A-line skirt, and a detachable train edged with lace.

Her headpiece was a Camelot cap trimmed with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Lee Brimblecom of Boston as maid of honor, wore a navy blue dress and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Karen Hubley of Norwood, sister - in - law of the bride, who wore a navy blue gown and carried yellow daisies.

Mr. Arthur Buonamano of Quincy served as best man for the bridegroom, and ushers included Mr. David Van Patten - Steiger of Stoughton.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Canada, the bride will resume her studies and the bridegroom, a Sp-4 with the U.S. Army, will leave for service in Korea.

The bride is a graduate of Needham High School and is a senior at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Her husband graduated from Wellesley High School and from the University of Massachusetts, Class of 1970. He belonged to Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and has just completed finance school. MRS. JOHN J. SULLIVAN JR.

Miss Caccetta, Mr. Sullivan Wed; Living in Oregon

A cross country automobile trip followed the marriage of Miss Jeanne Marie Caccetta to John Joseph Sullivan Jr., which was solemnized recently at the Sacred Heart Church, Watertown.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Caccetta of Cambridge and Hull and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Sullivan of 575 Watertown street, Newtonville, are the couple's parents.

The Rev. Francis Chase officated at the two o'clock double ring ceremony. A reception took place at the Fresh Pond Post Hall in Cambridge.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white empire gown made of peau de soie embroidered with Alencon lace and designed with lantern sleeves, A-line skirt and detachable cathedral length train.

A high tiara, made of seed pearls, was fastened with her triple tiered illusion veil. Her flowers were carnations and orange colored roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Jacqueline L. Larosee of Newton. Mrs. Albert Spiniello of West Roxbury, Miss Joan Dandrata of Brockton and Miss Gail Sullivan of Newtonville were bridesmaids.

Michael O'Neil of Newton served as best man. The ushers were Albert Spiniello of West Roxbury, Robert Sullivan and Peter Sullivan, both of Newtonville.

The couple are now living in Eugene, Oregon.

Mrs. Sullivan attended Northeastern University where she was a speech major.

The groom was graduated from Northeastern University and the U.S. Postal Inspector Service School, Bethesda, Md. (photo by Dom Tessicini)

Sheryl Resh Becomes Bride Of George L. Gochros

Temple Emanuel in Newton was the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Sheryl Lyn Resh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victory J. Resh of 38 Whitney road, Newtonville, to George Louis Gochros, son of Mrs. Ruth Gochros of Lynn and the late Mr. Benjamin Gochros.

Rabbi Alan Turetz and Cantor Gabriel Hochberg officiated at the six o'clock service which was followed by a reception in the temple's reception hall.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown made of embossed peau de soie. The sculptured empire bodice had long sheer sleeves while the smartly styled skirt had a court train.

A lace edged mantilla fell over her fitted satin crown and her flowers were white tuberosa, roses and baby's breath.

Miss Elise Resh of Newton was honor maid for her sister. She wore a yellow crepe gown and carried matching colored flowers, while another sister, Mrs. Alan Greenblatt of Framingham, matron of honor, was attired in lavender crepe and carried the same colored flowers.

Identically costumed, but in yellow, the bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Roffman of New York and Miss Karen Sacks of Newton Centre.

Douglas Volk of Brighton served as best man. The ushers were Barry Gordon of New York, Lt. George Gordon of Mayrland, Lewis Baer and Arnold Baer, both of Medford; Alan Breitman of Swampscott, Bruce Hantman of Marblehead, Alan Young of Lynn and Peter Halpern of Amherst were ushers.

A beaded purple chiffon empire gown was the choice of Mrs. Resh, for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Gochros, the groom's mother, wore a purple chiffon gown trimmed with gold lame.

Canada was the honeymoon destination of the Gochros who are making their home in Boston.

The bride and groom were graduated from the University of Massachusetts. Mrs. Gochros was a member of Delta Tau Sigman, while her husband belonged to Tau Epsilon Phi. He is presently attending the New England School of Law. (photo by Pagar Studio)

Miss Banks, Mr. Epstein Wed: Living In Medford

A pretty garden setting overlooking Nantucket Sound at Popponesset Inn, Cape Cod, recently, Miss Betsy Jayne Banks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry H. Banks of 136 Eliot street, Chestnut Hill, became the bride of David Richard Epstein. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Epstein of 80 Oldfield road, Newton Centre.

Rabbi James Rosenberg of Temple Israel officiated at the impessive 3:30 o'clock nuptial ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Inn.

Dr. Banks gave his daughter away. She wore a full length gown of ivory peau de soie styled with a scoop neckline and pouf sleeves edged with precious lace. An embroidered yellow ribbon encircled her empire waistline, while a wide ruffled hemline enhanced her gathered skirt.

She chose a matching picture hat and carried an old fashioned basket filled with daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Curt Civin of Boston, sister of the bride, was her only attendant.

Robert Epstein of Weston, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following an automobile trip through Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Epstein are living in Medford.

The bride is a graduate of Beaver Country Day School and is presently in her junior year at Jackson College.

Mr. Epstein was graduated from Brown and Nichols and is now a member of the senior class at Tufts University. (photo by The Nourses)

Newton High Gridders Roll To Third Straight Win

Grillo, Coppola Score As Weymouth North Bows 13-0

By DAVE SOLOMON

The Newton High School football team continued their winning ways last Saturday at Dickinson Field when they blanked Weymouth North 13-0 to gain their third straight victory of the season and remain in contention for the Class A football title.

It was a great win for Jim Ronayne's charges as Paul Grillo and Mike Coppola scored the Tiger touchdowns. The Tigers continue their quest of the Class A title when they visit Weymouth South Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

The Tigers threatened in the first period when they drove to the five yard line before a Grillo pass was intercepted in the end zone.

In the second period Tiger guard Don Gentile recovered North fumble on the Weymouth 25 yard line and Grillo went to work. He faded back and hit Mike Coppola at the back end of the end zone and the Tigers had a 6-0 lead at halftime.

The third quarter belonged to Newton. Twice it drove inside the Weymouth 10. They fubled once and North held them on downs the second time. North's best chance came after it took the half kick-off.

One of those double - reverse specials worked for big yardage but the lateral, from Antonowicz to Bouley, was forward and ruled an illegal forward pass. On the next play, North lost the ball on a fumble.

Early in the fourth period, Newton's Dave Boyajian intercepted a Bouley pass at the 31 and returned it to the two. Two sneaks by Grillo gave Newton its second score.

Both teams had drives in the final period. Weymouth's was ended on downs at the Newton 24 and Newton's was ended by the clock at the Weymouth 17.

Everett Was Victim

After the Newton High Football Tigers beat Everett on September 25, coach Jim Ronayne called it the "biggest upset in class A." Proving that they are a team to be reckoned with, the Tigers went on the following Saturday, in a somewhat 'impossible dream'-like fashion, to upset Brockton, who had possessed an eleven game winning streak.

Newton was a decided underdog against Everett, who is in the third year of a rebuilding program. Everett both outweighed and out - experienced the Tigers, who have only six lettermen returning from last year. Yet, Newton, with its successful two - platoon system was able to hold Everett scoreless.

The defense, which coach Ronayne termed "excellent," was the key to the game. Cornerback Mark Herendeen recovered two fumbles and grabbed a late 4th quarter pass from Everett quarterback Frank Venuto. It was this interception which crushed all Everett hopes of catching up to Newton. Ken Billings and Jimmy Fay also grabbed errant Everett passes, Fay's preventing a probable touchdown to speedster Kevin Washington. Fay leaped in front of Washington right at the goal line, as he picked off the pass while falling down.

Newton's offense, although it allowed no fumbles or interceptions, was not particularly potent. After a scoreless first half, in which the Tigers gained only 26 yds. against Everett's tough eight man line, Newton opted to take a chance and go to the air. Quarterback Paul Grillo promptly tossed six straight pass completions, although an offensive face - masking penalty against John Connolly momentarily stalled the drive.

On fourth down from the Everett 23, Grillo lofted a touchdown pass to junior Dave Boyagian, who was competing in his first varsity game. This was a four - receiver play, and although Bill Steinberg missed the extra point kick, this six point margin of victory proved to be sufficient.

Ronayne commented that "this was a big win, and the two - platoon system had a lot to do with it. They (Everett) were obviously tired in the second half." Barring any serious injuries, only four Tiger regulars will see action on both the offensive and defensive teams.

John Connolly will see action at fullback and cornerback, Mark Herendeen at end and cornerback, Bob Hoover at fullback and safety, and Ken Billings at halfback, quarterback and safety. Newton has used this two - platoon system for three years and with it has racked up a 22-4-1 record.

Brockton Fell Also

Football faithfuls will recall that a bitter rivalry has existed between Brockton and Newton over the past two years. In 1969 Brockton coach Armond Columbo felt that Ronayne left his regulars in the game too long as Newton rolled over Brockton. Columbo countered last year by breaking a league rule and not sending the previous game's films and by hardly using any substitutes as his team trounced the Tigers.

After the game he was also rumored to have uttered some conceited words to Ronayne. This year, the Tigers did what was necessary on the field, and never was the taste of victory any more satisfying.

Led once again by a stellar play by senior Mark Herendeen, Newton edged the shoe city boys by a 7-6 in front of 7500 active spectators at Marciano stadium on October 2.

On Newton's only penetration beyond Brockton's 40 yard line, Herendeen grabbed a punt return fumble by Dave Boyagian and scampered seventy yards for a touchdown. The key blocks on this play were by co-captain Mike Ball and by Jimmy Mannix, the former setting Herendeen free at the sidelines on Newton's thirty, and Mannix taking out the last remaining opponent downfield as Herendeen crossed the goaline near the center of the field.

When Bill Steinberg's first varsity point wobbled over the cross-bars Newton was ahead 7-0 with only 32 seconds left in the third period.

Again in this game the offense tended to be weak; Newton was outrushed 119-77 and outpassed 70-6 in yards. Ronayne explained that "the offense is still involved in learning the new set-up. Some areas have been encouraging, others still leave room for a large amount of improvement."

Newton had only five first downs, two of them at the end of the fourth quarter when co-captain John Connolly adeptly ran out the clock.

The defensive unit was the key to the Tiger victory. Ronayne felt that "the whole defensive unit was outstanding. Mike Ball and Mark Herendeen were the visible stars and their leadership was important. The two tackles, Phil Pescosolido aad Robert Fitzgerald worked hard all week to correct their mistakes and they were the unsung heroes of the game."

The key play for the defense was when they thwarted Brockton's two-point conversion attempt at the three yard line. Cornerback Dave Boyagian and tackle Phil Pescosolido were the key men in this play which occurred with 4:14 left in the game.

Brockton had just scored their touchdown on a 49-yard pass play from substitute quarterback Mike Gordon to Mike Delancey and had Brockton got the conversion they would have been ahead 8-7. Coach Colombo's son Peter was the starting quarterback and when he proved ineffective Gordon took over, switching from his usual halfback position.

Gordon who scored four touchdowns and gained 117 yards rushing in Brockton's victory over Chicopee, was held to 37 yards and a 15-yard pass reception by Newton's stingy defense. John Connolly was Newton's leading runner with 71 yards in 18 carries.

Newton was outweighed in this game by about 25 pounds per man and Ronayne stressed that "it was the courage of an underdog and spirit of a smaller team which won these games for us . . . These might have been our two toughest teams, physically anyway, and because of tremendous spirit and desire on the part of everyone we were able to win."

"Both the players and coaches," continued the Newton coach, "are strong in their commitment to the two-platoon system, we must now work to prove that we have a better offensive team than we have shown."

South Gridders Host Weston This Saturday

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
(Asst. Sports Editor)

Newton South High's 1-1 football squad had last Saturday off, the first time so early in the season the Lions have ever had a bye.

The only time the South squad has ever had a weekend off in previous years, once the schedule was under way, was the week before Thanksgiving. The reasons for the bye centers around South's status as newcomer in the Dual County League. Most of the other schools in the conference had committments.

The Lions, coming off a convincing 28-8 trouncing of Lincoln - Sudbury on October 2, may lose their momentum. On the other hand the time gained by the rest could heal numerous injuries. The only true yardstick of how the layoff will affect tht club is on the - field results this Saturday at Dickinson Stadium, versus Weston.

The Wildcats are 2-0 in the league and have outscored their opponents 36 to 12.

Besides bombing Lincoln - Sudbury South has lost to Bedford, 19-6. South could surprise Weston if everyone is healthy and the offense is as lively as it was in victory two weeks ago.

Spearheading the Lion attack will be halfback Howie Haimes who has scored five touchdowns and rushed for 123 yards in 18 carrys in the two contests. Co-captain fullback Dave Lelchook, 143 yards, and quarterback Ron Izen generate more firepower.

Newton High Cross Country Team Evens Record At 3-3

By DAVE SOLOMON

When a team loses three out of its last four contests, has a 3-3 record, and the coach calls them a "vastly improved team", something is wrong somewhere.

The situation with the Newton High cross - country team is that they are a young, hard-working team which is improving daily. Coach Abner Bailey professed that "we should win the rest of our meets and should do well in the league championship meet; perhaps we can take second place."

After a promising 24-37 victory over Arlington on September 23, Newton had a 2-0 record, and since then they have lost in succession to Weymouth South, Waltham, and Brockton. Last Thursday the Tigers were able to surpass Cambridge Latin.

"We were beaten by three very good teams," commented Bailey, "and they were all better than us at the time. The margin of victory was not comparitively large, though, and since we will be continually improving, we may catch them later."

The Tigers were defeated by Weymouth South 24-31 on September 27. After Jeff Cambell of Weymouth finished first with a time of 13:26, the best on Newton's course this year, Bob Carleo was second with his best time this year at home, 13:51. Peter Wrenn followed in third place, seven seconds back of Carleo.

Weymouth captured fourth, fifth, and sixth places Ralph Gott of Newton was seventh. Gott, a sophomore, was less than fifteen seconds out of fourth place and Bailey feels that "as Gott develops experience he will be able to surpass such men."

Against Waltham, Newton went down in defeat by a 20-38 score, with Bob Carleo finishing third and Peter Wrenn fifth. Ralph Gott was the next Newton runner, in eighth place, and sohomore Donny Ferguson finished in tenth place.

Brockton, who lost to Waltham when standout Donny McCarthy was hampered by a heel ailment, pinned a 21-38 loss on the Newton harriers at Newton's 2.6 mile home course. McCarthy finished first with a time of 13:36. After Brockton's Norman Piche placed second, Carleo and Wrenn captured the third and fourth positions with times of 13:56 and 14:01, respectively.

Ralph Gott placed eighth and Donny Ferguson finished eleventh in the meet.

On October 7 the Tiger runners overcame the Cambridge Latin squad by a score of 15-50. The Tigers completely dominated this meet with the top Cambridge runner finishing tenth. Bob Carleo won the meet with a time of 13:51, and he was followed closely by Peter Wrenn. Ralph Gott was third, Donny Ferguson fourth, with Brian Carey, Jeff Garden, and Peter Granoff being the remaining three in Newton's top seven.

Co-captain Ken Gorfinkle is out for the season due to a knee injury and his loss has hurt Newton's chances, leaving only two experienced, fast runners on the squad. (Wrenn and Carleo).

"A successful team needs three or four consistently fast runners," explained Bailey, "and Kenny's injury will no doubt hurt the team. It is unfortunate he can't run, largely because he will miss out on a great deal of fun."

As mentioned before, the Tigers have a young team, with five of their top seven runners underclassmen. Senior Bob Carleo has been Newton's top runner to date, with his best home course time being about 13:40. Junior Peter Wrenn is Newton's second man, his top time being about 13:45.

Sophomore standout Ralph Gott is Newton's third man with a season's best of 14:20 and is usually followed by fellow sophomore Donny Ferguson, who possesses a top time of 14:35. (all these times are the individuals' best just on the Newton course).

Juniors Peter Granoff, Jerry Goolkasion and Brian Carey round out Newton's top seven, with senior Jeff Garden being the eighth man. The number one man on the Newton J.V. has consistently been sophomore David Kingsbury.

Coach Bailey cites this year's squad as the "most hard - working team I've ever had . . . This team really likes to run and takes workouts beautifully. Because of this, improvement has been steady and strong, despite our losses."

Newton has two remaining meets, against Brookline and Rindge Tech, both at home. The league championship meet will come on November 2 at Brockton.

Newton High Booters Top Arlington 1-0; Lead Loop

By DAVID SOLOMON

Even the best of teams have both their ups and downs during a season, and the Newton High Soccer team is no exception. After outscoring their opponents 16-1 in their first five games, the Tigers entered a two-game drought, in terms of scoring and their level of overall play. But in their most recent victory, against Rindge Tech last Friday, the Newton booters showed that they are snapping out of a trance which allowed them to be tied by weaker Arlington and B.C. High.

At the time of the Arlington game, these two teams was that tied for first place in the Suburban League with identical 4-0 records. After this 1-1 tie, in which co-captain Tim Tsochantaridis scored Newton's goal and co-captain Fred Whoriskey received the coaches' award for most overall poise and agressiveness, Arlington dropped a 1-0 contest to Brockton, so Newton is now sole possessor of first place, with a 5-0-2 league record.

On October 12, the Tigers tied with B.C. High 0-0. This was the low point of Newton's season; according to Coach Mike Buzzi the team suffered from "lack of teamwork . . . We took a lot of shots," continued the Newton head coach, "but they were not good ones. We outshot them 35-6, yet their goalie was forced to make only fiifteen saves."

Thus Newton took twenty completely errant shots, and Buzzi attributed this to the fact that the team was playing "as separate individuals rather than as one cohesive unit."

Dick Chaisson was the recipient of the coaches' award for this game as the Newton netminder made several outstanding saves throughout the game. The defense was cited by Buzzi as being "much stronger and more solid."

Both Arlington and B.C. High played primarily defensive games against the Tigers, with eight men often remainnig back on defense. "They packed their goal," commented Buzzi, "and perhaps we were not ready for this strategy. But now we are, and the same thing will not take place again."

Rindge Falls

The Tigers defeated Rindge Tech at Alliston Park by a 2-0 margin. Newton's first goal was scored by super-sub Wally Cox at the four minute mark of the first period. Dave Douglas had another of his numerous assists on the play. The second goal, also scored in the first half, was kicked in by Timmy Tsochantaridis, with the assist going to Steve Zimbel.

Rindge's team was notably weak in the basic skills of the game, their goalie did, however, show the strongest foot Newton has seen this year.

Buzzi's reaction to this game "we were settling down better. Our passing was improved, we kept the ball on the ground more, and our overall play was better than in the past two games . . . Paul Marigni was tremendous at fullback, he broke up a lot of plays deep in our end."

One of these plays was on a Rindge breakaway, with Marigni the only Newton player staying back. Marigni constantly harrassed the Rindge player until he finally gave up the ball while falling down in exasperation.

Rindge had two penalty shots; the first was shot way wide, and on the second Dick Chaisson made an excellent save. This game marked Chaisson's fifth shutout and the stingy goaltender has alllowed only two goals all season.

For a first place and undefeated team such as Newton, every game is a big one. The Tigers play Brockton and Medford this week, and Oct. 26's rematch against Arlington shapes up to be Newton's most important league game this year.

In summing up Newton's chances, Buzzi stated that "we need to work hard, especially in the area of coordinating the play of our halfbacks with that of our line. Our individual efforts are good, but we must have more teamwork."

The J.V. squad has a 5-3-1 record under coach Sam Watkins, and Barry Howland's sophomores are also having a successful season; they have a 5-1 mark to date.

Powerful Brookline Rams Blank N.A.A. Lions 20-0

The N.A.A. Lions lost to the powerful Brookline Rams by a score of 20-0.

The keyed up Brookline team kicked off and receiver Pete Arnold slipped, but recovered the ball in the end zone. The fumble influenced a passing situation which Brookline read and intercepted returning to the Newton 8. With a second and goal at the six, Brookline fumbled and tackle John Amicangioli recovered.

However, for the second series in a row the garden city unit fumbled. Punter Mike Smith got off a 30 yard punt which Brookline returned to the 20. On first down Steve Ewanouski ripped 9 yards off tackle to the Lion eleven. Tackle John Amicangioli then nailed Ewanouski as he tried to go left for a one yard loss.

Ewanouski then came back to the right for a six yard gain to the 2. Quarterback, Frank Nelson, bulled over for the first score. The conversion attempt was a pass which safety Dave Prola knocked down. That was the only scoring until the last play of the half when fullback Paul Piatelli rambled 20 yards for a score.

Piatelli also rushed the conversion and Brookline took a 14-0 lead into intermission. Quarterback and linebacker, Matt Sabetti, was forced out of the game in the second period.

Fullback and noseman, Jim Vizakis was forced from the game in the third period via an injury. Brookline scored its last touchdown when Ewanouski went 16 yards around left end for the final score.

Outstanding in a losing effort were Mike Sinesi, Dave Chused, Pete Arnold, Al Flynn, John Amicangioli and Ned McCarthy.

The Lions will be home this Sunday against the Waltham Devil Dogs who have identical 3-1-1 marks.

In Jr. Midget action the Tigers recorded their second straight shutout, but ended with a 0-0 stalemate with the Brookline team.

The Mustangs took it on the chin at Arlington by a 20-0 score.

In Pee Wee action the Highland huskies upset the Centre Jets 14-8, creating a three way tie for first via a 40-6 win by the Oak Hill Raiders over the Waban Warriors.

South Cross Country Team Drops 4 More

Newton South High's cross-country woes just keep mounting up. Two tri-meets, last week, added four more defeats to leave the harriers' slate at 1-8, after barely two weeks of racing.

South, which must run against every Dual County League club twice, has not come close to winning since its opening day victory over Lynnfield.

In the first tri Meet the Lions were squashed by host Weston, 15-50, a perfect shutout score, and Lincoln - Sudbury, 21-38.

Wildcat junior Tom Phillips cracked his home 2.7 mile course record with a 13:34 timing, topping the old mark by 14 seconds. Rob Duncan also turned in a fast time in second with 13:51. The Wildcats took the top four places and seventh.

South was paced by Howie Frutkoff in 15:13. He was followed by Byron Ress, 15:19. But then there was a big time dropoff, as the next three Lion finishers, John Mason, Dave Thorne, and Charley Horioka ran 16:33, 16:57, and 17:04. No-one was close to the top five against Weston, but Frutkoff and Ress ran three, four, respectively, against Lincoln - Sudbury.

Weston, one of the toughest squads in the league, met its match in defending titlist Acton - Boxboro, later in the week, in a race where the Lions were hopelessly outclassed.

Acton's Howie Scribner, the Dual County circuit's strongest distance man, captured the swift two and a half mile rae in 13:00, just eight seconds ahead of Phillips. Acton ran up a perfect score versus South and Weston just missed, lodging a 15-49 count.

Frutkoff led the Lions once more, running 14:59, back in 15th place.

Newton South has one tri-meet this week, against Lynnfield and Westwood. Based on previous results Westwood should be too hard to handle and Lynnfield, if everybody is healthy, should be an easy touch. Saturday morning, South will journey to Franklin Park, in Jamaica Plain, to compete in the all-class Catholic Memorial Invitational race, with over 200 runners.

Lion Soccer Team Wins 1-0

Maybe if the Newton South Soccer team only played on Saturdays it would have a winning record. For the second Saturday in a row the Lions toppled a Dual County League foe, this time victimizing Wayland, 1-0.

A week earlier, in the clubs' first victory of the fall campaign, Bedford fell, 4-2. These two contests are the only tallies in the South win column.

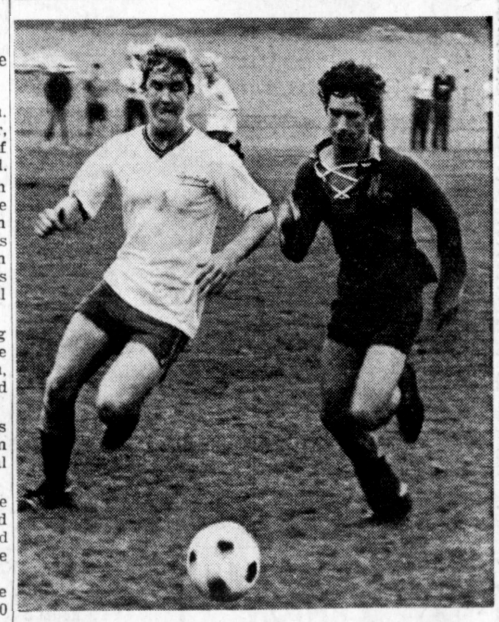

Gary Ross earned his first shutout, blanking the Warriors by turning aside nine shots. For once, defense played an important role and the whole starting line-up of Charley Applestein, Ken Aries, Jeff Snyder, Tom Moore, Alex Landy, Rich Izen, Lee Grossman, Aris Bidianos, Paul Murphy and Elliot Loew, deserves credit.

The only score of the contest came off the foot of Izen. The 5-9 wing scooted past the Wayland defense and unleased a boot that burst past goalie Jeff Ryder, chest-high with only seconds remaining in the second quarter.

A quirk in the schedule gave the Lions a soft week, but it was only the calm before the storm as the booters are matched with Acton, Lynnfield and Acton again this week.

Med Student Accepted Into Health Tech. Program

Geoffrey Modest, of 122 Andrew St., Newton, has been admitted to the Joint Program in Health Sciences and Technology presented by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Faculty of Medicine at Harvard.

The program has three parts. One part, in which Geoffrey is enrolled, is aimed at developing physicians and dentists with strong bases in various fields of engineering and science.

Examples might include a cardiologist with a knowledge of electrical engineering, a dentist with an understanding of biomaterial science, a neurologist or psychiatrist with a knowledge of neuro - physiology, or a physician - administrator with a grounding in economic theory and public policy.

The 25 students entering the joint Program are the equivalent of the first year classes entering many newly established medical schools in the United States and are in addition to the 140 students who have registered at the Harvard Medical School as members of the Class of 1975.

In future years students will be encouraged to enter the joint Program as soon as they are qualified, possibly at the end of the third year in college, or earlier, thus shortening the time spent in college and medical school from the usual eight years to seven or less.

A second part of the joint Program is aimed at developing biomedical engineers oriented toward the application of engineering to biological systems and to the solution of health problems. These might include biomedical engineers concerned with control systems and life support mechanisms, biomaterials scientists involved in development of materials for artificial organs and prosthetic devices, and experts in fluid dynamics seeking deeper understanding of such biological phenomena as heart function and blood flow.

A third part of the Program, which is under development, will help to develop biochemists, biophysicists, biomathematicians, and biologists oriented toward human biology.

Collaborative research and development efforts between individuals and groups at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Harvard Medical School, also will be carried out under the aegis of the joint Program. Research will concentrate on areas deserving particular emphasis because of their importance to health and medicine.

Fr. Drinan Takes Part in Panel On Drug Problem

Congressman Robert F. Drinan of Newton will take part in a discussion of legal and medical aspects of drug abuse at Waltham High School next Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

A panel of persons experienced in drug research, treatment and legislation will discuss their work. Following their presentation, the program will divide into four discussion groups focusing on pharmacology, understanding youth, legal aspects of drugs and drug education.

In announcing his attendance at the evening session, Fr. Drinan declared, "Many of us have become reasonably well informed about the tragic costs exacted by drug abuse at the expense of our children, our communities, and our already beseiged society. I invite you to join me and members of he Massachusetts Department of Education in an opportunity to increase our understanding of the legal anad medical aspects of drug abuse, and to consider some interesting possibilities for rehabilitation and prevention.

"We have much to learn not only from the experienced professionals but also from each other. I look forward to meeting you and to hearing your views on this harrowing dilemma which we must confront and overcome together," Drinan said.

Dr. Harry Shwachman Will Be Feted At Dinner-Dance

A group of parents have formed a committee and made plans to honor Dr. Harry S. Schwachman of Children's Hospital Medical Center on Saturday evening, November 6 at the Blue Hill Country Club in Canton.

"An Evening of Tribute" in the form of a Dinner - Dance will be presented to Dr. Shwachman for his many years of research and devoted care to thousands of children with Cystic Fibrosis. A presentation will be made to Dr. Shwachman to further his research efforts in Cystic Fibrosis in the form of a fund set up in his name.

In 1937, while a Resident at Children's Hospital, Dr. Shwachman, working with Dr. Sidney Farber, who was one of the first to recognize the true nature of cystic fibrosis, decided to put all his efforts into this direction. Now, some 34 years later, he is the author of over 100 papers, the recipient of many awards, and a world - reknowned figure in the treatment and diagnosis of Cystic Fibrosis.

He is endeared to the hearts of his patients and their families, not only for his medical excellence, but for his friendship and counselling. Anyone interested in joining this gala evening, please call 969-8077 or 527-1330.

Sacred Heart Group Works With Day Junior High School Pupils

Twenty-one students at Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Newton are involved in a project at Day Junior High School in Newtonville that emphasizes community-wide learning and the development of a "sense of community" in the schools.

The "seminar and practicum" offered by Newton College is in cooperation with the Harvard University - Day Junior High project in community education.

Through the course Newton College students work once a week with Day seventh graders. They are involved in a variety of ways: working alone or in pairs, working directly with Day teachers, leading small groups on topics of interest, or tutoring.

Last year students led groups on early childhood education, animals, current events, "mock trial," drugs, adolescent development, etc., as well as doing tutoring in reading.

On another day of the week the Newton College group meets on the Centre St. campus to discuss salient educational issues, relating the practical and theoretical sides.

The primary focus of the seminars is "the Modern American School" as it involves students, teachers, curriculum, community, etc. Field trips and individual conferences with the instructor are planned.

Four of the Newton College students are supervising Day ninth graders who run a nursery school in the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville as part of a course in child development at the junior high school.

The nursery school, which will begin operating this year during the latter part of this month (October), includes a maximum of 20 pre-school children under the overall supervision of Wilhemena Gustavson, a trained nursery teacher. It was organized under the direction of Mrs. Rohna Shoul, a social worker and coordinator of the child development program at Day Junior High.

Newton College students who will be working with the nursery school children and supervising the junior high school students in the program are Julie Sikora, Janet Bauman, Robin Reid, and Mary Ellen Hackman.

Local Suffolk Graduate Earns Top Honors

James F. Neeley of 262 California St., Newton recently received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Suffolk University. He is the son of Mrs. Marcelle Neely and the late William J. Neely.

A graduate of Newton High School, James was on the Dean's List at Suffolk. Other honors included election to the Pi Gamma Mu Honor Society and a scholarship award.

While at Suffolk, he was on the staff of Venture, the college literary magazine, and a member of the Suffolk Political Science Club. James was chairman of the University's delegation to the National Model United Nations for 1970-71.

Needlecraft Passes Time At Middlesex Hospital

The busy clicking of knitting needles and the gentle sound of voices and laughter float down the hall. One could close one's eyes and pretend one was on the way to a social gathering of neighbors.

For the women who meet to chat and do handowrk, it is a social gathering, but it takes place each afternoon in one of the lounges at Middlesex County Hospital.

From the hospital's point of view, the group's main purpose is to keep the women's spirits up and their hands busy. They are encouraged in their endeavors by Mrs. Amelia Stasio, occupational therapy aide. The patients look on it as a chance to see their friends and to make beautiful afghans, sweaters, rugs and other needlecraft creations for gifts and use when they return home.

Middlesex is a chronic disease hospital which cares for patients with a wide variety of long term illnesses including lung diseases, heart disorders, amputees and rehabilitating patients. Many of the patients actually feel quite well and time can hang heavy on their hands. Keeping their minds off their health problems is also important.

For many of the women, it is the first time they have ever tried to knit or crochet, but under the enthusiastic, yet patient guidance of Mrs. Stasio, they are soon producing elaborate items.

"The patients don't want to learn unless they can make something useful and beautiful," Mrs. Stasio said.

For patients who are unable to come to the group sessions, Mrs. Stasio goes to their rooms.

Mrs. Stasio loves all types of needle work and passes her love on to her pupils. She has taken classes in all forms of fancy needle work since she was a young girl and has taught at area stores. She worked for many years as a finisher for men's clothes, furs and dresses — that is, she did all the handwork.

She is quick to compliment her students and is able to encourage them to take on new and more difficult patterns with a heart warming, "You can do it."

She recently convinced a 70-year-old woman who had never done any type of handwork, to take up crocheting with eye-pleasing results. At the other end of the age spectrum, she is helping a 15-year-old make a crocheted skirt and vest outfit.

New Freshmen At Kansas' Ottawa

Two Newton Centre youths have enrolled as freshmen at Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kansas, affiliated with the American Baptist Convention.

The two new frosh are: Miss Karen Lane, daughter of Mrs. Barbara C. Lane, and Douglas Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Wallace of Oxford road.

Our new office building will improve your profits, your disposition, and your backhand.

All you have to do is put your office in it.

You'll have 5 stories and 90,000 sq. ft. to choose from, and the space can be designed for your exact needs.

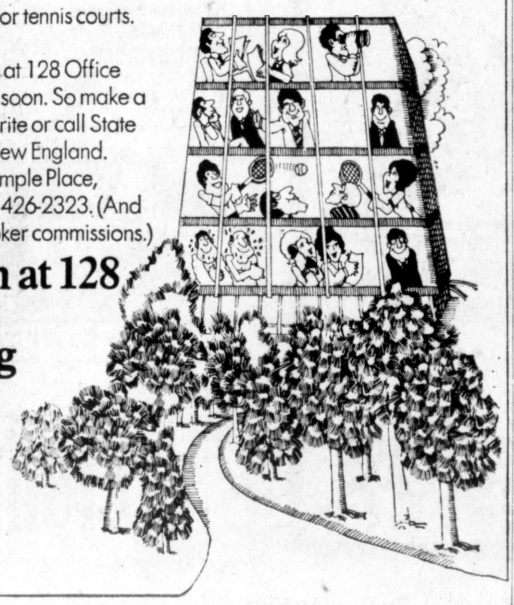

You'll save on your utilities and office cleaning, because they're free. And your tax rate will probably be lower, too.

Smile, no more traffic jams. Because you're in Newton, just off Rte. 128 and 15 minutes from Boston. Outside your door, plenty of free parking. And outside your office windows, trees and grass — not other office windows.

And right on the grounds is the Health Club. So you can relax in the sauna, or play a few sets on the indoor tennis courts. Or both.

The Newton at 128 Office Building opens soon. So make a good move. Write or call State Properties of New England. We're at 59 Temple Place, Boston 02111. 426-2323. (And we pay full broker commissions.)

Davis Named Director Of Jt. Social Service Office

Stafford Davis, former vice-president in charge of manufacturing and engineering at E. C. Hilliard sheet metal fabricating Corp. in West Newton, embarked Tuesday on a tripartite career as executive director of Newton's Council on Aging, Council of Youth, and Drug Coordinating Committee.

Mrs. Jane Hamilton will serve as secretary for the triple office, which represents the first full-time staff for the three new city commissions.

Davis is past president of Rotary and a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton Cooperative Bank, as well as a Board member of the Chamber of Commerce.

He is currently President of the Board of Directors of the Boys' Club, and has been a member of the Board for seven or eight years.

Mrs. Hamilton says, "We're not busy now, but we hope to be. We're starting from scratch," she explained, to develop a program for the three social service agencies.

Miss Adelaide Ball, Chairman of the Council on Aging, had expressed hope that the secretary's job, formerly conceived as a part-time position, might be offered to a senior citizen.

Asked whether she fit the description of a "senior citizen", Mrs. Hamilton replied, "No, but I'm getting there."

Explaining that the secretarial role was to be quite definitely a full-time job, Mrs. Hamilton explained, "This job is a challenge, and might prove to be mentally and physically exhausting for a person over 65."

Aldermanic Stalemate On Vietnam

A stalemate on a resolution on the Vietnam War divides not only the Board of Aldermen, but the Legislation and Rules Committee, to which the resolution was referred.

Several motions were made at the committee meeting: one to table the resolution until after elections, another to endorse it. But no motion received a second.

A compromise resolution read by Committee Chairman Eliot Cohen also failed to come to a vote. Cohen decided to resubmit the original resolution, sponsored by Aldermen Peter Harrington, William Carmen, Harry Crosby, Thomas Concannon, and Matthew Jefferson, to the Oct. 18 meeting of the full Board of Aldermen, without comment by the committee.

The resolution calls the President's attention to the referendum of Nov. 13, 1970, in which 13,011 Newton citizens voted for immediate withdrawal of the armed forces from Southeast Asia, 11,547 voted for planned withdrawal, and 2,272 voted for military victory and "requests that Pres. Richard M. Nixon publicly announce and set a date for the final withdrawal of United States armed forces from Southeast Asia. It is further requested that such date be no later than Dec. 31, 1971."

The resolution also asks the president to complete negotiations concerning prisoners of war by Nov. 30.

WORKING ON MEMBERSHIP for the 1971-72 season for the Greater Boston chapter, Brandeis University National Women's Committee are (left to right): Mrs. Robert Gordon, administrative vice-president, Mrs. Jack L. Fisher, president, Mrs. Jonas Shure, continuing membership chairman, Mrs. Bernard Lederman, annual membership chairman, Mrs. Nathaniel Slavin, life membership treasurer, and Mrs. Philip Granoff, co-chairman life membership.

Aldermen Hold Off Final Decision On Office Park

The Aldermanic Land Use Committee is giving serious consideration to a proposal for a multi-million-dollar office park to be developed by Riverside Associates adjacent to the Riverside MBTA station.

The developers are asking a change of zone and a height variance for the proposed seven and nine-story structures.

The proposal, which raised a storm of protest from ecology groups who contended it would mar a proposed MDC Recreation area to be situated across the Charles River on the Weston side, has been modified to eliminate several feet of fill which conservationsist contended would lesson the flood-holding capacity of the river.

The paring lot is now planned to be at the same level as the river.

The proposal will undoubtedly be affected by a proposed flood-plain zoning ordinance which, if passed, would prohibit fill projects along waterways in Newton.

Alderman Alan Barkin, Chairman of the Land Use Committee, cautioned, however, that the proposed zoning ordinance must not be construed as prohibiting "reasonable uses of the land." Otherwise, said Barkin, the zoning would be considered a land-taking, and the city would have to pay for the land.

Barkin noted that the Riverside proposal has not yet been approved by the State Department of Natural Resources, but did not feel that DNR regulations would prohibit the development.

Becauuse of potential problems of access and traffic congestion on Grove St., the plan, which has already received approval from Mayor Monte G. Basbas, was referred to the Traffic Commission and the Planning Board for further study.

Council Hosts Blind Students

Sighted and blind children, lashed together for three-legged races, hopped along in tandem when the Red Cross Jr. High - High School Council recently sponsored an outing for 17 boys and girls from the Perkins School for the Blind.

The council consists of student representatives from all the Newton High Schools and Junior High Schools.

Activities at Auburndale playground included ball games, relay races, and guitar playing. Refreshments were prepared by the council members.

City's Phone Bill Is $2350

The average monthly telephone bill for the City Hall this year was $2,350, Building Commissioner Charles Herbert told Aldermen of the Public Buildings Committee Thursday night.

The Commissioner was asking for funds to cover a 10 per cent rise in telephone expenses. Next year's bill, he said, is expected to reach a minimum of $30,000.

Much of the increase, Herbert stated is probably due to additional toll calls. He noted also that the aldermen had cut $4,000 from his original budget request.

Several accounts in the building Deaprtment are short on funds, Herbert told the Aldermen. There is enough money in the telephone account to pay September's bill only. The account for supplies such as toilet paper and other household items, is down to $48. Money is also needed for repairs on the eight building inspectors' cars.

The Aldermanic Public Buildings Committee approved the funds request, but it still must go before the Aldermanic Finance Committee.

Families That Run Together

Four members of the Fitzgibbon family and two from the Van Trees family of Newton turned out for cross country races at Fresh Pond in Cambridge.

From the Fitzgibbon family, Amy 7, and Sean, 4, took first and fifth place in the half mile race for children nine years old and under. Their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Fitzgibbon, ran in the women's two-mile race, and sister Ann in the one mile race for girls 13 years and under.

Also competing in these two races were Kathy and Tricia Van Trees.

Cathy Sotir of Newton, placed second in the half mile race.

Newline Club To Meet October 20

Wheelock College Alumnae in Newton and Brookline will hold a meeting of the "Newline Club" next Wednesday (Oct. 20) at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Martin Feldman, 26 Downing Rd., Brookline.

An informal panel discussion on "Change" within the college and in teaching will be led by two students and a recent graduate.

All Wheelock graduates and friends are welcome. Coffee will be served before the meeting.

Newton women planning the meeting are Mrs. Robert Blaney, Mrs. Edward C. Kelley Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Lyons, and Mrs. William A. Wolf.

Spouse Selected For Aerospace

Captain Michael N. Shapiro, husband of the former Karen Cohen of 19 Chestnut Terrace, Newton Centre, has graduated from the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Captain Shapiro was specially selected for the 14-week professional officer course in recognition of his potential as a leader in the aerospace force.

The captain is being reassigned to Francis E. Warren AFB, Wyo., as a missile maintenance officer.

He was commissioned upon completion of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program at Tufts University, Medford, Mass., where he received his B.S. degree in physics in 1965. He earned an M.S. degree in 1970 from the University of North Dakota.

Panel To Discuss Jewish Libraries

The Opening meeting of The Greater Boston Chapter of the Association of Jewish Libraries will be held at Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington st., West Newton, on October 14 at 9:30 a.m.

A panel discussion on the subject, "A closer working relationship between the library and the school," is scheduled for the meeting.

Rabbi Sanford Selteer, regional director of the New England Council, U.A.H.C.; Saul B. Troen, educational consultant, the Bureau of Jewish Education; and Mrs. Rashi Fein, of Temple Reyim, West Newton among others will be on the panel.

A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the subject to attend the meeting at Temple Reyim by Mrs. Herbert Shulman, President of the Library Association.

10 Teachers, 7 Aides Are Appointed By School Board

Ten additional teachers and seven more teacher aides have been appointed to the Newton Public School system by the School Committee.

Named to teaching positions at Newton High School was David R. Outerbridge, a University of Mass. graduate who will be teaching English. Mrs. Charlotte S. Waks, who holds a M.A. degree from Columbia University will also be teaching English at the High School.

Also appointed to Newton High were Mrs. Lilian C. Landers, a business teacher, and Mrs. June Slavin, a Social Studies instructor.

A new Home Economics teacher at Day Junior High School is Mrs. Wilhelmina Gustavson, who earned her Education degree from Eliot - Pearson College. Harvard graduate Michael H. Davies will be teaching the fourth grade at the Burr School.

Mrs. Karen F. Crouthamel, a graduate of Scrippps College in California, is a new Art Instructor at the Memorial School. Appointed a Speical Education teacher at Spaulding School is Randall C. Robinson, who holds a B.A. from Worcester's Clark University. Mr. Robinson's appointment is only for the first half of the school year, ending in January.

Mark S. Taitz, a 1971 graduate of Tufts, will be teaching the fourth grade at Underwood School.

Robert G. Chapman has been named Attendance Counselor with the Newton School System's Division of Program. Mr. Chapman holds a B.S. degree from the King's College in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.

In addition to the teaching assignments, seven teacher aide appointments were authorized. Mrs. Nadine C. Krasnow, who holds a Master of Education degree from Tufts, has been assigned as an English instructor at Newton High School.

Two aides have been appointed to positions at Newton South High: Laurence Kleinman, a Hunter College graduate, is a new Media teacher, and Mrs. Sarah N. Sawyer, an alumna of Wellesley, will teach Mathematics.

A recent Springfield College graduate is Miss Mary Ellen Ni, who is a new aide in the seventh and eighth grades at Weeks Junior High. Coming to the Franklin School as a teacher aide in grade five is Mrs Jdith R. Rlias, who holds a B.A. and M.A. from Stanford University.

Miss Joan K. Apt, a cum laude graduate of Boston University, has been appointed a teacher aide in the first and second grades at Horace Mann School.

Another B.U. alumna, Miss Emma B. Egbert, has joined the faculty at Ward School, where she is a kindergarten instructor.

There are about 13,000 trailer parks in the U.S.

Newton Youths Attend Berklee

Two Newton youths have been accepted for enrollment at the Berklee College of Music in Boston.

Christopher Suss, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Suss of 81 Park Ave. in Newton, is currently a iano student of the College's Division of Private Study. He is a full-time student at Boston College.

Also attending the Division of Private Study at Berklee is Kenneth Goodman, 17, son of Dr. Nathan Goodman of 4 Woodhaven Rd. in Waban. Kenneth, a student at Noble and Greenough, is enrolled as a Guitar student.

Foreign Student Weekend Planned

Newton will hold its seventh annual International Students' Weekend sponsored by the Newton Community Peace Weekend on October 23-24. At this time, families become hosts to students from all over the world who are currently studying at Universities in the Boston area. This gives the students an opportunity to know American homelife at the personal level as well as affording the host families a chance to learn about their guest's life.

On Saturday evening October 23rd, an International Square Dance will be held to which all students and hosts are invited.

The Newton hosts who are planning to participate thus far are Mr. and Mrs. David Chesler, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Oiva Hintsa, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kupferschmid, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Raphael, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Scheff, Jasper K. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Penzer. Anyone interested in participating in this weekend may call the Chairman, Mrs. Scheff at 332-5406.

Newtonite Joins Kodak

Joseph G. Zahka, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zahka of 30 Byrd ave., Newton, has taken a position with Eastman Kodak Company and been assigned to the Photographic Technology Division at Kodak Park.

Zahka graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute with a B. S. Degree in chemical engineering and holds a master's degree in chemical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was awarded a Fred Koch scholarship to study at M. I. T.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JANICE E. KAPLAN

Have you ever heard of a bouzouki? Are you any good at playing a mandolin? Would you know the difference between a Corinthian column and a cement wall? If you stay near South this year the answers to these questions will soon be yes! This isn't just the 1971-72 school year — it's the Year of the Greek!

Year of the Greek

The theme for the year arose from a fortunate set of circumstances which began when Mr. Wayne Altree, chairman of the Social Studies department, spent the summer in Greece. Much of his vacation was spent in Salonica — known for four hundred years as perhaps the greatest Jewish community in Europe.

Until the outbreak of WW II it was renowned for affluence, wisdom, and a rich heritage. All this was brutally ended when its 85,000 Jews were annihilated by Hitler.

Salonica's only call to greatness now comes from the American Farm School. The school, which annually enrolls two hundred boys and forty girls is, in Mr. Altree's opinion "one of the greatest ornaments of American aid."

Combining these two impressions of the city, Mr. Altree was inspired by the idea of setting up a memorial to the Jews who were lost in the war. "Four hundred years of history," he notes "should hardly pass unnoticed." Looking to the practical side, he suggested a fitting memorial be a plaque — and a donation of books to the American Farm School.

Drama, Music, Art

This interesting theme (and worthy cause) has provided inspiration to the arts departments, too. Coincidentally, Newton South art teacher Robert Andrews is one of the most distinguished Greek artists in the country.

His students will find themselves studying Classical Greek art and Greek design. This is an idea that was long contemplated at South — and is finally being realized.

Note to be outdone — and quick to join the spirit — is the Theatre Arts department.

Mr. Ernest Chamberlain and Mr. David Arner have undertaken the production of the challenging, unique musical "Zorba". It is an exciting 1968 Broadway musical adapted from "Zorba the Greek." The play will be performed mid-February and promises to be one of the most spirited projects to hit South.

In keeping with the "Year of the Greek" this year's annual fall drama includes comedy, too! The ambitious plan is to present two plays: the Greek tragedy "Antigone" and the light, clever Greek comedy "The Warrior's Husband".

They will be presented on alternating nights from November 17 through 20. (More on the plays at a later date.)

A special surprise may be in the offing for some members of the Newton Community. The arts departments are hoping to lead a group of interested students, faculty, and parents to (where else?) Greece during April vacation!

English Electives

Nearly all junior and senior students are participating in the new elective program being offered this year by the English department.

Instead of the traditional English program — a set curriculum and one teacher for the entire year — students are being given the opportunity to sample various teachers and flexible courses.

The half year courses allow faculty members to teach their own specialties and students to find their dual interests. The first semester variety ranges from "The Issue of Morality" to Shakespeare's Tragedies" to "Good Guys and Bad Guys".

Miss Anne Sanguinetti, chairman of the English department, explained that all students are given the opportunity to take any level course. Challenging courses are open to all Curriculum I and II students as are the less demanding. If that's still not a wide enough selection, an independent study option is also open.

Sophomores do not have an elective program as sophomore English focuses mainly on reading, writing, and grammar skills.

The English elective curriculum will continue for two years. At the end of that time, there will be an overall evaluation of the program. Miss Sanguinetti feels that electives will prove to be a rewarding experience — and an idea that is here to stay.

Mini-Courses

The inception of Open Campus at Newton South has been followed by several efforts to utilize students' free periods in a constructive manner. One idea that has been successfully implemented is "mini-courses'.'

Since the school day has been extended by the addition of another block, and the rotating lunch block has been eliminated, students may have more time to explore areas of interest.

The new supplementary program is completely voluntary and offers no academic credit. Mini-courses are scheduled throughout the day. They are taught by students, faculty members, community representatives, and just about anyone who has something important, interesting, or unusual to teach. Many of the subjects are student initiated. A subject is offered as long as interest lasts — from one block to a whole term. Students are free to join or leave at any time.

Mini-courses may prove to be an unusual and useful addition to the school day.

Open House

Parents of Newton South students are invited back to school on Tuesday, October 19. From 7:30 to 10:20, parents will have the opportunity to experience a typical (although abbreviated) school day. The open house is being held under the auspices of the PTSA.

Administration

A new face has been added to the South administration, with the appointment of Mr. Robert G. Frank to the position of Assistant Principal.

Mr. Franke is well acquainted with the workings of the school as he has been at South since the school began. He has supplemented his duties as a math teacher by coaching the soccer and tennis teams.

The role of the assistant principal is basically to coordinate both educational and extra-curricular activites that take place in the school.

Although students will certainly miss Mr. Franke in the math classroom, his presence in the administration promises to be very fulfilling.

PLAN ANNUAL PARTY DAY — Meeting in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's new Coffee Shop to discuss plans for the Hospital Aid's Annual Paryt Day on Oct. 27 are Coffee Shop Chairman, Mrs. Winslow H. Adams, Auburndale, left; Mrs. Jack S. Parker, Wellesley and Mrs. Edwin Hawkridge, Newton, Party Day Co-Chairmen and Gift Shop Chairmna, Mrs. Chester E. Borden, Auburndale. Profit from the annual fund raising event will underwrite equipment in the new Gift Shop.

Alumnae Ass'n Gen. Chairman

The Alumnae Association of Trinity College, Washington, D.C. will hold a regional meeting in Boston on Saturday, October 2 at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel.

Alumnae Association members from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut will meet at the day long session to discuss Alumnae Recruitment of Students and new developments at Trinity by Sister Margaret Clayton, President of Trinity, other members of the faculty and the President of the Student Association, Miss Kitty Bowe Hearty of Marblehead.

Miss Judi Kelley of 1032 Centre St., Newton Centre, is General Chairman.

Centenary Will Hold Luncheon On October 27

The admissions office of Centenary College for Women in Hackettstown, N.J. has invited the guidance departments of Boston area secondary schools to an informal luncheon meeting from 12-2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 27, at Marriott Motor Hotel, Commonwealth Avenue.

There will be another meeting from 8-9:30 p.m. for parents and prospective students.

Judson Betts, director of admissions, said the gatherings "will enable us to bring guidance staffs, parents and prospective students up-to-date on some of our recent developments and ideas we have for the future."

4 Additions To Custodial Staff

Four persons were officially named to the Newton public schools custodial staff by the Newton School Board at its first meeting.

Appointed as Junior Building Custodans II were Victor MacLeod, Raymond Panaggio and Peter J. Puzzanghero. MacLeod, Panaggio and Puzzanghero were unassigned as of the School Committee meeting.

A Janitress, Mrs. Mary E. Deptula, was assigned to the Weeks Junior High School.

Appointment of all four was temporary pending certification by civil service.

Earns Library Science Degree

Among the sixty-five women who completed requirements at Simmons College for a Master of Science degree in Library Science is Miss Susan Finsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Finsen of 11 Sheffield Rd., Newton.

Miss Finsen will receive her degree next month after having successfully finished thirty-six semester hours of study. Simmons graduates about two hundred students a year from its library school, the only one in Massachusetts.

Aldermen's Rules Com. Votes Against New Charter

The Legislation and Rules Committee has voted 3-0 not to endorse the proposed new charter to the full Board of Aldermen.

The committee's major objections were to the four-year term for mayor, to the neighborhood area councils, to the limit of four terms for school committee members, and to the assumption of responsibility for maintenance of school buildings by the school committee.

Committee members felt that if the mayor were elected every four years, off-year elections would cause only sparse voting. They stated that the four-term limit "discriminated" against or singled out the school committee, as against other elected officials. It also might cause a "precipitous" turnover in the membership of the school committee every eight years, some aldermen maintained.

The jump from a $100,000 to a possible million - dollar ceiling on school maintenance expenditures (four per cent of the previous year's budget) by the school department was criticized as "excessive."

The aldermen insisted that neighborhood area councils might be a good idea in a large city, but were unnecessary in a city the size of Newton. "We've got as many pressure groups as fingers on your hand," said Alderman Sidney Small.

The committee endorsed the idea of initiative and refrerendum, but wished to exclude certain additional items from the list subject to referendum, namely tax anticipation and bond anticipation notes. These enable the city to get loans for operating funds in the period before taxes are collected, and in the period after a bond is voted, but before it is floated.

Charter Commission Chairman Mrs. Florence Rubin defended the four-term limit as a way to keep the school committee "responsive." Similarly, she stated that the provision for neighborhood councils would provide a meaningful level of participation for the "alienated voter."

Voting to disapprove the new charter were Aldermen Eliot Cohen, Louis Egelson, and Sidney Small. Alderman Richard Bullwinkle abstained. The vote in this case is only an "expression of opinion," with no legal force, Cohen explained.

Re-elected Head Of Ostomy Ass'n

Marshall D. Glen of 133 Temple St. in West Newton was re-elected President of the United Ostomy Association during their recent annual conference at Hollywood, Florida. The organization, with headquarters in Los Angeles, is comprised of 129 component groups throughout the United States and Canada, containing 15,000 members.

It offers assistance to those persons with ostomy surgery (colostomy, ileostomy and urinary diversion) through better insurance plans, improved surgical appliances, acceptance by employers and general ostomy care.

Mr. Glen is Executive Director of the Leather Goods Department, Mighty-Mac., Inc., Gloucester, Mass. He has completed one year as President, one year as Treasurer, served as Director, Regional Advisor, and Regional Coordinator, all with the United Ostomy Association. Aldermen's Rules Com. Votes Against New Charter

The Legislation and Rules Committee has voted 3-0 not to endorse the proposed new charter to the full Board of Aldermen.

The committee's major objections were to the four-year term for mayor, to the neighborhood area councils, to the limit of four terms for school committee members, and to the assumption of responsibility for maintenance of school buildings by the school committee.

Committee members felt that if the mayor were elected every four years, off-year elections would cause only sparse voting. They stated that the four-term limit "discriminated" against or singled out the school committee, as against other elected officials. It also might cause a "precipitous" turnover in the membership of the school committee every eight years, some aldermen maintained.

The jump from a $100,000 to a possible million - dollar ceiling on school maintenance expenditures (four per cent of the previous year's budget) by the school department was criticized as "excessive."

The aldermen insisted that neighborhood area councils might be a good idea in a large city, but were unnecessary in a city the size of Newton. "We've got as many pressure groups as fingers on your hand," said Alderman Sidney Small.

The committee endorsed the idea of initiative and refrerendum, but wished to exclude certain additional items from the list subject to referendum, namely tax anticipation and bond anticipation notes. These enable the city to get loans for operating funds in the period before taxes are collected, and in the period after a bond is voted, but before it is floated.

Charter Commission Chairman Mrs. Florence Rubin defended the four-term limit as a way to keep the school committee "responsive." Similarly, she stated that the provision for neighborhood councils would provide a meaningful level of participation for the "alienated voter."

Voting to disapprove the new charter were Aldermen Eliot Cohen, Louis Egelson, and Sidney Small. Alderman Richard Bullwinkle abstained. The vote in this case is only an "expression of opinion," with no legal force, Cohen explained.

Re-elected Head Of Ostomy Ass'n

Marshall D. Glen of 133 Temple St. in West Newton was re-elected President of the United Ostomy Association during their recent annual conference at Hollywood, Florida. The organization, with headquarters in Los Angeles, is comprised of 129 component groups throughout the United States and Canada, containing 15,000 members.

It offers assistance to those persons with ostomy surgery (colostomy, ileostomy and urinary diversion) through better insurance plans, improved surgical appliances, acceptance by employers and general ostomy care.

Mr. Glen is Executive Director of the Leather Goods Department, Mighty-Mac., Inc., Gloucester, Mass. He has completed one year as President, one year as Treasurer, served as Director, Regional Advisor, and Regional Coordinator, all with the United Ostomy Association. On the local level, he has completed a two-year term as President of the Ostomy Association of Boston, Inc., and was chairman of the 1970 National Convention in Boston.

Mr. Glen is also Past President of the Brotherhood of Temple Shalom of Newton, the Charles River Dog Training Club and Chief Steward for the New England Dog Training Club. His hobbies are breeding and training dogs. Mr. Glen is married and the father of four children.

Rose Kennedy Aids Village For N.E. Mentally Retarded

Mrs. Rose Kennedy will give a boost Oct. 26 to the unique New England Villages for retarded adults.

Mrs. Kennedy, who is the mother of a retarded adult daughter, will address more than 1,000 women at the First Anniversary Luncheon of the Women's Committee of New England Villages.

The fundraising luncheon, which will be held Oct. 26 at the Chateau de Ville in Framingham, will benefit the first Village, to be located at Pembroke, with construction to begin this fall.

Honorary chairman of the luncheon is Mrs. Francis W. Sargent.

Initial plans for the Pembroke Village call for three residential houses, a vocational workshop and recreational facilities.

Residents of the Village, which will be professionally staffed, will work a five - day week either in the workshop on the Village grounds or in area business or industry, returning to the Village at night.

MRS. ROSE KENNEDY

Other residents will be responsible for maintaining the grounds and buildings, food preparation and small - scale farming. Retarded persons from the surrounding area will be invited to participate in Village life.

The 75 - acre Pembroke site will eventually include ten buildings for housing, work and recreation.

The Villages will be financed through a combination of government and private support. The Women's Committee, with close to 1,700 members in its first year, serves as the Villages' major private fund - raising arm.

Reservations are available through Hostess Committee Co - Chairman, Mrs. James Herscot of Weston at 899 - 0218.

Two-thirds of the peppermint and spearmint oil production of the U.S. is said to come from Indiana.

Farm fresh apples, donuts, cider, and 500 pumpkins will await the lucky children—and parents too — who visit the school grounds between 1:00 and 4:30 that Sunday, rain or shine.

Scoop, design, and carve your own pumpkin — make your own scarecrow.

Brandeis Laboratory Is Honor To Newton Couple

A biochemistry laboratory at Brandeis University was dedicated Sunday, Oct. 10, in honor of its donors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sher of Newton.

The laboratory, located in the Universitys science center, will be used for the study of organic molecules, particularly those involved in biological processes.

Mr. Sher, who has been an active supporter of Brandeis since its early days, is a member of the Greater Boston Brandeis Club Board of Directors. He has been active in the Universitys Family Funds, the annual summer outings, a biochemistry fund, scholarships, the campus service center and the tribute fund honoring Chancellor Abram L. Sachar, the Universitys first president.

A private banker, Mr. Sher is president of the Bankers Mutual Trust, the Mutual Small Business Investment Corp., the Martin Acceptance Trust and is a past president of the Bay State Mortgage Association of which he is now board chairman.

Well known in civic and philanthropic life, Mr. Sher has been an offer in Temple Emanuel of Newton, Brookline Hospital and the Rehabilitation Center for the Aged.

He holds membership in the Masonic order, B'nai B'rith, the American Jewish Congress and the American Jewish Committee.

Addresses Small Business Comm. On October 7th

Harvey C. Krentzman, of 39 Old Colony Rd. in Chestnut Hill, delivered a statement before a U.S. Senate Committee on Small Business in Washington last Thursday (Oct. 7).

Mr. Krentzman is a co-founder of the Small Business Center at Northeastern and creator of SCORE, or Service Corps of Retired Executives to help small business owners and managers.

Mr. Krentzman informed the Senate Committee Thursday that the nation's 5 million small businesses will suffer most from the imposition of wage and price controls in Phase 2 of the Government's Economic Plan.

Tax Abatement Applications Due Oct. 26

Next Wednesday is the deadline for applications for tax abatements, according to Mrs. Isabelle Mackey, chairman of the Newton Board of Assessors.

Hardship abatements may be granted in cases of financial need. Generally, tax bills are paid in full, after which the city treasurer returns to the taxpayer, in cash, the amount of the abatement, according to Assessor Milton Manin.

In addition, state law exempts certain classes of persons from part of their tax. Persons legally entitled to exemptions include widows, disabled veterans, persons over 70 years old, and blind and handicapped persons.

Newtonites have until Dec. 15 to apply for exemptions.

"LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS WEEK" — League of Women Voters Week begins October 17, proclaims Mayor Basbas. Present to accept the proclamation are Mrs. Charles Lipson, president (left); Mrs. Daniel Brandel, Voters' Service Resource Committee Chairman (center); and Mrs. Roy Green, (right), Editor of The Voters' Guide. Voters' Service is the focus of League activities for the week ahead.

Busy 'Week' Planned By League of Wom. Voters

An Evening with the Charter Commission at 8 p.m. on Sunday, October 17, at Peirce School begins a series of events during League of Women Voters Week - October 17- 22 - to which the public is cordially invited.

Since the question of retaining the present City Charter or adopting the Proposed Charter will be on the ballot November 2, the League has invited all members of the Charter Commission to appear for a discussion of the Proposed Charter and to answer questions from the audience.

League publications, information on membership and current activities are part of a display at Newton's Library during League of Women Voters Week. Complimentary copies of The Voters' Guide, compiled this year by Mrs. Roy Green, which contains detailed background information on the candidates and their answers to questions asked by the League, will be available at all library branches.

The Voters' Service Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Daniel Brandel, will provide information on candidates and issues at Discussion Units to be held on October 20,21 and 22. Issues to be discussed include the fiscal crisis facing the city, low and moderate income housing, school policy and programs, and the school budget. The Vters' Guide will also be available at Units. Members of the Voters' Service Committee are Mrs. Julius Breslouf, Miss Janet Holly, Mrs. Harold Leppo, Mrs. Henry Lieberman, Mrs. Arthur Lowenthal, Mrs. Robert Schwartz, Mrs. Maynard Slessinger.

During League of Women Voters Week and the following week a number of Candidates' Nights will be held. Annual Candidates' Night for Mayor and Alderman will be held on October 26 at Newton South High School at 7:30 p.m. School Committee Candidates will be presented at five meetings co-sponsored by the League and the PTA Council.

The meetings beginning at 7:30 will be held Occtober 18 at Day Jr. High; October 20 at Weeks; October 21 at Meadowbrook; October 27 at Warren; and October 28 at Bigelow.

The Voters' Service Unit Meetings will take place next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Morning Units meet from 9:30 to 11:30; luncheon Unit meets from 11:30 to 2; and evenings meetings are from 8 to 10.

The same subject is duscussed at all units and participants may choose the particular section they wish to attend. Locations are as follows: Wednesday morning, October 20, at the home of Mrs. Gerald Cohen, 26 Larchmont Ave., Waban; This unit will be led by Mrs. Elia Lipton. Wednesday luncheon unit will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox St., West Newton, and will be led by Mrs. Ernest Picard.(Bring a sandwich and coffee will be provided.) Mrs. Joseph Alexander will lead the Wednesday evening unit at the home of Mrs. Yonathan Bard, 6 Holland St. Newton.

Thursday evening, October 21, the unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Edwin Weiner, 156 Arnold St. Oak Hill and led by Mrs. Edward Morrison.

Mrs. F. Dow Smith will lead the Friday morning, October 22, unit at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street.

More information and directions to units from Mrs. Brian Murphy, 244-8508. Membership chairman for the League of Women Voters of Newton is Mrs. Yonathan Bard, 6 Holland Street, Newton.

Named Defensive Player Of Week

George Gardner of Newton shared honors with another teammate in being named Defensive Player of the Week at Curry College in Milton.

George was one of two freshmen singled out by Head Coach Bill McKeown for his outstanding performance during a recent football game against Plymouth State College, which Curry won, 7-0.

George, a 200-pound linebacker, was credited with 18 assisted and unassisted tackles.

Quote of the Week

We should recognize that knowledge is a potent force imperfect world and that institutions dedicated to propagating knowledge should search for ways to encourage a lively debate over ends as well as means.

Derek C. Bok
New Harvard President

-Political Highlights-

The "restricted coverage" option would provide payments to the motor vehicle owner only if he would have been entitled to recover in tort actions such losses or damages against another person likewise covered by a policy or property protection; damages to a vehicle lawfully parked; rear-end collisions, or caused by another motorist convicted of driving under the influence or alcohol or narcotics, driving the wrong way on a one-way street or speeding.

Under the "minimal coverage" option the policyholder's car would not be protected. The insurance company, however, would be liable for a certain amount of damage inflicted by the policy-holder's vehicle, if the accident involved something other than another vehicle.

The American Mutual Insurance Association, claiming to speak for stock insurance companies writing 60 per cent of the auto insurance in Massachusetts, has endorsed the property-damage no-fault except for the Jan. 1, 1972 date of effectiveness and the 15-day settlement deadline proviso.

The A.I.A. favors a wait until Jan. 1, 1973, before implementation and a 30-day deadline for claim settlements.

The American Mutual Insurance Alliance, which says it represents more than 100 U.S. mutual casualty companies stands opposed to property-damage-no-fault.

The A.M.I.A. claims it was a pioneer in no-fault-bodily-injury legislation a year ago. However, it opposes extension of the concept to property damage, asserting it would provide less protection for policy-holders and in many instances would be more expensive for automobile vehicle owners.

The Signing of Satch

It is upstairs in the Garden Club. A cluster of newspapermen, television lights, camera men—and Phil Esposito. He has signed a four-year contract with the Bruins.

Now, come downstairs, sort of, to the Celtics office on the balcony of the North Station. No newspapermen, no television lights, no cameramen—just Tom 'Satch' Sanders. He has signed a one-year contract with the Celtics.

That's the way it is when one man, Esposito, is coming off a record 76-goal season, and the other, Sanders, is coming off an injury-riddled season.

In his own modest way, Sanders' value to the Celtics is nearly as important as Esposito's is to the Bruins.

This is how the Sanders signing went: He walks into Red Auerbach's office. "First," said Auerbach, "he hands me a $1 cigar and says, 'this is bribery'. Then he holds up a sign, 'No, not enough'. That's funny, huh?"

By the time Red finishes laughing, Sanders turns the card around. On the other side, it says:

"Okay, I'll take it."

And, voila, he was signed.

"All he wants to do is play ball," said Auerbach, "no nonsense. All pro athletes should have his attitude."

Sanders' worth is a very basic thing: experience.

He is the player who could have put the Celtics in the playoffs last year. Remember all those games they lost in the last four minutes—games they could have won? Sanders was the man who might have made the difference.

Satch is 32 years old—and it's hard to believe he came to the Celtics for the 1960-61 season, a spidery type player from N.Y.U. He was nurtured wisely by Auerbach and became an un-publicized, underrated player.

His attitude never changed. He was a workman.

"The attitude and experience of a Tom Sanders...that's what we missed last season," said Auerbach.

The 10 points per game he has averaged for his 10 years in the league isn't all that critical. His value isn't there. It's rebounding, playing defense—playing the sound game.

Sometimes in the glory days he took rebounds at such key points the number 16 on his back looked like 6—Bill Russell's number.

It will be nice to have him around again for he is a player who can stabilize a team when the late-game pressure comes along.

He is a good Celtic.

He also leaves nine brothers and sisters, Joseph, Edward, and Mrs. Robert Keegan of Newton, Elvira of Newtonville, Mrs Peter Ligor of Needham, Nicholas of Watertown, Mrs. Anthony Gogolos of Marlboro, Raymond of Boston, and Mrs. Arthur Hamill of Florida.

Edward H. Waters

Services were held yesterday morning (Wed.) at the Conroy Funeral Home on Washington St., in Newton for Edward H. Waters, 61, of 133 Concord Rd. in Sudbury, formerly of Newton. He passed away Sunday after a long illness.

A pharmacist for the Liggett Rexall Co., he was a member of the Newton Council No. 167, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Julia, and one sister, Mrs. Adeline McAdams of Chelmsford.

Interment was at Calvery Cemetery in Waltham.

Mrs. Dorothy N. Holland

Services were held yesterday morning (Wed.) at the Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre for Mrs. Dorothy N. Holland, 76, of Centerville who passed away Sunday in New England Deaconness Hospital.

A former resident of Newton, Mrs. Holland was the wife of the late Boston newspaper columnist, George G. Holland.

She was born in Brookline, and attended Norte Dame Academy. She was a member of Our Lady of Victory Church in Centerveille.

Mrs. Holland leaves two sons, the Rev. George G. Holland, Jr. of Milford and Peter C. Holland of Centerville; and two daughers, Mrs. Jeffrey G. Smith of Seoul, Korea, and Mrs. Laurens C. Hall of Madonna, Md. She is also survivied by two sisters, Mrs. George Cohan of New York City and Mrs. Frank Otto of Boston.

Interment was in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Paul O'Sullivan

Funeral rites for Paul O'Sullivan, of 249 Dudley rd., were held Saturday in St. Andrews' Episcopal Church in Wellesley.

Mr. O'Sullivan, who held controlling shares in a number of wool textile firms, died Wednesday at the age of 75.

He was born in Montreal, son of Eugene O'Sullivan, founder of the O'Sullivan Business Colleges.

He was an alumnus of Lavalle University.

He leaves a widow, the former Jessie Emily Bennett, two daughters, Dr. Renee Benmett O'Sullivan of Wellesley, and Mrs. Shirley M. Gifford of Amherst, as well as a brother, John, in New Jersey, a sister, Mrs. Flore Manny, in California, and six grandchildren.

Edna House

Funeral services were held Tuesday for 82-year-old Mrs. Edna M. (Paul) House, of 55 Wyoming Rd., Newtonville, at one time the only female member of the Nonantum Businessmen's Association.

Mrs. House died Thursday after a brief illness.

Co-founder of the Yarn House (a pun on their surname) in Oct. 1938, she was sole proprietor of the store for 20 years after the death of her husband, the late John W. House. She also took over her husband's membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Born in Waltham in 1889, she moved to Newton in 1911, and has lived in the same house in Newtonville for 47 years.

Active until shortly before her death, she still drove a car, belonged to several Golden Age Clubs, (with whom she traveled to visit the U.N. three years ago) and was expected to serve this year in her annual role as warden at the polls for the November election.

A member of the lecturer's circle of the Needham Grange, she attended a yearly seminar for the Grange.

She was a member of the Mother's Club of the North Congregational Church, and of the Women's Society of the Newtonville Methodist Church.

She was the mother of six children, two of whom - Mildred, and Mrs. Dorothy Gatti - preceded her in death.

She leaves daughters Mrs. Janet Luck of Waltham and Mrs. M. Ruth Fisher of Littleton, and sons William of Candia, N. H., and Edwin of Austinville, Ohio, as well as 14 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Ethel P. Bingham

Funeral rites were held in Cambridge Saturday morning for Mrs. Ethel P. (Stetson) Bingham, who died at the Sweet Brook Nursing Home in Williamstown last Wednesday. She had lived in West Newton for more than 50 of her 92 years.

The Maine - born Mrs. Bingham was a Smith alumna, class of 1902, who chaired her class's 65th reunion in 1966.

She was married to the late Norman W. Bingham, senior partner of the Boston law firm of Bingham, Dana, and Gould.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Thomas V. Urmy of Williamstown, Mrs. Samuel P. Walker of Southport, Conn., Mrs. Enno R. Hobbing of Greens Farms, Conn., and Mrs. Henry P. Leverich of Washington, D.C., as well as 11 grandchildren and five great - grandchildren.

Giacomo Tornabene

Funeral services were held last Saturday for Giacomo Tornabene, of 13 Jackson St. in West Newton.

Rev. Msgr. William A. Granville was the celebrant in a Mass at the Conroy Funeral Home on Washington St. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery in West Roxbury.

Attending the Mass were representatives from the Filippo Corsi Society, Gerber Baby Good Products, and Carson American Legion Post 141.

Carmen Was Sponsor Of Voter Drive

Alderman William Carmen of Newton was a sponsor of the Massachusetts' Voter Registration Coalition's rally on Friday.

Alderman Carmen became a sponsor of the registration drive because of his belief in the Coalition's pledge to peace and new priorities. Carmen has urged all communities to incorporate young people in government, and hopes new 18 to 20 year old voters will actively participate in local and national elections.

Supporting the registration drive with Alderman Carmen were many prominent leaders, including Senators Edward M. Kennedy, Edmund Muskie, George McGovern, Edward M. Brooke, Congressmen Robert Drinan of Newton, Paul McCloskey of California, Boston Mayor Kevin White, and anti-war leader John Kerry.

The rally was also supported by the Ripon Society, Americans for Democratic Action, Young Democrats of Greater Boston, and Common Cause.

Alderman Carmen discussed the importance of bringing young people into the election process with Senator Edmund Muskie, who told a crowd of nearly 5000 "some politicians are saying you won't vote and that you don't care. Let them count the people in City Hall Plaza this afternoon."

Senator Muskie told the young people "the 26th admendment has given you a weapon, I urge you to use it. Your votes can elect progressive public officials in this state, this city, and across America."

Alderman Carmen said Friday's rally was a step towards registering the 670,000 newly enfranchised voters in Massachusetts. In Newton, approximately 45 percent of the more than 6000 new voters have registered to participate in November's municipal election.

Named To Dean's List At Wharton

Two Newton men have been named to the Dean's List at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance.

The students, both seniors are: Richard J. Levin, of 60 White Oak Road, and Eric M. Wolf, 107 Elinor Road.

The young men earned the honor of achieving a 3.0 grade average out of a possible 4.0; Mr. Wolf's placement on the Dean's List was marked "With Distinction," as he had earned at least a 3.6 academic average.

College-Bound Kids Probe New Choices

Newton is the place where 90 per cent of all high school graduates go on for further education. But there are signs that the trend is changing.

Kids are questioning the college path, and goals are changing. Principal William Geer of Newton South High School reports an increasing number of students enrolling in junior college or technical courses, and a decrease in the number of students headed for private four-year colleges.

Partly because of economic factors, partly because of a rising respect for technical, non-academic professions, greater numbers of students are applying for the data - processing, secretarial, and nursing programs at Newton Junior College.

Geer notes that 300 Newtonites entered University of Massachusetts at Amherst, the forme "insurance school," this year, and predicts a sharp upturn soon in applications in UMass Boston.

Mrs. Diane Handspicker, teacher in the work-study program at Newton High School, reports that the work-study approach is picking up steam.

Although the work - study program today is primarily for students in the non - college - bound track, Mrs. Handspicker reports that some academic students are looking for a chance to "get their feet wet" with a work - experience before going to college.

Newton High Guidance counselor Roberta Black says, "Students are less traditional in their kinds of choices.

"More students are interested in an interim year (taking a year off before going to college). There is more interest in working with the hands and in vocational and technical training that might have been looked down on before," she comments.

The abolition of student draft deferments is a major concern in many students' deliberations on going to college, according to Mrs. Black.

"Kids are more clearheaded than they were a few years ago," she adds. "Where a few years ago, kids worried about the draft were saying, 'I'll run away to Canada,' now they are looking over the logical alternatives, saying, 'These are the facts, how can I deal with them?'"

In this same quest for logical alternatives, students are questioning the college path itself, Mrs. Black states. "They're looking at all the factors — wieghing their parents' hopes and feelings versus their own search for identity. They're concerned about their parents' feelings too."

All this questioning doesn't necessarily mean that fewer students eventually go to college. "They may say maybe college is not for me right now, but not too many are closing the door. They're still filling all the requirements," notes Mrs. Black.

Principal Geer reports that although some students may take a year off and more may elect junior college or public college experiences, the same overall percentage of students is going on for higher education.

Comments Mrs. Black, "The principal sees the end results. I'm in on the questioning process. They may end up going to college, but there's a lot more questioning on the way."

PW Chief Renews Request for Ban On Trashmasher

Mashed trash can be dangerous, according to Public Works Commissioner Willard S. Pratt.

Pratt filed with Aldermen last week an accident report from a city worker who required stitches for a cut received while lifting a bag of compressed trash.

The document was part of Pratt's testimony in support of a ban on the trashmasher.

In regard to last week's test of how the incinerator handled the mashed trash, Pratt stated, "My opinion is that this material resisted burning and not only affected the kitchen packed material but much material adjacent to it. The rate of operation was reduced to considerably higher operating range and every effort was made to see the test was conducted to favor the consumption of this material and yet considerable unburned paper was visable in the ash conveyor.

'I', therefore, would recommend that the ordinance under consideration by the Board of Aldermen be passed."

At the Thursday night meeting of the Aldermanic Public Works Committee, Whirlpool presented a full - color movie of the incinerator test, with flames leaping and coals glowing through a see - through window.

But committee member David Johnson declared himself unconvinced. The fact that men get injured picking up the bags shows that the system is clearly "inadequate", Jackson declared.

Site Said Small For Underwood Addit'n

There's just not enough land to build a satisfactory annex to the Underwood School. That was the consensus of all but the architects at a meeting of the Aldermanic Public Buildings Committee Thursday.

While architects praised the "compactness" of the school, aldermen, members of the School Committee and the citizens committee supervising the design of the school agreed that steps must be taken to acquire more land before a satisfactory design can be made.

A number of persons suggested the closing of Vernon St. as the most likely method of enlarging the site. To take Vernon St., the aldermen must approve a petition must approve a petition from the Executive branch. A School Committee request to the Mayor to petition for the taking of Vernon St. was submitted in Mid-July. "The Mayor is the one who's got to tie this whole thing together declared Alderman Alan Barkin, Acting Chairman of the Public Buildings Committee.

In the original educational specifications drawn up for the annex by the School Committee, according to School Committeewoman Eleanor Rosenblum, the closing of Vernon St. was considered mandatory, and was incorporated into the School Committee's approval of the project.

Mrs. Rosenblum faulted the design by architects Haldeman and Goransson, Associates, for lack of parking facilities and inadequate play space.

The Haldeman and Goransson design, presented by Prof. Jerzy Soltan, includes a wall of glass along the gymnasium at ground level, so that passersby can see the children at play. Classrooms with movable partitions would be on the second floor.

The addition would enclose a central courtyard, which was criticized by several persons at the meeting for its "tunnel-like" entrances, and for inaccessibility or the inefficient use of space. Laurence Bishoff, president of the Underwood School PTA, says the courtyard is a potential maintenance problem and invites physical assault. Architect Soltan replied that the openings create a feeling of space - "they let you breathe."

The roof of the proposed design is indented, like teeth, with skylights on the slanted indentations. Criticized by some persons at the meeting as "factory-like", the roof was defended by Soltan for its flexibility in providing all-over daylight.

"Kids shouldn't have to crane their necks 80 degrees to look out the window," Bishoff's reply.

Maintaining that the proposed annex would be compatible with the old Underwood School, architect Soltan asserted that compatibality could be based on contrast as well as similarity. "A spark occurs when an old building appears side-by-side with an implacably modern approach," he claimed.

"I would not like to make a more-or-less successful imitation of your old school. An architect must be gutsy enough to be of his own epoch," Soltan added.

School Committee member Vincent P. Stanton joined most persons at the hearing in assuring the architects that the design was a good job, considering the size of the site. But "Underwood is already the tightest school in the city by a significant margin. There are already 150 too many kids." Stanton stressed, adding that confining the annex to the present site would be a "fundamental flaw."

Panel Prog. on Retarded Set For Next Monday Night

The Newton Chapter Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children and the Special Class Parent-Teachers Association will present a panel discussion with a question and answer period to follow. The program is entitled "The Rights of the Developmentally Disabled:" their right to a financially assured future; their right to appropriate education; their right to general well-being.

The date is next Monday (Oct. 18) at 8 p.m., at the Mason-Rice School auditorium.

There will be five panel members. Melvin Ravech, a Boston attorney, will discuss the importance of wills and trusts to the mentally handicapped person and his family.

Tuesday's visit will be at the Beaver Country Day School and Brimmer and May, both in Chestnut Hill.

"Housafari" Gives Senior Girls Full Spectrum Of Adult Living

High school seniors standing on the brink of adulthood face a myriad of challenges, problems and unanswered questions. To give them some of the information today which they will need to make tomorrow's decisions, Boston Gas has embarked upon a new and dynamic program — "Housafari."

Housafari is a three - part program designed to give high school seniors worthwhile information on the full spectrum of housing; owning, renting, building and decorating.

Five months in the planning, Housafari was suggested, planned and developed by Miss Sheila R. Carey, Boston Gas consumer lecturer - consultant.

Working with Miss Carey is Francis P. McDermott, Boston Cas coordinator of community development, whose experience in urban renewal and refurbishing adds even greater dimension to the program.

With the cooperation and encouragement of Principal Richard Mecham and Mrs. Carolyn Woodbury, teacher of home economics, twenty-six Newton High School senior girls began their Housafari recently.

Housafari began in the classroom with Miss Carey giving an over-view of housing with a slide presentation picturing different architectural designs in single and multiple family units. Also covered during the 40-minute first session are points to consider in buying or renting a home, what happens during various stages of construction, floor plans and other related matters.

The second stage of Housafari, in Newton, has Mr. McDermott taking the "dream cottage" vision many students may have had from the slide program and tempering it with realities familiar to all homeowners or heads of households.

This no - holds - barred session included the economics of renting versus owning, what to consider when purchasing a home and what to consider when selling. Also included in Mr. McDermott's presentation were household budgeting, home furnishings and various details of construction.

Putting the "safari" into Housafari, the program concluded with a bus tour of housing developments in every stage of construction. During the Newton High School field trip on Thursday, September 30, the students were shown a home on Cranmore Road, Wellesley, built by Sylvio Epifano, a house at 84 Royalston Road, Wellesley, built by G. Arnold Haynes, Inc., and the "Windsor Village" apartments in Waltham, built by Windsor Construction Corp., Boston.

The various types of architectural designs covered in the tour provided a first-hand view of what was covered in the slide presentation on Monday.

While the tours will vary as Housafari is presented at high schools in other areas served by Boston Gas, they will all include housing developments, houses under construction, model homes and apartments and, in some instances, housing factories and core city developments.

From the first Housafari at Littleton High School September 20 to the last and second tour at Newton High School next May 5, Boston Gas will have brought the Housafari program to over 1,800 high school seniors in 15 of 32 communities served by the company.

Mann To Give Up House Seat If Elected Mayor

Representative Theodore D. Mann today declared that he will give up his seat in the House of Representatives if elected Mayor of Newton. He is now in his fourth term as Representative from Newton's 13th Middlesex District, having previously served eight years as an Alderman.

"Being Mayor of Newton is a demanding job and I intend to give that office my fullest attention and energy. If elected your Mayor I will give up my seat in the House of Representatives. While I have stated this earlier in the campaign I now want to make this fact crystal clear," Representative Mann said.

"The magnitude and complexity of present day problems facing a municipality call for the best of our talents. My hope is that I can help bring solutions to our problems through the application of my experience as a business administrator and as a legislator at city and state levels," he said.

"While I am confident we can succeed, I am fully aware of the fact that it will take a great deal of my time and my very best efforts to focus our community's efforts on ways and means to halt the upward spiraling of the local tax rate, to stabilize it, and wherever possible to ease the burden on the taxpaying homeowner," Representative Mann continued.

Pointing to his plan for establishment of a "Watch-dog Finance Commission," he noted:

"Of course it will not be an easy task to constantly oversee cost elements that make up the city's tax rate. The Mayor's Office will have to work closely with the Commission and Department Heads in an intelligent and detailed attack on rising costs while at the same time safeguarding the quality of our public services and facilities. This will take a great deal of time and effort but I think the results will justify it."

"I plan to give strong impetus," Representative Mann concluded, "to the drive already started to obtain more state funds. We will maintain continuing executive liaison with government agencies to secure the maximum state and federal funds to which we are entitled. Furthermore, I will meet regularly with our State and Federal legislators to insure that they are fully aware of our community's needs and that adequate action is taken to meet them."

Suttenberg Chosen For Cousens Bd.

Lawrence L. Suttenberg of 5 Montrose St. in Newton, has been appointed by Mayor Monte G. Basbas to the Board of Trustees of the Horace Cousens Industrial Fund.

Lolich or Blue for Young Award

Amazing is the word for American League pitching this season.

It was a great year for hurlers all around this past baseball season, but the American League had its most prolific collection of big winners in years.

No less than ten pitchers won 20 games, four alone on the Baltimore Orioles. Only once before in baseball history has a team enjoyed four 20-game winners in a single season. The 1920 Chicago White Sox featured Urban Faber, 23-13, Claude Williams, 22-14, Richard Kerr, 21-9, and Ed Cicotte, 21-10.

Dave McNally, 21-5, Jim Palmer, 20-9, Mike Cuellar, 20-9, and Pat Dobson, 20-8, had one distinction their predecessors did not. They pitched their club to a pennant. The most amazing aspect of the White Sox's feat was, even with the big four the team could only finish second.

The Orioles accomplishment is more astonishing because McNally spent 38 days on the disabled list in midseason.

Wilbur Wood, White Sox, 22-13, Jim Hunter, Athletics, 22-12, Joe Coleman, Tigers, 20-9, and Andy Messersmith, 20-13, who put on a terrific closing rush, also hit the magic 20 mark this season.

All those mentioned had great seasons, many hitting the 20 list for the first time, but the race for the American League's Cy Young award is really between two men, both southpaws, Mickey Lolich of the Tigers and Vida Blue of Oakland.

The 31-year-old Lolich just completed his ninth year in Detroit and was coming off his weakest season in the majors since his rookie year. He had never before won 20 games and pitched in the shadow of the more colorful Denny McLain. He was a solid front-line pitcher, though less than spectacular. He won 116 games and struck out a lot of people, but his lifetime earned run average was only 3.51.

Mickey Lolich hit the really big time this year. He led the majors in wins, 25-14, innings pitched, 367, and strikeouts, 308, and compiled a 2.98 ERA.

Lolich's competition for the award is Vida Blue. The "Blue Streak" is only 22 years old and recently finished his first full season in the majors. He pitched a trifle too much in September of 1970 to be classified as a rookie this year. In his one month in the majors then, Blue fired a no-hitter and a one-hitter.

Vida started this season off at a phenomenal clip. By the all-star break he was 17-3 and won the starting assignment and subsequently the game. He slowed considerably over the second half, though, to finish with a 24-8 mark, 301 strikeouts, 316 innings and a league - leading 1.81 ERA.

The decision will probably go to Lolich because of his strong finish, Blue's sudden return to mortality, and simply because at 31 he may not have another chance, while Blue's career isin front of him

The National League contest should be no contest. Ferguson Jenkins, Cubs, 23-13, Tom Seaver, Mets, 20-10, Steve Carlton, Cardinals, 20-9 and Al Dowming, Dogers, 20-9 are the only big winners.

Downing is the surest bet on anything for comeback - of - the - year since UCLA's basketball dynasty under Lew Alcindor.

Seaver should be the winner by a wide margin. He fanned over 270 men (Jenkins is the only one close) and had a great 1.80 ERA to lead the league. Jenkins will offer mild competition, but some perennial big names, Juan Marchial and Bob Gibson won't be in the running.

Melrose Symph. Holds Auditions

The Melrose Symphony Orchestra, the nation's oldest continuous community symphony, is starting rehearsals for its 54th season and seeking musicians to fill positions in the following chairs: strings, trumpet, French horn, bassoon and English horn.

A true community symphony, the M.S.O. offers to its players a wide range of opportunities for personal development under the direction of conductor David Sonnenschein.

Rehearsals are held on Monday nights and occasional Thursdays with the season running from mid-September through mid-May (with December break). For an audition or further information, telephone 662-8464 or write Auditions, M.S.O., Post Office Box 28, Melrose Highlands, Mass. 02177.

Newton Symphony Opens Subscription Campaign

The Newton Symphony Orchestra launches its subscription drive today and has announced that Mrs. Barrie Greiff of Newton will be handling tickets and assignment of reserved seating for the three concerts of the Sunday evening series. Mr. Greiff headed the special ticket committee of the Newton Symphony Benefit Pops concert of the past season.

Brochures describing the three concerts of the 1971-2 Sunday evening series are being sent to subscribers of the past season.

The dates of the concerts will be November 14, 1971, February 27, 1972, and May 7, 1972. Some of the most distinguished musicians of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be appearing as soloists with the Newton Symphony in the course of the season.

At its opening concert in November, cellist Luis Leguia will be guest soloist. The midwinter concert in February will feature violist Burton Fine and violinist Max Hobart. Joseph Silverstein, famed concertmaster of the Boston Symphony will be guest artist at the final concert in May when he will perform two violin concerti.

Well balanced concert programs have been planned by the orchestra's music director, Michel Sasson. In addition, each guest artist will be giving a premiere Boston performance to introduce a work from a different period of music.

Burton Fine will premiere a work for the viola d'amore by Antonio Vivaldi. Reverie and Caprice for violin and orchestra by Hector Berlioz will be performed by Max Hobart.

A neo-baroque work of Arnold Schoenberg written for cello and orchestra will be played by Luis Leguia. The concerto has seldom been performed because of the great difficulty of the solo cello part for even the most accomplished cellists.

In addition to performing a Mozart concerto for violin and orchestra, Joseph Silverstein will premiere a concerto of contemporary composer Alexander Goehr.

The purely orchestral works slated for performance lack nothing in appeal and color for all musical tastes. Among the works to be performed are Tchaikowsky's Fourth Symphony and his fantasy overture Romeo and Juliet and two symphonic suites Ma Mere L'Oye (Mother Goose) of Ravel and Scheherazade of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

All concerts of the Newton Symphony Sunday series are held at 8 p.m. at the Meadowbrook Jr. High School Auditorium, Newton.

Mrs Albert Kreider may be contacted by persons who were not subscribers of the past season and who may wish to have further information about the series. She may be reached by calling 244-0011. For tickets or reserved seats call Mrs. Greiff at 527-2798.

Tax Bill Ready In Record Time

The modern miracle of computerized billing has saved the city some $30,000 in interest on loans, according to City Treasurer Theodore L. Scafidi.

With the advent of the computer, reports Scafidi, getting out the tax bill has been reduced from a two-month to a two-day process.

Scafidi states that he had planned to borrow $4.5 million in short-term loans to finance city operations during the September-October billing period.

In previous years, the city could expect little or no tax revenue until Nov. 1. But this year, $2.6 million has already been collected in real estate taxes. The city is now operating on tax income, and there has been no need to take out a loan.

The good news was relayed by comptroller Arthur Marr to Louis Egelson, Acting Chairman of the Aldermanic Finance Committee, who told the Board of Aldermen, "Within one week from the time this Board set the tax rate on Sept. 13, and within two working days from the time the Assessors officially set the tax rate, I received a tax bill in my mail box."

Treasurer Scafidi issued a warning to new homeowners who may not have received their tax bills: "Tax bills are mailed to the owner of record as of Jan. 1 1971. If you bought your home during the past year, you may not have received a tax bill. Don't sit back and congratulate yourself on your good luck.

"It's your responsibility to call the City Treasurer's Office and straighten out the record." Scafidi warned that all tax bill not paid by Nov. 1 will be subject to a penalty of eight per cent interest, dating from Oct. 1 to the time of payment.

Local Sergeant In Outstanding Air Force Unit

Technical Sergeant Joseph P. McGarry, son of Mrs. Patrick J. McGarry of 9 Raymond Place, West Newton, is a member of the 2167th Communications Squadron at Chicksands RAF Station, England, which has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

The squadron was cited for exceptionally meritorious service in providing efficient and reliable communications support to units in the Chicksands area for a two-year period ending June 30, 1970.

Sergeant McGarry, a communications supervisor, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

The sergeant is a 1952 graduate of Our Ladys High School, Newton, and attended Curry College in Milton.

His wife, Louise, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Saunders of 211 Adams St., Newton.

French Educators Quiz Students at Murray Road

In a search for innovative teaching ideas, five French educators visited the Murray Road School Tuesday afternoon.

Four delegates from the French Ministry of Education and the headmistress of a French secondary school quizzed Murray Road students on how students choose their program and what role students play in the operation of the school and the creation of programs.

According to teacher Martha ("Marty") Williams, the visitors were eager to discuss "every issue that's currently alive in education".

They asked teachers to explain the structure of the school and the role of the teacher as advisor.

Curriculum and independent study options were of particular interest to the group.

Faculty and students were asked also to give a detailed description of how the school gets off the ground at the beginning of the year.

The French visitors included Mme. Frot, headmistress of a French secondary school bent on introducing experimental methods, and four officials from the French Ministry of Education; Raymond Trieur, a member of the Minister of Education's cabinet; Jean Deygout, director of teaching personnel; Raymond Weil, director of primary and secondary education; and Bertrand Schwartz, counselor for continuing education.

Discussions were conducted with the aid of a State Department interpreter.

The Adult Study Group will meet on Tuesday, October 19 at 8 p.m. on the stage. At this time, a course of study will be shaped for the year. Questions and concerns relating to the Christian faith will be shared.

New Chamber Of Com'erce Comm. Is Established

Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce President A. Raymond Lambert has announced the establishment of a new committee to study and make recommendations for the economic improvement of the two communities. Named to head the committee is Paul Rubenstein of the Security Mills Trust, Newtonville.

Other members include Theodore D'Orlando, D'Orlando Insurance, Needham; Robert Nickerson, Newton Cooperative Bank; Lewis M. Sherer, Marriott Motor Hotel and Richard Weinberg, Rix, Inc.

The committee's goal, as expressed through the Chamber's Program of Work, is to determine ways and means of analyzing and recommending actions to help improve the well-being of local business. It will begin by determining what particular kinds of business the Chamber should attract to the Newton-Needham area and surveying local business firms as to their needs. In addition it will seek means of improving trade conditions and proper economic development of the two communities.

Population Factor

The Saar has a population of 900 per square mile.

Police Lieut. Donahue Is Promoted To Captain Rank

Lieutenant Paul Donahue of the Newton Police Department was promoted to the rank of Captain at a ceremony in the office of Chief William F. Quinn. Chief Quinn administered the Oath of Office and Honorable Monte G. Basbas pinned a Captain's badge on the newest Captain.

In attendance at the oath-taking were the Captain's wife Dorothy, sons David and Thomas, daughter Sandra, daughter-in-law Ingrid (Mrs. Thomas Donahue), a cousin, former Alderman Paul Burke, and friends and co-workers.

Donahue, a twenty-four year veteran of the department, was educated at St. Bernard's Grammar School, St. Charles High School, Waltham, and has taken additional studies at Northeastern, Boston College, and Newton College in Law Enforcement and Human Relations.

In addition, Captain Donahue was selected by the Massachusetts Municipal Training Council to participate in an accelerated Community Service Offiers' Course at Boston State College.

The course was designed to train officers of rank to the needs of the community as it relates to Law Enforcement and to implement recommendations of the "Kerner Report" on crime and violence.

Following his Boston State experience, he was chosen to participate in a workshop at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York, where he was appointed chairman of an evaluation team on ghetto policing in Spanish Harlem.

Captain Donahue also served in the United States Air Force during World War II and instructed Fire Control Officers at various Air Force schools. In all, he served four years and was discharged as a Staff Sergeant.

Chief Quinn, prior to administering the Oath of Office, stated that, "This department holds Captain Paul Donahue in high esteem, as it does his brother Captain Richrd Donahue and their late father Patrolman John Donahue, who established a high level of competance and devotion to duty for his sons to follow."

Mayor Basbas added his best wishes to the new Captain and his family.

Free Films Every Tuesday At The Library Until May

Movies at noon? You can relax and reminisce or be drawn into a provocative discussion by the extensive range of free films being screened at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St. every Tuesday at twelve noon, now through May.

"Annapurna" is the title of a film shown next Tuesday (Oct. 18). The film is a chronicle of the French expedition that succeeded in reaching a 27,000 foot peak in the Himalayas, a triumph immediately followed by disaster on the way down.

"Castro," the story of his life and rise to power, will be shown October 26, and "Focus on Cuba," the companion feature, describes a decade of turbulence under Castro's leadership.

"Who do you Kill?" starring George C. Scott in a sad but startling story of a young child bitten by a rat in a tenement home in New York City can be seen November 2, and "Horseman, Pass By," a biography of the life and works of W.B. Yeats, can be seen November 9 at 12 noon.

On November 16 "Franco," his rise to power in Spain and a study of his personality, will be the feature. "Mao Tse-Tung" is the companion film.

Three generations of a Hungarian family can be seen in the film "Hungary and Communism," and an underground film of the "Revolt in Hungary" can be seen November 23.

November 30 is the date to view a film on the historical background and social problems of modern "South Africa" and "Calder's Circus."

Through cinema verite techniques you can see a film portrait of a Black teenager from the Delta region in "Al Stacey Hayes" on December 7, and a documentary, "Black Panthers: A Report" focusing on a "Free Huey" demonstration with statements on party policy by Bobby Seale and Stokely Carmichael.

On December 14 the Tuesday noon film will be "The Kremlin."

A "Salute to the American Theatre," featuring scenes from American plays with themes of freedom and anti - discrimination, continues the free film series at the Newton Free Library on December 21, along with "Stanislovsky," his career and scenes from several productions in Russia.

"Death of Stalin" is the final film of the year 1971 and can be seen Tuesday, Dec. 21.

The noon-hour series continues through May 30 and a complete list of films is available at the Main Library, 414 Centre St., Newton, open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and 1 to 4 p.m., Sunday.

City Committee Of GOP To Meet

The Newton Republican City Committee will meet Tuesday, October 19, at 8 p.m. at the Work Shop on Columbus street, it was announced today by its Chairman Julius L. Masow.

Notices have been sent out to the more than three hundred members who comprise the membership of the eight Ward Committees that make up the City Committee.

Bowen School PTA Plans 2nd Big Recycling Drive

Bowen School P.T.A.'s second annual Recycling Drive will take place on Saturday, Oct. 23, at the school grounds. The Drive will be held this year in conjunction with the school's annual Harvest Day Sale.

The P.T.A. at Bowen is continuing in its efforts to shift the emphasis from the usual fund-raising events, to those activities which more directly benefit the children at Bowen and the community at large.

The Recycling Drive has been expanded this year to include paper as well as cans. as Mrs. Douglas Moran, serving as Environment Chairman for PTA, has arranged for a 10 capacity truck to pick up the paper collected.

All of Newton is encouraged to participate in the drive. Newspapers and magazines, either tied or in grocery bags, may be brought to the rear of the Bowen School from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. Thomas Regan will be available to collect bundled papers for those unable to bring them to Bowen. She may be reached at 527-2547. Mrs. Regan has also arranged for her group of 6th grade Campfire Girls to collect papers in their neighborhoods, as part of their service requirement.

Mrs. Bradbury Seasholes will pick up cans collected at Bowen, and bring them to the American Can Company in Needham for recycling. Cans should be cleanly rinsed, with labels removed, and flattened if practical, to conserve space. Last year's collection of cans proved most encouraging. Newspapers and cans may be brought to Bowen from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, October 23.

The Harvest Day Sale, scheduled from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 23, will feature the sale of pumpkins selling at the lowest prices around, and in time for Halloween. Also being sold will be apples, and cider by the cup. Mrs. Robert Cohen and Mrs. Benjamin Tessier are Harvest Day co-chairmen.

A Skate and Boot exchange, also an annual event at Bowen, will be held for Bowen parents.

The entire activity will take place on Sunday, Oct. 24, in case of rain.

NEWTON BENEFACTORS — Frieda and Joseph Drapkin, Newton couple, well known in business and philanthropic circles, will be honored on Wednesday, October 20, when the new $900,000 Student Center at Curry College is dedicated and named for them.

Student Center Named For Well Known Newton Couple

The new $900,000 student center at Curry College in Milton will be dedicated, Wednesday, October 20, in the name of Frieda and Joseph Drapkin of West Newton.

The handsome 20,000-square foot brick structure will be known as the Frieda and Joseph Drapkin Student Center in honor of these prominent benefactors.

Curry President John S. Hafer will preside at the 11 a.m. dedication ceremonies, which will be held outside the main entrance to the Center on Atherton St. Various federal, state and town officials, as well as representatives of area colleges and universities are expected to attend.

The Drapkins, both of whom will be present for the ceremonies, have provided generous support to Curry College for many years. In addition, they have supported and sponsored numerous other programs for the benefit of young people.

Their philanthropic endeavors have included sponsorship of the Annual Joseph Drapkin Scholarships for deserving high school students in the city of Waltham, as well as support of the Waltham Boys Club, the Waltham Y.M.C.A. and the Walter E. Fernald School (for the mentally retarded).

Mr. Drapkin is owner of the Waltham Supermarket in Waltham and Mrs. Drapkin has been associated with him in this venture since its inception.

The new Frieda and Joseph Drapkin Student Center contains a number of facilities, of which is the student dining hall capable of seating 450 persons. In addition, there is a snack bar which can seat 76 persons and a small dining room with a capacity of 68 seats.

Other facilities in the building include a commuting students' lounge containing locker facilities for 375 students; a modern bookstore, and the campus postoffice.

Architects for the building are Ferrenz & Taylor of New York. The general contractor is DiLibero Construction Co., Inc. of Boston.

Construction of the building was financed by a loan from the federal Housing and Urban Development Agency.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Sargent Should Lead Move To Revive Port of Boston

Governor Francis W. Sargent appears to be backing carefully away from an open fight with his own Port Authority Board.

While obviously trying to get out of the controversy with as little loss of face as possible, the Governor has modified both his remarks and his position substantially.

Mr. Sargent now declares, in effect, that he cannot and will not allow the Port Authority to ride roughshod over the wishes of the people.

He is referring, of course, to Port Authority plans for building a new runway at Logan Airport.

The Governor is on solid ground when he says the Port Authority should not trample on the rights of the people, but there are times when a board such as the Port Authority must do unpopular things.

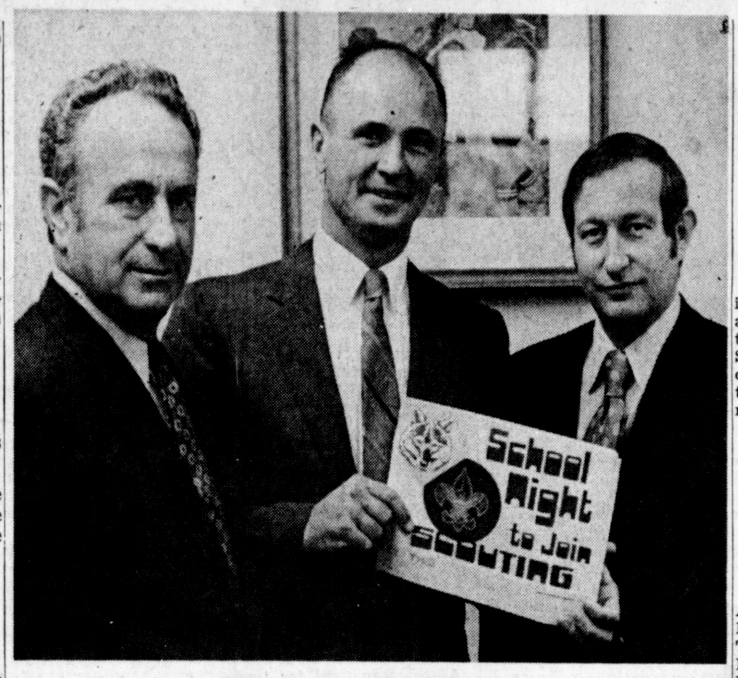

Unhappily for the people of East Boston, the Logan Airport is a nuisance to them and their community while being an absolute necessity for the economic well-being of Greater Boston.

The noise of the planes landing and taking off at Logan creates a frightful disturbance for the people living below the air lanes. It is unfortunate that Logan Airport is not more isolated from the nearest residential community.

Few of the big airports throughout the country are as close to the downtown district as is Logan. The growth of air travel obviously was not accurately anticipated when Logan was built.

But there is no way now that Logan Airport can be closed down if Boston is to remain a major city, and to maintain safety standards at the airport the Port Authority at times may be obliged to do things which are opposed by the people of East Boston.

Officials For Scout Event

Paul D. Slater, right, Newton Development Chairman for Boy Scouts; Dr. Edward C. Michaud, Jr., center, Norumbega Council Development Chairman; and Mario DiCarlo, left, chairman for School Night for Scouting to be held tonight at all elementary schools.

Scouting Night On Tonight

School Night for Scouting this year has been set for tonight, October 21 from 7 to 8 p.m., and will be conducted at all Newton elementary schools, plus the Sacred Heart School and Our Lady Help of Christians School.

Newly appointed School Night chairman, Mario DiCarlo, expects the largest Cub Scout and Boy Scout enrollment in Newton's history, as more and more boys have expressed an interest in becoming a part of this worthwhile program.

Boy Scouts has traditionally been a strong influence in building boys' character and general development.

They learn skills and develop talents that could not have been learned elsewhere.

This year's School Night for Scouting will also provide an opportunity for much needed moms and dads to become part of Boy Scout's adult leadership. Moms and dads will also be able to enroll in the program on October 21st.

Local Campaign In High Gear

Candidates Launch Final Vote Appeal

Newton's election campaign is now moving into high gear as the candidates for Mayor, the Board of Aldermen and School Committee enter the crucial stage of their drives toward D-Day a week from next Tuesday (Nov. 2).

Major public attention, of course, is centered on the battle for the office of Mayor and the right to succeed Monte G. Basbas at the head of Newton's municipal government next New Year's Day.

Principal contenders are Alderman William Carmen, Republican Representative Theodore D. Mann and Democratic Representative Paul F. Malloy. A fourth candidate, Alan G. MacNeil, is not considered to be in contention.

In addition to the mayoralty race, six contests are being waged for places on the Board of Aldermen, seven for seats on the School Committee and five for posts as Ward Alderman.

Two questions also will appear on the Nov. 2 ballot in Newton. One will ask whether beano should be licensed in Newton. The other will ask whether anew city charter drafted by the Charter Commission should be adopted.

Sentiment throughout the city appears to indicate that beano will be legalized and allowed in Newton under the provisions and restrictions contained in the new beano law enacted this year.

A heated controversey, however, is raging over the suggested new city charter, under which the Mayors term would be lengthened from two to four years and a School Committee member would be limited to four consecutive terms or eight years in office.

Several Aldermen will retire from office at the end of this year, and spirited clashes have developed for the positions they will vacate.

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell is standing for reelection as Alderman - at - Large from Ward 2, but William H. Wolf is not.

Striving for the second post or to replace Harrington are Douglas J.

Mrs. Cutler Hailed As Award Recipient

Senator Edward W. Brooke of Newton was the guest speaker at the 13th Annual Achievement Dinner of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night (Oct. 19) at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Auburndale.

Many prominent local leaders attended the dinner, including Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas, chairman Bendict Horowitz of the Needham Board of Selectmen, and A. Raymond Lambert, President of the Newton - Needham Chamber of Commerce.

William I. Cowin, Secrtary of Consumer Affairs of Massachusetts, represented Governor Francis W. Sargent.

In addition, guests included several Directors of the Chamber of Commerce: Gerald A. McCluskey, Keith G. Willoughby, Kermit Greene, Robert L. Tennant, and Vicor A. Nicolazzo, 1970 Chamber President, who received the Past President's Plaque from Mr. Lambert.

$1.4 M Cost To Modernize Incinerator

The first installment of a projected $1.4 million expenditure needed to modernize and update Newton's seven-year-old Rumford Ave. incinerator "will positively not be rushed through" the Board of Aldermen, according to Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein. The needed allocation is more than half the original $2.5 million cost of the facility.

The initial request of $100,000 for design engineering to bring the incinerator up to state air pollution control standards, was submitted to the Aldermen Monday by Department of Public Works Director Willard S. Pratt.

An additional half-million dollars will probably also be needed at a later date for the installation of an electrostatic precipitator.

All cities and towns in Massachusetts, according to Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas, have been given until July 1972 to complete incinerator alterations required by the state.

According to Pratt, the city incinerator was built to comply with state regulation at the time of its construction in 1964, but is now subject to stiffer revised standards on flyash control.

Award-

Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler, former State Senator from Needham and prominent civic leader, was the recipient of the 1971 Achievement Award.

Mrs. Cutler had a distingulshed career in government stretching back to 1924, when she was elected to the Needham Board of Selectmen. She ran for the Massachusetts House of Representatives three times before being elected in 1938.

After a decade in the House, Mrs. Cutler was elected to the State Senate, where she served until 1968. An active and dedicated advocate of equal rights, Mrs. Cutler helped in the passage of a bill which adopted jury service for women in 1949, sponsored legislation to win equal pay for equal work for women, and, in 1964, aided in establishing several fair housing and civil rights bills.

Extremely active in local affairs, Mrs. Cutler has served in the Needham Board of Health for over forty years, and from 1940 to 1970 was President of the Needham Community Council. In 1958 she was one of the founders of the Needham YMCA, and had earlier established the first Council on Aging in the United States.

Praising Mrs. Cutler before 620 guests in the Marriott's Ballroom, Senator Brooke thanked her for having "given of herself" all these years.

The former Senator, he said, has "identified with humanitarian issues of the state and nation" throughout her distinguished life, and was "recognized for her rich contributions" to her community, state, and country.

The program of the evening was conducted by Lewis B. Songer, Executive Vice - President of the Newton - Needham Chamber of Commerce, who also introduced the special and honored guest, including several men and women in the audience.

A review of the Chamber's activities was given by President Lambert, who oulined the past accomplishments and future goals of the organizatin's four divisions.

After Mr. Lambert's speech, Senator Brooke delivered a half-hour address on "Welfare: A Priority for all Americans." Pledging himself to the solution of the welfare problems besetting the State and Nation, the Senator cited numerous statistics which tended to refute the notion that most public aid recipients would rather collect their welfare checks than work.

"For the most part," Senator Brooke stated, "Welfare recipients — even the aged, blind and disabled — would rather work. But they are held back by a low level of education and a lack of skills." He outlined a bill now pending in Congress which, in its essentials, will gear welfare "to the goal of making as many recipients as possible self-supporting. Able - bodied persons will be required to apply for jobs and to accept suitable job training."

When the measure comes before the Senate, Senator Brooke and his colleagues plan to offer amendments to it which, through federal subsidies, will "reduce welfare expenditures by the states from $4.5 billion to $700 million in the first year alone."

The Senator also spoke of the "critical need of reform" in the administration of the welfare program in Mssachusetts, citing the need for professional clerical and accounting personnel and a reorganization of welfare records.

"The basic concept of this proposed legislation cannot be questioned: its promise of dignity, and opportunity, for all Americans."

Mrs. Cutler echoed Senator Brooke's speech after accepting the 13th Annual Achievement Award from President Lambert. Punctuating the history of her many decades in public service with local anecdotes, the distinguished Needham resident and former State Senator said that "much has been given to me" over the years, adding that in gratitude she has always tried "to do something for other people." "Politics," stated Mrs. Cutler, "is people."

Shriberg Dean At N.Y. Tech

Arthur J. Shriberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Shriberg, of 39 Longwell Rd., has been appointed Dean of Students at the New York Institute of Technology in Old Westbury, N.Y., with responsibility for all student service functions on the 3,000 - member campus. At 26, he is one of the youngest deans in the state of New York.

Born in Waltham, his family moved to Newton in 1965. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Tatelman, live at 22 Chestnut Place, Brookline.

After receiving his B.S. in 1966 from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce and M.Ed., on full fellowship, from B.U. in 1967, he went to Columbia Teachers College, where he will earn his doctorate this year in the Administration of Higher and Adult Education.

At Teachers College the energetic Mr. Shriberg served as President of the Student Body, as a member of the college governing committee, and as Chairman of the Committee on Student Affairs. While at Penn he represented the University at the White House Conference on Youth.

In Boston he directed the International Student Project and edited Boston: An International Visitor's Guide, which is now available in greater Boston bookstores.

Two School Committee Candidates Nights To Be Held Oct. 27, 28th

The last two School Committee Candidates' Nights will be presented next Wednesday (Oct. 27) and Thursday (Oct. 28) night at the Warren Jr. High School and Bigelow Jr. High School, respectively. The Newton Council of PTA's and the League of Women Voters of Newton have co-sponsored this series of public forums to present several opportunities to the citizens of Newton to conveniently meet and question candidates for these important positions in city government.

Moderators for the last two meetings are Mr. Newton Teixeira, of West Newton, Manager of Systems Projects for RCA-Burlington, and presently the Moderator of the First Unitarian Society in Newton. Mr. Teixeira will preside at the Warren Jr. High meeting. Dr. Harry Olin, of Waban, psychiatrist and presently on the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital and Medfield State Hospital, will moderate the Bigelow Jr. High meeting.

Also to be discussed at each meeting will be the new Charter which is a referendum question on the ballot. The implications of adopting or rejecting this proposed charter are quite significant, and the community at large is urged most strongly to become informed on the pros and cons of the new proposal.

Co-chairmen for these meetings are Mrs. Joyce Picard of Newton Centre, representing the PTA Council, and Mrs. Myron Simon of West Newton, representing the League. PTA Boards of each school are serving as hosts, and a coffee hour will follow each meeting.

Trial Run Granted For South High Youth Area

At a special meeting Tuesday night called by Alderman David W. Jackson, Chairman of the Aldermanic City Planning Committee, a coalition of adolescents called Newton Youth for Change won a trial period for an evening Youth Recreational Area in the Newton South High School parking lot (across the street from the tennis courts.)

During the 45-day trial period, youngsters will be permitted to congregate at the lot seven days a week until 10 p.m.

The tennis court lights will remain on to light the lot, signs proclaining an 8:30 p.m. curfew will be altered, and trash barrels will be installed.

The youth, in return, have agreed to police themselves, exerting pressure on their peers to eliminate speeding, noise, and littering.

The city will make no provision for adult supervision, since it was felt that in a genuine trial period, the youths should be left alone to police themselves.

Leland White, one of three spokesmen for Newton Youth for Change, explained that during the summer, while the curfew remained at 8:30, students were being arrested for trespassing. "I can understand arrests if we were found drinking or speeding. But to have the chance of a police record for trespassing seems senseless," he declared.

The meeting at which the proposal was hashed out brought together W. D. Geer, principal of Newton South High School, Supt. of Schools Aaron Fink, School Committeeman Alvin Mandell, Newton Police Dept. Lt. Thomas Dargan, William Barry of the Recreation Dept., John A. Bolster of the Newton Y.M.C.A., James Bilezikian, Chairman of the Youth Commission, Charles White, aide to Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Abraham Lerner, an abutter from Greenwood St., Aldermen Jackson, Harry H. Crosby, Alan S. Barkin, and Michael Lipof, and representing the students of Newton South High, senior Lawrence Payn and junior Gary Barron, as well as Boston University sophomore Leland White, president of Newton Youth for Change.

Harvest Day Pumpkin Sale Caps Recycling Campaign

The second annual Recycling Drive at Bowen School will culminate Saturday in a Harvest Day festival featuring pumpkin sale and a skate and boot sale. Harvest Day events are sponsored by the Bowen P.T.A.

The Recycling Drive this year has been extended to include the collection of paper as well as cans.

Each fourth, fifth and sixth grade class at Bowen has chosen two Ecology Captains, to explain the principal of recycling to all the classes, and to demonstrate the methods of preparing cans and paper.

The Ecology Captains are responsible for placing "recycling boxes" in each classroom for saving used flat paper which would otherwise be discarded.

Captains will be at school during the day on Saturday, along with friends and classmates, to help with the paper and cans cohected.

The community is urged to participate in the Recycling Drive. Cans should be clean and flattened, with the labels and ends removed. Newspapers, magazines, old books, even junk mail can be tied or put in grocery bags and brought to the rear of the Bowen School from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday.

Volunteers are available to pick up bundled papers for those unable to bring them to Bowen. If you need help, please call 527-2547.

Cans collected in the Drive will be brought to the American Can Company in Needham for recycling. A ten ton truck will be at Bowen for papers.

The Harvest Day sale of pumpkins will take place from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday. Apples and cider by the cup will also be available.

In preparation for the skate and boot sale, another annual Harvest Day event at Bowen, parents have already brought childrens' outgrown items in good condition to the school for pricing. Skates and boots will sell at greatly re duced prices.

In case of rain on Saturday, all the events of Harvest Day will take place on Sunday, October 24th.

For many years Mr. Scheff served as the B'nai B'rith-ADL delegate to the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston where he was elected to the Administrative Committee and to the vice-presidency of the Council.

He is president of the Newton Democratic Club and General Chairman of the Newton United Fund. A vice-president and director of the Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Scheff is a former director of the United Fund of Greater Boston.

He is active with the Lawyer's Division of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies and with Israel Bonds.

Mr. Scheff served with distinction as an officer in the U.S. Infantry during World War II and was awarded the Combat Infantry Badge, Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

Married to the former Joan Levine, Mr. Scheff lives in Newton; the Scheffs have three sons, Jonathan, David and Daniel.

Women's ORT To Hold Meeting In Boston Oct. 28

The Charles River Chapter of Women's American ORT, (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) will hold their Fall Meeting for paid up members next Thursday (Oct. 28) at 12 noon at the home of Mrs. Jerry Asher, 790 Boylston Street, Fairfield Apartment, Prudential Center, Boston.

Mrs. Leonard Freedman, formerly of Newton and newly elected president, will preside. The program for the afternoon will feature guest speaker Anthony Spinazzola, author of the Boston Globe column "Let's Eat Out."

The chapter will proudly welcome the following new members from Newton: Mesdames Justin Altshuler, Alan Barkin, Edward Bishop, Joseph Braunstein, Lloyd Caplan, Alfred Cutter, Leon Fentin, Sidney Glazier, Arnold Hahn, David Kosowsky, Arnold Mason, Gerald Safton.

The luncheon and meeting committee from Newton include: Mrs. Harvey Flashman, Mrs. Arthur Goldberg, Mrs. Donald Cohen, Mrs. George Saltzman, Mrs. Frances Rosser, Mrs. Julian Klashman, Mrs. Irwin Weinman, Mrs. Lester Warshauer and Mrs. David Stanger.

School rules on hair and manner of dressing usually only attempt to restrict styles if they present danger to health and safety, cause interference with work, or create disorder.

Attends Biology Teacher Meeting

Harold Wiper attended the convention of the National Association of Biology Teachers held Oct. 13-16 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Mr. Wiper is a member of the biology department of Newton High School. At the convention he presented a paper on a course he developed called "Experimental Biology."

The Mississippi river delta covers 12,300 square miles.

Dirty Fogs

New York — Because of soot and dirt in the air, city fogs are denser and last longer than those in open country.

From multilayers in mixed patterns to puff-shouldered forties shapes, young fashion this fall forgets about uptight rules. That's the word from Seventeen magazine, which endorses butterfly sweaters, bright skimps with pinafore shoulders or ruffles mid-sleeve; quilted or plain plush velvet jackets in navy.

BILL CARMEN HAS BEEN FIGHTING CITY HALL FOR YEARS OVER TAXES

WITH A SOARING TAX RATE LIKE THIS DO YOU WONDER WHY?

Bill Carmen thinks taxes should level off. And can.
As your Alderman, he has been working to hold the line on taxes.
Even when it meant fighting City Hall power politics and partisan patronage.

- He has sponsored cuts in the budget.
- Fought to implement efficiency recommendations of the Booze-Allen-Hamilton Report on the Street Department which would save Newton $1,000,000 every year.
- Testified to Congress about the need for a Federal Revenue Sharing Program to benefit Newton.
- Used his business management expertise to eliminate waste and duplication in city government.
- Supported the Second Interim Report of the Master Tax Plan Commission which would result in immediate relief to all property tax payers.
- Moved to expand the tax base through a rational redevelopment program.

But as an Alderman, you don't win all the battles.
As your Mayor, Bill Carmen has more than a fighting chance.

NEWTON DESERVES CARMEN FOR MAYOR

Charter Question

Two questions will appear on the Newton ballot Nov. 2. One will involve proposed changes in the city charter. The other will ask whether beano should be licensed in Newton.

The question involving the adoption of a new city charter is a complicated one. Some suggested revisions in the charter seem good. Others do not.

Unfortunately, the voter is given only the choice of approving or rejecting the entire suggested new charter drafted by the Charter Commission. He cannot adopt some proposed changes in the charter and turn down others, as this newspaper would do.

It seems to us that the adoption of the new city charter from an overall standpoint would not be in the interest of the people of Newton.

Two main issues are posed by that question. One would lengthen the term of the Mayor of Newton from two to four years. The other would limit the service of a School Committee member to four consecutive terms.

We are disposed to agree with those public officials and civic leaders who believe that extending the Mayor's term from two to four years would make Newton's municipal government more remote from the people of the city. Lengthening the terms of Mayors and Governors works out better in theory than in actual fact and practice. It has not proved rewarding from the public viewpoint.

The idea of restricting School Committee members to eight years of service seems silly. The reasoning behind that recommendation escapes us.

Newton has been fortunate in the caliber of the men and women who have served on its School Committee, but it has not always been easy to persuade outstanding men and women to run for election to the School Board.

Some School Committee members who have served for more than eight consecutive years have made contributions to the excellence of Newton's public school system which certainly outweigh any arguments as to why they should be limited to eight consecutive years of service.

For these reasons the Graphic recommends a "No" vote on Question No. 1.

Persons who share these views should be sure to vote. The common tendency is to vote for change, whether it be good or bad.

Poor Winners

Neither Pittsburgh nor Baltimore really deserved the world championship of baseball.

The tremendous riot in Pittsburgh Sunday night celebrating the victory of the Pirates was a disgrace and actually detracted from the great come-from-behind triumph won on the baseball field.

Baltimore, on the other hand, did not support its Orioles in the manner that would be expected. It was incredible that there were empty seats in the Baltimore baseball stadium for the sixth and seventh games of the world series.

Baltimore did not have a capacity crowd for any game of either the playoffs or the world series. One cannot imagine that happening at Boston's Fenway Park. The fans would be clamoring at the park for seats.

Veterans' Day

Next Monday is Veterans' Day.

Definitely for older generations and to some of the younger as well, its date, Oct. 25, will require time with which to become accustomed. It is one of five "always-on-Monday" holidays set by Congress in 1968 under a federal law which became effective this year. They are Washington's Birthday, (the third Monday in February); Memorial Day, (the last Monday in May); Labor Day, (unchanged from the first Monday in September); Columbus Day, (the second Monday in October); and Veterans' Day (the last Monday in October).

As Armistice Day, Nov. 11 was particularly significant for it was on the 11th month, the 11th day and the 11th hour in 1918 in Marshal Ferdinand Foch's railway coach on asiding in Compeigne, France, the Armistice was signed calling for an end to World War I — "The War to End All Wars."

World War I was a terrible war—one of the worst tragedies the world has known. No one was to know in the wildly ecstatic celebrations that followed Nov. 11, 1918, in the great dock scenes which welcomed doughboys home, or in the big parades down city streets—that there would be another great war involving the whole globe within the same half of the great 20th Century.

No one could know in 1918 that by the 60s, there would be 26,000,000 veterans of all wars in the United States alone.

Since the turn of the century, the United States has participated in some of history's most important chapters. Indeed, it has played a major role in the writing of those chapters.

It would be tragic if Veterans' Day should become just another weekend holiday on a sort of nondescript date on the yearly calendar—just another holiday among what may become just a plethora of long weekends.

It is a day on which should be reflected the courage and sacrifice which made this country truly great. It is a day when the unselfish investment of that infinitesimal fortitude and multitudinous sacrifices should be reviewed with respect and gratitude.

It is a day on which Americans may well review that great investment with a view to achieving a better country and a better world.

When Governor Sargent originally indicated his displeasure with the members of the Port Authority, he was making demands with which that board could not legally comply.

It was apparent at the time that the Governor himself was being misled by some poor advice.

The Port Authority has a fine chairman in John L. Thompson and an excellent director in Edward King.

What Governor Sargent should do is to provide some leadership to improve the Port of Boston and to promote more shipping into the city.

That is something which is promised year after year but not accomplished. With the combined efforts of Governor Sargent, Senators Edward M. Brooke and Edward M. Kennedy as well as other members of the Massachusetts delegation in Congress, our waterfront might be brought back to life.

Polls Show White Leading Mrs. Hicks in Mayor Race

This is a time when big-city Mayors in many communities across the United States have trouble in withstanding the expressions of public dissatisfaction and discontent.

It is a period of rising costs and big problems. An observer wonders sometimes why a Mayor fights to retain the worries and headaches which seem to have no solutions.

Yet, Mayor John Lindsay, who is so unpopular in New York City he makes jokes about it, won reelection under the strange election system they have in that city, and Mayors such as Richard Daley of Chicago and Sam Yorty of Los Angeles are virtually fixtures in office.

Now, with Boston's important municipal election less than two weeks away, the poltical pundits and pollsters have made Mayor Kevin H. White a solid and substantial favorite over Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks.

Mayor White lost Boston last year to former State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue in the Democratic primary and to Governor Francis W. Sargent in the final election.

But the pollsters report that many thousands of Hub voters have forgotten and forgiven the grievances and complaints which caused them to turn their backs on White a year ago.

This change in public sentiment will cause White to be reelected when the Boston election returns are tabulated a week from next Tuesday, they predict.

Congresswoman Hicks, as might be expected, offers a vigorous dissent. She points out that all the polls show a large number of undecided voters who have not made up their minds which of the two mayoralty candidates they will choose.

Mayor White's administration of Boston's municipal affairs during the past three years and 10 months is the big issue of the campaign.

White is asking that he be reelected on the strength of what he has done as Mayor. Mrs. Hicks is asking that she be elected to replace him for the same reason.

Mrs. Hicks was surprisingly and unexpectedly quiet for almost a month after the Sept. 14 preliminary election.

Political observers anticipated that she would mount an offensive against the Mayor immediately after their preliminary contest, but she didn't do so until about mid-October.

Only time and the count of the ballots on election night will tell whether she waited too long before moving her election drive into high gear.

The polls indicate that at this stage of the race Mayor White is leading Mrs. Hicks and that if Mrs. Hicks is to become Boston's first woman Mayor, she must come from behind in order to do so.

White so far has been concentrating on his own campaign and has been exerting much of his spare time energy to preventing his own supporters from becoming over-confident.

It is under-stating the facts to report that the contest between Mayor White and Mrs. Hicks so far cannot be rated among Boston's more exciting mayoralty fights. That, incidentally, is reflected by the large number of undecided and disinterested voters who show up on the polls, many of whom probably will not bother going to their polling places on Nov. 2.

The fight will attract increasing attention in the final days before the election, but the number of stay-at-home voters is almost certain to be large.

Proposed Charter ...

TO THE EDITOR:

While the Newton voter is deciding on which local candidates to vote for on Nov. 2, he should think seriously about how he will vote on the proposed Charter for Newton. This Charter represents the hard work of nine elected Charter Commission members, and it must be accepted as a total package. With all due respect to the diligence of the Commission members, I think it misses the boat!

For example, it has been publicly stated that this proposed Charter will strengthen the role of the individual citizen by way of Petition. But, in order to repeal a measure already adopted, 10 percent of the voters (5,000) must sign a Petition within 20 days after its passage. This is a totally unrealistic time period in which to accumulate these thousands of signatures.

Experts Undecided Whether Muskie Helped or Hurt Self

Political observers are divided on whether Senator Edmund S. Muskie executed a brilliant master stroke or committed a costly blunder when he waged a losing fight to make liberal Senator Harold Hughes of Iowa temporary chairman of the credentials committee at next year's Democratic Convention.

Muskie buttered up the liberals but offended some of the old-line Democrats, including Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, and there is a difference of opinion as to whether he gained or lost support as a result of the incident.

The guessing here is that from an overall standpoint Muskie will be hurt more than he will be helped by the incident at next year's Democratic national conclave where the fight for the right to stand against President Nixon in the 1972 election will be decided.

Muskie has been and still is the front-runner in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination, but his campaign never really has caught fire, and there are indications that he may start to fade before he even announces his candidacy for the Presidency.

The Maine Senator won praise for his candor but received a poor mark for his political diplomacy when he told black leaders in Los Angeles last month that it would be inadvisable to nominate a black man for Vice President next year.

It shouldn't be impolitic to place a black man on the Republican or Democratic national ticket any more than it was unwise in 1960 to nominate a Catholic named John F. Kennedy for President.

Reaction to that statement may well have been one

Mc DONNELL

LEVER 2A

ALDERMAN McDONNELL

McDonnell Cites Stands As Alderman

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell is campaigning for re-election as Alderman-At-Large, Ward 1.

First elected to the Board in 1965, McDonnell was re-elected in 1967 with the highest vote in any Aldermanic contest.

McDonnell has served on the Land Use, Public Buildings, Franchise and Licensing Committees and as Chairman of the Housing Committee. On the Land Use Committee he has actively opposed petitions to commercialize residential areas in several parts of the city including Lower Falls, Newton Highlands, Auburndale, West Newton and Newtonville, while supporting Newton at 128 and Newton Corner air rights, projects which add substantially to the tax base.

He has supported the city administration by working with the Mayor through Senator Kennedy's office for the acquisition of open space land, while opposing the administration on the sale of city land at the old Bowen School site, and on present plans for urban renewal at Lower Falls and Newton Corner.

He proposed an amendment to the Lower Falls urban renewal plan that will require the development of replacement housing for the residents of that area before any may be evicted.

McDonnell was also instrumental in requiring a public hearing on the Newton Corner renewal project which revealed the dearth of the neighborhood opposition to that plan as presently constituted.

McDonnell has been recorded in favor of an ordinance to prevent open air burning in favor of special elections, in favor of a public health physician in the Health Department. He has successfully urged that committee meetings of the Board of Aldermen now be open to the press and public.

In just the last 3 years McDonnell has proposed or voted to cut the Mayor's financial requests by $7 million. These significant amounts were entirely in nonsalary items. He was recorded unsuccessfully in opposition to a $200,000 fee increase in the contract for the architect of the new high school. His opposition, however, prevented a further increase of $30,000 sought by the architect. In 1970 he also fought the increase of over $5.3 million (from $19.6 million to $24.9 million) for planned North High and Day Jr. school construction, feeling expenditures of $15.4 million on the high school and $4.2 million on the Junior high school were quite adequate.

As Chairman of the Housing Committee he has supported a Low and Moderate Income Housing Program for the city based on low density and scattered sites. His Committee has urged the Housing Authority, who requested 20 - 25 units on each of two sites in Nonantum and West Newton, to accept four sites and reduce the number of families to just 4 on each site, leaving the adjacent space open or set aside for recreational use.

It was on a motion of Alderman McDonnell that the first low income units for the elderly or families were reserved in new apartment residential construction, a program that was believed to be unique in the country when it was begun in 1969.

Alderman McDonnell has been a consistent supporter of Aldermanic resolutions against ABM and for an early end to the War.

He was also the sponsor of the petition to redraw Newton's ward lines in harmony with constitutional standards. Nine months after he filed this petition the court declared Newton's ward lines unconstitutional and ordered the city to redraw them. Newton will be voting this year under these new ward lines.

A resident of Newton for 32 of his 38 years, McDonnell is a graduate of Boston College BS (cum laude). He is an active trial attorney with the Boston firm of Parker, Coulter, Daley & White.

He is a former chairman of the United Fund (Newton Corner); chairman of Boston Bar Association Committee on Health Insurance; vice-chairman of Newton Democratic City Committee and a member of American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Uursing Home Nuisance To Neighbors, Needed by Aged

Called a "commercial intrusion" by abutters, a proposed expansion of the Stewart - Pryor Convalescent Home near the intersection of Washington St. and Commonwealth Ave., West Newton, was billed by Attorney Ernest Angevine as a "desperately needed facility for the sick and elderly."

The two contrary images of the facility were put forth in hearings before the Aldermanic Land Use Committee on a petition to replace an existing custodial care building with a new 55-bed facility.

Abutter Melvin Dangel of 32 Oldham Rd. led off the opposition, claiming that when a new 74-bed "post-operative" unit was built in 1968, the proprietors promised there would be no further expansion. Dangel also charged that the owner had installed a black-topped parking area not shown in the original approved plans.

Complaining that water runoff from the parking area creates gullies on his land, and that garbage bins at the rear of the property attract rats, Louis Sgarzi of Oldham Rd. called the nursing home "incongruous" in the neighborhood, and "devastatingly imposing" on his property.

Another Oldham Rd. resident, Dr. Emil Rothstein, maintained that he could hear "moans" from the institution while working in his garden.

Attorney Angevine, on the other hand, told aldermen that the nursing home was the only facility in Newton except for a branch of the Newton - Wellesley Hospital, designed to handle post-operative patients.

Declaring it a "psychological hardship" for elderly Newton patients to be forced to reside in nursing homes outside of Newton, Angevine told the Board that in the post-operative wing (built in 1968) there are 48 patients on welfare, 45 of them from Newton.

In the "custodial care" wing, there are 20 patients on welfare, 16 of whom are Newtonites, Angevine stated.

Because of new state regulations on corridor width, number of closets, and other matters, the custodial care unit will lose 10 beds unless the building is modernized, Angevine asserted.

Referring to charges that the facility would aggravate a dangerous traffic problem at Commonwealth Ave. and Washington St., Angevine said that staff members, who work a 7 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. shift, would not add to the volume of rush-hour traffic, "and visitors' traffic is unfortunately quite small."

Dir. At Sacred Heart In Turkey

Dr. Uri Haber-Schaim, director of the Physical Science Group at Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Newton, left on October 15 to visit education officials and schools in Turkey in connection with a new science curriculum in that country's schools.

Dr. Haber-Schaim, under the sponsorship of the Ford Foundation, is in Turkey visiting schools, the Ministry of Education and members of the Science Teaching Development Commission. They will discuss the current status and future plans for implementing the Introductory Physical Science (IPS) Course on a large scale in that country.

Dr. Haber-Schaim's visit follows an intensive teacher training program which took place in Turkey last June with a former Physical Science Group member, Dr. Charles Shull as principal instructor.

women, took two tries and many months to obtain certified signatures of 15 percent of the registered voters to put the question of Charter Review on the ballot. So how does this proposed Charter strengthen the individual citizen's position thru Petition?

To accept the proposed Charter in order to get an Initiative and Referendum Section with unrealistic percentages and time schedules is senseless. An I & R section was proposed separately by Alderman Ball and School Committeeman Mandell, both of whom served on the Charter Commission and wrote its Minority Report which does not support the Charter's adoption. They submitted a different I & R section to the Aldermen as an amendement to our present Charter, which was not placed on the ballot, probably because many Aldermen felt that the proposed Charter should stand alone on the November ballot.

In addition, the proposed Charter does not provide for greater ward representation by changing the method of electing the School Committee. In fact, the only change in the proposed Charter which cannot be achieved under our present Charter is the 4-year term for Mayor, and this is of dubious value because without a mayoralty contest in the off-year elections, the voter turnout will be exceedingly small for Aldermen and School Committee elections, thereby decreasing citizen participation in government.

I cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of how you vote on this issue. If you feel as I do that improvements in government can be accomplished by amending the present Charter, then vote "no". Whatever you decide, though, ask the candidates how they feel about the proposed Charter, which will greatly affect our government in Newton for many years to come.

Mrs. Martin J. Saklad,
Newton Centre, Mass.

Parents Weekend At Sacred Heart

The annual football game between sophomores and seniors, a Saturday evening party, and a brunch with President James J. Whalen are some of the highlights planned for Parents' Weekend at Newton College of the Sacred Heart on October 30-31.

Parents of some 870 students at Newton College have been invited from all parts of the country to attend the traditional fall weekend with their daughters.

The weekend will officially begin on Saturday morning, October 30th with open house for parents in the dormitories Following a box lunch, sophomores will host seniors in the annual college football game Half-time activities will include the crowning of a faculty or staff member as Newton's Homecoming King.

A late afternoon social hour and a party in the evening featuring the "Basin St. Dixie Land Band" are also planned events for Sturday.

After a Sunday morning Mass in the college Chapel, students and their parents will attend a brunch where President Whalen will engage in a dialogue with a student in which they will discuss the particular merits and problems of Newton College in its 25th year.

YOU KNOW PAUL MALLOY
THE REPRESENTATIVE

Four-term and present Newton State Representative

Practicing attorney in Newton since age 22

Experience in management of commercial and residential property in Newton

The only candidate who is a professional man (Juris Doctor)

- Amended the state budget so that it brings in over $100,000 each year to Newton for mental health, mental retardation and juvenile delinquency programs.
- Obtained funds from State to open teen drop-in center in Newton.
- Obtained funds for a new food-stamp program for Newton.
- Pushed his amendment through the legislature blocking the Stadium from Newton (Woodland Golf Club site).
- Now working for passage of his bill for State assumption of county hospital costs, a saving of 40c on Newton's tax rate.
- Worked for and obtained assurance of House Speaker DAVID BARTLEY that no funds would be appropriated for a branch of a Sate College on the site of the Chestnut Hill Country Club.

So You Know Paul Malloy The Mayor

- Will stabilize the tax rate by eliminating the unessential from municipal services and completely utilizing existing facilities and equipment. Cost analysis and control with modern management methods is the key.
- Will oppose "project" type high density, multi-level housing developments, such as the N.C.D.F. He wants attractive, harmonious units, limited to small numbers of families — for Newton residents — with the possibility of rents going toward ownership.
- Keeping the city government in touch with the young people by creating a Mayor's Advisory Committee. Here young people from all of Newton can express what concerns them, what they think about the schools, recreation, the drug problem and how the City can help.
- Implement the School Committee's own recommendations for cost analysis and comparison of costs by school.

No one in Newton has Paul Malloy's ear.

Everyone does.

Governor Asked To Appoint New Board Director

Newton's David J. Mofenson and Paul H. Guzzi are among 33 state representatives who have asked Governor Francis Sargent to strengthen the outdoor advertising board by appointing a strong director oriented to the public interest.

The representatives wrote the Governor urging implementation of the spirit of the billboard council legislation now before the General Court.

Reps. Mofenson and Guzzi stated: "The billboard laws on the books now provide strong billboard control. What we need is an outdoor advertising board with the willpower and commitment to stand up for the public interest against special interest groups."

Blind typists' aid

A Braille verifier for blind typists is under development at West Virginia University and the first prototype has been completed.

The verifier, which can be attached to standard manual or electric typewriter, enables a blind secretary to check for errors by touch reading each line by means of Braille displays.

Monthly Meeting Of Study Group On October 26th

The monthly Study Group of the Louise Waterman Wise Chapter, Suburban Region, American Jewish Congress, will have as its leader Mrs. Sidney Shadowitz of Newton. The subject to be covered will be "Comparative Religions."

The first meeting of the new season will be held next Tuesday (Oct. 26) at the home of Mrs. Sidney Berkman, 124 Wendell Road, Newton Center, at 10 a.m. Coffee will precede the lecture, "Jesus and Paul — Roots of Christianity," which will start promptly at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Shadowitz, a native Bostonian, received her B.A. at Jackson College and M.S. at Simmons. A book reviewer and teacher at Beth El Temple Center, Belmont, she has been a regional vice-president of the Suburban Region and has directed study groups on Jewish history for many years.

The study group chairman, Mrs. Sidney Berkman, can be contacted for reservations and questions at 527-5412. Members, future members and guests are invited to attend.

No Action On Falls Zoning Pending Vote On NRA Post

The Board of Aldermen Monday night voted to postpone action on re-zoning of the Newton Redevelopment Authority property in Newton Lower Falls.

The question of rezoning was returned to the Aldermanic Land Use Committee in order to give the committee time to act on the re-appointment of Monsignor John M. Quirk, pastor of St. Bernard's Parish in West Newton, to the Redevelopment Authority.

Indications were that Quirk's re-appointment, to be discussed at the Nov. 8 meeting of the Land Use Committee, may be denied, since he is seen as a supporter of former NRA chairman Mario DiCarlo.

Some aldermen have wished to with-hold zone changes so as to have leverage in dealing with the NRA. The aldermen, who are opposed to former chairman DiCarlo because of a disagreement over bidding procedures, have suggested that as long as Quirk remains on the Authority, former chairman DiCarlo would be able to command a majority, despite the election, at the aldermen's insistence, of a new chairman.

Hadassah Plans Brunch Nov. 7th

Oak Hill Hadassah presents a Champagne Brunch, to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Levine, 60 Farina Road, Newton Centre on Sunday, November 7, at 11:30 a.m. Champagne followed by a feature columnist of the Boston Herald Traveler, Mr. Gordon Hall, is the order of the day.

Mr. Hall will speak on "From Extreme Left to Extreme Right: An Analysis of the American Political Spectrum." The charge for this social and intellectual morning is $4 for members, $5 for non-members, and complimentary to husbands.

Reservations should be sent immediately to Mrs. Maurice Rubin, 20 Ransom Road, Newton Centre, telephone 332-4412. Chairmen of this event are Mrs. Benjamin Goulston and Mrs. Martin Alpert. Presidents are Mrs. Henry Adelman and Mrs. S. Herbert Rosenfeld.

Communications Night Friday At Church in Waban

Adults of the Union Church in Waban will share with young people of the parish a "Communications Night" on Friday, October 22nd, at 7:30 p.m. This is a workshop in human expression, sponsored by the Young People's Fellowship with the assistance of Mrs. Eleanor Hinsey, Director of Christian Education. The program is designed to bridge the gap which often exists between generations. Members and friends of the church are invited to participate in this program.

On Tuesday, October 26th at 7:30 p.m., the film: "Becoming Free" will be shown in the church vestry. The film helps viewers to come to grips with the question: "What is the United Church of Christ?" The emphasis is upon the essential nature of the church in the contemporary world and calls for a response from every viewer.

The Annual Harvest Supper will be held on Friday, October 29th at 6:30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. John Waalewyn are chairmen of the dinner committee. A program on "Hawaii" will be given by Mrs. Jean Palmer, airline stewardess.

Lecture Today At Auburndale Library Branch

Auburndale Branch of the Newton Free Library schedules an illustrated lecture today (Thursday) with Mrs. Dorothy Bates at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Bates traveled extensively this summer and her program "Countries of Contrast" includes a talk and selected slides of her experiences while touring Portugal, Spain, Morocco, Sweden and Ireland.

A Smith College graduate, an ardent photographer and naturalist, Dorothy Bates is the wife of E. Graham Bates, a former trustee of the Newton Free Library.

Named To Boston College Center

The Boston Center for the Study of Franchise Distribution and Small Business has reappointed Arnold Z. Rosoff, President of Arnold and Co. Advertising Agency in Boston, to its Board of Governors.

Mr. Rosoff, who lives at 20 Shady Hill Rd. in Newton, was first elected to the Board in 1970.

Guzzi and Mofenson Lead Ballot Amendment Drive

Newton State Representatives Paul H. Guzzi and David J. Mofenson are kicking off a drive this week to help collect signatures to place on the ballot the question of whether to amend the Constitution to permit use of the highway fund for mass transit purposes.

The highway fund, which contains receipts from the gasoline tax and takes in over 100 million dollars annually, may be used only for the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges and the enforcement of state traffic laws.

Commenting on the move, Reps. Guzzi and Mofenson said: "Presently there is no possibility of using the money for mass transit purposes, even in a locality where that is the need rather than more roads. To achieve balanced transportation there must be balanced funding. In fact, this petition asks that the highway fund be transformed into a transportation fund.' '

The signatures of 60,000 registered voters are required, with not more than ¼ of these, or 15,000 signatures, coming from any one county. If the signatures are obtained, the question goes to the Legislature where it must receive 70 affirmative votes in the present Legislature and the one elected for the year 1973-74. Then the question goes on the ballot in the 1974 General Election where it must be adopted by a majority of those voting.

Guzzi and Mofenson stated that improved mass transit would result in reduced congestion on the roads, reduced air pollution and a choice of transportation.

The Newton lawmakers are now contacting a number of Newton organizations to seek help in their massive drive to gather the signatures by December 1.

Anyone interested in helping in the initiative petition can contact them at the following numbers: Representative Guzzi — 727-3639; or Representative Mofenson — 727-6079.

Auburndale Woman's Club Holds Meeting Oct. 13th

The Auburndale Woman's Club held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, October 13 at the Auburndale Club on Melrose st., with Mrs. Robert F. Bradley, Sr., presiding.

Mrs. Herbert Meilly, soprano soloist and her accompanist, Miss Helen White, were featured performers. Following the business meeting and lunch, Mrs. Meilly sang an array of love songs and ballads from Sigmund Romberg, Rogers and Hart, Bizet and others. Miss White, who has been Mrs. Meilly's teacher as well as her accompanist, played a medley of waltzes during the intermission.

New members introduced by Mrs. Langdon Chandler, chairman of membership, were: Mrs. John Beaver, Mrs. R. M. Boutwell, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Gordon Ellis, Mrs. Harold Kanavos, Mrs. D. J. Killian, Miss Phyllis Lindley, Mrs. Lester Martin, Mrs. Edwin Wolley and Mrs. Arnold Wilson.

Representative officers from Women's Clubs in Ashland, Framingham, Holliston, Needham, Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls, Newtonville, Sudbury, Waban and Wellesley Hills were Honored Special guests at the meeting. Also eight past presidents, including one from Portland, Maine, Mrs. Ruth Parris, were also honored.

Mrs. Richard Keyes was chairman of hostesses and Mrs. Albert Holdridge chairman of the luncheon.

Four committees of Auburndale Woman's Club will meet during October — the Art Committee at the home of Mrs. Carl Freeman on Islington rd.; the International Affairs Committee will have a luncheon in Sudbury today (Oct. 21); the Community Service Committee will meet at the Clubhouse October 26, and the Writer's Workshop will meet at the home of Mrs. Frederic Casey, October 28th.

Alan Sooho, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sooho of 220 Adams ave., West Newton, who graduated from Newton High and Lake Forest University is a freshman this year at the University of Nebraska Medical Center where he is in the physician augmentation program.

Home Reception Followed English-Derick Wedding

Trinity Church in Newton Centre was the setting recently for the marriage of Miss Donna Clifford Derick to Robert English.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Lambie Derick of 272 Chestnut Street, West Newton. The groom is the son of Mrs. Michael John English of Jamaica Plain and the late Mr. English.

Officiating at the three o'clock afternoon ceremony were the Rev. Howard R. Dunbar and the Rev. John W. Corcoran. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Norman D. Somers gave his niece away. She wore an empire gown of white faille made with a high lace collar. Alencon lace was re-embroidered on her sheer decolette neckline which was edged with Venice lace. The deep upward pointed cuffs of her bishop sleeves were made of similar Alencon and outlined with Venice lace. Her A-line redingote skirt terminated in a cathedral length train.

A floral cluster held in place her full length illusion veil and she carried a cascade arrangement of orchids, stephanotis and miniature carnations.

Miss Dorothy Bosk Derick of West Newton was her sister's honor maid. Her empire gown of imported floral print French velvet had deep cuffed sleeves, of American beauty rose colored crepe.

Her matching rose illusion veil was caught to a cluster of matching petals and she carried white Fuji mums, miniature tose carnations and ivy.

Similiarily attired the bridesmaids were Miss Deborah I. Beerwort of Clarenceville, Quebec, Canada, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Norman Brooks of North Cambridge, cousin of the groom, Mrs. Clifford L. Derick Jr., of West Newton, sister - in - law of the bride, and Mrs. Michael J. English of Malden, sister - in - law of the groom.

Michael J. English of Malden was his brother's best man. Norman L. Brooks of North Cambridge, cousin of the groom, Clifford L. Derick Jr., and Jonathan E. Derick, both of West Newton and brothers of the bride, as well as Richard M. English of Jamaica Plain, brother of the groom, were ushers.

Mrs. Derick chosee a full length cranberry and pink floral printed chiffon gown for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. English, the groom's mother, chose a full length gown made of cranberry paisley on turquoise chiffon.

Following a trip to Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. English will live in Newton.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

A graduate of Northeastern University, Mr. Black is an industrial engineer at Raytheon.

Newton Centre's Garden Club Has Oct. 19 Meeting

The Newton Centre Garden Club started its forty-third season on Oct. 19 at their new location, The First Baptist Church, Newton Centre. The well-known Flower Show judge, Mrs. Ralph H. Hill of Andover, was the speaker Tuesday morning.

She traced the history of the decorative pieces which featured antique Epergnes of the French, Georgian and Victorian periods plus some original creations. With the lecture she used predominantly fresh plant material with backgrounds, fabrics and the proper lighting.

Mrs. Wilbur S. Roberts Jr. of Waban, Club President, conducted the business meeting which followed the 9:30 coffee hour. Hostesses were Mrs. John D. Fox of Wayland, Mrs. Edward B. Farmer and Miss Josephine Douglass, both from Waban. Pourers were Mrs. Benjamin I. Fawcett of Wellesley Hills, and Mrs. Henry Cummings of Newton Centre.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

True life and goodness have no end, according to the Bible Lesson - Sermon on "Probation After Death" at Christian Science churches Sunday.

One of the passages to be read from Psalms affirms: "Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore."

A hint of what this can mean in terms of todays' life style is given in this citation from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life and goodness are immortal, Let us then shape our views of existence into loveliness, freshness, and continuity, rather than into age and blight."

The public is invited to services beginning at 10:45 a.m. at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Centennial Year At Local Church

Auburndale's Church of the Messiah, established as an Episcopal Parish one hundred years ago this November, began its official Centennial Celebration on October 3 with a reception for its new rector, the Reverend William Lowe and Mrs. Lowe.

Hled in the Church Parish Hall and sponsored by The Tuesday Evening Club under the direction of its President, Mrs. Thomas Brogan, the reception was attended by all the clergy of neighboring churches as well as many Messiah members.

Mrs. Charles Higgins created the floral decorations for the evening event and Mrs. Richard Crosby, Mrs. D. J. Bailey, Miss Sally Leventhal and Miss Susan Ekizian served at the refreshment tables.

Reverend Lowe's first service at the Messiah on October 17 was preceded by Sunday morning breakfasts held simultaneously in a dozen parish homes. The Messiah's Centennial Celebration will climax on Sunday, November 7, with 10:30 a.m. service celebrated by Bishop Burgess and attended by all the living past rectors of the church.

Jill Davidson Becomes Mrs. Barry Harvey Black

At Chateau Garod, Brookline, on Saturday, October 1, Miss Jill Audrey Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davidson of Newton Centre, and Barry Harvey Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Black of Medford and the late Mrs. Rhoda Black of Beverly, exchanged marriage vows.

Rabbi Samuel Chiel and Cantor Gabrial Hochberg officiated at the pretty fall wedding which was followed by a reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a light ivory peau de soie gown made with an empire bodice of jeweled Alencon lace styled with a high neckline and lantern sleeves and a Watteau train.

A pearl embroidered headband was fastened with her bouffant silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis.

Mrs. Joel Davidson of Virginia Beach, Va., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Wearing a rose and pink chiffon gown, she carried one blush pink rose. Identically attired, the bridesmaids were Miss Joan Roberts of Brookline and Miss Sheila Laffey of Woonsocket, R.I. They carried Edwardian bouquets of pink roses and miniature dianthus ivy.

Young Robin Black of Beverly, the flower girl, wore a pale pink organdy gown marked with dotted Swiss embroidery.

Dr. Joel Black of Beverly, brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Dr. Joel Davidson of Virginia Beach, Va., brother of the bride, Kenneth Sherman of Medford, Robert Ossoff of Beverly, James Barney of Danvers, William Gibson of Watertown and Jerold Leventhal of Peabody, cousin of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Black plan to make their home in Stoughton.

A graduate of Jackson College of Tufts University, magna cum laude, the bride is presently teaching in the Stoughton public schools.

The groom was graduated from Bowdoin College and the Northeastern University Graduate School of Professional Accounting and is now an accountant. (Photo by The Nourses)

Convalescent Center Hosts Many Activities This Fall

The Newton Convalescent Center, 25 Armory Street, West Newton, has released the seventh issue of their newspaper, the NCC News. The paper, with the theme of fall, announces and reviews activities and highlights new residents, volunteers and entertainment.

With elections in the near future, Candidates for Mayor of Newton visited the Center on Friday, October 8th. Having refreshments in the recreation room were William Carmen and Ted Mann; Paul Malloy visited later in the day.

On Wednesday, October 13th, Mrs. Valerie Davis showed slides of her trip to South Africa to the residents. Friday, October 15th was the monthly birthday party. Entertainment was provided by Mr. Andy Caroselli of Watertown.

Volunteer programs are underway with students from Warren, Day and Bigelow Junior High Schools offering time mornings and afternoons to help with activities and visit with the residents.

A special morning volunteer program from Warren Junior High School began September 29th under the direction of Mrs. Rich, home economics teacher. At the Convalescent Center for two weeks were Liz Lucas and Susan Bourque. Caryl Ankiewicz and Hope Van Way will work for two weeks. The volunteers work on craft projects with individuals and help with the gift shop and special activitiess.

Future activities include Bingo on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Tonight (Thursday) there will be live entertainment. All senior citizen groups in the area are invited.

Coal Reserves

Missouri has produced 265 million tons of coal since 1806 which represents only one percent of the state's known reserves.

Here are the major symptoms of diabetes: excessive thirst, frequent urination, constant hunger, loss of weight, itching, easy tiring, changes in vision, and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

Denim Has Long History

Denim, as "now" as, say a moon shot, once in its own way helped to prove that the world was round.

This sturdy fabric, highly popular throughout fall and winter fashions came to America's shores on the ships Columbus sailed to discover the New World. They were used to make the sails of the explorers' ships, reports the Denim Council of the U.S.A. The term "jeans" is believed to have derived from "gene" used to describe the heavy cotton trousers worn by the sailors of Genoa.

Dungarees also were an import originally. In Dhungaree, India, a cotton cloth was woven coarsely for sailors' trousers and so named "dhungaree."

The council says the word "denim" came from France however. The French called the sturdy cloth "serge de Nimes," for it was manufactured or woven in Nimes during the Middle Ages. De Nimes soon was slurred into "denim."

Within the next year an estimated 130,000 Americans will be found to have skin cancer, Dr. Norman Goldstein, assistant professor of dermatology at the University of Hawaii School of Medicine, reports in CUTIS, a journal devoted to reports on skin disorders.

In most cases the cause can be directly attributed to sunlight. The sun's ultra-violet rays reach their peak intensity between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Newton Students Are Co-Winners In Chess Match

Robert Shor of Newton High and Charles Kaplan of Newton South High were co-winners of the 1971 Scholastic Chess Tournament. Both young men scored 4-0 in the match, which was held on Sunday, Oct. 10 at the Prudential Center.

Shor was declared first place winner because of his better tie-break points. Jeff Perlmutter, also of South High, was the unrated winner, scoring 3-1; he lost to Kaplan in the final round.

Appeal Overt'ns Draft Conviction

Contending that a draft board must state reasons for refusal to grant conscientious objector status, a federal court over-turned the conviction of 21-year-old Jonathan Edwards, of 18 Spiers Rd., in Newton, who had been found guilty of refusing induction into the army after the draft board denied him a C.O. (Conscientious Objector) status.

Edwards, who applied for the C.O. after dropping out of Wentworth Institute and receiving a 1-A classification, was convicted of refusing induction by Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., last March.

Dr. Cohen Receives Grant To Probe Mystery Ailment

Amyloid is a killer. It's a cause of death in diseases ranging from tuberculosis to leprosy, but it's not a "germ" a virus or bacerium. It's merely a lump of inert fibre, much like the collagen that occures as supporting material throughout the body, and it just sits in the body and gets in the way.

If it sits near a nerve in the heart, it may interrupt the transmission of nerve impulses, causing irregular heartbeat and finally, heart failure.

If it sits in the kidney, it may gradually prevent the kidney from filtering poisons out of the blood, and finally lead to kidney failure.

It may even cause premature senility by forming plaques of fibre in the brain.

A $150,000 research grant for the study of amyloids has been awarded by the John A. Hartford Foundation to Dr. Alan S. Cohen of 54 Winston Rd., Newton Centre, professor of medicine at the Boston University School of Medicine and head of the Arthritis and Connective Tissue Disease Section of University Hospital.

Amyloid shows up in a number of different circumstances, according to Dr. Cohen. First of all, it shows up as a serious complication in a number of chronic diseases, including rheumatic arthritis (the most painful and crippling of rheumatic disorders that yearly victimizes more than 3,000,000 people), tuberculosis, and cancer. It is the most common cause of death among paraplegics.

Secondly, it shows up by itself, as a cause of disease, in certain ethnic groups. It runs in familes. For example, certain Armenian families and families of Sephardic Jews from the Spanish-speaking sections of North Africa (now living in Israel) develop an inheritable kidney disease caused by amyloids. This kidney disease, which, like diabetes, shows up suddenly at a certain age, has a very high death rate.

Other types of hereditary diseases caused by the interference of a lump of amyloid occur in Portuguese and Swiss families. Certain Japanese families get clumps of amyloid interfering with the function of the nerves.

A third type of amyloid is called focal amyloid. It is a lump that shows up, isolated, in any one organ. It can be removed, and that's the end of it. Sometimes a doctor will be operating to remove what he thinks is a cancer. It will prove to be nothing but a clump of amyloid, which is non-malignant, and inert, and which may apparently be taken without no after-effects.

Earlier, doctors thought amyloid was just an accumulation or piling up of byproducts of disease. But ten years ago, Dr. Cohen identified amyloid as a specific inert fibrous protein found outside the cell.

With the new research grant, Cohen will investigate the relationship of amyloid to the immunological mechanisms of the body. Since amyloid seems to be associated with so many chronic and inflammatory diseases, Dr. Cohen suspects that it may be a product of breakdown or overwork of the body's defense mechanisms. "In something like tuberculosis or cancer, the body fights and fights for so many years, and then perhaps it can't cope perfectly any more. Something gets turned on and never gets turned off."

Dr. Cohen suspects that this "something", this trigger, produces amyloid, which gradually accumulates, is never disposed of, and disrupts whatever goes on near it.

Techniques of research in studies of immunology are very highly advanced, Dr. Cohen says, and he is quite hopeful of coming up with a clear explanation for what caused amyloid.

Research will also probe possible treatments for amyloid, including ways of turning off the unknown trigger that causes synthesis of amyloid, and ways of causing the body to re-absorb the substance. Right now, the primary technique for getting rid of amyloid is to remove it surgically.

Amyloid is quite common, being present as a complication in a wide variety of diseases, but is being studied by only a very few people. Because of this, Dr. Cohen's research group at the B.U. Medical Center receives requests for aid and information from all over the world.

Of the millions of people who suffer from rheumatoid arthritis, about 25 percent have amyloid complications. And some doctors think that amyloid will be found to occur in 90 to 95 per cent of the elderly population. One of the mysteries is whether amyloid is a product or a cause of the body's breakdown.

RN's/LPN's:
SEE WHAT LIFE CAN MEAN.

Life is taking on new meaning at Boston Hospital for Women.
Come to our open house and find out what this can mean to you, both as a nurse and as a woman.

This major teaching hospital of Harvard Medical School has long led the fight for a better life for women, not only in health but in society as a whole.

There are now full and part-time openings for RN's and LPN's on the rotating, evening and night shifts. Among BHW's excellent benefits are the individualized orientation program and the fully accredited nursery school for employee's children.

Come meet informally with the people who make change happen: our Director of Nursing and others responsible for delivering the constantly improved care and service of BHW.

For further information, please call Miss House at 734-5300, extension 445 or 446

DIRECTIONS: The Parkway is in the Brookline Village area, easily reached by Route 9 or the Jamaica Way. Free parking is available behind the Hospital. Or, from Kenmore Square Station, take the Chestnut Hill or Cypress Street bus to the corner of High Street and Cumberland Avenue. Walk down the hill to the Hospital on Pond Avenue.

MRS. NATHANIEL J. EYGES

Miss Rosoff, Mr. Eyges Wed; Living in Brookline

The Blue Hill Country Club was the setting for the marriage of Miss Stephany Ann Rossoff to Richard Dorn Eyges.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Rosoff of Newton Centre, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel J. Eyges of Chestnut Hill are the couple's parents.

Rabbi Israel J. Kazis and Cantor Gregor Shelkan officiated at the noon ceremony which was followed by a reception.

Given awary by her father, the bride chose an English net cage type gown with Venetian lace motifs appliqued at the neckline.

A lilac floral headpiece was fastened with her silk illusion veil. She carried her mother's Bible topped with phalaenopisis orchids and stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Miss Carol Rosoff of Newton Centre was her only attendant.

The best man was Peter Eyges of Marblehead. Ushering were Richard Liss of Fall River and Dennis Manzoli of Chestnut Hill, both brothers-in-law of the groom.

Bermuda was the honeymoon destination of the couple who are living in Brookline.

The bride is a graduate of the Tufts - Northeastern Dental Assistant Program.

Mr. Eyges attended Boston University and is presently affiliated with Roy K. Eyges, Inc. (Photo by The Nourses).

PLANS TO MARRY—Miss Susan E. Panella, whose engagement to Robert J. Grant, son of Mr. John Grant of Schenectady, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Grant, has been made known by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Panella of 34 Lachmont avenue, Newton. Miss Panella was graduated from the Barbizone School of Modeling, while her fiance is presently a senior at Boston University. A December 4 wedding is planned. (Photo by Ciro's Studio)

Civilisation Film Series Thursdays At the Lbrary

Kenneth Clark's Civilisation film series continues to be screened at the Newton Free Library, Newton Corner on Thursday evenings at 7:00 p.m. through November 11.

On Thursday, Oct. 11, Grandeur and Obedience, the works of Michaelangelo, Titian, Rubens, and Bernini, and the period of the Counter - Reformation were analyzed.

A second film, The Light of Experience, focused on Rembrandt, Vermeer and the 17th century Dutch - Flemish schools of painting as the spirit of modern capitalism and the 'scientific method" which revolutionized thought and activity in Holland and England.

Eighteenth century Rococco style of living can be seen in Pursuit of Happiness on October 28. In the second film The Smile of Reason, Clark explores some of the 18th century optimism that appears in the works of Voltaire, David, Hogarth, and Jefferson.

Opulence is represented in the palaces of Blenheim, Versailles and Edinburgh.

Free Thursday evening movies will be screned throughout the year at the Main Library. A list of films with annotations is available at the Newton Free Library and its branches. Main Library hours are Monday through Friday 9-9, Saturday, 9-6, Sunday, 1-4.

Burglary Tip Fails to Trap Thief in Act

Tipped off that a burglary was "in progress," the Newton Police Department sent 19 officers to investigate a break at the home of Sidney Sheff, 19 Wendell Rd., but found no suspects. Two jewelry boxes were reported missing.

Burglaries are again on the rise. Reported thefts include a copy machine and dispenser missing from the office of Attorney Nicholas Lupo, 29 Myles Standish Rd. and a t.v. and stereo radio reported missing by Norman W. White, 111 Nehoiden Rd.

White reported that intruders aparently broke into the house while he and his family were asleep, while Lupo reported that the office equipment disappeared between 1 and 3 in the afternoon.

New Study of Kids TV Finds Commercialism, Violence

A commercial every three minutes, nearly a quarter of viewing time devoted to commercials and other non-program material, and 71 per cent of the stories providing at least one incidence of human violence were among the findings in a study (published today) of children's television by Professor F. Earle Barcus, Professor of Communication Research, Boston University.

The study, commissioned by Action for Children's Television, 46 Austin St., Newtonville, and 33 Hancock Ave., Newton Centre and funded through their recent grant from the Markle Foundation, New York, will be part of the ACT submission to the Federal Communications Commission Inquiry into children's TV (reply deadline: October 1).

Professor Barcus video-taped a total of nearly 19 hours of Saturday TV programs available in Boston in May and June, 1971. Two Boston University School of Public Communication graduate students, Gloria Chapman and Carol Springer, monitored the material with Prof. Barcus. Both Program content and commercial content were carefully analysed, with the emphasis on factual notation rather than subjective observations.

Questions were phrased to find out "Was there a laugh-track?", "Was there a chase scene?", "Was there human violence with weapons . . . without weapons?"in the area of program content. Similarly questions about commercials related to whether the price was shown, if correct dimensions were given, if a premium was offered, or whether visual and verbal qualifications were clearly given.

PROGRAM CONTENT:

Professor Barcus commented afterwards: "The most depressing aspect of monitoring the program content was the lack of diversity among programs. On all stations, we found the same repetitive stories in animated form."

In detail, the study found:

* 89 per cent of time was devoted to "entertainment" programs including 70 per cent "comedy drama" (primarily cartoons);

* programs were mostly animated with 62 per cent of all program time being animated;

* about three out of 10 dramatic segments were "saturated" with violence and 71 per cent had at least one instance of human violence, with or without the use of weapons;

* although in 52 per cent of the segments violence was directed at humans, only in 4 per cent did this result in death or injury.

"Although there is an abundance of violence of all kinds," notes Professor Barcus in the study, "one is left with the impression that, after all, violence is harmless since very little permanent damage is done to the characters."

* other major program elements were "chase" scenes (53 per cent), frightening or suspenseful situations (19 per cent) and the use of laugh-tracks (23 per cent).

Only very obvious examples of "frightening or suspenseful situations" were counted in the study, including:

—a sleeping character who is almost struck with an axe;

— a woman hanging from building construction;

— a parachute which fails to open;

— finding a tiger in the room;

— being trapped in a lion's cage.

Over half of all program time was predominantly concerned with either crime, the supernatural (ghosts, witchcraft), or interpersonal rivalry (struggles bewteen characters). Less than three per cent of the time dealth with such topics at domestic (family, home), religion, race and nationality, business and industry, literature and the fine arts, arts and crafts, or government and public affairs. Less than one minute in 15 of network programming could be classified as informational programming for children.

COMMERCIALS ANALYSIS:

The study examined commercials, program breaks, and public service announcements and promotions.

* About 23 per cent of the total time was devoted to non-program material, with almost 19 per cent commercials;

* there were 406 commercial messages in 1125 minutes of total time studied, an average of one message every 2.8 minutes. In total time, about one minute in five was devoted to commercial messages.

* of all announcements within programs, 77 per cent were commercials, and of those between programs, only 32 per cent were commercials.

The study points out that "it would seem unnecessary that seven or eight-minute cartoon segments be interrupted for commercial announcements, since, even by present practice, it is a fairly simple matter to schedule advertising matter around short portions of a program."

Further examination of commercials found:

* a cultural sex bias — 49 commercials contained males only, while 16 contained females only. Characters in toy ads are usually identified by sex roles with girls playing with dolls, and boys with cars,

* an ethnic or racial bias; 73 per cent of the commercials classified for ethnic status contained white-only characters. 24 per cent were mixed white and minority group characters, and only three per cent contained minority group characters only.

The study found little product information in the commercials, particularly in toy ads. Much essential data is simply never given, and the parents, who usually buy toys have very little idea from the commercials of:

— what is the product made of?

— how big is it? (exact and useful dimensions)

— how does it work?

— how much does it cost? with accessories?

— how much practice does it take to use it?

— is it designed for a certain age group?

— how long will it last?

— where can I buy it?

The study also examined the quantity and type of non-commercial announcements, premiums used in selling cereals, special devices of commercial presentations and tie-ins and enudorsements.

(Study available from: Action for Children's Television Inc., 46 Austin Street, Newtonville, Mass. 02160)

Dr. Peter Schur Discovers Arthritis Caused By Virus

Dr. Peter Schur, of 130 Nehoiden Road in Waban, announced research findings that may explain the cause of one type of arthritis.

Systemic Lupus Erythematosus (known as SLE), one of the many types of arthritis, may be caused by a virus, according to evidence from research directed by Dr. Schur at Boston's Robert B. Brigham Hospital.

In collaboration with scientists at Tufts University and the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, Dr. Schur and his colleagues found an antibody in the serum of over half of 101 SLE patients. The antibody was present in the serum of only 6 per cent of normal individuals. This antibody reacted only with double-stranded RNA, a nucleic acid found in cells especially during virus infections. The work was published in a reecent issue of Arthritis and Rheumatism and was supported by grants from the National Institutes of Health and the Massachusetts Arthritis Foundation.

Systemic Lupus Erythematosus affects about one in 50,000 people, usually women of child-bearing age. The disease can cause excessive weakness, arthritis, rashes, kidney disease or inflamation throughout the body. As with most forms of arthritis, the exact cause of SLE is unknown. Dr. Schur, who specializes in the study and treatment of SLE at the Robert B. Brigham Hospital, says that "While the cause and cure remain unknown, the symptoms of the disease can often be relieved and the disease kept under control."

The findings of Dr. Schur and his associates add to the growing evidence that arthritis - which affects over 5 million Americans - may be caused by viruses. Other arthritis-associated viruses have recently been described by researchers at the Robert B. Brigham Hospital, a major teaching hospital of the Harvard Medical School and the only hospital in the nation specializing in arthritis and the rheumatic diseases.

Undefeated Newton And Arlington Meet Saturday

Fay Leads Tigers Over South For 4th In Row

By DAVE SOLOMON

Arlington High had better watch out. Their next opponent, Newton High School, won its fourth consecutive game last Saturday, shutting out Weymouth South, 10-0.

Cornerback Jimmy Fay was the star of the game for Newton. The 165-lb. senior intercepted three key passes, two in the end zone and one which sealed Newton's victory.

Although the Tigers were able to score only one touchdown, their offense had possession of the ball close to 70% of the game.

Weymouth South had only four first downs, two of them coming in their opening drive. Newton had eleven first downs. The Tigers won the pre-game toss and elected to receive. After three unsuccessful plays, they were forced to punt the ball over to Weymouth, who at this point had their best drive of the game.

Newton's only touchdown came on the first play of the second quarter. On fourth down and five Paul Grillo tossed a nine-yard touchdown pass to Dave Boyagian. Boyagian made a diving grab in the end zone, and when Billy Steinberg connected for the PAT, Newton led 7-0.

The play was set up by a punt return of about fifty yards by speedster Mark Herendeen. This put the ball on Weymouth's 14-yard line and four plays later, the score came.

The second period was perhaps Newton's best, they had possession of the ball for eight of the possible ten minutes. Newton had two strong drives in this period, and both were broken up by Weymouth interceptions. In one drive the Tigers marched 54 yards, only to lose the ball on Weymouth's twenty-three. Tiger halfback John Connolly had his defender, M. Quinn, beaten by about four yards, and would have had clear sailing for a TD had the pass reached him. Unfortunately, Grillo's toss was too low and too hard, and it flew right into Quinn's hands.

Weymouth's second interception gave them the ball on Newton's twenty-nine, with less than a minute to play in the half. After a running gain of five yards, the Weymouth quarterback went to the air, only to have his pass picked off in the end zone by Tiger cornerback Jimmy Fay.

Also in the first half, quarterback Paul Grillo reinjured his right ankle. At the time of this writing, it is unsure how long Grillo will be sidelined.

In the first series of plays in the second half, Weymouth South marched thirty-one yards to Newton's 17-yard line, only to again be frustrated by an end-zone interception by Fay. During this drive Weymouth accounted for their remaining two first-downs.

Beckler Takes Over

With Ed Beckler taking over the reins at quarterback, Newton concentrated more on their running game in the second half. The Tigers slowly ground out yardage, all the while taking valuable seconds off the clock. "Beckler has a lot of talent," commented Ronayne, "and he did a good job for us . . . He's a tough competitor."

The fourth-period featured a spectacular looking and rare play by Newton. Caught deep in their own territory, the Tigers quick-kicked the ball on third down. The bouncing boot caught Weymouth by surprise, and when they finally reached the ball on their own twenty-eight, they fumbled it. In five plays, Beckler moved the Tigers to the eight-yard line. This was the line of scrimmage for Billy Steinberg's twenty-five yard field goal with 4:08 left in the game.

Jimmy Fay then wrapped up Newton's victory with his third interception of the afternoon, with only 2:24 remaining.

Coach Ronayne was pleased with the performance of both the offense and the defense: "We showed we can both move the ball and keep our opponents from moving it. The defense was strong, consistently giving us the ball, and the offense was able to move well . . . We should have had two more touchdowns."

The Tigers now stand 4-0 on the season, and their stellar defense has allowed only six points while earning three shutouts. The Newton offense, however, has only scored an average of nine points per game. They have, though, showed improvement in their last two contests.

Arlington Next

Newton will face Arlington next Saturday at Dickinson Field in a battle of the undefeated teams. This game could well decide the Suburban League champ, and Ronayne commented, "The league comes first, and that is what we want to win." Nevertheless it is understandable that with almost half the season over, Newton fans are thinking in terms of a Class A title.

Haimes Scores Two More As South Belts Weston 28-13

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
Asst. Sports Editor

Newton South High exploded for two fast first quarter touchdowns and coasted to a 28-13 win over previously undefeated Weston High, last Saturday, at Dickinson Stadium. Howie Haimes led the way with 2 more touchdowns.

South's devastating power backfield had all the answers for the renowned Wildcat defense which had not allowed a point in three games.

The Lions exploded on the opening whistle, striking quickly on a five-yard run by 200-pound fullback Dave Lelchook. Quarterback Ron Izen kept the pigskin and went over himself seconds later for the two-point conversion and an 8-0 lead.

The 8-0 score held up only a short while. It was increased to 14-0. Scoring machine Howie Haimes skirted around end for ten yards and his sixth touchdown of the year.

Ned Moan, a southpaw who usually lines up at halfback, but is listed also as second-string quarterback on the roster, hurled a 30-yard scoring pass to end Bob Levine for South's longest completion of the season. Moan was on the receiving end of an Izen toss for the two extra points and a 22-0 halftime lead.

While the offensive circus put points on the scoreboard, a tenacious Lion defense kept the Wildcats from adding any of their own.

Weston showed signs of life in the second half and its vaunted defense blanked the South attack in the third quarter, while scoring once itself on a blocked punt.

Haimes took over in the fourth quarter and notched his second TD of the game on a 17-yard burst to up the score to 28-7. A 65-yard pass play from John Cremmen to William Grant completed the scoring.

John Billings, highly touted Weston running back, who is third in the Dual County League in scoring with 40 points was completely neutralized by South's big "D".

Howie Haimes, the Lions' 5-8, 170-pound sparkplug, tallied twice to slip past Billings with seven touchdowns and an aggregate 42 points.

The Newton South school scoring record is only eight touchdowns (48 points) by Mark Young in 1963, a mark Haimes approached last fall (seven TD's) and is sure to eclipse this season.

Haimes, a greatly improved runner over 1970 offers two key reasons for his improvement. "I'm getting the ball more this season, and thus have more opportunity to show what I can do. I'm also bigger and faster." Lion track opponents should cringe at that statement. If Haimes is any faster he could be a sub-ten second 100-yard dash man this year.

Lion mentor George Winkler was a happy man after his charges had decimated Weston in the first league meeting between the schools.

"We'd heard a lot about Billings and Weston's perfect defense before the game, but we played a lot closer to our potential this time.

"We played steady and mixed our plays well. We had a couple of lapses or we could have had a shut-out. The defense was strong, especially out linebackers. Al Backer, Bob Levine and Andy Moynihan were tough. Roger Cooper, (defensive tackle), who played with a slight muscle pull in his leg, also looked good." (Cooper normally kicks off, but surrendered that job for the day.)

"When we needed a drive at the end of the game we got it for 80 yards and another touchdown, even when Weston threw a nine-man line at us.

"I'm pleased. We progressed well. Now we have to be ready for Wayland."

Wayland High, 4-0 overall. Dual County League leader and defending champion. A tough assignment, but this Saturday will make or break the Lion season.

The Warriors feature a high-powered offense spearheaded by halfback Bob Peck, the leading scorer in the state with 14 touchdowns for 84 points. Peck rushed for 151 yards as Wayland wracked up its 12th straight victory over a two-year span and recorded its fourth consecutive shutout of the year, last week, 35-0 versus Algonquin.

For the second week in a row South will meet an undefeated league opponent, an unscored upon defense, and a super halfbakk. This time revenge could be a motivating factor, however. South was embarrassed by Wayland, 38-8, last year. Victory would be so sweet.

South Soccer Team Defense Strong Point

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

A rugged week, featuring three solid defensive efforts left the Newton South High soccer team with a 3-5-1 Dual County League record.

South, which started its season as a flop by dropping three games in a row, has come on in the last two weeks to play at a better than .500 clip.

Last week the booters battled Acton - Boxboro twice in a home and home series and collided with Lynnfield. The Lions fought to a 2-2 tie at Acton before being felled at home, 2-1. In between the squad conquered Lynnfield 3-2.

South goaltending provided the tie in the first Acton epic. Gary Ross, the regular in the position, blocked six shots. In the second half Charley Applestein took over and detoured nine enemy attempts for a total of 15 South deflections.

Acton's pressure built a 2-0 lead before Rich Izen's toe got into the act. Izen who accounted for the only tally in South's win against Wayland, erupted for two more big scores in the second half. Pin - point passing set up both tallies as Lee Grossman and Eliot Loew garnered assists. Bob Comey and Jan Klopsted notched the A B goals.

The second Acton - Boxboro contest was equally as tight, but not quite as satisfying. Ross was back in goal and went all the way. Applestein played at left forward. Robbie Shahon collected the lone tally.

The third tense encounter of the week culminated with a Lion triumph. Izen and Shahon each scored a goal to match the production of Lynnfield's Jon Carbone and Bill Corte in regulation time. The squads palyed through a five - minute overtime. Still 2-2. But at 1:55 of the second overtime period wing Eliot Loew blasted in a corner kick to register the victory.

Newton Souths 'soccer team was 5 - 6 - 2 last year, the best in school history, and things looked bright for this fall but a changeover in the coaching reins from Nat Merrill to Bob Franke (who changed his mind and became Assistant Principal of the school) to Mark Coven; and an inexperienced goalie, resulted in some confusion at the season's start.

After a three - game getting it - together slump South started playing good soccer. Gary Ross emerged as a top netminder and Coven has proved that his squad is well - drilled in defensive fundamentals. The South defense has allowed only eight goals in its last six games.

Four games remain on the schedule and the next three are very tough. It will take a streak of upsets, but if South is to enjoy a winning mark this year, it will have to beat the best.

The Lions face, in order: Lincoln - Sudbury, defending (for years) league champion, on top again now at 7 - 0 - 1, Weston, second at 8 - 1, with six shutouts, and Bedford, the team that tied Lincoln.

It is no easy task. Defense will be the difference.

Newton High Booters In Hectic Win Over Medford

By DAVE SOLOMON

The way Newton High soccer coach Mike Buzzi leaped up in the air with joy, you'd think his soccer players had just won the state title. Instead, they'd accomplished a tremendously important victory over Medford, and this win merited as much post-game enthusiasm as any.

It takes some teams weeks or months to break out of a slump, but it took Newton only a little over two periods. Becoming fired up after co-captain Timmy Tsochantaridis scored on a penalty kick in the waning moments of the first half, the Tigers began to play the style of soccer everyone knew they could. The Tigers were agressive, hungry and quick; It was obvious that they wanted this win. And the way they played, they certainly deserved it.

Things have not always been this rosy for the booters of late. A tie with Brookline earlier in the week was their third tie in four games. Even in the early action against Medford the Tigers looked poor. They were failing to gain control of the ball on the ground, and were sloppy and slow in setting up plays. It seemed to be the frustrations of the last two weeks personified.

Medford scored first on a penalty kick. One of the Tigers was called for holding, and despite goalie Dick Chaisson's tremendous leap, Medford tallied.

Then the momentum switched entirely after Tsochantaridis' goal. Toward the end of the first half the Tigers were giving Medford's goalie heart failure, as they continually kept the pressure in their opponent's end. Within two minutes of each other, Tommy Brazier, Wally Cox and Fred Whoriskey (twice) came as close to scoring as possible. One of co-captain Whoriskey's shots was a tremendous one--a rocket--and was deflected out by a Medford defenseman. Whoriskey has had several such powerful "super-shots" blocked this year, and when one gets through, some city may be in the market for a new net.

Coach Buzzi commented about the first half: "We tried to stress defense in the first period. All of our opponents' goals have been scored in the first half. Timmy's goal got us started, and after that it was a tremendous game. Early in the game we were moving too slowly and not first-timing the ball."

In the second half Newton demonstrated high school soccer at its best. It was so good you could almost compare it to the European style of the game. Junior forward Vinny Meglio scored two goals in this period, with Timmy Tsochantaridis setting up both plays.

On his first goal, Meglio dribbled through the center of the goal mouth, avoiding three defenders. The play was set up by a left wing pass from Tsochantaridis.

Shortly after this, Timmy T. battled behind the net and on a play which was pure hustle, fed the ball in front to Meglio. Vinny then scooped it past the sprawling goalie, who was just realizing the play was no longer behind the net.

We had a great third period," commented Buzzi. "they played as I knew they could. We kept the pressure on and there were innumerable good plays."

The fourth period, although scoreless, belonged to Newton. Medford threatened only once, and the defense thwarted this play near the goal mouth, with Richard Chaisson caught outside.

"We worked hard all week on improving our line play," said Buzzi, "and today we kept great pressure on their halfbacks and fullbacks... Everyone played a good game."

Ben Freidell had one of his best games of the season; he was agressive, and was both kicking and breaking up plays stupendously. Paul Marigni, Fred Whoriskey, and Steve Zimbel had their usual strong games on defense.

"One important thing in the game," commented assistant coach Bernard Flanagan, " was that all our goals were scored on fundamental soccer plays." Thus it is not necessary to be fancy in order to be good.

Earlier in the week the Tigers tied Brockton 1-1. Vinny Meglio scored Newton's goal late in the first period, as he deflected a Tim Tsochantaridis pass with the outside of his foot into the goal. Brockton had already scored in the opening minutes of the game, on a play which to all observers seemed to be an obvious offsides infraction. But alas, it was not called, and it is players not officials, who win or lose ballgames.

There were several outstanding individual performances in this game. Tommy Brazier, filling in for the injured Dave Douglas at right wing, was consistently all-hustle. Fullback Tommy Gerlach had his best game of the year; he was impressive in carrying the ball, breaking up plays, and releasing several accurate passes. Wally Cox also played extremely well, as did fullbacks Fred Whoriskey and Paul Marigni.

The NHS soccer team now possesses a 7-0-3 record, and they are sole holders of first place with a 6-0-3 league record. The Tigers have scored 23 goals in ten games. Their opponents have managed to get only four shots past Tiger goalie Dick Chaisson.

Leading goal--scorers for Newton are Timmy Tsochantaridis with nine and Vinny Meglio with six. Marty Hurwitz, Walter Cox and Bruno Viscomi each have two, while Dave Douglas and Mark Donovan have each tallied once.

The remaining soccer schedule is as follows:

Oxtober 19 Newton at Brookline

October 22 Cambridge Latin at Newton

October 26 Newton at Arlington

October 28 B.C. High at Newton

October 30 Newton at Rindge

N.A.A. Lions Bounce Back Over Waltham 14-12

The N.A.A. Lions Pop Warner Football team bounced back from the Brookline shellacking with a hard fought 14-12 upset over the Waltham Devil Dogs. The win puts the Lions record at 4-1-1 and Waltham at 3-2-1.

Waltham took the opening kickoff and moved the ball impressively downfield to the Lions 4 yrd. line where they fumbled and Joe Pepper of the Lions recovered. The Lions moved the ball out to the fifteen where they fumbled it back.

The Lions defense stiffened and repelled any further advance by the Devil Dogs. Again the Lions offensive team sputtered and was forced to punt. The kick travelled only 5 yds. and Waltham has a first down at the Lions 31. After the Lions were assessed 5 yds for offside, Middle guard, Jim Vizakis fired into the center causing a fumble that was recovered by defensive end Dave Fialkow. Again the Lions offense failed to move and were forced to punt from their own 30. The ensuing snap sailed over punter Mike Smiths head and was recovered in the end zone by Walthams Dave Valdanbrini for the touchdown. The conversion rush failed.

The following kickoff was returned 15 yds. by Brian O'Halloran to the 45. With a first and ten situation Quarterback, Matt Sabetti dropped to pass and screen passed out to Ed Tompkins who with some excellent moves and fine blocking from Mark Comerford, Mike Sinesi and Mike Smith rambled 55 yards for the tying score. Tompkins rushed the conversion and appeared to have gone in but the referee ruled his knee hit the ground inches from the goal line. Thats how things stood for the remainder of the half.

In the third period, Waltham kicked to the Lions Dave Proia who returned to his own 36. From their there the Lions offensive team came to life. Halfback, Tompkins behind Smith and Sinesi rambled 16 yds for the Lions first down of the day. Brian O'Halloran hit for 5 more behind Dave Chused and Rick Freeth. Jim Hit for 4 more behind center Mark Comerford, and so it went down to the Waltham 6 where the defense toughened and held.

Waltham grudgingly moved the ball out to the 21, but had two close calls for first downs on 4th down plays. Newtons defense finally held on the third series and forced a Waltham punt. Kick returner Dave Proia signaled for a fair catch which went unheeded and cost Waltham 15 yards. The Lions marched from their to the 22 where they lost the ball on downs. On Waltham's second play, Don Place went 80 yards over tackle for the go ahead touchdown. Waltham had two opportunities to convert due to an off side, but failed.

The Lions countered with the same scoring play they used in the first period on their first play from scrimmage. This time Tompkins dazzled Walthams defenders for a 52 yard score. The winning points were scored when Tompkins went off tackle behind the blocking of Rick Freeth, Brian O'Halloran, Al Flynn and Jim Vizakis. Newton forced a Waltham fumble on its second play from scrimmage. Rick Freeth recovering, and the Lions ran the clock out.

The game was one of the most exciting this year. Quarterback Matt Sabetti executed both screens like an old pro.

Al Flynn playing two ways turned in his best performance as a linebacker.

Jim Vizakis in additin to causing several fumbles also caused many misplays in the Waltham backfield due to his aggressive play. Little Pete Arnold turned in a stellar performance as a corner back.

Quarterback Matt Sabetti was installed as a linebacker midway throug the first period to help quell the Waltham attack.

The trio of Mark Comerford, Mike Sinesi and Dave Chused opend hugh holes in the middle of the Waltham line.

Waltham had ten first down to the Lions nine even tho the Big Blue didn't record one in first half. John Amicangioli turned his normal excellent performance on defense.

The Waltham followers just didn't have much routing to take home as the Jr. Midget Tigers shutout Waltham 22-0. It was the Tigers third straight shutout. In other Jr. Midget actions the Mustangs lost to Brighton 22-0.

In Pee Wee action the Huskies beat the Warriors 32-6 and the jets beat the Raiders 30-18. Huskies and Jets are 3-1, the Raiders 2-2 and the Warriors 0-4.

Tomorrow night the Lions and Tigers will be at Wayland starting at 6:30 p.m.

On Sunday the Mustangs will host the Wayland Red team at 12:30. At 1:30 the Jets vs. Warriors in Pee Wee action. At 2:30 the Pee Wee Raiders will meet the Highland Huskies.

Rezzuti Sparks For Huskies

Super Tom Rezzuti has done it again. Former mastermind of the Newton South football offense, Rezzuti now shines in the Northeastern University defensive backfield.

Rezzuti quarterbacked South in 1968 and 1969, but also found time to return punts and kick-offs as well as play defense.

Since entering NU, Rezzutl, now a junior, has confined his talents to the Huskie defense. Last week, just after coming off the injury list, Rezzutl picked off four interceptions to spark his team to a 28-8 victory over American International College.

Rezzuti followed his AIC performance with a stand-out effort this week. The 170-pound back returned a punt 68 yards for a touchdown with only 1:26 gone in the first quarter as the Huskies toppled Springfield, 34-16 to hand Coach Joe Zabilski the 100th win of his career.

Ress Stars For South Cross Country Team

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
(Asst. Sports Editor)

Sophomore Byron Ress ran the best race of his short career to spark the Newton South High cross-country team to its second Dual County League win of the season over Lynnfield.

Ress finished fifth overall in a tri-meet which saw South tumble to Westwood, 19-39, and clobber Lynnfield, 20-40. The harriers' first victory of the year also came at the expense of Lynnfield. Ress was fourth against Westwood and second against Lynnfield while touring the 2.6 mile Mt. Ida Junior College course in 15:00.

Helping out close behind Ress were Howie Frutkoff, seventh overall, and Jack Ferreri, eighth, who has been improving steadily in the last few meets.

Captain Matt Williams and junior John Mason completed the Lions' scoring five.

Jim Kelly of Westwood captured the well-spaced out race in 13:16, only eight seconds slower than the course standard, and the equal fourth fastest time ever run over the route.

Newton Man Honored At Reception For Contributions To Insurance

Irving A. Backman of 35 Wendell Rd., Newton, was honored at a reception last Wednesday (Oct. 13) at Anthony's Pier 4, for his unusual contributions to the life insurance industry and Mutual of New York (MONY), America's oldest mutual life insurance compmany.

He was MONYs' "Man of the Year" for 1970, chosen for "outstanding contributions to the company, to the industry, and to his community." In addition, during 1970 he led the entire sales force of over 5,000 agents in production results.

Civic and business leaders from the New England area paid tribute to Mr. Backman at the reception, hosted by Executive Vice President Howard A. Barnhill, CLU. Other MONY executives attending were John Corcoran, Regional Vice President and John P. Meehan, C.L.U., Manager of the firm's Boston Agency at Two Center Plaza, and President of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The "Man of the Year" designation, the company's highest honor, was accorded Mr. Backman in New Orleans last year. A Committee of leading field representatives selected him from the company's entire 4,000 man field force.

A life and qualifying member of the Million Dollaar Round Table, he has qualified for the industry's National Quality Award every year since joining MONY'S Boston-Meehan Agency in 1953, and has been selected "Man of the Year" twelve times by the General Agents and Managers Association of Boston.

Mr. Backman attended Bowdoin College and graduated from Northeastern University Evening School of Law following service in World War II as a flight engineer on a B-17. He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar and active in and on the board of of many community and charitable activities.

He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Northeast Federal Savings and Loan Association. His offices are located in the new Government Center at Two Center Plaza in Boston.

Court Bid Fails To Block Charter Summary Change

A suit by Alderman Peter F. Harrington to prevent the City from revising the ballot summary of the proposed new charter was rejected in Middlesex Superior Court last week.

Harrington asked Judge Reuben Lurie to issue an injunction to prohibit Election Department Secretary Alan Licarie from changing the summary on the ballot, and to prevent Licarie from mailing a revised form of the summary to the homes of Newton voters, but was turned down.

Th Ward 2 alderman maintained that changing the charter summary at this time was illegal. "The law states that the final form of the summary must be submitted to the Election Department 35 days before the election," Harrington contended.

City Solicitor Melvin J. Dangel, speaking in opposition to the Harrington suit, declared that litigation could prevent absentee ballots from being mailed out to reach voters stationed in Vietnam, and pointed out that law requires a suit by ten taxpayers, while only Harrington's name appeared on the petition.

Harrington, a member of the Charter Commission, also charged that a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen at which funds were appropriated to reprint a revised version of the charter summary was 'improperly' convened through the mayor's power to call emergency meetings.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas called a second special meeting of the Board of Aldermen a few hours after Harrington had "chartered" the appropriation for revision of the summary at an earlier special meeting.

There may be no further discussion of an item until the next meeting of the Board after an alderman exercises his "charter right" to halt discussion.

After hearing assurances from Mayor Basbas that there was no attempt to impugn the integrity of the Charter Commission in the Mayor's request for a revision of of the summary, Harrington declared that he would take no further action. "I was upset because I felt there were allegations that what the Charter Commission had done (in writing the proposed summary) was illegal," Harrington explained.

The Mayor had called a special meeting to ask the Charter Commission to eliminate alleged "editorializing" from the summary. The words "strengthen" and "'improve" were among those deleted at the mayor's request.

Artist Displays Work At Library

The realistic paintings of Ruth Newell of Newton Centre will be on exhibit at the Highlands Branch of the Newton Free Library now through the month of October.

Mrs. Newell is a graduate of Massachusetts College of Art, the Fine Arts Museum School and studied with George Degalis. She has been associated with the Newton Art Association and has exhibited in Newton and Boston banks and the Stearns Show of Art Associations.

The Newton Centre Branch is open Monday through Thursday 10 to 9, Friday and Saturday 10 to 6, closed Sunday.

Victor Sindoni Guest At Art Meeting Tonight

Victor Sindoni will be the artist demonstrator at the regular meeting of the Newton Art Association tonight, Thursday, October 21st., 7:30 p.m. at the Mason Rice School, Newton Centre.

Vic Sindoni needs no introduction to art lovers as his paintings have made him an outstanding figure in the art world.

He will paint a portrait in watercolors. The public as well as members are invited to attend.

Artist Ken Gore of Rockport gave a demonstration in oils at the October 14th N.A.A. meeting.

The winners of the Newton Art Association Outdoor Fall Exhibit were "James King Bonnar" Award: Angelo Urso. Second prize, Marguerite Eichorn Daly. Third prize, Alfred Spitall and honorable mention, Robert Higgins.

Lawyer Authors Book On Family

A prominent Waban lawyer has published a new book about the law and the family unit. Printed by the Beacon Press in Boston, "When Parents Fail" is a study of the contemporary family, its stability and integrity, and the legal inequities inherent in the present system of justice which attempts to regulate its social aspects.

The author of the book is Sanford N. Katz, Editor - in - Chief of the Family Law Quarterly and Professor of Family Law at Boston College Law School. He serves as Chairman of the Adoption Committee of the Family Law Section of the American Bar Association.

Mr. Katz resides at 140 Paulston Rd. in Waban with his wife, Joan, and their two sons, Daniel and Andrew. Mrs. Katz is an Assistant Professor of Social Work at Boston College Graduate School of Social Work.

Health For All

Horseless Carriage Victims

There's nothing like a nice, deep breath of clear, crisp air . . . if you can find some.

If we're not careful, clear and crisp air could go the way of the horse — both the horse and air are victims of the marvelous horseless carriage.

With fall inspection time here again, there is something you can do to help our air. When you get your car inspected, also have your auto exhaust inspected.

Is your car burning oil? Is your car emitting some unburned gasoline? Is your car's anti-pollution valve working properly?

If you haven't had your car's engine tuned lately, perhaps you should get it done now during fall inspection time. Then you can really enjoy that cool, crisp, clear fall air.

Wide effect

The fight against pollution will affect where we live, the kind of work we do and how we travel, those attending the nnaual meeting of the American Home Economics Association were told.

Mrs. James A. Scarbro, of Ripley, W. Va., national chairman of the Conservation Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who did the telling, said also that the fight against pollution will alter what we buy and eat, how we vacation, what our homes look like and what we wear.

If your old refrigerator is to be stored or discarded, take the proper precautionary steps to reduce the possibility of child entrapment. Remove the door.

CRC Probes Club Policies, Plans Housing Conference

The Rev. Robert L. Griesse, at a meeting of the Newton Community Relations Commission in the Auburndale Congregational Church, Reported on a CRC question on membership policies sent to 60 Newton country clubs, sports, garden, and veterans' groups, the Daughter of the American Revolution, and other social organizations.

The questionnaire, which was designed to uncover patterns of discrimination, has gotten responses from approximately 30 of the city clubs contacted, according to Rev. Griesse, but only about 15 organizations actually filled in the questionnaire. Another seven or eight clubs responded with letters.

One or two groups asserted opposition to the inquiry, according to Griesse.

The original target date for returning the questionnaires was Sept. 15, but since many clubs were disbanded for the summer, the deadline has been extended for the remaining 30 clubs.

A second discussion centered around a housing conference, conceived as an educational workshop program for city officials, to be held Dec. 4 at Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

Lectures on financing, eligibility for low-income housing, and maintenance presented by specialists in these fields will be followed by seminar discussion groups for the aldermen, members of the Planning Board, Redevelopment and Housing Authorities, the mayor and other city officials.

Social Security Information

DISABLED WORKERS

People who receive monthly disability benefits from social security who are severely disabled, may be helped by rehabilitation, according to Anthony C. Chiota, social security manager in Roslindale.

"Social security disability benefits are paid to eligible people with severe, long-lasting physical or mental impairments," Chiota said. "Still, one in five receives rehabilitation services paid for by State, Federal, local, or private agencies. Of those beneficiaries, one in 10 receives financial help for vocational rehabilitation from social security."

Rehabilitation includes job training, physical therapy, and similar services.

About 1.5 million disabled workers and 1.5 million dependents receive about $3 billion a year in monthly disability benefits from social security. About $24 million has been allocated by social security to help pay for rehabilitation services for selected disability cases this year.

"Since the social security beneficiary rehabilitation program began in 1965," Chiota said, "more than 7,100 people who had been receiving social security disability benefits and those benefits terminated because they were able to return to gainful work."

Disabled workers with a good potential for rehabilitation are referred to State vocational rehabilitation agencies by social security, according to Mr. Chiota.

If you have any questions about disability, Medicare, or other social security matters, please call 323-0850 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Cairo Driver Faces Unique Traffic Jams

By NAT GIBSON

Next time you're tied up in a traffic jam, here's a thought to cheer you: at least you don't have to drive your way around a lumbering camel, or a sitting one.

In Cairo, camels are only one hazard in traffic conditions guaranteed to test not only the patience, but the skills, of any driver.

Anarchy is as good a word as any to describe the state of traffic in this Egyptian capital city.

Here, cars dash happily the wrong way down one-way streets, drivers block intersections to converse with passing friends, and double or even triple parking is commonplace even on the main thoroughfares.

Then there are the camels, and the donkeys, and horses. They clog side streets and occasionally back up cars for blocks by staging sitdowns.

When a camel or donkey decides to sit down in the middle of everything, even the traffic cops sometimes can do little but wait it out.

In recent years, the autorities have tried to ease the animal problem by banning camels from the city's center and restricting donkey and horse-drawn cars to secondary byways. These rules look fine on paper, but few of Cairo's estimated 5,000 cartmen bother to observe them.

Drivers show the same indifference to traffic regulations as the cartmen. They blissfully ignore red lights and pedestrians and regularly make left hand turns from the outside lane without warning.

It is a "Pedestrian beware!" situation, but most residents accept both the cars and the animals - and give about as good as they get. They cross streets oblivious to blaring horns and lights and often abandon the sidewalk to stroll in the middle of the street."

Mix these ingredients with speeders an more than 1,000 incredibly overcrowded buses held together by pleas to Allah and that is Cairo during the day.

At night, it is worse. Because of a "brownout" ordered as a precaution against Israeli air raids, most cars speed through the evening hours without headlights on darkened streets. Only their horns warn of the impending arrival.

The police have attempted to stem the traffic chaos by issuing tickets lavishly. In the past year alone, summonses issued have added up to more than 10 times the total number of licensed drivers, but with little visible effect.

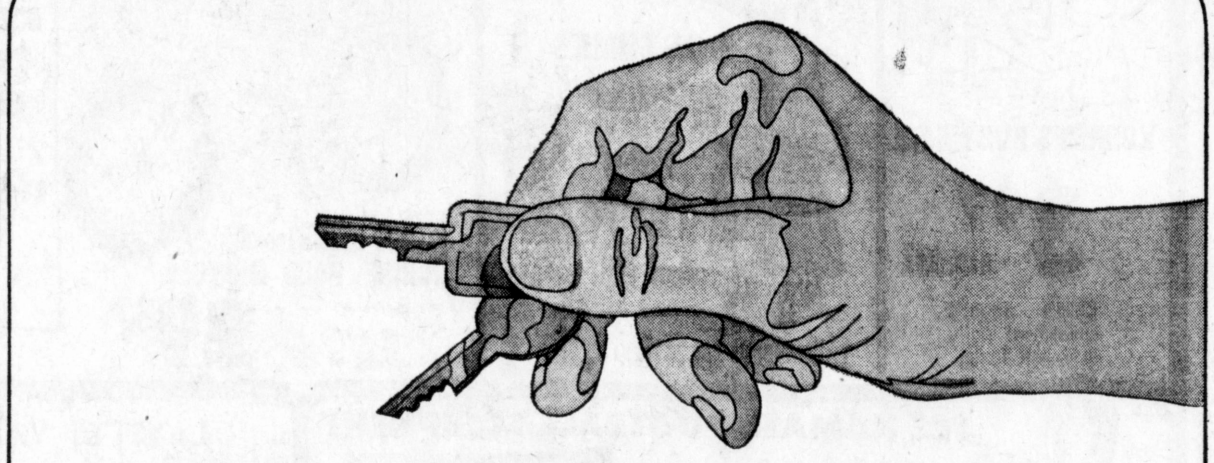

Malaria still afflicts 49 million persons in the Western Pacific area.

William Riseberg

Funeral services were held Friday in memory of William Riseberg of 3 Rangely Rd., West Newton, who died Thursday in Newton-Wellesley Hospital at the age of 77.

The Russian-born founder of Riseberg's, Inc., clothing store on Moody St. in Waltham was a West Newton resident for the past 30 years.

A member of the Waltham Chamber of Commerce and of the Monitor Lodge, AF and AM of Waltham, he was also a founding member of Waltham's Temple Beth Israel.

He leaves a widow, the former Gertrude Block; four children: Robert of Newton Center, Raymond of Wellesley, Mrs. Byla Borr of Belmont, and Mrs. Gladys Melamed of Binghamton, N.Y., as well as a sister, Mrs. Goldie Kaufman of Brighton, and a brother, Samuel of Pittsfield.

Claudette Panaggio

Services were held Tuesday morning at the Valente Funeral Home in Newtonville for Mrs. Claudette L. Panaggio, 31, formerly of Newton, who died last Thursday at her home in Buena Park, Calif., where she had lived for the past three years.

She is survived by her husband, Orazio, and three young children. She also leaves her father, Dennis Landry, a brother, Clarence Landry, and her maternal grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Leon Cormier, all of Waltham.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Helen R. Vinton

A Funeral Mass at Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church in Newton Upper Falls Monday commemorated the death of Mrs. Helen R. (Gentile) Vinton, of 1002 Boylston St., Newton Highlands, who died Thursday in New England Medical Center, at the age of 67, after a brief illness.

Former proprietor of dry goods stores in Nonantum and Newton Upper Falls, she was a lifelong Newtonite.

Ahe was also a director of the Annie E. Poth Home and grand financial secretary and past grand chief of the Massachusetts Branch of the Companions of the Foresters of America, and national supreme recording secretary, as well as a member of the group's Columbia Circle No. 1382.

She is survived by her husband, Sidney R., a sister, Mrs. Thomas Ranley of West Newton, and two brothers, Charles Gentile of Auburndale and John of Osterville.

Pauline Patriacca

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Magni Funeral Home on Watertown St. in Newton for Mrs. Pauline V. Patriacca of 48 Holden Rd. in West Newton, who passed away last Saturday morning.

Mrs. Patriacca, 47, had been a Newton resident for 26 years, and was an active member of the Stearns and Lincoln-Eliot School PTA's.

Mrs. Patriacca is survived by her husband, Samuel; two sons, Samuel, Jr., with U. S. Army in Alabama, and Paul L. of Waltham; and two daughters, Linda May and Janice, both of Newton.

In addition, she leaves her mother, Mrs. Catherine Venditti of Watertown; one sister, Mrs. James Diaco of Watertown; a brother, Louis Venditti of Natick; and two grandchildren.

Celia Turin

Funeral services Saturday marked the death of Mrs. Celia (Lebow) Turin of 53 Brackett Rd., Newton.

The 81-year-old civic leader died Thursday in Brookline Hospital.

A native of Russia and a Newton resident for the past 37 years, Mrs. Lebow was an active member of the Jewish community, with membership in Hadassah, the Histadrut, and the women's auxiliary of Brandeis University.

A founding member of Temple Emanuel in Newton, she was also a contributor and life member of the New England Sinai, Beth Israel, and Jewish Memorial Hospitals.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph H.; three children, Mrs. Eleanor Rose Restick of Waban, Sydney D. Turin of Brookline, and Mrs. Gertrude Michelson of Marblehead; as well as a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Klein of London, England.

Elizabeth Seavey

Funeral Services were held Monday afternoon at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church for Mrs. Elizabeth (Briggs) Seavey of 46 Cochituate Rd., Newton Highlands.

Mrs. Seavey, who died Sunday, after a short illness, was the widow of the late Malcolm Seavey, and of a first husband, the late Henry Nelson.

An active member of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, she was a former choir mother. She was past president of the Newton Highlands Garden Club.

She leaves a son, Neil E. Nelson of Corrales, N.M., a brother, Elwin Briggs of South Westport, and a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Cleveland of Millis.

John Arsenault

Services were held yesterday morning (Wednesday) for John Arsenault, 94, formerly of 115 Boyd St. in Newton. He passed away at his home in Cambridge Saturday.

A native of Nova Scotia, Mr. Arsenault was a self-employed gardener. He was the husband of the late Tillie C. Arsenault.

The funeral was conducted at the Conroy Funeral Home on Washington St. in Newton, with a Mass following at St. Jean's Church. Interment was at Calvary Cemetery in Waltham.

Pearl J. Edgehill

Funeral rites were held Saturday at the First Congregational Church in Wellesley Hills for Mrs. Pearl J. Edgehill, 78, who died Wednesday in the Woodside Cottages, Framingham.

A Waban resident who lived at 77 Wyman St., she was married to the late Lorus Udall, wool merchant and prominent Boston businessman.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Roger Perry of Wellesley Hills, Mrs. William Fleming of Marian; a son, John, of Santa Barbara, Calif.; and a sister, Mrs. Jed F. Woolley of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Henry K. Webster, 2nd

Services were held last Thursday (Oct. 14) for Henry K. Webster, 2nd of 30 Orchard Ave. in West Newton. Mr. Webster, 64, died suddenly on Oct. 11.

A native of Lawrence, Mr. Webster was manager of automobile insurance for Brewer and Lord in Boston, a firm he had worked for since 1945.

He served on the Newton Republican Ward Committee, and was a member of Newton's Auxiliary Police.

Mr. Webster is survived by his wife Marion; a son, Henry K. 3rd of Scituate; a brother, Neal W. Webster of Walpole, N. H.; and two granddaughters.

Funeral services were held at Cate and Partt Funeral Home in West Newton, and interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Harold F. McGreenery

A Funeral Mass at Sacred Heart Church Saturday marked the passing of Harold F. McGreenery, of Falmouth, formerly of Newton Centre, who died last Wednesday in Falmouth.

He was a member of the Crozier Council, No. 3973, Knights of Columbus, and of the Newton Post No. 48 of the American Legion.

He was the husband of the former Ruth Peterson, and in addition to his wife, leaves three daughters, Mrs. Ann J. Moran of Wilmington, Mrs. Karen O'Leary of Holbrook, and Jane M., of Falls Church, Va., as well as two brothers, Paul of Hanover, and Edmund of Manchester.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Falmouth Hospital at Falmouth, Mass.

Geraldine V. Murphy

A Saturday Funaral Mass was held at St. Bernard's Church in West Newton for Mrs. Geraldine V. (Cetrone) Murphy of 122 Falmouth Rd., West Newton, who died last Wednesday at Bethany Hospital in Framingham after an extended illness.

A Newton native, she was 49 at the time of her death.

She was a bowler and camper, a member of St. Bernard's Bowling League of West Newton and of the North American Campers' Association.

She is survived by her husband, Francis H. Murphy, sports editor of the Waltham News-Tribune, four children, Francis, Jr., Stephen, Suzanne, and Donna, all at home; and seven brothers and sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Millar, Mrs. Josephine Connors, Mrs. Madeline Shelton, Guido P. and John R. Cetrone of Newton; Anthony J. Cetrone of Weston, and Anthony J. of Billerica.

Mason H. Ribock

Funeral rites for Mason H. Ribock, of 5 Helene Rd., Waban, owner of the Liberty Coal and Cement Co. of Chelsea, were held Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Ribock, a native of Chelsea who had lived in Newton for the last 15 years, died in Massachusetts General Hospital last Tuesday, at the age of 60.

An alumnus of Northeastern University, he belonged to Temple Reyim in Newton and Congregation Agudos Shalom in Chelsea, and was a member of the Jewish Rehabilitation Center in Roslindale and of the Everett C. Benton Lodge, AF and AM, in Boston.

He is survived by his widow, the former Natalie Joffe; three daughters: Barbara, of Waban, Mrs. Judith Goldman of Newton, Mrs. Susan Shnidman of Stoneham; six sisters, Mrs. Helen Tarmy and Mrs. Violet Katz of Newton, Mrs. Ethel Goldman of Medford, Mrs. Sarah Benjamin of Attleboro, Mrs. Zelda Harris of Worcester, Mrs. Rose Katz, of Cranston, R.I.; and by three grandchildren.

Anna J. Sullivan

A Funeral Mass was held at Corpus Christi Church Saturday morning for Mrs. Anna J. (Bernard) Sullivan of 79 Newell Rd., Auburndale, who died Thursday at the Cardinal Cushing Hospital in Brockton after a brief illness.

Born in Cambridge, she was the widow of the late Joseph L. Sullivan, and was a member of the Corpus Christi Guild.

She leaves two sons, Joseph of Natick, and Dr. William, of Canton; one daughter, Sister Julien, S.N.D., of St. John's Convent in Wellesley, and 18 grandchildren.

She also leaves three brothers: Charles and Joseph Berard of Weston, the Rev. Leo, C.P. of the Passionist Monastery in Brighton; and a sister, Mrs. Harriet Burns of Framingham.

John J. Gaffney

Funeral services were held Saturday, with a Funeral Mass at St. Bernard's Church, for John J. Gaffney, 73, long-time resident of Newtonville, who died on Tuesday of last week at Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis, after a short illness.

Born in Boston, he was a 48-year employee of the Boston Herald Traveler Corp., and former head of the advertising-bookkeeping department.

He is survived by his wife, Mary E. ("Mae") Corbett, who lives at their retirement home in South Yarmouth; two daughters, Mrs. Anne P. Foran of Framingham and Mrs. Joan M. Haase of Yorktown, N.Y., and a brother and sister, Charles, and Mrs. Margaret Dunn, both of Brighton.

Nicholas Civetta

A Funeral Mass was conducted Saturday at Our Lady Help of Christians Church for Nicholas Civetta, of 61 West St., Newton, who died on Wednesday of last week at Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness.

He was 66 years old.

Born in Benevento, Italy, he had lived in Newton since the age of 11.

A truck driver for the Riverside Sand and Gravel Co., he was married to the former Rose E. Bozek-Reske.

In addition to his wife, he leaves three brothers and sisters: Domenic and Mrs. Maria Bibbo of Newton, and Mrs. Marie DeVito of Weston.

NJC Seeking To Economize

One consequence of the anticipated affiliation of Newton Junior College with the state system (expected to occur around Sept. 1973) is that the student teacher ratio will go up from the present 15-1 to the ratio set by law for state community colleges, of 18-1 in liberal arts courses, and 15-1 in occupational courses.

Newton Junior College president Charles W. Dudley, in a report to the School Committee, stated that a study of staffing practices indicated that a number of economies could be made without sacrificing the quality of education. Increasing the student-teacher ratio to the state standard was one. Another is a reduction in the number of part-time faculty by giving teaching esponsibilities to some administrators, and a third was to give a greater teaching load to department chairmen, a step which is being taken this year.

The state, in taking over NJC, will assume operating expenses (approximately $500,000 yearly) and costs of construction. The take-over awaits the securing of a suitable site.

An increase in the school's full-time day student enrollment, from 509 last year to 546 this year, may be attributed to an increase of 54 students in the number of non-Newtonites enrolled at the junior college.

The total number of persons taking courses at NJC during the past year, including eveing, summer, and adult non-credit courses, was 1,104. This year it will be slightly lower, at 1,096.

Mann Pledges Support Of Open Spaces in This City

Blight and decay in urban areas are the real enemies of conservation, Representative Theodore D. Mann declared today.

A longtime proponent of conservation, and co-author of "Air Pollution Control or else" (1967), Rep. Mann warned:

"While we commit ourselves to conservation of our natural resources we must press our fight against decay and blight in our urbanized areas. Hopefully, with the leadership of our Newton Redevelopment Authority now reorgainzed, we can proceed with this phase of our programs effectively."

"As a community we are justified in our concern about proposals for building on usable sites when such construction is in violation of sound planning principles."

"Proposals that fail to properly consider traffic control, public transportation needs, parking, recreational facilities, and other critical factors, are not acceptable. Too often imagined fiscal returns do not materialize and in the long run the development is extremely costly to the community."

"We must remain alert and carefully evaluate each proposal and differentiate between what is an acceptable opportunity to broaden Newton's tax base and what violates our environment," Representative Mann said.

Referring to his leadership in the opposition to the proposed construction of a high rise complex and stadium opposite the Newton - Wellesley Hospital, Rep. Mann declared:

"Fortunately we succeeded in discouraging that project because our citizenry is alert, responsive, able, and resourceful in its concern for our city's environment. We must continue to keep our guard up."

As examples of what can be done in the city for the preservation of open spaces for recreational uses by the public, Rep. Mann listed the Cold Springs Playground and and the acquisition of the more that 100 acres of natural wooded land in the Hammond Pond Parkway area. "These open spaces benefit all residents and generations to come will be grateful that we have these quiet, natural places," he noted.

"My concern for conservation," Representative Mann concluded, "is of long standing. In the legislature I have given my support to such legislation as the Hatch Act and the Inland Wetlands Act which means so much to us locally in our own conservation efforts."

No Talk Until '72 On Housing For Auburndale

Auburndale residents crowded the Alermanic chamber at the Land Use Committee hearings as Aldermen granted a continuance on the Auburndale Development Corporation proposal for a 25 per cent low-income apartment complex.

A confused aura of general dissatisfaction hung over the hearing as about half the residents complained that they had not received notice developers would seek a continuance, while another group of residents protested that they had received notices about the petition for continuance and thought it was a plot to keep them away.

The unofficial word in the hall was that developers, who asked for a continuance until Nov. 8, did not want the aldermen's decision on the apartment complex to get mixed up with election-hour politics.

Auburndale Development Corporation attorney Lawrence Shubow, however, gave three official reasons for the request for continuance: first, that plans would have to be revised to comply with proposed flood plain zoning; second, that developers needed time to draw up metes and bounds for a proposed four-acre parcel they planned to offer to Corporation and abutters of ing until February, rather than Nov. 8 as requested.

As a compromise between the Auburndale Development Corportion and abutters of the proposed project, the aldermen voted to grant the continuance, but to postpone the next hearing until Feburary, rther than Nov. 8 as requested.

Thus, they reasoned discussion of the matter would be started with the newly constituted Board of Aldermen chosen in the November elections.

The Auburndale Development Corporation will be required to present its plans at a meeting of Auburndale residents at least one month prior to the February hearing.

Guzzi Blasts Presidential Primary Bill

Newton Representative Paul Guzzi has joined in a statement which called a proposed presidential preference primary bill "totally unacceptable.' 'Guzzi objected to the fact that the measure, which has the support of House Speaker David Bartley, would eliminate a binding presidential preference vote.

"This is a step backwards," the Newton Democrat said. "No change at all would be better. At least with the present, untested law, a broad selection of presidential choices is guaranteed. Presently, all serious candidates will almost be forced to enter the primary, and the voters will choose between all the candidates.

"The proposed bill will tend to cement the power of elected officials," Guzzi maintained. Unfortunately for the voter, only elected officials will be voting on the bill in the Legislature."

Legislators Kill Chestnut Hill Sale

State Senator Irving Fishman of Newton announced Monday that Senate leadership has withdrawn a proposal for a $5.8 million appropriation for the purchase of the Chestnut Hill Country Club as a site for a Boston State College annex and community college campus.

The appropriation, submitted by the Senate Ways and Means Committee as an amendment to the Capital Outlay Budget, and adopted last week by the Senate, raised considerable protest from the Newton community.

Three candidates for Mayor, Alderman William Carmen and State Representatives Paul F. Malloy and Theodore D. Mann also announced their opposition to the proposed campus plan.

At a Sunday morning meeting at the Ward School, 200 residents expressed objection to the project, while some 1,000 persons signed a petition opposing the sale of the land.

Newton legislators and aldermen held meetings Monday with Governor Francis W. Sargent, Senate President Kevin H. Harrington, and House Speaker David S. Bartley after which it was announced that the Chestnut Hill proposal would be deleted from the Capital Outlay Budget.

The group included Chestnut Hill residents led by Norman H. Wolfe and Allen M. Rudolph, Senator Fishman, Newton Representatives Theodore D. Mann, Paul Guzzi, Paul Malloy, and David H. Mofenson, Rep. John Melia of Boston's Brighton district and Newton Alderman Jason Sacks.

Representative Mann who initiated the meetings, reported later that it was his feeling "that the proposal to put a campus on the site may now be considered effectively killed, at least for the time being."

Despite the move to rescind the budget item the Board of Aldermen Monday night voted to record their opposition to the college proposal in a resolution to be forwarded to the Governor and other state officials, as well as to the Legislative Committee on Education and the Boards of Trustees of the Massachusetts State and Community Colleges.

The sponsor of the resolution, Alderman Michael Lipof, explained that the appropriation was "in limbo" as a result of the House-Senate conference, and might be revived.

In support of the resolution, Alderman Harry Walen declared: "A state agency is attempting to assault the bastions and move in on an unoccupied piece of land without consideration of the preservation of the neighborhood."

Lipof asserted that the state college proposal would bring a minimum of 5000 students into the area, aggravating traffic problems caused by commuter traffic to Boston College.

Alderman Harry Crosby and Peter Harrington objected to the resolution on the grounds that it had no "teeth", and did not prevent further land-takings by the state for campus purposes.

Acts In College Play

Miss Wendy E. Neustadt, daughter of Mrs. Lisa Neustadt of 11 Sunset Rd. in Newton, is in the cast of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," put on by students at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, this weekend (Oct. 21-23).

Miss Neustadt is a sophomore at Grinnell.

BEGINS LIBRARY FUND DRIVE — Teachers and librarians of the Solomon Schechter Hebrew Day School, have begun to plan a Library to support the school's English and Hebrew curriculums. Supported by contributions to the Jeremiah M.G. Berman and Harry Meline Book Fund, the new library will provide the students with suitable materials in Hebrew as well as English. Among the first patrons of the new library are, from left to right, Alisa Margolis, Brookline, Miriam Tuchman, Auburndale, Ari Zymelman Auburndale, and Abram Mayman, West Newton.

Six Newton Youngsters Star In A Country Plaryers Musical Oct. 23

The Newton Country Players will feature six local juveniles in their initial production of the season, a musical detective story for children entitled "Sam Stiller, Private Eye" or "Footsteps on the River." The play is being directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill.

Initial matinee performances will be held Saturday, Oct. 23, at 2 p.m., at the Cabot School, 229 Cabot St., Newton, and on Sunday, Oct. 24, at 2:30 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton.

The original and whimsical "who-dunnit" for youngsters of elementary school age has a book by Peggy Simon and Sue Lawless, with lyrics by Peggy Simon and music by John Clifton. The production is available for programming to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising through December 19, either as a "road show" or for performances at the Rebecca Pomroy House, with its seating capacity of 150. Running time of the two-act yarn of mirth and mystery is 75 minutes.

An intensive search for unusually talented youngsters from the Newton area resulted in the casting of Larry Sloan of Newton Highlands, Bethany Gilboard of West Newton Susan Perlmutter of Newton Centre, and Tracey Pellows, Victoria Floyd and Liz Golden, all of Newton.

Playing the title role is Larry Sloan, a seventh grade student at Meadowbrook JHS. During the pas two years he essayed the roles of Nicely Nicely Johnson in "Guys and Dolls", Gandalf in "The Hobbit" and appeared in "Jaques Brel" and "Mary Poppins" in various camp shows.

Double cast as Olivia Stiller, Sam's sister, are Bethany Gilboard, a senior at Newton High School, and Tracey Pellows, a ninth grade student at Bigelow JHS.

Miss Gilboard's credits include Joan of Arc in "Chamber Music", the title role in "Anastasia", the daughter in "Dirty Work at the Crossroads", the thief in "Prince and the Pauper", a lady-in-waiting in "Grand Duchess of Gerolstein" and Maria in "Sound of Music", with two productions under the aegis of the Magic Circle Theatre, Tufts University. She also appeared in the original multi-media musical "We Live in the City".

With the Boston Children's Theatre, The Merry Maskers and the Newtonville Players, Miss Pellows has been featured as Goldie in "Fiddler on the Roof", a christian in "Androcles and the Lion", a tourist and a lady of the court in two productions of "The Mouse That Roared" and in "Lessons".

Eleven year old Vicki Floyd, a seventh grade student at Bigelow JHS, has been cast as Abagail Boomerfield. Miss Floyd played the grandfather in "Rose Cure" and appeared in "Howdy Cowboy" for the Newton YMCA Musical Theatre, as well as a number of school plays.

Also double cast in the role of Antonine Boomerfield are Susan Perlmutter, a ninth grade student at Meadowbrook JHS, and Liz Golden, a seventh grade pupil at Bigelow JHS. Working with the Pembroke Players, the Alpine Players and at school, Miss Perlmutter assumed the roles of Yissel Fishbein in "The Education of Hyman Kaplan", the Spectator in "Trial by Jury," the Wizard in "The Wizard of Oz", Miriam in "21 and Reena", the Wood Sprite in "King David", and the oldest princess in "The King and I".

Miss Golden portrayed the role of the mother in "Geography" for a summer acting group and has appeared in various school productions.

The plot of the play relates the valiant attempt of Sam Stiller Jr. to emulate his fabled father, "the most effective detective in all New York"... "not a clue gets by this famous private eye." In an atmosphere of spellbinding gaiety and suspense, the story unfolds the adventures of the young detective, who successfully solves the case of the missing Boomerfield diamonds, which keep disappearing from the S.S. Boomerang, anchored in the Hudson River in New York City.

The Players have announced that openings are still available on crew for this production. Plays for children previously produced by the group, embarked on their 16th year of community theatre activity, include "The Sleeping Princess", "Mr. Pepper's Penguin" and "The Tale of the Donkey."

The Newton Country Players are a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents, who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels. President of the Players is Mrs. Margaret Annis of Newtonville.

For additional information concerning individual membership or theatre party sponsorship, call Mrs. Annis at 244-3507 or write to P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159.

Enrolls Under A New B.U. Policy

Morris Mazick, 65, of 52a Beaconwood Rd., Newton, is studying Spanish at Boston University's Metropolitan College because, he said, "some day, when I get enough time, I'd like to help Spanish speaking children learn to speak English."

Mazick was the first to enroll under BU's new policy of permitting individuals over 65 to audit free of charge Metropolitan College (MET) courses on a space - available basis.

Auditing a course means attending classes and participating in the course work, but not being required to take examinations or submit papers. No grades are given and no credit towards a degree is granted.

Mazick said it was seeing the delight of his wife and daughter in teaching English to Chinese, Filipino and Puerto Rican children that "kindled my desire to do it, too."

Two years ago, he studied eelementary Spanish at a downtown Boston language school, and is looking forward to building on that foundation in the MET course, being offered in the evening this semester.

Copper Suppliers Pay Damages To City After Suit

Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas announced today that the City has been awarded a fifth payment from the settlement of a suit brought against suppliers of copper piping by the Attorney General of Massachusetts. The payment amounts to $670.22.

The case, an anti-trust action, was settled in 1970 when the Massachusetts Attorney General's office intervened in pending litigation in the District Court of Philadelphia, Penna. At that time, the government of Pennsylvania had brought suit against the suppliers in a "Class Action" on behalf of the cities and towns of that state. Massachusetts, whose municipalities had also been victims of the suppliers' activities in restraint of trade, then joined in the suit, winning a settlement for its cities and towns.

In order to determine its share of the settlement, the City of Newton had to present a list of construction done between 1955 and 1962 and compute how much brass and copper piping and tubing were used. Newton's share came to $7,200. Over half that amount was paid to the City, immediately following the settlement of the case. With the receipt of this fifth check, $6706.20 of the total has now been paid.

Sales of Series Subscriptions

Sales of series subscriptions for Temple Emunah's first annual Omnibus Theatre concert series, which will feature Peter Nero, Theodore Bikel and the New Christy Minstrels, are progressing rapidly as the October 30th deadline for the close of series sales approaches. Series subscriptions for the three-concert series sponsored by the Lexington temple are being sold at the cost of two individual concerts, but after the deadline date only single performance tickets will be available.

Scheduled for the auditorium at the new Waltham High School, the concert series will be inaugurated by Peter Nero on Saturday evening, October 30th. A frequent guest star on all of television's top variety programs, including "The Ed Sullivan Show", "The Tonight Show", "The Kraft Music Hall", "The Mike Douglas Show", and the "Merv Griffin Show", Nero has also starred in television specials for the BBC in London, as well as TV specials in Europe. He has also appeared with every major symphony in the United States and England.

The Nero performance will be followed by a concert featuring actor-folk singer Theodore Bikel on January 22, while the popular singing group the New Christy Minstrels will conclude the series of benefit concerts at the high school on April 29, 1972.

Newton Women Republicans to Meet on Wed.

Th Newton Woman's Republican Club will hold a special meeting next Wednesday (Oct. 27th) at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Bruce, 934 Beacon st., Newton Centre. Guests are invited to this general meeting which will be addressed by Mr. Edward J. McGee, Chairman of the Market Department, Babson Institute in Wellesley.

His subject will be "A Creative Approach to Getting Out The Vote.' 'There will be a question period following the meeting and refreshments will be served.

Navy Recruiters Run Into Problems at Boston College

Students at Boston College Monday sat in the entrances to Alumni Hall to block the entrance of Navy recruiters. A crowd of about 150 students, including some faculty and administration personnel, initiated the protest at 8 a.m., with a prayer by some Jesuit priests.

John McKenna, a spokesman for the Boston College Coalition Against the War, and a member of the University Academic Senate said the group feels "military recruiting should not take place in a Christian University."

McKenna charged that Boston College refuses to end military recruitment on campus in order to protect some $1.2 million in NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) and Defense Department funds.

The funds, which furnish equipment and salaries for non teaching researchers investigating rocket fuels for NASA and studying cancer in a Department of Defense research program, are granted in a lump sum which allows some $300,000 "profit" or surplus to the College, McKenna claimed.

Boston College officials stated that some $250,000 of the Department of Defense funds would be jeopardized if military recruiters were blocked from the campus.

A rider to the 1970 Defense Act provides that funds be withdrawn from campuses permitting interference with the military recruitment program, and a Department of Defense official was dispatched to the campus during disruptions and spring McKenna stated, to announce that funds would be cut off if blocking of recruitment continued.

College officials told the students that the action violated school policy on demonstrations.

Boston College student Charles Steele told demonstrators that if a radical group has the right to exclude speakers from the military, a conservative group should have the right to exclude radical speakers.

At 3 p.m., an injunction ordering the students to cease and desist from all disruptions was read at the three entrances to Alumni Hall, by Father Edward Hanrahan, Dean of Students, and Boston College Counsel Philip Burling. Twenty students were named in the injunction.

This injunction is the fourth sought by the Boston College administration in the last year. Two injunctions were sought last year against the blocking of military recruitment, and one against actions of a strike of women students.

Administration officials repeated their last year's policy statement endorsing a "Free and open campus" in which military recruiting could take place.

After the injunction was read, the three recruiters entered Alumni Hall. Student protesters had signed up for most of the slots on the interview schedule, and proceeded to conduct ten - person seminars with the recruiters.

Booklet Lists Antique Homes Of Auburndale

Newton's existing older homes in the Auburndale section, dating to 1855, are interestingly and attractively listed and illustrated in publication No. 3 issued under the auspices of the Historical Committee of the Jackson Homestead, Newton's City-owned museum.

The publication now available at the Homestead at $1.50 per copy is the result of the painstaking search of the area and old records by a group of some twenty volunteers directed by Mrs. E. Graham Bates assisted by Mrs. William H. Cannard, Director-curator of the Homestead, and Mrs. Ruth W. Bassett, Secretary.

The booklet is to be followed by others of a series with the next scheduled for the Waban area.

In a prefatory note, Mrs. Bates remarks about the publication:

"The architectural heritage of the area is one of its cultural resources and is of considerable significance and interest to the people. In order that the citizens of Newton may become more familiar with the older houses of this city and with the fascinating variety and individuality of home styles found here, this study is undertaken. It can be considered a worthy direction for the attention of the Jackson Homestead . . ."

"Hopefully the listing will foster a pride of ownership in houses of earlier periods and encourage both their preservation and restorations which are authentic and yet appropriate for modern living."

APPOINT CO-CHAIRMEN — Temple Reyim of Newton has appointed co-chairmen for its $350,000 capital fund drive. Ruben Brown, standing, Temple president, has named George Chaletzky, left, and David Wilson, right, to serve as co-chairmen of the mortgage redemption drive which will be officially kicked off at the end of October. All three are from Newton.

Newton Fencing Club In Statewide Open Oct. 17

The Salle Richards fencing club swept the first four places in the first competition of the season, Sabre Open, by the New England Division of the Amateur Fencers League of America (AFLA) on Sunday, October 17, at M.I.T.

Salle Richards, coached by Ed Richards of Newtonville, opened its doors October 2nd at the Newton Community Service Centers on Cherry Street in West Newton.

Ed Richards took top honors in competition after a fence-off with one of his pupils, Larry Cetrulo of Cambridge and recent graduate of Harvard University. In third place was Ed Carfagno, an architect from Boston, and in fourth place was Peter Band of Newton Centre.

All three fencers are coached by Ed Richards at the club and comprised the total entry from the club of the 12 competing in the event.

The club meets every Saturday morning in Newton from 9 a.m. to Noon and is open to all interested in learning and practicing the modern sport of fencing. Costs are $3.00 to join the Center and $6.00 per lesson.

N.A.A. Plans Masquerade

The Newton Athletic Association is having its third Annual Masquerade Dance on Saturday evening, October 23 at the Newton Centre Women's Club starting at 8 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded for best costume. Proceeds will go to the Pop Warner football program for boys 8-13.

For further information or tickets, contact Ticket Chairman, Mrs. Helen Prince, 244-2087.

Judith E. Tolnick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Tolnick of 65 Redwood road, Newton Centre, has enrolled this fall in the Lake Forest College study abroad program in Dijon, France. She will take concentrated language, French civilization, modern philosophy and 20th century poetry and theater at the University of Dijon.

-Political Highlights-

of the factors which influenced Muskie to assume the role of advocate of reform in the Democratic party.

While things have changed in politics in the last few years, most politicians would tell you that a front-runner such as Muskie does not make headway in his quest of the Presidential nomination by involving himself in losing fights.

They would add that an astute politician usually makes sure he has the votes when he engages in a test of political strength such as Muskie did when he backed Senator Hughes against Mrs. Patricia Harris, a black woman attorney from Washington.

One plus for Muskie resulting from his intervention in the battle in behalf of Hughes is that the top Hughes supporters in Iowa are forming a committee for the Maine Senator even though Senators George McGovern and Fred Harris also backed Hughes.

On the other hand, Muskie widened the breach between himself and certain labor leader politicos, and he certainly didn't do himself any good with Democratic National Chairman O'Brien who will wield considerable influence at next year's convention in Miami.

Out of all the maelstrom of strange political events which have occurred during the past six weeks emerges the obvious fact that Senator Muskie has ceased being a careful front-running candidate for President and has decided to gamble.

Pres. Nixon Could Be Tough To Defeat a Year From Now

As Senator Muskie and Democratic National Chairman O'Brien engage in political in-fighting within the Democratic party, an increasing number of political analysts express the conviction that President Nixon probably will be a tough candidate to defeat next year.

They point out that the publicity he will receive in connection with his trips to Peking and Moscow should help him tremendously in his bid for reelection.

Mr. Nixon must accomplish two things to place himself in a position where he will be a strong favorite to win a second term.

He must wind down the war in Vietnam to the point where U.S. participation in it is practically non-existent and then hope that South Vietnam is not overrun by forces from the north before the 1972 election.

The President's wage-freeze program also must be successful in improving the national economy, curbing inflation and reducing unemployment. If he can't achieve those goals, he could be in serious trouble regardless of his trips behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

Ted's Plans For Next Year Subject of Much Conjecture

A still unanswered question is whether Senator Edward M. Kennedy will allow himself to be drafted next year as the Democratic nominee for President.

Ted say "No." But a lot of other politicians and political pundits voice the opinion that he will yield to a draft if he decides he would have a good chance of defeating President Nixon.

Reasons can be advanced to support both the opinion that he may run and the belief that he will refuse to do so.

Family pressures are still strong on Ted to remain out of the Presidential arena and not subject himself to the same possible fate that befell his two late brothers, John and Robert.

There is still plenty of time for Ted to run for President in the future. If he were to run next year and get elected and win reelection to a second term, his public career would be over at the start of 1981 at the age of 48.

On the other hand, Ted can run for the Presidency next year without risking his Senate seat. If he should oppose President Nixon next year and be defeated, he would still be a U.S Senator. His senatorial term runs until 1976.

But if he waits until 1976 and were defeated then for the Presidency, he would be out of both the Senate and public life.

That makes it likely that Ted either will make his presidential move next year or wait until 1980 or 1984. He'll be only 52 years old in 1984, not an advanced age for a Presidential candidate.

Population Trends
Between 1940 and 1950 population of the U.S. increased 15 per cent and church membership gained 4 per cent.

Philosophy Figures In Work Of Artist Aronow

"Is the sky vertical?" That's what artist Alice Aronow of Newton Corner is thinking about as she sketches in watercolors. "Our concept of a horizontal sky is as much of a formalization as that of the Egyptians who turned everyone sideways."

Alice Aronow's versatility is apparent in her first one-woman show now on view at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton through early November.

Working rapidly since her subjects usually are not "sitting" for her, but engaged in their own occupations, she works over the drawing from the general to the particular.

"Drawing continues to be my major concern although I do etching, oil painting, silk screen printing and watercolors. I feel drawing is the most direct method of dealing with the relationship between the three dimensional 'real' world and the artist's two dimensional world," Alice explains.

Originally a New Yorker, Alice Aronow graduated from Cooper Union Art School with a Major in Textile Design. She came to New England twenty-five years ago and since then her multiple skills have brought her work as a hand weaver and a free lance commercial artist. She does block prints on fabric and is well known for her silk screen designs on leaflets, brochures, and posters for peace, civil rights, and folk-song groups.

The works in the Library show fall into four categories; "The Cape, 1960-1971," "Musicians, 1960-1971," "Denmark, 1969," and Newton, 1965-1971." The exhibit can be seen at the Main Library through November 3. Library hours are Monday - Friday 9-9, Saturday, 9-6, Sunday 1-4.

Receives Cancer Institute Grant

48 Young People Graduate From Turnabout In Newton

Graduation usually means the end of a prescribed course of study, but on Friday night, Oct. 8, in the Newton Armory 48 young people from Turnabout were declared "drug-free and crime-free," a beginning for them and a hope for those who follow.

Thirty-two of the graduates have been residents of Turnabout's 24-hour therapeutic center in Hull for 18 months or more. A second center opened in Hingham on October 2. The remaining "community graduates" received assistance at drop-in centers maintained in Newton, Brighton, Roxbury and Hull.

Turnabout, started by Bill McCue and Ron Riccardi, also celebrated its second anniversary on Friday. Its staff has grown from 2 to 24 in the past two years.

Attending the ceremonies were representatives of other drug rehabilitation group, state and local officials and members of Careabout - Turnabout, a group of concerned adults who stand firmly behind Turnabout.

The graduation ceremony was preceded by a play, "The Road Back," performed by Turnabout members and directed by Mrs. Eleanor Fisher, the drama therapist for Turnabout.

The hour-long drama characterized the reasons people become drug dependent: loneliness, fear and hate, and the need of love.

The cast brought viewers from the first agonized cry for help at a drug rehabilitation center where he or she is forced to smash the walls of defense and self-delusion, through the phases of life at the center group sessions, hostility groups to the final plea to the audience.

Paul Benzaquin, TV personality, was master of ceremonies and read the names of the graduates.

After receiving their diploma from Turnabout president Milton W. Woolfson, DMD of Milton, each of the graduates expressed his or her thanks to the staff or "family" members. A buffet and dancing followed the ceremony.

Dr. Beck Named Tufts Professor

Dr. Joseph F. Beck of Newton was named assistant professor of Oral Pathology at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine. Dr. Beck, who did his undergraduate work in Europe, also completed his university studies at the University of Breslau.

In the United States he studied Psychology at the Graduate Schools of Boston University and the University of Omaha, where he received his MA degree in Psychology and Education. After studying medicine at the University of Nebraska he came to Harvard School of Dental Medicine, where in 1958 he received his D.M.D. degree.

Dr. Beck is a member of the American Dental Association, the Mass. Dental Society, the Harvard Odontological Society, the Harvard Society of Dental Medicine, the Federation Dentaire Internationale, the American Society of Forensic Odontology, and the New England Society of Clinical Hypnosis.

Dr. Beck lives at 33 Huntington Rd. with his wife Rosamond and their three children.

Initial Meeting Of Scholarship Ass'n Conducted

The fall meeting of the Women's Scholarship Association was held this week at the Usdan Center of Brandeis University.

Program Chairmen of the event were Mrs. Joseph Krinsky and Mrs. Morton Goldberg, both of Chestnut Hill. President of the Association is Mrs. Stanley Golembe of Newton.

The meeting featured a speech by Martin Halperin, Professor of Theatre Arts at Brandeis, with dessert and coffee being served afterwards.

Denmark's national dish is roast pork with crackling.

Interfaith Exchange Is Planned For Newtonites

During 1969-70, a unique and highly successful educational exchange program under the guidance of Herbert B. Stearns took place with Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton, and St. Patrick's Church of Stoneham participating.

Mr. Stearns, a faculty member of the Temple religious school, prepared the curriculim and guided the program, with the cooperation of Father Morris of the Church.

The highlight of this program involved visits of the sixth and seventh grade children from both schools. The Catholic children were given a period of instruction in Jewish customs by Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, followed by their attendance, together with the clergy and parishioners of St. Patrick's Church, to Friday evening Sukkat service at Temple Beth Avodah.

During Passover, a model seder was held, attended by the same participants from the Stoneham Church and Temple Beth Avodah. The Jewish children attended special sessions conducted by Father Morris, and then attended Thanksgiving Mass at the Church.

Far more than a symbolic exchange, this program was designed to broaden the religious education of both Catholics and Jews, and to promote greater interfaith understanding.

The program was characterized by much dalogue and all participants had an opportunity to gain instruction in a classroom atmosphere which included question and answer periods and the benefit of gaining priceless knowledge from the Rabbis, Priests, Nuns, and religious school teachers of both faiths.

As the chairman of the Social Action Committee of Temple Beth Avodah, Mr. Stearns, together with Rabbi Robert M. Miller, and the spiritual guidance of Reverand Arthur Kubick, Monsignor Grandville, and others of the Sacred Heart Church of our own city of Newton, are planning in the same spirit and tradition a similiarly delightful interfaith experience.

The first exchange will take place as the holiday of Sukkot is celebrated. Students, faculty and parishioners of Sacred Heart Church will attend a festival service, followed by a visit to the Sukkah, built in the wooded seclusion of the new Temple.

Barbara Jo Kotzen and Barbara Modest Leavitt, both of Newton, were inducted recently into Academy, Simmons College honor society. Miss Kotzen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew S. Kotzen of 71 Kenilworth st., and Miss Leavitt resides at 223 Wiswall road.

Does the fact that we're guaranteed twice as long, mean we're twice as good?

We can't prove it, but one thing's sure: We're twice as confident.

When you buy a new car from Volkswagen, you get a new car warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.*

When you buy a new car from any other known company in the world (unless you're interested in a Rolls-Royce), you receive a warranty for only 12 months or 12,000 miles.

You see, we're the only ones who've stuck with one car model for 24 years. (A gutsy decision when you think we only sold 2 in 1949.)

But thanks to that one decision, we've had a chance to make over 2,200 improvements. (29 improvements on our 1972 model alone.)

And once a VW leaves the factory, we still don't stop caring.

For only an authorized VW dealer offers VW Diagnosis. A series of 4 free checkups with special diagnostic equipment so advanced, it can tell you'll have a car problem before it becomes a big problem.

And if the problem is found (and covered) during the warranty period, we'll solve it for you free of charge.

Even when it comes time to sell, we still won't let you down.

For over the years, two cars have consistently retained more of their original value than others: An old Volkswagen. And an old Cadillac.

Finally, consider price:

We're not the lowest-priced economy car you can buy. But once you thoroughly check into what you get for what you pay, you'll find very few car companies who, in reality, end up with their prices lower.

And none who start out with their standards higher.

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge.

RICHIE AND ROBERTO — The Pittsburgh Pirates won the World Series by defeating the Orioles in seven games and the hero of the series was the Pirates star Roberto Clemente. In this photo taken earlier in the year at Chicago, Clemente congratulates Richie Hebner after hitting game winning home run while Richie's roommate Bob Robertson heads for dugout after scoring. Hebner is first Norwood athlete ever to play in World Series. He will be honored Thursday night at the Norwood Town Hall at 6 p.m. when it will be "Richie Hebner Day."

Richie Helps Propel Pirates To Title . . .

One Man's 'Impossible Dream': Hebner Plays In World Series!

By FRANK WALL

Last Sunday at 4:23 p.m. in Baltimore, Md., this reporter walked into the dressing room of the World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates and saw perhaps the biggest celebration in the history of the fabulous World Series. Most of the attention was centered around Roberto Clemente and Steve Blass, but the first thing we really noticed in the midst of 100 writers and Pirates followers was Norwood's own Richie Hebner and Jose Pagan embracing each other celebrating the big World Series victory. For Hebner it was a boyhood dream come true.

"This is the greatest moment of my life and I will never forget it as long as I live. It's not the money, it's that World Series ring, and just think we're a World Champion, wow, it's unbelievable," yelled Richie as he poured some champagne over his brother Brian, who was also mighty happy as we all were.

Hebner wasn't unhappy about not playing in that final game. He was just happy that the Pirates had won and that was all that counted to him: "Jose did a fine job in there, and boy we won, and that's all that counts. We're the champions of the world." He leaped and got a piggy back around the locker room from Willie Stargell who was in ecstasy as were all the players. Pagan played third base in place of Richie in the finale with a lefty hurling. "Hey, we won and you can quote me as saying that Roberto Clemente is the best baseball player in the world. Don't forget to mention Chick Whelan, the man who signed me. He lives in Needham and hes' got to be the best guy who ever lived. Boy am I happy, wow," he yelled again as he and Steve Blass embraced. Blass was also signed by Whelan and both were going to call Whelan that night.

It was a long hard road to the World Series and Roberto Clemente probably summed it up best: "We're a team and the only way we can win is as a team. Each player has to do his thing when called on and that's the big reason for a victory," said the Pirate's superstar.

Clemente The Great One

Naturally this story should center around Richie Hebner who is from our area, but when talking about this year's World Series we have to talk about Roberto Clemente who proved himself to be the superstar he always was in the series. We had a short chat with Clemente before the finale on Sunday.

"This World Series will finally give me recognition. If I play over years in New York and be big hero but I not get recognition I deserve until now. I love game of baseball and I always play to win. If I don't hit .350 some people say I have bad year and this gets to me. I play to win just as hard in regular season games as I do in series," commented Clemente. "You never see me on television commercials and I don't care. I just love baseball. I not need money for in this series I play for pride. To be a World Champion is really great. Sometimes before games I can't sleep nights I get so worried. The field in Baltimore is not that good but I play, and play to win, no matter what field it is on. This is a big challenge to me. If there is another player better than I you just show me him," Clemente concluded and after the series not many could disagree with the star's exuberant self-confidence.

Another mighty happy athlete last Sunday was Steve Blass who had hurled the winning victory in the series. "You know, I got up this morning and ordered scrambled eggs and toast, and the best I could do was take one bite. I walked around the hotel three times just to get relaxed. I didn't even shave today. My wife didn't make the trip so I guess that's the reason. Sure this is a great thrill and in my 12 years of pitching I can say this is the happiest moment of my life. I wonder what the Orioles think of our pitching staff now," said Blass as roommate Dave Giusti poured some champagne over his hair as the celebration continued.

Many Thrills

The World Series had many thrills and chills. When we start about a trip like this let's start at the beginning. We got a call from Bill Hebner, Richie's dad, who was in Pittsburgh and said he had some seats for us for the game last Wednesday. We hopped a plane from Logan at 1:30 and landed in Pittsburgh at 3:40 and it was off to the series. That night was quite a time as it was the first night game ever played on national television. Our seats were five rows behind the backstop and it was amazing to see such a crowd at the game. Richie had one hit and scored a run and it was all evened up at 2-2 as young Bruce Kison was outstanding in relief. We were in pretty good company in the stands. Television comedian Marty Allen was there and so was "Der Bingle" and Stan Musial, and Casey Stengel and just about everyone connected with the game.

Into the dugout after the game and Richie was pretty happy. His big comment was "Gee I thought that that line drive I hit to left was a hit but then I looked up and there was Brooks Robinson and that was that."

That night we couldn't get a room so Richie invited us to his apartment on the outskirts of Pittsburgh. Richie's brother Brian was on his second week there and the pair are pretty close. Richie showed us some photos of the series of himself and they were some pretty good ones. We spotted a book on his desk and it was a book of poetry. Knowing Richie in High School we kind of thought that this was a little out of line, and we didn't particularly like poetry ourselves, but we sure changed our mind when we heard his favorite poem.

On page 276 was his favorite and it kind of brought tears to his eyes when he read it, and after we heard it we felt like crying also . . .

It was written by Edgar A. Guest (who does he play for?)

THE MOTHERS WATCH

She never closed her eyes in sleep till we were all in bed;
On party nights till we came home she often sat and read.
We little thought about it then when we were young and gay.
How much the mother worried when we children were away.
We only knew she never slept
when we were out at night,
And that sh ewaited just to know that we'd come home all right.
Why, sometimes when we'd stayed away till one, two or three,
It seemed to us that Mother neard the turning of the key.
For always when we stepped inside she'd call and we'd reply.
But we were all too young back then to understand just why.
Until the last one had returned she always kept a light,
For mother couldn't sleep until she kissed us all good night.
She had to know that we were safe before she went to rest.
She seemed to fear the world might harm the one she loved the best.
And once she said: "When you are grown to women and to men,
Perhaps I'll sleep the whole night through; I may be different then."
And so it seemed that night and day we knew a mother's care—
That always when we got back home we'd find her waiting there.
Then came the night that we were called to gather round her bed:
"The children all are with you now," the kindly doctor said.
All in her eyes there gleamed again the old time tender light
That told she had been waiting just to know we were all right.
She smiled the old familiar smile, and prayed to God to keep Us safe from harm throughout the years, and then she went to sleep . . .

Demon rum

Fifty per cent of highway fatalities are alcohol-related incidents, reports the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau.

The medical profession considers a blood alcohol level of 0.10 sufficient to be labeled drunk. In many states a driver cannot be arrested as drunk until tests indicate an alcohol level of 0.15.

Mayor Opposed To 4-Year Term

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has declared himself opposed to the proposed new city charter, particularly in regard to the provision for a four-year term for Mayor. "The mayor should feel the pulse of the community. Things change far too rapidly," Basbas maintained.

"There is so much to do in this job that you can get isolated from the people. At least every two years you have to go out to house parties and hear people's criticisms," he added.

Asked whether the two-year term is too short for a mayor get things done, the Mayor said, "if I can show people in two years that I have good programs, the people will send me back" for another term. Both the current mayor and his predecessor have been elected to three successive terms, Basbas pointed out.

Stating his opposition to the proposed charter provision giving control of day-to-day maintenance of schools to the School Committee, the mayor charged that school costs have been rising at a "fantastically greater" rate than the costs of the other city departments. Basbas contended the tax rate would go "completely out of site" if the provision passed.

Voicing opposition to the "village council" idea in the charter, the Mayor said, "We already have Ward Aldermen in this city."

New Lecturer At Babson College

Babson College in Wellesley has appointed Gerald A. Rogovin of 51 Shornecliffe Road, Newton, a Lecturer in Consumer Behavior and Marketing Communications for the Fall Semester, 1971-1972. The course is offered to second-year candidates for a Master's degree in Business Administration.

Rogovin is president of Garald A. Rogovin/Public Relations Inc, with offices in Boston and Newton. He has been an instructor at Boston College, Northeastern and Suffolk Universities.

MEMBERS OF THE NEWTON-CHESTNUT HILL committee for th eannual Dohor Luncheon of the Metropolitan Region, New England Women's Division, American Jewish Congress, left to right: Mrs. Louis I. Altshuler of Newton Center, president of the chapter; Mrs. Charles Brown of Newton, Mrs. Frank Altman of West Roxbury, and Mrs. Henry Rosenzweig of West Newton. The luncheon will take place Tuesday, November 9, at Chateau Garod, 1581 Beacon Street, Brookline. Mrs. Ethel Calish of Jamica Plain and Mrs. Mary Kramer of Newtonville are general co-chairmen of the affair. The luncheon is held annually for the benefit of the Louise Waterman Wise Youth Center in Jerusalem, a memorial to the founder of the women's organization.

Mayor Appointed A Member of New College Council

Monte G. Basbas, Mayor of Newton, has been named to the newly formed 14 member Development Council at Nichols College in Dudley, Mass.

The purpose of the council is to act with and for the Board of Trustees to advise the president of the college and the vice president of development concerning the college's program for development and fund raising, and to provide leadership for such efforts of the college.

Now in his 3rd term as Mayor, Monte Basbas has served the city of Newton continuously since 1951 as Assistant City Clerk and City Clerk through December 1965 and now as Mayor. An attorney at Law since 1949, Mr. Basbas has been active in a wide range of professional and governmental organizations and is Past President of the Massachusetts City Clerks' Association and President of the Massachusetts Mayor's Assoc.

Executive Board Of Women's Club To Meet Tuesday

The Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will meet next Tuesday (Oct. 26) at 10:15 a.m. in the Newtonville Library.

The President, Mrs. Charles W. Laffin, will conduct the meeting. Mrs. Charles Lipson, President of the League of Women Voters, will be the speaker.

Besides the Member Clubs, who are the Federated Women's Clubs throughout Newton, there are thirteen Associate Organizations, including Newton Chapter, Amerian Field Service, Newton Community Service Centers, and the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association. Any members of Member or Associate organizations are always welcome at the Board meetings.

C of C To Quiz Four Candidates

The Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce will host the four mayoralty candidates next Thursday (Oct. 28) at a candidates' forum on municipal problems.

Sponsored by the Chamber's Government Affairs Committee, the forum will take place from 10:30 a.m. to noon at Newton Community Services Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton.

After brief opening statements, candidates will draw questions from a Question Bowl. Candidates William Carmen, Paul Malloy, Alan MacNeil, and Theodore Mann have been invited.

The meeting will be restricted to Chamber members and public members of Chamber of Commerce committees.

Local Temple To Host Candidates Night Oct. 24th

The Brotherhood of Temple Shalom, 175 Temple St., West Newton, will host a Mayoralty Candidates' Night this Sunday (Oct. 24) beginning at 7:30 p.m. William Carmen, Al MacNeil, Paul Malloy, and Ted Mann, the four acknowledged candidates, will take part in a debate on local issues.

A reception will follow the forum, at which time refreshments will be served. Townspeople will be able to meet the four men, in addition to Aldermen and School Committee representative aspirants.

Service Centers Sponsors Anti-Cigarette Talks

The Newton Community Service Centers are sponsoring two free lectures entitled "How to Stop Smoking." They will be presented by members of the Smoke Watchers International, a group dedicated to helping cigarette smokers curb the habit.

The first of the two lectures will be held next Wednesday (Oct. 27) at 8 p.m. at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldridge St. in Newton Corner. The second lecture will take place at the Centers, 429 Cherry St. in West Newton on Monday, Nov. 1 at 10 a.m.

Hollywood may scrap X ratings.

The movie rating system, the muddled alphabet of G to X, is in serious trouble and right now desperate efforts are being made in Hollywood and New York to revamp and tighten the regulations before government censorship crushes in.

But one of the ironies of the current film sex-and-violence flare-up, is the fact that the majority of movie-goers, the age block of 18 to 30, has no complaints whatsoever. These regular film fans take the nudity, sex and rough language without a qualm.

There are two groups that are crying out with alarm. One is the self-appointed, generally middle-aged and older guardians of the public morals. These people will admit, proudly in most cases, that they seldom if ever go to the movies except for an occasional dip into something like "Love Story" or "Airport" and they would like an endless succession of things like "The Sound of Music" and Walt Disney pictures.

The other, and very legitimate protestors, are parents who are finding it increasingly difficult to locate a picture to take the kids to see.

And here is the crux of the problem centering on the GP rating. GP stands for "all ages admitted, parental guidance suggested".

Here is where the rating system and Hollywood are just begging for the re-institution of strict censorship. In their greed to extract every possible dollar from the box office, the Hollywood studios have pressured and argued the administrators of the code and rating system into giving a GP rating to films that should fall into the R category.

The most notorious example was "Ryan's Daughter," a lovely film with one exquisitely done nude love scene, perfectly acceptable to all but the most prudish adults, but certainly not for children. MGM made such a noise about the "R" rating (Restricted, Under 17 requiring accompanying parent or adult guardian) and threatened to withdraw from the system, that the rating was moved up to a GP.

One of the things to realize is that the Hollywood studios are in rough shape. Movie attendance is about 15 million a week as compared to between 70 and 90 million a week in the late 1940s, the peak era of the "golden age of cinema" before television.

As a curious sideline to all this, there is another development in movies. While there has been great concern over the rating system, hardcore pornographic movies have come out from underground. Before, such stag films were seen only at lodge halls after midnight.

Now, with little complaint from the general public, the hardcore stuff has blossomed across the country (30 theaters in and around Times Square) and in the past few months it has moved into Boston. None of the patrons has complained and explicit sex grinds away all day on the screen. The houses have avoided trouble thus far by strictly enforcing the over-21 age limit.

Public Schools Music Department Offers New Third Grade Programs

The 3rd grade recorder program initiated for this fall by the Newton Public Schools Music Department will get underway next week. The new 3rd grade package will take the following form:

Part 1. The musical instrument recorder will be experienced by all students at third grade level. This legitimate, flute - like instrument will help children relate to the basics of music, rhythm, melody and form.

It will provide an individual learning experience for those students who wish to develop an instrument. Newton instrumental teachers will assist the classroom music teachers in presenting the recorder.

By knowing the students through the recorder experience, these teachers will be better equipped to advise students and parents in the selection of regular band and orchestra instruments.

Part 2. Beginning lessons in band and orchestra instruments will start in January instead of September as in past years. In December invitation sheets will be distributed to all third grade students and parents so that lessons can begin in the new year.

The January start will avoid the many lost lessons that have occurred in the first three months of the school year.

Part 3. The school orchestra and bands are now under way. Their membership is made up of all school instrumental students who began instrumental study last year, previous orchestra members, and all those studying privately in and out of the school program. If not now in these organizations, instrumental students are encouraged to contact their school music teacher to inquire about membership.

Part 4. Beginning bands will be formed, where possible, soon after the beginning instruments have been started in January.

Rental - purchase programs have been worked out with the two music instrument dealers in Newton, Mr. Dangel of the Camera and Music Store and Mr. Carrel of New England Woodwind Exchange.

Families will be able to rent (with accumulated rental applicable toward purchase) an instrument for an initial two month period, then maintain the rental in small monthly amounts, avoiding the large three month rental costs of previous years.

In this first year of a total third grade recorder program, some schools will have recorders that will be available to students. In other schools, students will be asked to purchase a recorder through the school as part of the grade materials. The cost will be $1.50.

It is our feeling that most students will wish to own their own recorders, says John Harper, Coordinator of Music.

Raymond Tye; and Joseph Linsey, Massachusetts Chairman of the Society of Fellows.

Newton High Girls Soccer Is Success

By DAVE SOLOMON

The Newton High girls' field hockey team tied Brockton 0-0 last Thursday, and brought its season's record to 2-2-1.

"Against Brockton we controlled the ball for about 36 of the 40 minutes of play," said Coach Judy Davidson. "Our fullbacks and halfbacks did an outstanding job in keeping the pressure in the Brockton zone, we just couldn't get the ball in the net... We had several open goals, but we just couldn't score."

This seems to be the crux of the team's problems. They have scored only seven goals in five games, all of them coming in their two victories. "We don't shoot quickly enough," explained Miss Davidson, "and we are working on this problem in practice. Our first shot should come from about sixteen yards out, and we're waiting until 11 or 12 yards out. This gives the defense extra time to get set up."

Nevertheless Miss Davidson feels Newton plays a very fine grade of high school hockey. "Our scores don't indicate our overall level of play . . . Other schools, with the exception of Arlington, just bat the ball around and slap it back and forth, while Newton's is a thinking game, built around pin - point passing and heads up play. . . We have a number of advanced plays."

One play which Newton has worked on a great deal is for free hits (comparable to indirect kicks in soccer). The player lifts the ball with his stick over the heads of the opposition to a teammate. This serves the purpose of surprising the opposition, most of whom aren't able to handle this skill (scooping) yet. Most teams, not knowing what to do against this play, have instinctively raised their sticks, thus committing a foul. This reduces the play's effectiveness for scoring purposes.

Returning to the Brockton game, Newton goalie Sue Ekezian was not forced to touch the ball at all. Newton kept complete possession in Brockton's end. "Judy Curby did a great job for us on defense," noted Miss Davidson, "she kept the pressure on and saved some possible goals from being set up . . . She was hustling all the time."

Miss Davidson insists, however, that "there are no real stars on this team. Everyone works together — as a team."

Nevertheless, goals win games, and co - captains Doreen Quintilliani and Sue Martin lead the Tigeresses in scoring, with two apiece.

After losing to Arlington 4-0 and Brookline 1-0, the girls beat Waltham 4-0. Newton's sister combo of Doreen and Linda Quintilliani scored two goals for Newton in the first half. Terry Bontempo and Sue Martin tallied in the second half. The only other game Newton has scored in was way back on September 28, when they beat Brockton 3-0.

The Tigresses have three league games and three non - league games remaining. "With our sophmores improving steadily," professed Coach Davidson, "we should finish up strong. With the exception of Arlington we have outplayed out opponents. All we lack is that little something extra which will enable us to score more."

The schedule:

October 19 Arlington at Newton*
October 21 Brookline at Newton*
October 26 Newton at Waltham
October 28 Newton at Newton South
November 2 Brimmer - May at Newton*
November 10 Weston at Newton*..

* All home games are played at Auburndale Playground.

*Indicates non-league game.

Hut Bowling

The fourth week of Hut Bowling noted no important changes in team play but, some interesting results in individual play.

In a battle of the undefeated George Cullen upended Bob Worden, taking over sole possession of first place. Steve Pozzi held onto second place nipping Mike McClory in a fine exhibition of bowling.

Other winners included Cutrone, Frieman, Levitan, Freedman, Medoff, Peters, Hite, MacMillian, McNulty and Tailliaq.

McClory ousted Pozzi's high four string total, carding 405. Hite, McNulty, Tailliaq and Levetan all posted impressive showings. . .

The Chiefs continue to dominate team play, they now maintain an 85 pin edge over the pinbusting Vikings (5,422). Those fabulous New York Giants round out the top three with the Chargers, Jets, the spirited Saints and the diving Dolphins pulling up the rear.

Highlights from last week include Peter Hites 397 and Saul Rubins fine bowling, leading his squad to second place. Nick Siciliano continued to impress the critics with his book — How to lose all your matches while bowling in the nineties.

Newtonville Boy On Soccer Squad

Jeffrey H. Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jacobs of 19 Kirkstall Road, Newtonville, has been selected to play Wing on the Tilton School varsity Soccer team in Tilton, N.H.

Jeff will join 34 other men in a 13-game season. Last year, the Tilton School varsity Soccer team posted a 7 win 2 losses 3 ties season record.

Day Care Ctr. Scholarship Drive Begins

There's a new Scholarship Fund campaign under way. This one is designed to provide scholarships, not for college students, but for preschoolers.

The Newton Day Care Center, which provides teachers, aides, a hot lunch and health care for 45 children of working mothers, is seeking scholarship funds so that it will be able to offer tuition reductions for children from lower-income families.

The program, which is housed in the United Presbyterian Church, costs $37.50 per child per week.

According to Mrs. Keith G. Willoughby, Fund Raising Chairman, a contribution of $4 will provide one child with Day Care for one-half day, $7.50 for one full day, $20 for one-half week.

Checks may be mailed to the Newton Day Care Scholarship Fund, c-o Newton Savings Bank, 1188 Cenre St., Newton Centre.

High Schoolers Exhibit Art At Newton Church

On Sunday, October 24, Dr. Gene E. Bartlett will preach on the subject "Rebellious Obedience and Obedient Rebellion" at the First Baptist Church in Newton. He will be assisted in the worship service by Kenneth Joines, an Andover Newton student serving on the church staff as Assistant in Administration.

At 6:30 p.m. the Fall Arts Festival continues with a slide presentation by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, showing contemporary European and American art works in historical perspective, and attempting to define religion and art and to investigate their inter-relationship.

Beginning on Sunday and continuing through November 3 the art work exhibit at the church will be by young artists from Newton High, Newton South High, the Museum School in Boston, and the Marlboro schools.

The public is invited to view the art exhibits and attend the Festival events.

Newton's Joe DeNucci Fights Next Wednesday

Newton's former New England middleweight and world's contender, Joe DeNucci, after a year of training wil headline Sam Silverman's second show of the season at Waltham's I.B.E.W. Hall on Main Street, on Wednesday night, Oct. 27.

DeNucci will face up and coming Hartford middleweight Coca Kid II, nephew of former world's contender, Coca Kid, in the 8-round star attraction.

DeNucci who fought world's champion, Joey Giardello to a draw at the Boston Garden and scored two decisions over Dedham's Mike Pusateri, has been working out at Connolly's South Boston Boxing Gym, with Bob Benoit, who fights Eddie Owens on Oct. 20th, at Worcester, for the New England light heavyweight title.

DeNucci's last two bouts, he clobbered Rocky Halliday at the Boston Arena then defeated Bob "Bobcat" Simphiladelphia in a 10 rounder that was a co-featured bout to the Joe Frazier-Marion Connors bout at the Boston Garden.

At the time DeNucci defeated Mike Pusateri twice, giving the Dedham middleweight two one-sided lessons in boxing; both Paul Pender and Terry Downes refused to fight Joe DeNucci.

DeNucci, who is a court clerk in Boston takes on a young winning foe in the highly talented Coca Kid II. Last time out Coca Kid stiffened Ken Warner in New Jersey and at New York won over Freddy Torres in a three-round kayo.

DeNucci can expect trouble from the club-fighting Coca Kid II, who hits with either hand being a converted southpaw. De Nucci's is after a fight against New England's middleweight champion, Johnny Coiley.

Mike Pusateri, who held Coiley to a draw for the New England crown, then lost a highly disputed decision to Coiley for the title, was used twice by Joe DeNucci as a punching bag, so DeNucci figures Johnny Coiley will be no trouble to handle.

Crash Kills B.U. Student

A fatal accident shortly before midnight Saturday night took the life of Boston University student Charles P. Arnold, 19, of Colorado Springs, Colo., when the VW bus he ws driving failed to negotiate a curve on Hammond St., near the MBTA station, overturned and slid across a lane into the path of a station-wagon operated by Bruce N. Baker of Annandale, Va. Baker was uninjured.

The accident took place at 11:44 p.m. Arnold, who was pinned between the seat and the steering wheel for nearly an hour, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital where he died of multiple injuries at 3 a.m. Sunday.

Two passengers, Dwight Lengyel of 56 Cummings Rd., Brighton, and William Price of 1754 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton, were treated and released from Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Both cars wre towed from the sscene.

Marjorie Tracht, 24, of 1429 Beacon St., Newton, was treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for injuries received when a truck in which she was a passenger crashed through a fence at the corner of Boylston and Dudley Sts. in Newton Centre at 12:01 a.m. Saturday.

Auburndale Candidates' Night At Church Sunday

Auburndale candidates 2x24bb

The Auburndale Community Association will host a Candidates' Night this Sunday (Oct. 24) at 7:30 p.m. at the Auburndale Congregational Church on the corner of Hancock st. and Woodland rd.

Co - chairmen of the event will be Mrs. G. M. Swift, ACA President, and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, ACA Secretary. Program Moderator will be Robert K. Woetzel, Professor of International Politics and Law at Boston College.

The following candidates have been invited to speak at Sunday's forum: for the office of Mayor, William Carmen, Alan G. MacNeil, Paul Malloy, and Theodore Mann; for the office of Alderman from Ward 4, Vincent J. Farina, Sheila Farnese, and Richard McGrath.

Also invited to attend are three candidates for Alderman - at - Large from Ward 4: Louis E. Egelson, Jr., David W. Jackson, and Nick Nardone; and Manuel Beckwith and Peter Higgins, School Committee candidates from Ward 4.

Patrolman Resigns After Arrest On Drug Charges

A 24-year-old patrolman resigned from the Newton Police Department following his arrest Friday in Shelburne Falls on charges of possession of marijuana. His companion, arrested on charges of possession of LSD with intent to sell, was a former Newton police officer who had resigned from the force two days prior to the arrest.

Richard F. Hillier, 24, of Watertown, submitted his resignation to the Newton Police Department after being charged with possession of marijuana and being present where narcotics were found.

Newton Chief of Police William F. Quinn said that Hillier had worked on the force for six months of a nine-month probationary period as a relief officer in the patrol bureau, and "it seemed until this incident as if he were going to make a good police officer."

Robert W. Berry, 28, of 22 Harrington St., Newton, was also arrested initially on the marijuana charges, but was later charged with possession of LSD with intent to sell.

Berry, according to Chief Quinn, had resigned from the force Oct. 13 because of absenteeism and other problems.

Both Hillier and Berry are Vietnam veterans.

State police in Shelburne Falls picked up the two young men with a companion, Richard R. DiLorenzo of Watertown, for disrupting highway traffic. Police said they discovered approximately four ounces of marijuana, and in a later search of the car, found 60 capsules of LSD in a coat pocket.

The trio was arraigned Saturday in Greenfield District Court where Hillier and DiLorenzo pleaded guilty to the marijuana charges and were released on $200 bail.

Bail for Berry was set at $2000. After pleading innocent to the charges against him, Berry was sent to the Franklin County House of Correction in lieu of bail.

Commenting on the arrest, Chief Quinn said he was "not shocked", but that the Newton Police Department is "no place for people who experiment with drugs."

There are about 25 young Vietnam veterans on the Newton force, and "generally they have made very fine policemen," the chief added.

First Methodist Church To Take Relief Offering

A special offering for Pakistan Refugee relief will be taken at the First United Methodist Church, Newton Upper Falls, this Sunday (Oct. 24). Offering will be received during the morning worship service at 10:45. The service will be conducted by the Rev. David S. Hill, pastor.

Families have been asked to the cost of just one meal in response to the suffering of East Pakistan Refugees in India. Those who will be unable to contribute this Sunday will have an opportunity to give on the following Sunday, October 31.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the church has announced that the annual Fall Foliage Fair will be held on Saturday, November 6, from 5 to 8 p.m., with a fried chicken dinner served at 6:30. Supper reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Herbert Downs.

Appointment Of Notaries Public

Two appointments and one reappointment of Newton Notaries Public have been announced by Mass. Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren.

Reappointed to another seven-year term in Newton Centre is Julius Kirle, 45 Deborah Rd. Newton Centre.

Named to new appointments as Newton Notaries Public are: Richard D. Levin, 73 Rockland Plaza, Newton, and Attorney Daniel S. Fischbach of 23 Vineyard Rd. in Newton. Both men's terms will expire in 1978.

Taxpayers Vote Opposition To Charter Change

The directors of the Newton Taxpayers' Association voted this week to recommend a "No" vote on the proposed new city charter, reports Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive director of the Association.

"The principal objection is to the increased cost of government built in to a mixed bag of desirable and undesirable compromise elements which must be accepted or rejected as a whole, when there already exists the power to decide on the value or each of the elements and to select or improve on the best of the proposal," Muther said.

"Initial increased operating costs are estimated minimally at $200-250 thousand annually, coupled with an impetus to significant further increases encouraged just by the structure of the proposed new charter as compared with the existing one," he noted.

Concert Pianist At High School On October 26th

Concert Pianist Arthur MacKenzie will play a program at the Newton High School on Walnut Street, Newtonville, on Tuesday afternoon, October 26th, at 1:00 p.m. Mr. Henry Lasker, member of the music faculty, has invited Mr. MacKenzie to play selections from his forthcoming recital program to be given at Jordan Hall on November 7th.

In the Boston area he has given three Jordan Hall recitals and appeared as soloist with the Boston Pops Orchestra twenty-six times.

Mr. MacKenzie retired from the concert stage for several years to devote his time to composition. During this time he was invited to visit Arthur Rubinstein at his New York home. Mr. MacKenzie went to convince Rubinstein to perform some of his piano compositions; instead, after hearing MacKenzie play, Rubinstein convinced him to return to full time performing as well as continuing his own writing.

This season he will play his fifth recital in New York at Lincoln Center and make his seventh concert tour of Europe. Highlights of the program will be the Ginastera Piano Sonata and music from Bizet's Carmen transcribed by Busoni and Horowitz.

The public is cordially invited to attend the recital to be held in the auditorium of Building III.

Memorial School Plans Book Fair

Memorial School (Oak Hill Park) will hold its annual Book Fair on November 9, 10, and 11th. The fair will carry paperback books only, and will be open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday mornings and afternoons. It will also be open Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 p.m.

"First Of Its Kind" Art Program Opens On Nov. 8

A new approach to bringing the arts to the Newton community commences in Chestnut Hill Nov. 8 on he grounds of one of the area's oldest private schools.

It is the new Chestnut Hill Community Arts Program, which will conduct more than 50 classes and workshops in the arts, theatre, music an dance. Instruction will be for children from elementary through high school age and also for adults.

The sponsor is the Chestnut Hill School on Hammond St., established in 1860. About 60 per cent of its pupils live in Newton.

"The arts education program is community oriented and entirely independent from the school," explained F. Joseph Allison, headmaster. "But its benefits will be available to our pupils and complement our own educational goals. The program is a first of its kind, we believe, and we're hopeful about it."

There will be 17 arts courses taught by a faculty of eight including painting, graphics, photogrophy and film-making. The drama department will have 17 courses and a faculty of 10.

Courses include puppetry, the use of masks, a theater 'turn-on' for high school students and adult workshops that emphasize community theater.

The music faculty numbers 17 and offers instruction in virtually all instruments plus theory, harmony and composition and voice. The dance department has eight courses ranging from an introduction to ballet to advanced technique and interpretive dance.

"The key to the Chestnut Hill Creative Arts Program us bringing the arts to the community," said A. Elsom Eldridge, Jr., who coordinates the programs. "The arts can be beautiful and significant factors in family and community life," he said.

One problem today, Mr. Allison noted, is that the arts tend to be identified as being within the confines of large cities. "If people can't come to the arts, we'll bring the arts to the people." He hopes the program will serve perhaps six to a dozen communities and not just Newton.

Newton Headstart Advisory Committee Elects Officers

The Newton Headstart Advisory Committee held its Annual Meeting at the First Unitarian Society in West Newton this past week.

Highlight of the meeting as the election of new officers to lead the committe in the coming year and a presentation to the outgoing chairman. Mrs. John Taplin, who resides at 15 Sewall street in West Newton, chaired the meeting and was applauded for her leadership of the program for the past year.

Elected chairman was Mrs. Katherine Eames. To serve as vice chairman is Mrs. William Homan; Secretary, Mrs. John Warshaw; Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Phyllis Donovan; and treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy L. Landy.

Mrs. Esther Steinberg presented the slate of new officers on behalf of the nominating committee. In addition to the officers elected, nine parents or parents of children who attended Headstart in the past were included, as well as representatives from the Board Of Directors of the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., ad ministrating agency, individuals from the community at large, and a representative fron the First Unitarian Society, site of the program.

Among the local program consultants are Mr. Joseph Utka from the Newton School Department, Mr. Anthony J. Bibbo, Executive Director of the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., and Mr. Frank Mitchell, Project Coordinator and his staff from the Communities United, funding agency for the program.

The advisory committee was established to carry on a variety of duties in support of the Newton Headstart program. Among the tasks of the committee are: to recruit and employ local staff in consultation with the regional director; educate, interpret, and support "Headstart" within the local community; serve to constantly evaluate the local program and to keep the members of the regional committee of Communities United appraised of successes, failures, need, etc.; serve to locate supplementary funds for outgoing local programs and to administer these monies in compliance with a local policy; to oversee funding designated by Communities United on behalf of the local program; and to recruit and train volunteers for the program.

The newly elected chairman, Mrs. Eames, stated that she is looking forward to this new challenge and outlined the initial plans for a costume Halloween party to be held later in the month for youngsters.

City Bid $8 Per Ton For Old Papers

A probe by the Board of Aldermen into the possibility of collecting and recycling newspapers and magazines in the City of Newton has turned up three bids from waste-paper dealers who say they would pay $8 per ton for papers delivered to them by the City of Newton.

The bids were submitted by firms from Roxbury, Chelsea, and Quincy, to Purchasing Agent Wilfred P. Dery.

The Quincy firm also said it could pay $5.06 per ton for papers left at a central drop-off point in Newton.

At this point, the recycling question goes to Public Works Director Willard S. Pratt, who must determine the costs and feasibility of making a separate trash collection for waste paper.

The recycling proposal was submitted by Alderman William Carmen, and was handed over to a special Aldermanic subcommittee on the Environment.

Newton Ctre. Contemplates Hi-Rise Plan

A novel twist on the old land-values argument occurred at an Aldermanic Land Use Committee meeting when a Newton Centre resident testifying in opposition to a proposed high-rise luxury apartment on the site of the Newton Centre Women's Club argued that the construction would drive up the price of land in the area.

Edmund Taylor, of 86 Oxford Rd., contended that if the Women's Club site is purchased at the proposed price of $9 per square foot businessmen of the area would rush to sell their property.

"A change is coming," Taylor declared. "The word has gone out" that the only way to realize a profit is to have high-rise multiple floor buildings."

Charging that high-rise apartments would "spoil the quaintness and atmosphere" of the area, Glenn Casten of 72 Oxford St., president of the Newton Centre Neighborhood Association, asked the aldermen to consider "our values" when thinking about tax revenues from the proposed structure.

Casten added that high-rise development would prevent future expansion of Centre St. and Beacon St. to alleviate traffic problems.

The proposed seven-story building, to be built by developer Michael Moskow, would contain 55 apartments ranging in price from $225 for an efficiency to $475 for a two-bedroom apartment, with a $20 per month additional fee for underground parking.

Architect Victor Vitols assured the aldermen that the building would contain an incinerator system that would meet state anti-pollution requirements.

Fifteen persons at the hearing were counted in favor of the proposal, and 22 against. They were urged by Committee Chairman Alan Barkin to deep track of the dates of the meetings of the Land Use Committee so they could participate in subsequent discussions. The next regular meeting of the Committee will be Nov. 8.

Officers Chosen For Youth Group At 2nd Baptist

The Second Baptist Church of Newton announces the election of officers in its Youth Fellowship for the 1971-1972 season.

Mr. Les Heisler of Newton Upper Falls, a freshman at East Coast Aero-Tech, has been elected president. Miss Linda Johnson of Needahm, a first year student at Bryant-Stratton, has been elected vice president.

The secretary for this year is Miss Sheila Vassalotti of Newton Upper Falls, a senior at Newton South High School. Treasurer is Mr. Fred Young of Newton Upper Falls, a sophomore at Newton South High School. The Social Chairman is Miss Kathy Burns, of Newton Upper Falls and a Senior at Weston High School.

Their regular meetings are on Sunday evenings at 6 p.m. and they plan numerous socials on other occasions.

Documentary To Feature Newton Church Activity

NBC-TV cameras are in Newton this week, Oct. 21-25, filming portions of an hour documentary, "The Church Today."

The documentary, to be shown in February, will feature the United Parish of Newton, which incudes the Eliot Church of Newton; the First Church in Newton, Newton Centre; and the Second Church in Newton, West Newton.

Featured in the film will be the 10:00 a.m. Sunday morning service at the Second Church and the Friday evening program at the Eliot Church, open to all members of the community, which begins with a family supper at 6 p.m., followed by an educational program for all ages at 7 p.m. and an 8:30 p.m. oriented service in the church sanctuary On Sunday mornings there is a 11:00 a.m. chapel service at First Church and a 10:10 a.m. Folk Liturgy at the Eliot Church.

The documentary will also cover the Cooperative Metropolitan Ministries, an inner-city ecumenical ministry involving, in addition to the three churches listed above, Auburndale Congregational Church, the Church of the Redeemer, the Eliot Church of Newton, the First Church in Newton, the First Unitarian Society in Newton, Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre, St. Bernard's Church in West Newton, Second Church in Newton, Temple Emanuel in Newton Centre, Temple Israel in Boston (many of its members are Newton residents), Temple Shalom of Newton in West Newton, and the United Methodist Church of Newtonville.

The film will also survey the variety of community organizations to which the churches lend their facilities, including nursery schools, a newspaper, peace organizations, youth programs, a group working for low-income housing, and a community food co-op.

The documentary will also portray the Yale-Berkeley Divinity School in New Haven, Connecticut; a program on religion and medicine in Springfield, Ohio; and the church's role in counseling in Claremont, California.

The staff of the United Parish of Newton includes the Rev. Ross Cannon, D.D., the Rev. Newell H. Curtis Jr., the Rev. Harold R. Fray Jr., the Rev. Reed L. Whittle, D. Mn., and Mrs. Donald D. Whitcomb, II.

Aldermen Accept Report Critical Of New Charter

The Board of Aldermen Monday night voted to accept an Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee report criticizing the proposed new city charter.

Legislation and Rules Committee Chairman Eliot Cohen called the committee report an "educational report".

The report endorsed the present city charter as a "good working instrument" and a "sacred document", and criticized the proposed charter as "changes for the sake of change."

Objecting to the reading of the committee report, Alderman Peter F. Harrington charged: "This is no more than an attempt to seek adverse publicity for the proposed new charter."

Alderman Alan S. Barkin claimed that "by accepting the report board does not approve its contents. We merely accept it and place it on file."

However, an amendment stating that the Board "neither accepts nor rejects the conclusions" of the report was defeated, with Barkin and Cohen as well as Aldermen Michael Antonellis, Adelaide B. Ball, Ernest F. Dietz, Louis I. Egelson, David W. Jackson, Michael Lipof, Andrew J. Magni, Joseph M. McDonnell, Jason Sacks, Arthur H. Sullivan, Robert Tennant, Edward C. Uehlein, Harry Walen, William H. Wolf, and President Wendell R. Bauckman voting against it.

"How this board feels about the charter should be conveyed to the voters of the City of Newton," Dietz asserted.

Alderman Harry H. Crosby declared himself "troubled" by the Board's desire to take a position on the proposed new charter.

Maintaining that the aldermen cannot be objective about the proposed charter because its provisions "vitally affect our lives", Crosby contended that it is "patronizing or insulting to the citizens" for a committee of the Board to make a recommendation on the charter issue.

The vote to accept the committee report was 17-6, with Aldermen William Carmen, Thomas B. Concannon, Jr., Crosby, Harrington, Matthew Jefferson, and Wolf voting to reject the report.

Newton Community Service Centers Has Many Classes

With its Fall and Winter Program now underway the Newton Community Service Centers' facilities are alive and humming with the voices of tots, children, teens, adults and senior citizens.

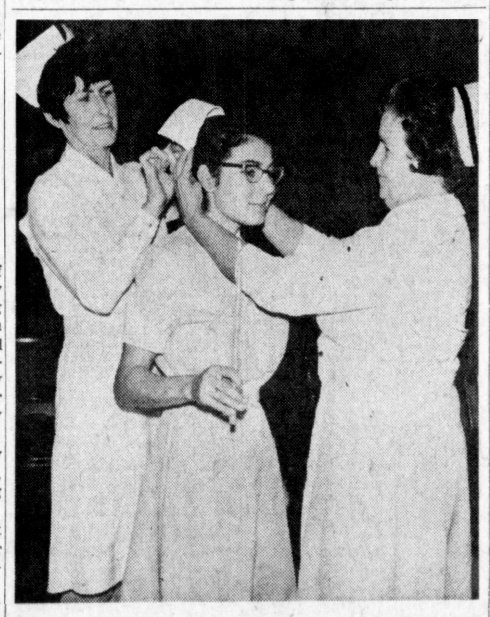

The Centers offer many classes for elementary school children including: ballet- baton, sewing, drama clubs, sports, crafts, knitting, cooking, woodworking, open activities, creative arts, etc. Preschoolers are also included in the centers activities where they find Mother and Tot creative art classes, kiddie klubs and pre-ballet classes.

Many adults have enrolled for various activities and classes presented by the Centers. This year it is again offering Golf, Yoga, Sewing, Crafts, Physical Fitness, Cake Decorating, Liquid Embroidery for adults in the community. Senior Citizens have come in greater numbers than ever before to join the 2 groups: Monday at the Community Center and Friday at the Pomroy House. The Monday group had over 70 at their first meeting with the promise of many new members to come.

In addition to these many groups such as the Newton Country Players, weight watchers, Young Republicans, Forresters, and many community groups use the facilities of the Centers as a meeting place for their organizations.

The Centers is very active in administering the Newton Youth Center, Headstart and Day Care Programs. The Newton Job Bank sponsored by the Newton Youth Center is housed in its main facility at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton.

Further information on the Centers and their many offerings and services to the community is available by phoning 969-5906 or visiting its mina offices at Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry Street in West Newton, or the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge Strret in Newton.

Capping Ceremony

The Class of 1973 from the Lasell Junior College Nursing Program was "capped" recently in ceremonies on the college campus. Among those who received their caps was Mrs. Jessy Hagopian of Waltham, shown here with Mrs. Claire E. Kent of Newtonville, left, Instructor in Nursing, and Miss Constance Milner, right Coordinator of the Nursing Department at Lasell.

Lunch Law Raises Costs By $500,000

An estimated expense of $608,132 for school lunch programs, requred by state law as of 1972 in all public schools, was the subject of lengthy discussion at Tuesday night's School Committee meeting.

The state requirement which adds $500,000 to cafeteria costs, was criticized for rigidity by John E. Gilleland, Assistant Superintendent for Business Services. To get the state and federal food subsidy, the city must supply a large quantity of A" lunches, (a standardized 30 cent hot platter), despite the fact that experience shows students prefer the "A-La-Carte" sandwich lunches, Gilleland stated.

The hot lunch requirement, according to a study by consultant Samuel Crebtree, will require the installation of a central kitchen especially designed for the packaging and distribution of hot meals to all elementary schools.

Asked whether existing school kitchens could be used for the program, Crabtree stressed that the new lunch program would require the aseembly - line preparation of some 10,000 lunches, all of which would have to be

A NEW CHARTER FOR NEWTON - Question 1 on the BALLOT

- WHO DECIDED THAT NEWTON'S CHARTER NEEDED UPDATING?

  You, the voters, by an overwhelming vote in November 1969 elected the nine member Charter Commission to frame a new charter for Newton. The old charter was last revised in 1897.

- WHO ARE THE ELECTED CHARTER COMMISSIONERS WHO APPROVED THE NEW CHARTER?

  JOSEPH G. BRADLEY, CHAMPE A. FISHER, HASKELL C. FREEDMAN, JEROME GROSSMAN, PETER F. HARRINGTON, RICHARD G. MINTZ, FLORENCE R. RUBIN

- WILL THE NEW CHARTER COST THE CITY MORE MONEY?

  Very little. A city-wide preliminary election could raise the tax rate 7c in odd numbered years. Some changes will cause a realignment of funds, such as the one that will come through better maintenance of our capital investment in school buildings.

- HOW DO THE NEW AND OLD CHARTERS COMPARE?

  Basic form of government is unchanged. Method of election, term of office, and composition of Board of Aldermen and School Committee is the same in both charters.

NEW CHARTER	OLD CHARTER
1. Mayor required to serve full time.	1. Mayor allowed to hold other office or other job while serving as our Mayor.
2. Mayor's term increased to four years.	2. Mayor's term only 2 years.
3. Special elections to fill longer-term vacancies in elective offices.	3. Mayor and School Committee vacancies filled by officials - not the voters.
4. Preliminary elections required to make clear-cut contests and insure election by majority vote.	4. No preliminary elections. This year we could again elect a minority Mayor.
5. Initiative and referendum procedures.	5. No provision.
6. Public hearings on "Master Plan" and Capital Improvement Program.	6. No public hearings on plans which set priorities for major expenditures and future development of the city.
7. Aldermen allowed to establish Neighborhood Area Councils on petition from neighborhood. No city funds can be used.	7. Aldermen not allowed to authorize neighborhood action to solve neighborhood problems.
8. Responsibility for ordinary maintenance and repair of school buildings returned to School Committee.	8. Present divided responsibility has not been adequate to protect taxpayers big investment in school buildings.
9. School Committee members limited to four consecutive 2-year terms so that fresh viewpoints will be assured.	9. No limitations on School Committee terms.

Funds Voted Cover Theft From Library

Members of the Aldermanic Finance Committee approved an appropriation of $734.10 for the replacement of a tape recorder, 17 cassette players, and six pairs of earphones stolen from the Newton Free Library's Center for the Visually Handicapped on Oct. 8.

The burglary, discovered at 5:30 a.m. by the custodian, seemed to be an "inside job", according to head librarian Virginia Tashjian. Bolts fastening the equipment to the floor had been cut, but there was no sign of forced entry.

The robbery which was followed 24 hours later by the theft of coins from a coffee machine, was the eighth burglary of a Newton library within the last three months. In a recent break at the Auburndale branch library, books and files were thrown arcund the room, but nothing was taken.

The tape recorder and other equipment taken from the Center for the Visually Handicapped were all marked in Braille. The new Center, a major innovation, was opened only a month ago.

Commenting on the expanding library of materials for the blind, Mrs. Tashjian told the aldermen: "Even Playboy now comes out in Braille, except for the centerfold."

Foreign Students Feted On Weekend

Students from foreign countries who are currently studying at universities in the Boston area were guests of Newton families the weekend of October 23 - 24.

It was the seventh annual International Student Weekend sponsored by the Newton Community Peace Center, a non - profit educational organization whose aim is to alert the community to the work, programs and activities of other groups working toward world peace and international understanding.

The purpose of the weekend was to give the foreign students an opportunity to know American people outside of the school environment, and to afford the American families a chance to learn about other people and customs as well as to discover more about themselves.

On Saturday the activities of each family and guests ranged from attending football games, drives in the country to view the autumn foliage, ordinary sightseeing or just sitting around getting to know each other.

The highlight of the weekend was a Square Dance held Saturday night, October 23 at the Bishop McKenzie Hall in Newton Centre attended by most of the guests and their hosts, including the blind foreign guests who are at Perkins School for the Blind learning how to teach the blind.

On Sunday again each family followed its own course ranging from trips to the DeCordova Museum, walks in the country, showing home movies or just chatting and reading the Sunday papers.

The program was carried out with the cooperation of the International Student Association in Cambridge, a community sponsored organization whose cultural and social functions are available to all students and trainees, both foreign and American, in the greater Boston area.

The Newton hosts and their students were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. David Chesler, 40 Columbus st., Newton Highlands - Rudolph C. Mills from Jamaica (Perkins School for the Blind); Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goldberg, 234 Greenwood st., Newton Centre - Mr. Kavin Shah from India (Northeastern); Mr. and Mrs. George Hauser, 47 Windemere rd., Auburndale - Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Ceballos from Columbia (Harvard); Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kupferschmid, 231 Waverley ave., Newton - Mr. Marco Medellin from Mexico (Boston University); Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lee, 260 Chestnut st., West Newton - Miss Carmen Sones from Spain and Miss Chantel Limet from France (Tufts Fletcher School); Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, 298 Waltham st., West Newton - Mr. Bharat Bhushan from India (MIT) and Mr. Danesh Asthana (MIT) from India; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Myers 21 Manet circle, Chestnut Hill - Mr. Adya Prasad Trivedi from India (Perkins School for the Blind); Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Paine, 28 Waban ave., Mr. Vaclar Hokuv from Czechoslovakia (Newton - Andover Theological School); Dr. and Mrs. Victor Penzer, 55 Colgate rd., Newton Lower Falls - Mr. Sabya Pal Bharti from India (Perkins School for the Blind); Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Reisman, 28 Fairway drive, West Newton - Mr. Vijay Singhal (MIT) from India; Mr. and Mrs. Gale Raphael, 17 Ascenta terrace, West Newton - Miss Margery Nieh from Hong Knog; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rosenberg, 18 Hazelton rd, Newton Centre - Mr. Denis Lambert from France (MIT); Mr. and Mrs. Simon Scheff, 240 Greenwood st., Newton Centre - Mr. Jean - Pierre Letouzey from France (MIT); and Mr. and Mrs. Vittorio Carossa from Italy (MIT), and Miss Susan Smalley from England; Mr. and Mrs. Miltor Schwartz, 150 Country Club rd., Newton Centre - Mr. Uwe Pasdach from Germany (Harvard Kennedy School); and Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Smith, 15 Belmont st., Newton - Mr. Bhag C. Jain from India (MIT).

Chairman of the weekend each year is Mrs. Simon Scheff, while Mrs. Victor Penzer handled refreshments, Mrs. Newell Curtis arranged for the locale of the square dance, and Mr. Arthur Goldberg acted as photographer.

YOU KNOW PAUL MALLOY
THE Representative

THE MALLOY FAMILY

PAUL F. MALLOY is one of seven children of Matthew and Ione Malloy of 734 Centre Street, Newton. Mr. Matthew Malloy is a junior college president. Mrs. Malloy was formerly a teacher of English in the public schools. For three generations, the family has been identified with education and civic activity. Paul Malloy carries on the tradition of extensive and active interest in public affairs. He is married to the former Sally Quinn of Newtonville and they reside at 66 Wildwood Avenue, Newtonville. He is the father of two children, Larry and Sally.

- Four-term and present Newton State Representative
- Practicing attorney in Newton since age 22
- Experience in management of commercial and residential property in Newton
- The only candidate who is a professional man (Juris Doctor)
- Legislative Committee on banks and banking.
- Legislative Committee on the Judiciary
- Member of Massachusetts Bar and Trial Lawyers Association
- Endorsed by the AFL-CIO, Greater Boston Labor Council, Mr. Malloy and Mayor White of Boston are the only two candidates endorsed by them for Mayor.
- Amended the state budget so that it brings in over $100,000 each year to Newton for mental health, mental retardation and juvenile delinquency programs.
- Obtained funds from State to open teen drop-in center in Newton.
- Obtained funds for a new food-stamp program for Newton.
- Pushed his amendment through the legislature blocking the Stadium from Newton (Woodland Golf Club site).
- Now working for passage of his bill for State assumption of county hospital costs, a saving of 40c on Newton's tax rate.
- Worked for and obtained assurance of House Speaker David Bartley that no funds would be appropriated for a branch of a state college on the site of the Chestnut Hill Country Club.

So You Know Paul Malloy The Mayor

- Will stabilize the tax rate by eliminating the unessential from municipal services and completely utilizing existing facilities and equipment. Cost analysis and control with modern management methods is the key.
- Will oppose "project" type high density, multi-level housing developments, such as the N.C.D.F. He wants attractive, harmonious units, limited to small numbers of families — for Newton residents — with the possibility of rents going toward ownership.
- Keeping the city government in touch with the young people by creating a Mayor's Youth Advisory Committee. Here young people from all of Newton can express what concerns them, what they think about the schools, recreation, the drug problem and how the City can help.
- Implement the School Committee's own recommendations for cost analysis and comparison of costs by school.

No one in Newton has Paul Malloy's ear.
Everyone does.

Move By Conservative Party To Repeal New Taxes Flops

So far the Conservative Party in Massachusetts headed by former Deputy Governor John J. McCarthy of Chatham has proved a flop. It has not succeeded in anything it has undertaken to do. Neither has it demonstrated the muscle needed to win political respect.

The conservatives created quite a stir when they launched a move to place a referendum on next year's election ballot designed to repeal the new taxes placed on the books this year by Governor Sargent and the State Legislature.

Walk Bells Denied For Newtonville

No bells will ring in Newtonville square. The Aldermanic Street Traffic Committee Thursday night denied a petition to restore bells during the "walk" cycle of traffic lights in Newtonville square.

Following a recommendation of the Traffic Commission, which stated that the bells were not audible over the noise of today's traffic, the Committee directed the Traffic Commission to explore other ways of facili-

70 Percent Of Those Eligible To Cast Ballots Will Vote

Record-High Voter Turnout Seen For Election Tuesday

A record-high outpouring of voters for a city election is expected in Newton next Tuesday.

Executive Secretary Alan W. Licarie of the city election department predicts that about 70 per cent of Newton's 51,509 registered voters will go to their polling places to participate in the election of a new Mayor, 24 Aldermen and eight School Committee members and to decide on two questions which will appear on the ballot.

Polling places will be open from 7 in the morning until 8 at night. Mr. Licarie is requesting all persons who can do so to vote during the non-peak hours between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Licarie point out that the heaviest voting will be between 7 and 9 in the morning and between 5 and 8 at night. He asserts that Newtonites can avoid possible delays by voting between the peak periods.

Newton's voting list for next Tuesday's election is the second highest in the city's history. The largest was in 1960 when 51,702 men and women were enrolled as voters in Newton and were eligible to cast ballots in the Presidential election in which the late John F. Kennedy was a candidate.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is retiring from office at the end of the year, and four candidates are seeking to take over the mantle he will shed.

The three principal contenders in Newton's mayoralty race are Alderman William Carmen of 48 Philmore road, Representative Paul F. Malloy of 66 Wildwood ave. and Representative Theodore D. Mann of 21 Littlefield avenue.

A fourth contestant in the field, who is not considered to have any chance of winning or placing better than fourth, is Alan G. MacNeil of 168 Walnut street.

Carmen, Mann and Malloy have waged energetic campaigns, have carried their fights into every section of the city and are believed to have aroused public interest to the point where an unusually high percentage of the voters will come out to settle their contest.

The four Aldermen retiring from office at the close of 1971 and for whose places lively fights are being waged, are Adelaide B. Ball, Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1; William H. Wolfe, Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2; Ward Alderman Arthur H. Sullivan of Ward 4; and Ward Alderman William Carmen of Ward 7 who is standing for election as Mayor.

Four candidates are battling for two positions as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1. Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell is standing for reelection. The other three contenders are Attorney Robert Gaynor of 109 Cabot street, Frank Fitzpatrick of 86 Washington street and Cecil W. Cadwell of 25 Hunnewell avenue.

Four men and one woman are in a five-cornered clash for the two seats as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2. Alderman Peter F. Harrington is seeking reelection. The other four in the fight are Douglas J. Howard Voters Should Take Postcards With Them Tues.

Newton voters who received postcards two or three weeks ago notifying them they had been changed to different wards are advised to take the cards to their polling places with them next Tuesday. They will vote at the same locations but for different Ward Aldermen. Election officials say the cards will be a help at the polls.

Charter Referendum Sets Off Arguments

Conflicting arguments are being advanced by public charter on whether Newton voters should approve or reject a proposed new city charter drafted by the Charter Commission when they participate in next Tuesday's municipal election.

Acceptance or rejection of the suggested new charter will be Question No. 1 on the ballot.

School Committeeman Alvin Mandell, a member of the Charter Commission, is calling for a "No" vote on the charter question and is urging that the charter be rejected.

Mandell insists that the new charter "would impede rather than enhance city government in Newton." He expresses the belief that it would "add layers of bureaucracy," would "increase the cost of municipal government" and "slow down its efficiency."

Others argue that while there may be objection to some phases of the suggested new charter it would be an improvement on the charter under which the city is now operating.

Critics of the proposed new charter are urging that it be turned down and that changes be made in the present charter.

Two of the most controversial features of the suggested new charter are one that would lengthen the term of the Mayor from two to four years and another that would limit the School Committee

Moskow Named Acting Civil Defense Head

Jay I. W. Moskow of 47 Wayne Road, Newton Centre, has recently been appointed Acting Director of the City's Civil Defense Department, by Mayor Monte G. Basbas. Mr. Moskow is replacing Leigh G. Packer, who is currently a Code Enforcement Inspector with the City.

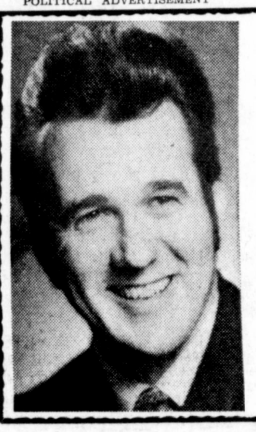

As Acting Director, Mr. Moskow will carry out the functions set forth by Congress in minimizing damage caused by floods, hurricanes, civil disturbances and warfare.

Newton's Civil Defense Department operates on a volunteer basis at City Hall.

Mr. Moskow was educated in the Newton Public Schools and is a 1954 graduate of Boston University, receiving a degree in Business Administration.

His civic affiliations include the Newton Crime Prevention Commission, Newton Auxilliary Police, Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association, Chairman of the Oak Hill Division, YMCA $3,000,000 Building Fund Campaign and past president of Temple Beth Avodah in Newton Centre.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU HAD $22 MILLION TO SPEND EVERY YEAR? THAT'S WHAT THE NEWTON SCHOOL SYSTEM DOES SPEND. . . . AND IT'S YOUR MONEY.

An 8-man School Committee directs this huge budget plus the $92 million plant, 32-school system and its staff of 1,800. One of the 150 largest in America.

If you couldn't supervise the funds personally, you'd want the most competent people doing it for you.

That's why we are endorsing and voting for Bob Sandman. He has considerable civic service and good management experience. And he is the only professional businessman candidate running to fill one of the vacancies on the School Committee.

Vote Next Tuesday

Political experts predict that 70 per cent of Newton's registered voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to record their choices for Mayor, the Board of Aldermen and School Committee and make their decisions on the adoption or rejection of a proposed new city charter and whether beano games should be permitted in Newton.

That is considered a very creditable turnout. But is it really anything to boast about? The men and women who will run Newton's city government and its school department for the next two years will be elected on Tuesday. But three out of every 10 voters in Newton will not take the time or trouble to participate in electing them.

Voting in next Tuesday's electon is the privilege of every qualified citizen in Newton. It is also the civic duty of every eligible voter. This is your election. The candidates standing for election are seeking to serve you.

Don't leave your civic duty for someone else to fulfill. Please go to your polling place and vote next Tuesday. Vote for whomever you wish. But please vote. The best government usually results from the greatest turnout of voters.

Halloween

Persons with sick minds tried to victimize innocent children playing trick or treat last Halloween.

In Dedham a child was given a candy bar containing a razor blade which could have caused horrible injury if the unsuspecting youngster had bitten into the chocolate.

In other places small boys and girls were given candy laced with heroin.

When something of that nature starts, it invariably spreads. A repetition can be expected this weekend.

Parents, whose youngsters are allowed to go out tricking or treating this coming Halloween, are urged to follow a few simple rules for the protection of their small sons and daughters and to guard against the possibility that a festive occasion will turn into a grim tragedy.

Allow your children to play trick or treat only at homes where you know the occupants and where you are sure the youngsters will be welcome.

Keep a list of every home the children visit and, if possible, what they received at each place. Accompany them on their Halloween rounds.

Don't allow your children to eat any candy given them on trick or treat visits until they get home and you have had an opportunity to examine the candy.

If you follow those simple precautions, you will greatly lessen the obvious trick or treat dangers to your child. Try to keep your sons and daughters away from the homes of strangers and places where they may not be welcome. That is where danger lurks.

Camera Club To Hold 3 Meetings

The Newton Free Library Camera Club will hold three meetings next month: Nov. 8, 15, and 22. Arnold Kaplan of Quincy, International award winning photographer, will be the special guest on Nov. 15.

A color slide show of the club's last field trip was shown at the meeting Monday night (Oct. 25). Entitled "A Boston Harbor Cruise on the 'Spray,'" the show was discussed by Club photographers Penny Smith, Virginia Stiles, Harry McClatchy, Steve Feldman, Jay Saret and James Saret.

Camera Club members participated informally at the Newton Free Library booth at the New England Book Festival last month in Boston's Hynes Auditorium where they set up a continuous slide show.

-Political Highlights-

Political observers speculated on the chaos and confusion which would be created if the taxes were wiped out, a likely development if the people were given the opportunity to vote on the matter.

The conservatives would have placed themselves in the position of advocating a vote for a cut in taxes if they had succeeded in getting the necessary signatures to place the repeal question on the ballot.

The Conservative Party would have made itself a political force to be reckoned with if it had repealed the new taxes even though the action would not have been altogether responsible.

But the conservatives did not get the 28,019 signatures they needed to place the issue on the ballot. They managed to collect only 22,507 valid signatures by the deadline.

Dr. Sylvia Sanders, executive director of the Conservative Party, declares that lack of time was responsible for the party's failure to produce sufficient signatures. Actually, the conservatives had an adequate period to obtain the signatures if they hadn't floundered around and wasted time.

Governor Sargent signed the tax bill into law on July 22, and the conservatives had 90 days after that date in which to obtain 28,019 signatures. That should have been a relatively easy task for an organization which is talking about putting up a candidate against Senator Edward W. Brooke in next year's Republican primary.

But the conservatives didn't file their application for signature sheets until Aug. 20, wasting almost a full month, and they didn't get signature petitions for another three weeks.

The remaining time should have been ample to get the signatures they needed if they had mounted a real drive. But they apparently were unable to carry out the necessary organized effort.

Now they're shopping around for a candidate to stand against Senator Brooke, but many observers now are disposed to dismiss them as a potent political force in Massachusetts.

White Is Heavy Favorite To Prevail Over Mrs. Hicks

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White is heavily favored to win over Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks when the votes are counted next Tuesday night in the Hub's mayoralty contest.

Just about every factor is militating in White's favor. The polls show him leading Mrs. Hicks. His campaign is better organized and financed. He has the means of pulling out his supporters and getting them to the polls. The momentum appears to be with him.

A victory for Mrs. Hicks next Tuesday would be a spectacular upset. She ran behind White in the preliminary election, and the polls indicate that she has not been able to overtake him since then.

But there have been sensational upsets in Boston mayoralty fights. Men who were conceded no chance of winning have emerged as the victors on election night. The returns have demonstrated that nothing is certain in a mayoralty contest until the votes are counted.

Former Mayor John F. Collins was a decided underdog in 1959 when he won an unexpected victory over John E. Powers, now the Supreme Court Clerk. Virtually every political expert in Boston picked Powers to win that contest.

John B. Hynes in 1949 and Maurice J. Tobin in 1937 both were underdogs as was James M. Curley in some of his successful runs. Collins was more of an underdog in 1959 than Louise Day Hicks is today.

So it would be risky to count Mrs. Hicks out of next Tuesday's election. But the odds are strongly against her. Her fight has been uphill all the way.

Mayor White has made a very good campaign. He has played his political cards skillfully, and he has taken pains to be sure that his followers did not become over-confident.

He slowed his campaign to a standstill when one of his campaign aides was murdered in the Back Bay, but there is no evidence that he has injured his chances of gaining a second term.

Criticism of White that he took time out from his job as Mayor to run for Governor is silly. Unsuccessful efforts were made to persuade John B. Hynes and John F. Collins to stand for the Governorship. They just were not interested in being Governor.

An upset could explode next Tuesday night. Something could happen in the closing stages of the campaign to turn the fight around. But all the signs indicate that White will prevail over Mrs. Hicks on Tuesday next.

High Sources Insist Nixon May Drop Agnew From Ticket

A Republican leader who is close to President Nixon reports privately that there is a better than even chance that Mr. Nixon will drop Vice President Spiro Agnew as his running mate next year.

He says that the President understandably is anxious to poll a portion of the young vote and figures there is no way he can do it if Mr. Agnew is on the ticket with him.

Vice President Agnew will not be embarassed or humiliated in any way if he is dumped by President Nixon. He would be given a highly important position, and a pretense would be made that he took it in preference to the the Vice Presidency.

While there appears to be a real possibility that Mr. Agnew might be dropped to improve the chances that President Nixon could get some support from the young voters, it is not considered likely that Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, now the big man in the Nixon administration, would replace Spiro on the GOP national ticket.

Connally is still a registered Democrat, and there would be great resentment in the Republican party if he were placed in a position where he would become President if anything happened to Richard Nixon.

Political eyebrows flicked up and down when it was announced that Connally, not Vice President Agnew, would represent President Nixon at the inauguration of President Thieu in South Vietnam. That, however, does not mean Connally will be picked as Nixon's running mate even if Mr. Agnew is dropped or, to put it more accurately, is shifted to a prestige post.

Some Agnew supporters argue that President Nixon may lose conservative votes if he drops Spiro, however much it is made to appear that the Veep is being promoted upstairs.

Where Have All The People Gone?

Editor,
Newton Graphic:

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, I attended a drug symposium at Waltham High School, organized by Father Robert Drinan, third district congressman. The evening was interesting and informative. I was extremely disturbed, however, to see all the empty seats in the huge auditorium. Approximately 150 people, out of a district whose population is half a million, were present. I find this fact very difficult to fathom.

If the evening's subject was of little concern to most citizens, I could understand the meager attendance, but drugs are widespread today, not just in the inner city, (where at one time we turned our backs) but they are in affluent suburbia as well. Due to my job, I am very involved in the drug scene, and have had several opportunities to speak to parents and to young people about drugs. Verbally they express their concern over the widespread use of dangerous narcotics. What is happening? What can they do about it? Why are their children using drugs?

If 150 people only, out of 500,000, were motivated enough to attend a symposium that at the very least may have answered some of their pressing questions, then how can we expect to overcome the deathly menace of drugs?

McDonnell Cites Stands As Alderman

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell is campaigning for re-election as Alderman-At-Large, Ward 1.

First elected to the Board in 1965, McDonnell was re-elected in 1967 with the highest vote in any Aldermanic contest.

McDonnell has served on the Land Use, Public Buildings, Franchise and Licensing Committees and as Chairman of the Housing Committee. On the Land Use Committee he has actively opposed petitions to commercialize residential areas in several parts of the city including Lower Falls, Newton Highlands, Auburndale, West Newton and Newtonville, while supporting Newton at 128 and Newton Corner air rights, projects which add substantially to the tax base.

He has supported the city administration by working with the Mayor through Senator Kennedy's office for the acquisition of open space land, while opposing the administration on the sale of city land at the old Bowen School site, and on present plans for urban renewal at Lower Falls and Newton Corner.

He proposed an amendment to the Lower Falls urban renewal plan that will require the development of replacement housing for the residents of that area before any may be evicted.

McDonnell was also instrumental in requiring a public hearing on the Newton Corner renewal project which revealed the depth of the neighborhood opposition to that plan as presently constituted.

McDonnell has been recorded in favor of an ordinance to prevent open air burning in favor of special elections, in favor of a public health physician in the Health Department. He has successfully urged that committee meetings of the Board of Aldermen now be open to the press and public.

In just the last 3 years McDonnell has proposed or voted to cut the Mayor's financial requests by $7 million. These significant amounts were entirely in nonsalary items. He was recorded unsuccessfully in opposition to a $200,000 fee increase in the contract for the architect of the new high school. His opposition, however, prevented a further increase of $30,000 sought by the architect. In 1970 he also fought the increase of over $5.3 million (from $19.6 million to $24.9 million) for planned North High and Day Jr. school construction, feeling expenditures of $15.4 million on the high school and $4.2 million on the Junior high school were quite adequate.

As Chairman of the Housing Committee he has supported a Low and Moderate Income Housing Program for the city based on low density and scattered sites. His Committee has urged the Housing Authority, who requested 20 - 25 units on each of two sites in Nonantum and West Newton, to accept four sites and reduce the number of families to just 4 on each site, leaving the adjacent space open or set aside for recreational use.

It was on a motion of Alderman McDonnell that the first low income units for the elderly or families were reserved in new apartment residential construction, a program that was believed to be unique in the country when it was begun in 1969.

Alderman McDonnell has been a consistent supporter of Aldermanic resolutions against ABM and for an early end to the War.

He was also the sponsor of the petition to redraw Newton's ward lines in harmony with constitutional standards. Nine months after he filed this petition the court declared Newton's ward lines unconstitutional and ordered the city to redraw them. Newton will be voting this year under these new ward lines.

A resident of Newton for 32 of his 38 years, McDonnell is a graduate of Boston ollege BS (cum laude) LLB. He is an active trial attorney with the Boston firm of Parker, Coulter, Daley & White.

He is a former chairman of the United Fund (Newton Corner); chairman of Boston Bar Association Committee on Health Insurance; vice-chairman of Newton Democratic City Committee and a member of American Academy of Political and Social Science.

McDonnell resides at 655 Centre Street, with his wife, Dr. Nancy J. McDonnell (Pleva) and his daughter, Deirdre, 4.

Dr. Holland To Address Science Academy Meeting

Dr. Daniel J. Holland of West Newton will discuss "The Role of The Dentist in Cancer Control' at a meeting of the American Academy of Science to be held at the Parker House in Boston next Wednesday (Nov. 3).

Dr. Holland is a former director of the American Cancer Society (Mass. Div.) and is a specialist in oral surgery. He resides at 194 Otis Street.

Turnout -

of 230 Walnut street, Edward L. Richmond of 833 Commonwealth avenue, Ann Steinberg of 1075 Commonwealth avenue and W. Frederick Uehlein of 125 Lowell avenue.

Aldermen-at-Large Louis I. Egelson, Jr., and David W. Jackson of Ward 4 are being opposed by Niccolo V. Nardone of 39 Sharon avenue.

Two candidates are challenging Aldermen-at-Large Michael J. Antonellis and Harry L. Walen of Ward 5. They are Attorney Burton M. Pike of 78 Winslow road and Lois G. Pines of 40 Helene road.

Standing against Aldermen at-Large Jason Stacks and Harry H. Crosby of Ward 7 is Dominic J. Taglienti of 350 Langley road.

An interesting fight is being waged for the two places as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 8.

Aldermanic President Wendell R. Bauckman and Alderman Eliot K. Cohen are opposed by Robert A. Stiller of 21 June lane, well known for his stand on low-income housing. Alderman Cohen has made a vigorous campaign to retain his seat.

Aldermen-at-Large who are unopposed for reelection are Matthew Jefferson and Robert Tennant in Ward 3; and Michael Lipof and Sidney T. Small in Ward 6.

Two School Committee members are giving up their seats and retiring from office at the end of this year. They are Edwin Hawkridge of Ward 5 and Vincent P. Stanton of Ward 7.

Opponents in a fight for Hawridge's Ward 5 School Board seat are Joan Needleman of 80 Puritan road and Robert L. Sandman of 72 Fairlee road.

Contesting for the Ward 7 post Stanton is relinquishing are Dorothy M. Reichard of 63 Monadnock road and Joseph F. Beck of 33 Huntington road.

School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier of Ward 1 is opposed by Ronald L. Nuttall of 106 Washington street.

School Committeewoman Eleanor S. Rosenblum of Ward 2 is being challenged by Barbara M. Schiller of 122 Fessenden street.

Standing against School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith of Ward 4 is Peter Higgins of 42 Brae Burn road.

School Committeeman Herbert F. Regal of Ward 6 has two opponents, James Barber of 32 Miller road and Charles Forget of 321 Lake avenue.

School Committeeman Alvin Mandell of Ward 8 is opposed by David Feldman of 28 Grace road.

Committeeman Richard M. Douglas of Ward 3 is the only School Board member unopposed for reelection.

Three candidates are contesting for the Ward 7 Aldermanic seat of Alderman William Carmen who is running for Mayor.

They are David B. Cohen of 17 Glendale road, Ronald S. Wilson of 41 Brackett road and Leonard P. Worth of 101 Stuart road.

Striving for the Ward 4 post from which Ward Alderman Arthur H. Sullivan is retiring are Vincent J. Farina of 293 Webster street, Sheila Farnese of 92 Lexington street and Richard McGrath of 1617 Washington street.

Ward Alderman Thomas B. Concannon, Jr., of Ward 2 is opposed by Harvey Alford of 16 Commonwealth park.

Esther H. Thompson of 45 Adella avenue is challenging Ward 3 Alderman Richard J. Bullwinkle.

Ward 6 Alderman Ernest F. Dietz of 93 Hancock avenue is opposed by Harold Lawrence Kobrin of 822 Commonwealth avenue.

Ward Aldermen unopposed for reelection are Andrew J. Magni of Ward 1, Edward C. Uehlein of Ward 5 and Alan S. Barkin of Ward 8.

A father and son are seeking election as Aldermen in Newton. W. Frederick Uehlein of 125 Lowell avenue is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2. His father, Alderman Edward C. Uehlein of Ward 5 is unopposed for reelection.

Two questions will appear on next Tuesday's voting machine ballot.

One will ask whether beano games should be allowed in Newton. Political observers predict a yes-vote will prevail on that question.

A second and more controversial issue will involve the approval or rejection of a proposed new city charter for Newton.

A suggested new city charter, which the voters will either accept or turn down, would lengthen the Mayor's term from two to four years, would limit a School Committee member to four consecutive two year terms of service and would shift the control of school maintenance work from the city administration to the school department.

Critics of the new charter declare that a four-year term for Mayors would make the city government more remote from the people and argue that restricting a School Committee member to eight years of service would not be for the public good.

They are urging that the new charter be rejected and that the present charter be amended a step at a time. Objection is being voiced to the action of the Charter Commission in offering the new charter to the voters on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

It is generally conceded that there are some good and some bad features to the suggested new charter. However, the voters must either accept or reject the charter as a package.

About 36,000 Newton voters will go to the polls next Tuesday if Executive Secretary Alan Licarie of the city election department is correct in his forecast that 70 per cent of the 51,509 qualified voters will turn out to settle the city election contests.

The highest turnout percentagewise for a municipal election in the city's modern history was in 1965 when 62.5 per cent of Newton's voters went to the polls to settle the contest between Mayor Monte G. Basba and Alderman William Carmen.

Only 51.2 per cent of the voters turned out for the fight two years ago between Mayor Basbas and state Senator Irving Fishman.

Secretary Licarie estimates that about 3000 youths between the ages of 18 and 21 are registered as voters in Newton. He says that 6600 boys and girls in those age brackets live in Newton and that slightly less than half of them have registered as voters.

Licarie basis his prediction for a record-high turnout next Tuesday on the fact that three mayoralty candidates all have organizations which are able to get out the vote.

Voting machines will be used throughout the city on Tuesday. They will make possible earlier election returns Tuesday night.

Re-Named Justice of Peace

Irving J. Helman, of 114 Bellevue St., Newton, has been reappointed Justice of the Peace by Governor Francis W. Sargent. He will serve until the expiration of his new term in 1978.

Appointed as Notaries Public were: Harold H. Snyder, 430 Ward st., Newton; Harold S. Williams, 143 Neshobe road, Waban; Dorothea C. Cadiff, 10 The Ledges road, Newton; Robert G. Conley, 187 Moffat road, Waban; Paul Henrich, 2212 Commonwealth ave., Auburndale; Benjamin Hoffman Kerstein, 161 Woodcliff road, Newton; Nathan T. Krasnigor, 90 Clearwater road, Newton.

Also, Henry J. Sheehan, 6 Crescent ave., Newton Centre; Robert F. Flajole, 129 Valentine st., Newton; Edwin C. Hanscom, 28 Clyde st., Newtonville; Etta Landau Isenman, 36 Byfield road, Waban; David Krongard, 65 Indian Ridge road, Newton Centre; John C. Kyriakos, 12 Belmont st., Newton; Stephen S. Mandile, 48 Lantern Lane, Newton Centre and Morton B. Zeidman, 99 Dale st., Chestnut Hill.

NEWTON NEEDS "THAT GIRL" ANN STEINBERG!

This may get you where it hurts!

My name is ANN C. STEINBERG, a Newton taxpayer, full time school teacher and active member of the Community Relations Commission Advisory Board. I am seeking to become one of the two Aldermen-at-Large, Ward II, to be chosen by all the voters of Newton.

Why do I, as an already active woman, want to add to my responsibilities? Take a look at what has been happening to city government in Newton, or better yet, what hasn't been happening. Instead of merely complaiing about conditions, I am trying to do something about them.

My political and community experience at federal, state, and county levels, makes me that much more qualified to become one of Newton's public servants. And, that is the key word . . . Qualified. For if an election must continually be permitted to degenerate into a popularity contest, hen why bother with the qualifications of the candidate?

Now comes your opportunity to change all that. Since launching my campaign for Alderman-at-Large, I have proven to be the only candidate for that office to consistently, clearly and publicly state my position on major issues facing our city. For instance . . .

Leadership

The Newton Board of Aldermen must truly Lead. I will be innovative and will have the courage to stick to thoughtful, long-range planning (eg. the necessary redesign of Newton Corner; an immediate alternative to the operation of the present incinerator in Auburndale). I will aid the new mayor in making youthful, progressive, forward-thinking, challenging appointments to the City's key administrative positions, governing boards and commissions. I will help guide, coordinate and support all of the various municipal agencies. I pledge to take the politics out of appointments which lessen their quality and integrity. A call for change is being heard throughout the city. I, too, sense that need and will strongly lead that change.

Taxes

The homeowner has assumed an unfair portion of the city tax burden for long enough! The County Government, M.B.T.A., M.D.C. and the school committee have, for too long a time, autonomously assessed the city's income with no control by the Mayor, the Board of Aldermen, and most important, no control by the people of Newton There are prescribed steps to lessen this autonomy and return this money to city agencies such as the Police and Fire Departments, who desperately need increased funds to operate more effectively.

Youth Problems

The time is long past for more commissions and studies of drugs, delinquency alienation, etc. A commitment must be made to act—in favor of creative self-help organizations such as Freeport Foundation. We must have saner drug laws, a crackdown on drug pushers, and an involvement, by youth, in city agencies and boards.

Housing

If your son or daughter plans to marry and hopes to live independently, he or she cannot do so in Newton without a substantial down payment on a single family home because moderate-low income housing is not available in our community. We cannot attract new school teachers or other vital personnel if there is no place for them to live close to their work. Certain federal and state grants would be available to assist us in bringing moderate-low income housing to Newton. (But if we do not act on our own, state law may soon demand that we act).

Conservation

Flood-plain zoning is aimed at protecting YOU, the homeowner, from flooded basements. It does not require you to move from existing dwellings, nor does it prohibit you from rebuilding a home destroyed by fire or other disaster. It does, however, prevent new construction in areas where it would cause additional flooding.

Recreation

What has been happening to our young people may be the result of boredom; thus greater emphasis should be placed upon creating excellent recreational facilities to accommodate young people in ALL areas of Newton. Our Recreation Commission has done remarkably well with the scant tools with which it has had to work. Well lit tennis and basketball courts are certainly preferable to gatherings on street corners or parking lots where the seeds of vandalism and other social ills are sown.

Apparently, I am not alone in my thinking, for at the end of this letter you will find the names of many of your friends, neighbors and leaders who are supporting me. Newton like many other communities of comparable size has challenges which must be met head-on. This is something I would delight in doing; but will not have the opportunity to do unless you go to the polls, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1971, and vote for me . . .

ANN C. STEINBERG
Alderman-at-Large Ward II

Warmly,

Ann Steinberg

"Having had the opportunity to work with you in the past, I know that you have the ability to do the job . . . Your efforts will help to restore confidence in the system."

HON. MARTIN A. LINSKY, Assistant Leader, House of Representatives, Commonwealth of Masachusetts

"The unusual combination of your enthusiasm and energy, with the common sense and wisdom of someone twenty years older than you, which made you such a tremendous asset in my campaign, should make you an outstanding member of The Board of Aldermen."

HON. MARY B. NEWMAN, Secretary of Manpower Affairs, Commonwealth of Massachusetts

MRS. KENNETH ELGART

Mrs. Elgart Is Named Treasurer

Mrs. Kenneth Elgart of Newton has been elected treasurer of the Greater Boston Chapter, Dysautonomia Foundation, Inc.

In her new post, which she assumes immediately, Mrs. Elgart will be responsible for all financial matters relating to the Chapter.

The Chapter conducts numerous events during the year to raise funds to underwrite research to find a control and cure for familial dysautonomia, a hereditary disease which afflicts Jewish children.

Mrs. Elgart succeeds Mrs. Richard Gould of Newton who was elected to the Chapter's Board of Directors.

Newton Man Is Named To Ins. Company Board

Richard A. L'Europa, President of the Rumford Insurance Company, Providence, Rhode Island, announces the election of Atty. Jay L. Fialkow of Newton to the Board of Directors.

Mr. Fialkow is a partner in the legal firm of Kaye and Fialkow, One State Street, Boston. A graduate of Harvard College and Boston University Law School, Mr. Fialkow served as Assistant Attorney General of the State of Massachusetts from 1963-1965 and special Assistant Attorney General from 1965-1967. He is a member of Governor Sargent's Work Incentive Program Commission, and the City of Newton Crime Commission. Mr. Fialkow is a resident of Newton.

members to four consecutive two - year terms of service.

Supporters of the proposal for lengthening the Mayor's term argue that it would enable him to devote more time to administering the city's affairs and to give less thought to running for reelection.

Opponents insist that it would make the city government more remote from the people and make the Mayor less responsive to Newton citizens.

The provision in the charter which would require a School Committee member to retire from office after eight successive years of service has been the target for strong attack.

School Committeeman Mandell declared that he was disturbed by the stand taken by the Newton League of Women Voters which gave "qualified approval" to the proposed new charter.

"I have received information which indicates that a majority of the League's membership never reached a consensus position on the new charter," Mandell asserted.

"Therefore, I am questioning whether a deliberate attempt is being made to mislead Newton voters about the LWV position.

"Is there a small group within the Newton League attempting to push reforms in violation of their traditional non - partisan stance?" he asked.

"My information indicates that only about 60 members out of a membership of over 406 took part in the league charter seminars and that no decision was reached," Mandell said.

"Has the executive board usurped the democratic rights of the majority who apparently never voiced their opinions?" he queried.

A statement issued by the League of Women Voters of Newton declared that "qualified support of the proposed new city charter was arrived at in the same way the League of Women Voters arrives at all decisions regarding legislation. The board decided on the action which would most effectively implement the goals established by the membership agreement."

However, a spokesman for the League explained that the members of the League's Charter Study Committee favored some portions of the suggested new city charter, did not reach an agreement on some features of the charter and "were strongly opposed to the concept of neighborhood area councils."

Concepts the League members were said to favor in the suggested new charter were:

"A full - time Mayor serving for four years, provision allowing the appointment of department heads and members of multiple - member bodies by the Mayor to become effective unless such appointments are rejected by the Board of Aldermen, approval of the present practice of allowing the Mayor to dismiss department heads without approval of the Board of Aldermen."

Also approved by the League, it was stated, was a provision in the proposed new charter for special elections to fill vacancies in the office of Mayor, Board of Aldermen and School Committee except if the vacancy occurs in the last nine months of a term.

League members did not reach agreement on preliminary elections or on the responsibility for ordinary maintenance and repair of school building but favored limiting the School Committee members to four consecutive terms.

Mrs. John Montgomery was chairman of the Newton League's Charter Study Committee.

Scores A Hole-In-One On 17th

Richard Block of West Newton scored a hole-in-one last Thursday (Oct. 21) at the Lost Brook Country Club in Norwood.

Mr. Block's ace came at the 190-yard 17th hole; he used a 5-iron for the perfect drive.

packaged in heat - retaining foil, and loaded into transport vehicles. A central kitchen would eliminate labo costs from duplication of staffs, it was also pointed out.

Questioning the need for a city-wide lunch program in Newton School Committeewoman Eleanor Rosenblum declared, I'm happy to talk in terms of food for children who don't get it, but not for students who can afford it."

Stating that financial aspects of the program required further clarification, the School Committee asked Gilleland to return for further discussion with a revised presentation.

Members also requested that the School Department further investigate the possibility of filling the state requirement through a nutritionally balanced cold lunch, but were told by Gilleland that a cold sandwich lunch priced at 30 cents probably could not compete with a cold sandwich from home.

Committeeman Vincent Stanton advised the committee of a fast on Nov. 3 at the high school, in which proceeds from students who give up lunch will be turned over for relief of Pakistani refugees.

Cost figures presented as part of the school cafeteria presentation including the amount of money lost as a result of fast days and field trips were criticized by Mrs. Rosenblum as "emotion-laden selectivity," since no figures were presented for meals cancelled by snow days.

In the final action of the evening, School Committeeman Richard Mr. Douglas proposed a management study of administrative services in the school department, such as the superintendent's office, and the personnel and business services.

The idea was seconded by Mrs. Rosenblum and endorsed by several committeemen. Douglas was asked to clarify his proposal for presentation at a subsequent meeting.

tating the crossing of blind pedestrians.

In other action, a petition for a stop sign on Lawmarissa road was referred back to the Traffic Commission, and a petition for a stop sign on Mt. Ida street at Centre street was denied.

Rush hour parking restrictions were initiated on Webster street in the Waltham, Cherry and Elm street area.

A petition to exclude trucks from Albemarle road was held for further study.

MRS. DAVID J. BERNSTEIN

Trip to Israel and Greece For the David Bernsteins

A trip to Israel and Greece followed the recent marriage of Miss Susan Linda Safer to David Jon Bernstein. Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Safer of Worcester and Mr. and Mrs. Myer Bernstein of 32 Carlson Circle, West Roxbury, are the couple's parents.

Rabbi Joseph J. Gold and Rabbi Israel Gordon officiated at the 6:30 o'clock nuptials which took place in the gold room at the Chateau Garod.

Given away by her parents, the bride wore an A-line skirted gown of organza re-embroidered with jeweled Alencon lace and fashioned with a high neckline, bishop sleeves and a detachable chapel length train.

A matching Camelot cap held in place her triple tiered elbow length veil as well as a detachable full length illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white orchids with stephanotis.

The bride's cousin, Miss Elaine Freedman of Worcester was maid of honor, while Mrs. Frank Soley of Natick, the groom's sister, was matron of honor. They both wore purple and blue printed gowns and carried a princess rose.

Identically costumed, the bridesmaids included Mrs. Robert Soffer of Rome, N.Y., Mrs. Paul Rosen of Spencer, Mrs. Barry Rosovsky of the Bronx, N.Y., Miss Debra Freedman, Miss Louise Burack and Miss Sharon Gruzin, all of Worcester. They carried fans with blue and purple flowers.

The best man was Alan Cabit of West Roxbury. Ushering were Jeffrey Safer, Theodore Safer and William Freedman, all of Worcester, Robert Soffer of Rome, N.Y., Stephen Fader of the Bronx, N.Y., Frank Soley of Natick, Howard Rose of Newton and Mark Kesner of West Roxbury.

Mrs. Safer, the bride's mother, chose a blue chiffon empire gown made with a beaded bodice. A lilac chiffon empire gown was the choice of the groom's mother, Mrs. Bernstein.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein are now living in Stoughton.

Both the bride and groom were graduated from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, class of 1971. Mrs. Bernstein majored in elementary education, while her husband's major was mass communications. He is presently associated with General Builders Supply Company. (photo by Pagar Studio)

MRS. RANDELL V. ELLISON

Miss Bertolino, Mr. Ellison Wed; Living in Watertown

Now living in Watertown are Mr. Randall Verne Ellison and his bride, the former Miss Geraldine M. Bertolino, whose marriage was solemnized recently at Mount Alvernia Chapel, Newton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome S. Bertolino of 4 Quincy road, Chestnut Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ellison of Framingham are the groom's parents.

The Rev. Patrick Hughes officiated at the six o'clock evening ceremony. A reception was held at the Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill.

Escorted by her father, the bride chose a Victorian gown made of ivory organza and antique lace woven with satin ribbon. A matching Juliet cap was fastened with her bouffant silk illusion veil and she carried a traditional bouquet of roses with baby's breath.

Mrs. Catherine Ann McLaughlin of Belmont, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, while Mrs. Elyse Breault of Somerville, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore champagne cotton lace over dusty pink dresses which were made with a high ruffled lace neckline.

Angela Bertolino, sister of the bride, and Jo-Ellen Berardi, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. They wore pink silk organza frocks styled with beige Venetian lace.

The best man was the groom's brother, Mark Ellison of Framingham. Ushering were Robert Bertolino of Newton, Thomas Gherna of Framingham, Tadd Ellison and Kurt Ellison, both of Framingham.

The couple left on a trip to Nantucket and Quebec.

The bride was graduated from the Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing.

A graduate of American International College, Mr. Ellison served two years with the Peace Corps in Asia.

Miss Mahoney Is Bride Of Mr. Talbott

Announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Mahoney of West Roxbury makes known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marcia Anne Mahoney, to Brian Tormay Talbott. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Talbott of Atlanta, Ga., on Sunday, October 10 at a ceremony which took place in Scituate.

The bride was graduated from Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Talbott is a graduate of Boston College.

Cheryl Oriel, Waban Girl, Becomes Bride

The marriage of Miss Cheryl Oriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Oriel of 95 Larchmont avenue, Waban, and G. Warren Ross, son of Mr. George W. Ross of New Haven, Ct., and the late Mrs. Jean Ross, took place recently at the Marriot Hotel in Newton.

Rabbi Herman Blumberg officiated at the 6:30 oclo'ck double ring service which was followed by a reception at the hotel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's white dotted Swiss empire gown was trimmed with Venetian lace. She carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Mrs. Iris Clickstein of Stoughton was her sister's matron of honor. Young Kimberly B. Clickstein of Stoughton was her aunt's flower girl.

Mark Holland of Newton served as best man.

Following a trip to Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Ross are now living in Phoenix, Arizona.

Miss Hopengarten Is Bride Of C. W. Byers, 2nd

Yale University, New Haven, Ct., was the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Jane Meryl Hopengarten to Charles Wesley Byers 2nd.

Dr. and Mrs. S.W. Hopengarten of Waban and Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander Byers of Cantonsville, Md., and Nags Head, North Carolina, are the couple's parents.

Dr. Hopengarten gave his daughter away. She wore a Bianchi gown made of pale ivory peau de soie embroidered with beads, pearls and lace appliques.

A matching medieval cap held in place her illusion veil and she carried an old fashioned nosegay of red velvet roses with white rosebuds.

A dinner reception took place at the Park Plaza Hotel following the seven o'clock evening ceremony.

Mrs. Byers was graduated from Wellesley College with high honors as a Durant Scholar, class of 1969. She also studied at the Universidad de Valencia in Spain.

The groom is a graduate of Marietta College, magna cum laude, class of 1968, where he was a member of the crew. Elected to Sigma Xi, he received his master of philosophy degree from Yale University.

Both the bride and groom, member of Phi Beta Kappa, are doctoral candidates at Yale. Mr. Byers is completing his dissertation in invertebrate paleontology as a National Science Foundation trainee. He is curatorial assistant at the Peabody Museum of Natural History. Mrs. Byers is a Woodrow Wilson Fellow as well as a Yale Fellow in French literature.

The newlyweds are now living in New Haven, Ct.

MRS. JOSEPH ROBERT TOMASKI

Marie Santore Is Bride Of Joseph Robert Tomaski

The marriage of Miss Marie Catina Santore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anthony Santore of Burlington, formerly of Reading, to Joseph Robert Tomaski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tomaski of 19 Darby street, Newton, exchanged vows recently at St. Margaret's Church in Burlington.

The Rev. Ernest Serino officiated at the three o'clock ceremony at which two rings were exchanged. A reception was held at Montvale Plaza, Stoneham.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a full length gown made of white organza marked with beaded Alencon lace appliques and highlighted with a criss-cross beaded yoke made with a wedding band neckline and short sleeves. Her A-line skirt terminated in a chapel length train.

A matching jeweled headpiece held in place her bouffant silk illusion elbow length veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, german statis and ivy.

Mrs. Allan J. Hicks of Melrose, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her full length gown of yellow linen was styled with a navy blue bodice misted with gold embroidery. She wore a headpiece of cut daisies and carried a bouquet of daisies and roses.

Similarily attired, but in pale green and navy, the bridesmaids were Mrs. John W. Faria of Reading, Mrs. William P. Keating of Middleboro, Miss Carol Pullano of Burlington, cousin of the bride, and Miss Victoria DiSanzo of Brighton.

Carrying baskets of daisies, the flower girls, Anne Marie Hicks and Cheryl Santore, nieces of the bride, were miniatures of the honor attendant.

Master Stephen Tomaski of Natick was ring bearer.

Daniel J. Donovan of Framingham was best man. The ushers were John Tomaski of Natick, Jude Tomaski, also of Natick, two brothers of the groom, Ronald Palkey, of Newton and Arthur Roy of Somerville.

Following a trip to Quebec, Maine and Cape Cod, Mr. Tomaski and his bride are living in Woburn.

The bride attended Burdett College.

Having attended Newton Junior College, the groom served four years with the Navy. (Photo by Ciro's Studio)

The Boston Children's Theatre production "Little Women" continues at New England Life Hall Nov. 6 at 10:30 and 2:00, Nov. 13 at 2 and Nov. 20 at 10:30 and 2. Subscriptions are available through Nov. 13 for the entire season, which will include, in addition to "Little Women", "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in December, "Treasure Island" in February and March, and "Secret Garden" in April and May.

Adele Thane is directing a company of youngsters from the theatre's drama classes in the production of "Little Women", which has been dramatized from Louise May Alcott's beloved story to include many of the favorite episodes.

The cast includes Margaret Delaney as Meg, Deborah Shea as Jo, Ellen Gainor as Beth, Jeanne Amrhein of West Roxbury as Amy, and Bonnie Goodman as "Marmee". Lending support are Hugh Greenglass as Mr. March, Frank Mullaney as Laurie, Barbara Sousa as Sallie Moffat, Kathryn Ham as Hannah, and Deborah Coutts as Aunt March.

Settings are by Gale Pike, with costumes by Vivian Dooley and lighting by Steven Liss.

The theatre offers group rates for schools, scouts, birthday parties, etc. For information and reservations write or call the Boston Children's Theatre, 263 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, Mass. 02116, telephone 536-3324.

Xaverian High International Fair Nov. 6, 7

Work is progressing on the two-day "International Fair," to be staged at Xaverian Brothers High School, 800 Clapboardtree street, Westwood, on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 6 and 7.

Sponsored by the Xaverian Mother's Guild and Xaverian Father's Club, the fair will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday and run until 8 p.m. On Sunday the hours will be from 1 p.m. until 6.

Twelve booths will be set up in the school's gymnasium, offering a wide selection of items with international tastes. Goods will be on sale both days.

On Saturday, a giant auction will be held in the auditorium, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Santry. Also on Saturday will be a spaghetti and meatball supper. Reservations must be made for the sittings at 5 p.m. and 6:30. Contact Mrs. Virginia Bechtel of Brockton at 583-3524.

Sunday's activities will feature the arrival of Santa Claus for the children at 3 p.m. Brother Jason, C.F.X, will be available for pictures.

At 6 p.m. the drawing of the giant raffle will take place. Again this year John Curley is in charge. Grand prize is $1,500. Second prize is $300, while third prize is $200.

Chairman of the fair is Mrs. Kay DeSimone. Assisting is Mr. Joseph Lyons.

Among local residents working for the fair is Robert Pink of West Roxbury is in charge of the Monte Carlo games.

Quote of the Week

Several student groups at Northeastern University claimed victory in forcing the postponement of a dedication at which Transportation Secretary John Volpe and Attorney General John Mitchell were to speak. But the only victory was to those working for repression and suppression of ideas.

Newton Free Library Film Series Continues Nov. 4th

Newton Free Library's Thursday Evening Free Film series, "Civilisation," continues next Thursday (Nov. 4) at 7 p.m with "The Worship of Nature," a discussion of Romanticism from the late 18th century through the 19th century and the glorification of nature as seen in the works of Wordsworth, Constable, Monet, Turner and Renoir.

"The Fallacies of Hope," the second film, contrasts the bleak realities of the 19th century's revolutions and wars with the dreams of 18th century optimism interpreted through the genius of such men as Beethoven, Blake and Rodin.

"Civilisation" concludes on November 11 with the screening of "Heroic Materialism," a film depicting civilisation from the Industrial Revolution to the present. Viewers wil see the growth of mass technological culture and its art forms. The second film is "Timeless Treasure," a comprehensive picture of the dangers facing cultural assets the world over and the decisive steps taken to preserve them.

A variety of documentaries and feature films will continue the Thursday Evening Film Series at the Main Library. Film titles with annotation are available at Newton Free Library.

Coffee will be served and all are welcome.

ELECT ATTORNEY BURTON M. PIKE
AN ALDERMAN AT LARGE VOTE

FOR EVERYONE
PIKE

We face difficult years ahead. Our real estate taxes have been strained to the breaking point. The demand to modernize our schools and services run ahead of our available revenues.

New programs in housing, youth services, and transportation create additional demands for money.

All programs and their objectives must be carefully scrutinized — are they necessary and will the money spent achieve them?

Decisions of the Board of Aldermen on programs and revenues will guide the city. They must act with a capacity to choose fairly among competing demands.

My decisions will not always be in accord with yours. I promise, however, that I will seek to reconcile the interests of all the citizens of the city and that I will not speak for just one party or faction.

I will be an Alderman-At-Large for everyone.

• RESPONSIVENESS

To all constituents:
—answered 2506 letters and uncountable phone calls
—attended 446 meetings in 557 days in office
—acted as liaison between constituents and city officials
To city employees:
—worked for fair negotiation, salary increase, improved equipment
To youth:
—worked and voted for Freeport
—supported acquisition of Col. Springs Park addition —supported increased use of public facilities by young people To polce:
—supported improved equipment and anti-drug-abuse training
To schools:
—worked for adequate parking and tighter scrutiny of contracts and expenses
To his local ward:
—with admittedly limited success thus far, worked for solution of Newton Corner traffic problems

• ECONOMY

—supported budget cuts of almost ⅓ million dollars
—fought fiscal carelessness in school and public building construction and maintenance

• OPENNESS

—worked for improved press coverage of aldermanic meetings and and fewer closed sessions —insisted on open discussion of the controversial question of paying drug-abuse informers

• ECOLOGY

—supports adoption of wetlands and flood plain zoning
—opposed indiscriminate use of salt and chemicals in snow removal —supports research and experimentation in methods of garbage and trash collection

• HOUSING

—supported Newton Housing Authority, Newton Redevelopment Authority and NCDF-Aldermanic compromise
—will continue to work for housing acceptable to Newton

Therapeutic Tutor Program Begins At Day Junior High

T-T may mean Trinidad and Tobago in certain areas of the Caribbean, but at Day Jr. High in Newtonville it means the Therapeutic Tutor program, a pairing of adult volunteer tutors from all areas of Newton with Day students who need extra help with their reading.

The new series of training workshops for tutors is now underway, with resource people from the entire school system sharing their areas of proficiency.

At the first session Tuesday morning (Oct. 26) Day Principal E. Van Seasholes welcomed new tutors to the school. Miss Kay Torrant, reading supervisor for the Newton schools, presented an overview of reading difficulties.

Assistant Principal John Shaw and learning disabilities specialist Nina Cooke shared time, when new tutors learned what perceptual handicaps are, and some specific and useful remediation procedures.

Additional workshops, all from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, will take place on November 9, when Miss Grace Mancini, counselor for non - English - speaking students, will discuss particulars in that area; and Bob DeIulio, psycholigist, will speak about resources of his department available to students.

At the November 11 workshop Paul Welch, head of student services at Day, will lead the tutors in a game designed to point up ideal facets of the tutor - tutee relationship.

During two wrap-up sessions on November 16 and 18 Mrs. Shirley Cline, Day reading teacher, and Mrs. Barbara Michaels, who leads the tutoring program, will discuss individual problems with those tutors who have already been matched up and are working with their Prospective tutors who have missed some workshop sessions or who are unable to participate in the workshops may make individual appointments with Mrs. Michaels (244-3670 days) to tune up their tutoring skills.

Mrs. Fay Bronstein, a former tutor who is now at Harvard graduate school and currently student teaching at Day, will also share her own experiences with the new tutors.

Tutors, prospective and experienced, who have signed up for the 1971-1972 season are Mrs. Robert Berns, Mrs. Anna Nathanson, Mrs. B. Vine, Sister Lucienne Jannin, Miss Rhonda Beerman, and Miss Jennifer LaBarbera.

Also participating this season are Mrs. Nancy Brown, Mr. Rodney Farnsworth, Mr. Marcelo Berman, Mrs. A. Freedman, Mrs. E. Hindman, Mrs. B. Gelles, Mrs. A. S. Hochberg, Mrs. G. Karas, Mrs. A. Klein, Mr. Malcolm Reid, Mrs. A. Samick, Mr. Donald Savoy, Mrs. J. Schreiner, Miss Mimi Thurman, Mrs. B. Hershfield, Mrs. S. Levine, Mrs. F. Levy, Mr. Joe Farina, Mrs. Donald Budge, and Mr. I. 12-Room Operating Suite Opens At Local Hospital

A new 12-room operating suite, featuring all the latest surgical equipment, is now in operation at the Newton - Wellesley Hospital with the transfer to the new quarters on the second floor of the Hospital's new West Wing accomplished over the weekend of October 18.

Keeping one operating room in the old 6-room surgery open for emergencies, everything else was moved on Saturday and Sunday and Dr. Herbert Dunphy, former chief of surgery, initiated the new 12-room suite on Monday with an 8:30 operation.

The new suite is equipped with all the newest surgical equipment including explosion proof x-ray viewing boxes, an alarm system to summon additional help in emergencies, shadow proof lighting, conductor floors, and a machine which processes an x-ray film in about 3 minutes.

In addition to its 12 operating rooms, reception area, lounges for doctors, nurses and orderlies, patient waiting room, conference room, dressing rooms, utility rooms and supervisor's office, the suite has a recovery room which is more than twice the size of the old one.

Weeks before the move to the new quarters, the Hospital's housekeeping staff did a thorough cleaning of the area, scrubbing floors, walls and ceilings with an iodine - based germicide solution. All equipment also got a scrubbing before being put in place.

After the cleaning, anyone entering the area to finish up preparations and complete the transfer had to be properly suited in clean clothes before each entry just as if the suite were in actual operation.

Pre-opening tests checked the efficiency of filters which purify the fresh outside air circulated in the operating room. A blood agar culture dish was left undistrubed in the room for one hour, with no one allowed to enter during the period. It was then sent to the laboratory to be checked for bacterial growth.

The results were negative but one more test followed. Because movement in a room has the effect of increasing the amount of bacteria which will accumulate in a culture dish, 11 members of the operating staff, fully capped and gowned, went through all the motions of a mock operation. Afterwards the air was cultured again and with results negative, the new operating room was ready for use.

Commenting on the opening of the new suite, Hospital Administrative Vice President William S. Brines said: "We have waited a long time for this day and at last we have what is certainly one of the finest surgical facilities around. We are enormously grateful to the late Mr. William Shelley and Mrs. Shelley who gave it in respectful memory of the many doctors and nurses who dedicated so much of their lives to saving and extending the lives of others. We're glad our surgical staff now has such a fine facility to work in."

Paid-up members are invited to attend, and to submit names of prospective members, who will also be invited. They are asked to call Mrs. David Olken at 244-9051, or Miss Eileen Gershman at 277-5608, before next Monday (Nov. 1).

Newton Frosh At Bentley College

Several Newton residents are among the 600 Freshman students at Bentley College in Waltham.

From Newton are: Peter J. Anastasi, 481 Commonwealth Ave.; Frederic S. Adelson, 26 Verndale Rd.; Miss Catherine M. Belli, 266 Nevada St.; Joseph DiBona, 107 Linwood Ave.; Miss Maureen E. Duffy, 1026 Boylston St.; Mark L. Fries, 81 Wayne Rd.; John J. Miskella, 73 Lewis St.; and David A. Pearlstein, 15 Nightingale Path.

Also attending is John A. Tramontozzi, 90 Westland Ave., West Newton.

Needham Man Is Clerk Of Newton Court

A Needham man today was nominated by Governor Francis W. Sargent to serve as clerk of the Newton district court.

The name of Henry H. Shultz of 82 Blake street, Needham, was submitted by Mr. Sargent to the Governor's Council to fill the vacancy in the Newton court caused by the resignation of Arthur Scipione.

Shultz, who is 31 years old, is married and the father of one daughter. He is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and Boston University Law School where he received his LL.B. degree in 1965.

He was admitted to practise before the Massachusetts Bar in 1965 and before the Federal Bar in 1966.

Mr. Shultz served as chief secretary to Governor Sargent when he was Lieutenant Governor in 1967 and has been executive secretary to the Governor and Governor's Council from 1970 to the present time.

Penney, Recreation Commissioner; Kevin Riffe and John Meek. Newton youngsters have started the ball rolling by contributing part of the proceeds from their fund raising activities at summer playgrounds to the annual Garden City Charity Ball which will be held at the Marriott Hotel on November 27. Proceeds from the Ball will be used to buy special equipment for the Activity Center for Cerebral Palsy in Newton, where cerebral palsied persons will be provided with a comprehensive program.

Aquinas Junior College Holds Sale For Needy

The Good Neighbor Center at Aquinas Junior College sponsored a cake sale last Friday at the Star Market in Newtonville. The proceeds will be used for Thanksgiving baskets to be distributed to needy families in Newton.

Student coordinator of the Good Neighbor Center is Patricia Cunningham of 19 Cambria Road, West Newton, a part-time employee of Star Market, Newtonville. Last year the group was responsible for supplying 15 needy families in Newton with Thanksgiving baksets.

"Some people question the need of those in the Newton area in comparison with the need of those in depressed areas. It is the philosophy of this group at Aquinas Junior College that the greater needs of the country will only be responded to by youth in the same measure as they have met the needs of the local community," declared Sister Annette Marie, publicity chairman.

Newton Beth-El Atereth To Hold Supper Nov. 4th

Sister Beth-El Atereth Israel of Newton will hold its annual membership supper party next Thursday (Nov. 4) at 6:30 p.m. in the Social Hall of the Synagogue at 561 Ward St. in Newton Centre.

A Fashion Show will be presented by Mrs. Hyman Andler, co-chairman in charge of the program. All members are cordially invited to attend the supper, and may bring any prospective member.

Garden City Charity Ball Aids Cerebral Palsy Fight

The second annual Garden City Charity Ball will be held on Saturday evening, November 27, at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is the honorary chairman for the Ball, and general chairmen are Mr. & Mrs. William Lancilotti and Mr. & Mrs. Boyle. Mr. & Mrs. Philip Edsall and Mr. & Mrs. Joseph F. Antonellis are the co-chairmen.

Entertainment will be provided by Guy Rotondo and his Orchestra, featuring Guy and Elenora Rotondo and the Paratore Brothers.

The Ball is sponsored by friends working for the Activity Center for Cerebral Palsy in Newton. In the future, the Center will be made available to those afflicted with cerebral palsy residing in the Metropolitan Boston area.

It is hoped that cerebral palsied persons can learn skills that will enable them eventually to become self-supporting. The proceeds from the Ball, and its associate raffle, will be used for the equipment, professional staffing and operation so that this dream can become reality.

The Committees for the Ball are as follows: Reservations: Chairmen, Mr. & Mrs. Lewis De Souza; Mr. & Mrs. Dino DiCarlo, Mr. & Mrs. Donald A. McAdam, Mrs. George A. Downer.

Fund Raising Committee: Chairmen, Mr. & Mrs. Bova Rufo; Co-Chairman Mrs. Thomas Clardy; Mrs. William Murphy, Mr. & Mrs. Charles Constantine, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Gayner, Miss Marie Deschenes.

Antique Show At Beth Avodah On Nov. 7th and 8th

Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton Centre will be the exhibition center Sunday and Monday, November 7 and 8, for the 6th annual Oak Hill Antique Exposition and Sale to begin at 11 a.m. each day until 10 p.m., Sunday and 8 p.m., Monday.

More than 20 antique dealers, some from out of state, will show their collector's items at this event sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood.

Featured will be fine china, jewelry, and bric-a-brac. A commissary, with food cooked on the premises, will spotlight home baked goods. Mrs. Alan Gorham and Mrs. Samuel Klingsberg are managing the petit cafe which will be open through the entire day.

Unlimited free parking is available and browsers and buyers are all encouraged to come for an exciting day of antiquing. A small admission fee will be charged for this unusual display.

Doctor, Family Make Home Here

Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Rosenthal and their two daughters are making their home in Chestnut Hill while Dr. Rosenthal spends a year as Research Assistant in Orthopedic Surgery at Boston's Robert B. Brigham Hospital, the only hospital in the nation devoted solely to arthritis and the rheumatic diseases.

Under the sponsorship of the National Institutes of Health, Dr. Rosenthal is researching the biochemistry of synovial regeneraltion and learning research techniques developed in the laboratory of Dr. Clement B. Sledge, Chief of the Orthopedic Surgery Departments at the Robert B. Brigham and the Peter Bent Brigham.

Dr. Rosenthal is a member of the faculty of Washington University Medical School in St. Louis, where he will return next year.

The Rosenthals are now living at 94 Louise Road.

Two Respiratory Ass'n Workshops To Be Conducted

The Norfolk County - Newton Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, Inc. will sponsor two workshops on environmental problems.

The first one will be held this morning (Thursday) from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Association's offices at 745 High Street, Westwood. The topic will be "Air Pollution Legislation Progress."

Speakers will be Dr. James MacKenzie, Union of Concerned Scientists at M.I.T., Mrs. Susan Wilkes, Environmental Quality Chairman of the Newton League of Women Voters, and Mr. Ralph Taylor, Office of Air Programs, Technical Advisor, Environmental Protection Agency.

The second session will be held next Wednesday (Nov. 4) at the same time and location on "The Feasibility of Re-Use and Recycling of Solid Waste Materials."

Speakers will be Mrs. Nancy Bellows, Boston Environment, Inc., Mrs. Patricia Facey, Chairman on Environmental Quality, Massachusetts League of Women Voters, and Mr. Robert J. Lanigan, Division Superintendent of Highways in Needham.

The workshops will focus on practical information on what has been done and what can be done. They are open to the public free of charge. Please call 326-4081 for reservations.

Trinity Church Plans Horn Of Plenty Fair Nov. 5, 6

The Horn of Plenty Fair, Trinity Church's annual event, will be held on Friday and Saturday, November 5 and 6 in the Edward T. Sullivan Parish House, Furber Lane, Newton Centre.

The Chairman, Mr. George E. MacNair, announces that the hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. The public is cordially invited.

The traditional chicken salad roll luncheon will be served at noon on Friday by Mrs. E. K. Mentzer and Mrs. Henry T. Patch, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. James D. Blackall, Mrs. W. Frank Fullerton, Mrs. John E. Gale, Mrs. Stiles Haines, Mrs. Clifton Hynes, Mrs. Carl Goldthwait, Mrs. Harold R. Keller, Mrs George B. Mentzer, Mrs. Robert B. Purinton and Mrs. Louis C. Stein.

An innovation and preview to the Fair will be a coq au vin dinner served on Friday, October 29 at 6:30 in the Parish Hall, by Mr. MacNair who with his committee will cook and serve the dinner for which reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the church office, 527-2790, during business hours.

Mr. MacNair will be assisted by Mrs. MacNair, Mrs. Dudley F. Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Haines, Mrs. Robert L. Blaney, Mrs. Clarence F. King, Mrs. Walter Lee, Mrs. E. Allan Small and Mrs. Albert F. Vespa.

This will replace the dinner usually served on the Friday night of the Fair. A sandwich bar will be available at lunch time on Saturday with Mrs. Kenneth Monteith in charge.

Mr. MacNair's steering committee is composed of the Rev. Howard R. Dunbar, Rector of Trinity Church; Miss E. Nancy Cobb, advisor; Mrs. F. Hopewell Underhill, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur W. Stewart, assistant treasurer. Decorations in keeping with the seasonal theme will be under the clever direction of Mrs. Samuel B. Senior. Publicity is being handled by Mrs. Worthing L. West.

A new department will make its debut this year, under the direction of Mrs. Albert F. Vespa with the assistance of the Young People's Fellowship of the Church. SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT is the name of the table where just such articles, many handmade, will be found to intrigue the shopper.

And good old stand-bys, always offering a choice and a wide variety of articles include the Bargain Basement where unusual "finds" may be found. Mrs. Herbert T. Anderson and Mrs. Howard H. Cooley are in charge with the help of Mrs. Austin Bittenbender, Mrs. Leonard T. Clarke, Mrs. M. Fletcher Eades and Mrs. Hilda Hosmer.

A wide assortment of books, including paper backs, sets of classics and out-of-print issues will be sold by Mrs. John W. Merrill and Miss Beatrice Eastman, and for those with a sweet tooth, their desires may be filled by visiting the Candy Table with Mrs. Dudley F. Hilliard in charge with Mrs. MacNair and Mrs. King as helpers.

Christmas wrappings; cards, both religious and traditional; gift stationery, plain and monogrammed will be on Mrs. Jonn A. Grove's table and her helpers are Mrs. Douglass B. Francis, Mrs. Marjorie H. Gardner and Miss Eunice Scoboria. Coffee and doughnuts, hot and fresh, will be available during the aFir hours with Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Root in attendance.

Food, always a drawing card, will be found on Mrs. Harold E. Tingley's table, where home-cooked commestibles will have come from the kitchens of some of the Parish's best cooks. Helpers are Mrs. Robert L. Blaney, Mrs. John M. Emery, Mrs. Richard H. Ellis, Mrs. Philip L. Miller and Mrs. Gardner A. Smith.

The stage of the Parish House will be an eye-catcher as Mrs. David C. Ditmore will have her Garden Spot there, with fresh flowers and plants of many varieties; bulbs for fall planting; arrangements for fall and Christmas decorations, both fresh and artificial. Her committee are Mrs. George J. Brookhiser, Mrs. Willis B. Clough, Mrs. John M. Colony, Mrs. Henry S. Cummings, Mrs. David F. Ditmore, Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson, Mrs. Carl A. Gurshin, Mrs. Kenneth D. Lippincott, Mrs. Charles H. Meeker, Mrs. Norman J. Mitchell, Mrs. Ralph L. Morse, Mrs. Earl H. Pierce, Mrs. H. E. Raymond, Mrs. M. N. Smith Petersen, Mrs. Sidney S. vonLoesecke and Mrs. A. Gordon Weinz.

Mrs. Amos E. Kent will offer an interesting assortment of Gifts which will be sure to fill every need for old and young, for birthdays and other occasions, many handmade. Mrs. Frederic Hammond, co-chairman, Mrs. Clifford L. Derick, Mrs. William Bailey, Miss Elizabeth B. Cushman, Mrs. Joseph J. Urbanetti, Mrs. George W. Haines, Mrs. Kenneth Monteith and Mrs. John Maloy.

The Grandmothers Table is always a popular department and this year is headed by Mrs. Howard R. Dunbar, assisted by Mrs. Richard W. Douglass, Mrs. Vernon W. Brown and Mrs. Harold E. Burnham. Here doting grandmoters will find just the right present for a new or an "old" grandchild.

Mrs. Edmund W. Perry will again be chairman of the Household Table which speaks for itself, the usual assortment of aprons, holders and other household necessities, most of them handmade, will be found, along with some new items.

Her helpers are Mrs. Ella Carr, Mrs. Jerome J. Franck, Mrs. F. A. Gardner, Mrs. Elmer M. Kling, Mrs. Harry F. Morse, Mrs. F. A. Perkins, Miss Katherine Robinson, Mrs. Andrew M. Schwab, Mrs. S. J. TenBroeck, Miss Marie Ulmer and Miss Helen Walsh.

Phonograph records, old, stereo, mono and new, will also be found at the Fair and the collector of old recordings is sure to find a gem.

And last but not least is the Treasure - Antique table where choice pieces of silver, china glass, and jewelry will be on sale under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Monteith who has had the articles appraised and will offer them for sale at "Fair" prices.

Newton Symph. Features Cello And Harpsichord

Keyboard artist Robert Levin and cellist Luis Leguia will be featured guest soloists on Nov. 14 when music director Michel Sasson conducts the Newton Symphony's first concert of the fall season.

Mr. Levin will give a reading of the Matthias Monn D major Concerto for Harpsichord.

This little known baroque piece inspired an Arnold Schoenberg cello concerto, written for Pablo Casals and said to be one of the most different cello pieces ever written.

Following the Harpsichord Concerto, Boston Symphony Orchestra cellist Leguia will perform the Schoenberg cello concerto.

Mr. Sasson will also conduct the Ma Mere L'Oye (Mother Goose) Suite of Maurice Ravel and the Symphonic suite "Scheherazade" of Rimsky-Korsakoff at the Nov. 14 concert. Concerts are held at the Meadowbrook Jr. High School Auditorium in Newton and begin at 8 p.m. A free reception to which members of the audience are invited customarily follows each concert.

Accidents Cause Minor Injuries

A skidding accident resulted in minor chest injuries for Michael J. Power, 18, of 316 Central St., Auburndale, who was treated and released from Newton - Wellesley Hospital after his car hit a tree at Auburndale Ave. and Ionia St. about 12:45 Tuesday morning.

In a two-car accident Monday evening at 6:55 p.m., a car driven by 73-year-old Charles G. Lindstrand of 43 Beverly Rd., Newton Highlands, collided with an automobile driven by 21-year old Kay Weinstock of Highland Park, Ill., as the Lindstrom car turned left from Beacon St. onto Lake Ave.

Suffering minor injuries was a passenger in the Lindstrom car, Mrs. Nannie Hamlin, 74, of 508 Beacon St., Newton Centre.

First Baptist Church Women Plan Meeting

Hong Kong-This Is Your Life is the topic to be presented by Mrs. Hugh W. Smith at the First Baptist Church Woman's Union November meeting.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Radcliffe College, and worked as a children's librarian in the public libraries of Boston and Providence before going overseas. She and her husband have lived and worked among the Swatow speaking people of Hong Kong for the past 14 years. This work included responsibility in the fields of education and social service, as well as evangelism with the Swatow Baptist Churches. The Smiths have four children, age from 7 to 14, three of whom were born in Hong Kong. They expect to return to that fascinating and challenging city next summer.

The meeting on Nov. 1 at 9:45 a.m. at the First Baptist Church in Newton will include luncheon. Please call the church 244-2997 for reservations. A baby sitter will be provided.

Job Bank Will Aid Both Youth And Businesses

Are you prepared to make a commitment to youth? You may invest in a future by hiring the services of a Newton Youth through the Newton Youth Center Job Bank.

As previously announced, the Newton Youth Center, in conjunction with the Newton Youth Commission, established a Job Bank this past summer to aid in the employment of Newton's youth, aBsed upon a continued demand by students for the service and the jobs provided by the adult population, Job Bank will continue to function at the Newton Community Center building and through the Centers' phone at 969-5908.

The bank will match job applicants with opportunities in the home or business on a part-time or full-time basis. A wide range of job offerings are being sought. No job is too big or too small. To list a job, call the Newton Community Service Centers at 969-5908.

Youths who wish to apply for employment may come to the Centers' office at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m or Wednesday evening and ask for Marty Cohen.

Newton High Wins Big One From Arlington 13-12

Tigers Remain Undefeated As Connolly Scores Winning TD

By DAVE SOLOMON

For the third time this season the Newton High football Tigers were rated as a pre-game underdog, and they responded with a superb 13-12 victory over Arlington High. Both these teams were undefeated going into the game, and when co-captain John Connolly leaped over his blockers to score on Newton's final chance of the game, Dickinson Stadium went wild.

This game was by far the Tigers most impressive and exciting this season, and was climaxed by a tremendous last minute drive by Newton and their quarterback Paul "Artie" Grillo.

BATTLE BACK

Down 12-7, with only 2:34 left on the clock, Grillo marched the Tigers 70 yards in seven plays to put them on Arlington's two-foot line with 1:37 remaining. Four plays later Connolly scored.

This two-minute offense of Newton's was amazing. It was so good, that maybe Johnny Mazur could use to take some advice from Newton's offensive coach, Norm Walker. Ken Billings returned Arlington's kickoff to the thirty yard line. Grillo then promptly connected on a 17 yard pass to Paul Johnson. Two plays later, Mike Coppola was the recipient of another 17 yard Grillo toss.

The following play it was a pass to Dave Boyagian which brought Newton to the 23 yard line. Two plays afterwards Grillo again looked to Boyagian, this time it was a 23 yard completion which put Newton inside the one. During this sequence of 6 plays Grillo completed four out of five passes for four first downs.

The big play which brought Newton inside the one was called by Walker a "spread right triple motion." In layman's terms it was a flood pass with motion in the backfield. Boyagian was not the primary receiver on the play, but Grillo saw him and adjusted quickly and successfully. It was a great read of the defense on Artie's' part," stated Walker.

With the ball on the one, Grillo tried two consecutive quarterback sneaks, both of which were stopped by the Arlington defense. After realizing that with nearly 450 pounds of Robert Johnson and Ken Steele over center, it would be difficult to score, Newton gave the ball to Connolly. On his first attempt, the Newton fullback was nailed for a slight loss, but on the do-or-die play he came through.

Arlington tallied first in game, going 70 yards on first sequence of plays. It took the Spy Ponders only two plays to score, a 12 yard pass followed by a 58 yard run. The PAT was missed, and Arlington led 6-0.

RONAYNE HAPPY

Head Coach Jim Ronayne commented that it was good for us psychologically that they scored a touchdown so early. We became so stunned that we got mad, and in the long run it helped. We showed tremendous "fight for life' spirit."

The Tiger's first touchdown was set up by defensive back Ken Billings. Billings picked off a Rich Collins pass at Arlington's ten yard line. Quarterback sneaks of eight and two yards by Ed Beckler, who started in place of the hobbling Grillo, evened the game. Billy Steinberg then gave Newton the lead with a wobbling PAT.

Paul Grillo came in at quarterback for one mid-field sequence of plays in the first period, but did not see any continuous action until the second half.

Cornerback Jimmy Fay picked off his fourth interception in two games with 28 seconds left in the first half. Fay suffered a slight concussion when he was racked up by an Arlington player.

Unofficial first half statistics showed Newton with statistics showed Newton with 79 total yards, all on the ground, and three first downs. Arlington had 87 total yards good for two first downs. A strong Tiger defense let up only 17 yards in the half after Arlington's TD.

The second half consisted of only four sequencess of plays, three of them being sustained drives.

The Tigers used up 7:15 on the third period when they marched 63 yards to Arlington's 4 yard line. Newton had four first downs in this sequence, led by 49 yards gained by John Connolly. "Our offense held on to the ball," commented Ronayne, and in fact played some great defense for us. This was very important in our victory. We held the ball for nearly eight minutes against the wind, and thus were able to have the wind at our backs when we needed it at the end."

The Tigers were stopped at the four by the Arlington defense, which had apparently adjusted to Connolly's running over the middle. John's a tremendously strong runner," noted Ronayne, and he did a great job for us today. He was still limping from an earlier injury." The Tiger fullback gained an unofficial total of 95 yards.

Also deserving a great deal of credit for opening up numerous holes for the running attack were center Jack Doolin, guards Peter Carvelli, Steve McCourt, Ralph Vitti and Evan Biblios, and tackles Jim Mannix, Phil Pescosolido and Bob Fitzgerald.

Arlington took over the ball at the end of the third period on their own four, and were forced to punt three plays later. But Mark Herendeen fumbled on the return for Newton, and Arlington took over. The Spy Ponders then marched to their second touchdown, using up nearly eight minutes on the clock.

They finally scored ona pass from the Newton six yard line on second down. In what turned out to be a big play, co-captain Mike Ball broke up the attempt for a two-point conversion.

The remainder of the game is history, and will certainly not be soon forgotten by both the participants and the onlookers. After their touchdown, Newton also failed on a conversion attempt. Paul Grillo was attacked on this play, and reinjured his right ankle for the third time this season. Pete Carvelli made a great tackle on Arlington's return of Bob Nototarmaso's final kickoff. Four plays and 30 seconds later it was all over.

Newton had a total of 213 yards, 134 of them coming in the second half. Arlington had only 150 total yards and six first downs. Newton had eleven first downs, 8 in the second half. This was by far Newton's best offensive game this season. The Tigers have now outscored their opponents by a margin of 49 to 18. The defense has earned three shutouts so far.

LEAD CLASS A

With a 5-0 overall record the Tigers are tied for the Class A lead, with 4 remaining games. Undefeated Medford was knocked off by Everett, and Walpole stopped Norwood 34-0 to remain tied for the top. The other leader Natick was rained out Monday.

Newton leads the Suburban League, with a 4-0 league record, with two league contests remaining.

Next week's game will be at Medford, and as is every game for a contender, it will be a big one.

BOYAGIAN GALLOPS — Newton halfback Dave Boyagian runs for 11 yards setting up Tigers score as Newton won big Class A game from Arlington Saturday by a 13-12 score. In pursuit is Arlington halfback Maury Corkey who finally made tackle. It was mighty important win for Tigers. (Robert Grossman Photo)

Remain Undefeated ...

Newton Hi Soccer Team Rolls To Two More Wins

By DAVE SOLOMON

When a team is on top, every game is important. The Newton High soccer team moved two steps closer last week to their season's goal of an undefeated, championship team. The spirited booters conquered Brookline 3-2 and Cambridge Latin 4-0, as they upped their season's record to 9-0-3.

Things both started and ended badly for the victorious Tigers back on October 19. Early in the first period fleet-footed Wally Cox was forced momentarily out of the game with a slight ankle twist. Minutes later Brookline scored on a play which can only be termed a complete fluke. The goal was deflected in by a Newton defenseman past goalie Dick Chaisson.

Newton couldn't muster much of an attack until the second period. During a goal-mouth scramble Bruno Viscomi and Vinny Meglio set up Tiger co-captain Tim Tsochantaridis in front of the goal and Tsochantaridis responded with a goal in the left corner of the net. Towards the end on the first half, the Tiger offense was setting up well.

They got off a number of good shots, necessitating several saves by the Brookline goalie.

Vinny Hurts

The third period was a scary one for Newton as Tim Tsochantaridis became badly hurt. The Newton standout suffered cracked bones above and below his left eye. It is unsure how Timmy was hurt; He went up to head a ball, and either as he fell or when he was on the ground it seems likely he was kicked in the face by a Brookline player. As Tsochantaridis lay dazed on the field, an angry spectator attempted to start a fight with some Brookline players, but was held off after a short flurry of kicking. Four police cars appeared on the premises about ten minutes later, sent no doubt in case of any post-game problems. Tsochantaridis was brought to a nearby hospital where he remained overnight. He will be able to play this week.

Within two minutes of Timmy's injury, Vinny Meglio scored for Newton on a penalty shot. Meglio let off a bullet which the goalie literally did not see until it was behind him. Brookline tied the game late in the period at two goals apeice, as the Newton defense was unable to clear the ball out of the goal zone.

The fourth play featured two plays involving Dave Douglas. On the first Douglas was broken up downfield by a police car which had decided at that moment to switch sides. Perhaps the cop thought he could get a better view from the other side. Whatever, it was truly a ridiculous picture which really doesn't merit being mentioned but is being mentioned anyway.

Douglas Scores

Douglas' second play was far more significant, as he shot the winning goal on a head from Vinny Meglio. Newton then used four fullbacks for defensive purposes for the remainder of the game. Nevertheless, the fourth period was, according to head coach Mike Buzzi, "a very sloppy one. We only played well in the middle two periods."

The Tigers only outshot Brookline by a 20-17 margin, in what was surely the closest game shot-wise this season. Dick Chaisson was even forced to make one more save than his opponent on the opposite side of the field.

Steve Zimbel, Mark Donovan, and Vinny Meglio were the recipients of the coaches' award for overall poise and aggressiveness. For the always consistent Zimbel it was the fourth time this season he has shared in the award. Such was also the case with Meglio, who is now tied with Timmy T. for the team goal scoring honors. Each player has ten. Tommy Gerlach, who returned to the starting lineup at fullback, also played a strong game, he was booming kicks and breaking up plays like an expert.

"Our overall hustle has improved greatly over the past three games," commented Buzzi, "and our line has been more aggressive. We're setting up good plays and taking advantage of our breaks."

Taking advantage of their breaks was the key to Newton's 4-0 victory last Friday over Cambridge Latin. Vinny Meglio was the star of the game, with the first three-goal performance for any Newton player this year. Yet without a bit of luck on Newton's part the game could have been much closer.

In a first period which produced virtually no strong play for either team, Meglio missed a penalty shot when he stubbed his toe just as he kicked the ball. Then in the second period Meglio made up for his mishap when he connected on a penalty shot. The shot was nearly saved by the leaping goaltender who just got a piece of it as it flew past him. Later in the period Meglio scored again on a deflected shot, with the assist going to Bruno Viscomi.

Whoriskey Shines

Co-captain Fred Whoriskey had his usual share of booming shots in the first half but was unable to score.

In the third period Newton nearly missed on another golden opportunity. In fact Vinny Meglio did miss on this penalty shot, but scored on a second chance when the goalie was ruled to have moved too soon.

Newton's final goal was scored in the fourth period by Wally Cox. Fred Whoriskey got the assist as he booted an indirect kick towards Bruno Viscomi. Viscomi missed on the head, but Cox was right there to stuff the ball in on near side. Goal scoring comes naturally to Cox, who as a hockey standout last winter had fourteen. Whoriskey's indirect kick came as the product of a hustling play by right-winger Tom Brazier who was tripped up after he raced with the ball close to 1-3 of the length of the field.

Coaches Buzzi and Bernie Flanagan were not happy with Newton's performance. Flanagan commented, "We really did not play too well. . . We lacked in our use of basic plays and we were not getting the ball to our open wings. None of our goals were decisive, and this was also the case with our passing and overall play.

"We played down to their level," continued the Newton mentor, "and this was not a dangerous team. . . This was not the type of game you feel good about." But still it counts as a victory and if Newton overcomes its final three opponents this week, the league title will be theirs for the third straight year.

Tiger Statistics

Some interesting statistics prove the tremendous overall power of the Tigers. They have outshot their opponents 292-87, a margin of over 3-1. Dick Chaisson has been forced to make only 59 saves, compared to 122 for opposing netminders. (However, look at this statistic closely and you'll notice that les sthan ½ Newton's shot have been on goal, while ⅔ of their opponents' shots have been accurate.)

The Tigers have outscored their opponents 30-5, for a ratio of 6-1. Seven different players have scored for Newton, and eleven different players have won the coaches' award at least once.

This afternoon will be the booters final home game of the season, with Saturday's game at Rindge Tech completing the 1971 regular soccer season. Then comes the Tournament.

Peck Scores 4 Times ...

Strong Wayland Blanks Newton South Gridders

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
(Assistant Sports Editor)

From a Newton South point of view, last Saturday's football clash with Wayland High can be summarized in one word — disaster.

However, a little elaboration of that word is in order. The final score was 28-0, but it wasn't because the Lions played poorly. Wayland's super squad played super football.

A similar analogy on the match-up between the squads can be made about the Boston Patriots - Baltimore Colts game earlier this fall. Your opponent is the defending champion. It looks strong again. But your team is improving. What you do is hope for an upset. What happened to the Pats happened to the lions. They were both creamed by precision, machine-like football units.

Newton South started its season slowly and was supposed to be coming along a little each week. The week prior to the Wayland encounter South devoured previously undefeated Weston, 28-13, and swamped Wildcat power back John Billings, allowing him only 26 yards in 16 carries.

Saturday, in the Lion pre-tilt dreams, had the potential of an instant replay. Wayland is unbeaten and has an even more powerful back in Bob Peck. Wayland, as Weston was is unscored upon.

The game turned out to be an instant replay for Wayland and Peck, not of their previous game, but their six preceding cortests.

The 5-11, 185-pound Peck was unleashed from his corral and snorted, kicked and stomped his way through the Lions' defense like a bucking bronco.

States Best

Peck, the state's leading scorer with 18 touchdowns in only five games, accumulated stunning statistics. He carried a mere 14 times, but averaged 17.1 per rush for 240 yards and four touchdowns. The speedy junior rampaged for TD bursts of 55, 10, 54, and 71 yards. That was the scoring, outside of Clark Johnson's four conversion kicks (a rare event at the high school level).

Peck was the offense, but another of South's major problems was the Warriors' defense. Wayland is the four-time Dual County League titlist, winner of 13 straight games, and owner of seven, that's right seven consecutive shutouts.

Newton South's backfield is one of the strongest in the league. Ron Izen, Ned Moan, Howie Haimes and Dave Leichook constitute a tremendous ground threat and all can move the ball. They moved nowhere against the Wayland stone wall.

Wayland is consistently the best wrestling team in the state. Three of its individual champions anchor an impregnable front line.

The Lions hung tough in the first half, allowing one touchdown in each quarter, but Peck (Who else?) broke their backs in the third quarter, crushing out 160 yards and two more six-pointers on only six attempts.

Wayland is simply that good. South should feel fortunate it did not face a bloodthirsty team like Oklahoma last weekend. The second-ranked NCAA school pounded one of its Big Eight Conference foes, Kansas State, into worse shape than the U. S. economy, 75-28.

Wayland is 5-0 overall and 4-0 in the league. South's record dropped to 2-2.

Newton South looks forward to an easier opponent this Saturday as they line up against Acton - Boxboro, a team it beat, 26-8 last year.

Byron Ress Stars For South X-Country Team

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
(Assistant Sports Editor)

Newton South sophomore cross-country runner Byron Ress looks better and better each week. Ress, who started coming into his own with a top finish and a 15:00 timing on South's home 2.6 mile course against Lynnfield and Westwood, last week, just keeps improving.

Last week the sorry South harriers were dumped by Bedford, 19-38 in a Dual County League meet, despite running their best individual times of the year.

South's youthful squad, 2-10, has exhibited some raw talent, which should blossom with the two always needed ingredients, age and experience.

Senior Howie Frutkoff, who has been a consistent performer for the harriers this fall, was the first Lion across the finish-line in 14:42, his best ever time over Mt. Ida Junior College's course.

Ress, closing fast, placed fifth with his finest time of 14:44, a very good sophomore time. The Newton South sophmore record is 14:21 by Geoff Davis in 1965. Ress' time is the best by a Lion soph at home since Tom LaPlante and Dick Dickinson ran 14:22 and 14:42, respectively, in 1968.

Junior John Ferreri, also looking better each meet, claimed the eighth spot in 14:55, while junior John Mason closed out the scoring five in 15:07. Both times were also personal records.

The race was won by Bedford's Steve Thurlow in an excellent 13:37, one of the swiftest times of the year at Mt. Ida. Second place in the race was 59 seconds behind Thurlow.

Ress looked stronger later in the week in capturing first place in the third annual Newton South - Newton High - Newton Junior High meet. The Lions and Tigers field their jayvee squads against a combined city junior high team.

Form changed in this third race. In the first two meets Newton High was victorious in team points while a junior high runner copped individual laurels.

This time around Ress put Newton South on the scoreboard with a 14:39 triumph at Dickinson Stadium on a course equivalent to South's in distance and difficulty.

Ress edged Tommy Hightower (Warren) by seven seconds. Jack Ferreri (South) and Allen Yun (Warren) also finished under 15:00. Ress' time is a meet record. Previous winners Peter Wrenn of Warren and former Record-holder Ralph Gott of Bigelow, 14:56 both now compete for Newton High's varsity. Gott's junior high course record of 14:49 was beaten by Hightower.

Things looked quite good for South as the early returns came in one, three, five, but then there was a long wait between the Lions' third and fourth men.

The junior high team's five placers were all from Warren.

Junior High All-Stars 33, Newton South J V, 44 Newton High J V, 51.

All-Stars: 2-Hightower, 14:46; 4-Yun, 14:56; 6-Coffey, 15:20; 10-Carleo, 15:31.

Newton South: 1-Ress, 14:39; 3-Ferreri, 14:51; 5-Mason, 15:16; 19-Hoiroka, 16:27; 23-Robinson, 17:20.

Newton High: 7-Womboldt, 15:24; 8-Gott, 15:29; 9-Kingsbury, 15:30; 12-O'Brien, 15:41; 16-Sypers, 16:07.

Newton South closes out its regular season schedule versus Wayland and Lincoln-Sudbury in a tri-meet this week, and then has two championship meets listed.

South will journey to Weston's 2.7 mile course for the Dual County League meet and then to Franklin Park, Saturday, for the State Class Cross-country Championships.

BOWDOIN SOCCER PLAYER — Andy Levin (above) of West Newton, is a member of the 1971 Bowdoin College varsity soccer team. A senior, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Levin, 133 Forest Ave., West Newton. Levin is a graduate of Newton High School, Newtonville.

South's Soccer Team Splits Pair of Games

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South High's soccer team split two games, last week, to raise its record to 4-5-1 in the Dual County League (4-6-1 overall) this season.

Undefeated powerhouse Lincoln-Sudbury erased South for the second time this season by a near identical score on September 22 Lincoln demolished the booters, 5-0. South improved the second time around, but not much, being tumbled, 5-1.

Lincoln, as usual ruling the roost in the league, a place where it has been parked for half a decade, displayed its normal sharp passing attack and fearsome defense to decimate the Lions.

Forward Chuck Swan was the key figure in the game as he notched a hat trick. Elliot Loew tallied the only goal for South, while Mike Reece and Ron Hardy aided Swan in the Lincoln scoring column.

Newton netminder Gary Ross and his counterpart Mark Leigh each blocked six shots.

Defeat Bedford

Ross was missing from the Lior nets as South nicked Bedford, 4-1, for the second time this year. Ross will also be missing in the final two games of the season. He has mononucleosis.

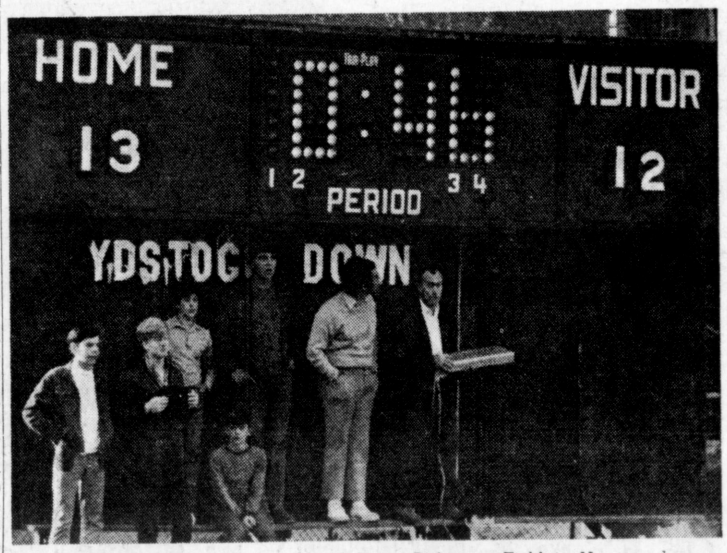

Charley Applestein, who had less than one-half a game's experience in the nets, took over and virtually brought along an invisible shield to keep enemy shots out. Applestein looked like he did a lot of learning at his normal forward's position, and turned aside seven Whaler shots.

Loew, who had a great offensive week, and who has had a "hot" foot in recent games, added two more goals to his collection for insurance points after Roy Linn started things off with a booming drive. Rich Izen, another frequent scorer lately, added the final touch.

Bedford, not exactly experiencing a top season, can point to one distinction as its highlight of the year. The Whalers, 0-10-1, and long-term inhabitants of the league basement, earned their tie against Lincoln-Sudbury, the only (semi-) blemish on Lincoln's otherwise perfect slate.

South, playing strong defensive soccer lately, has allowed over two scores in a game only once this season, with the exception of the LS games, which don't really count, like if you play Notre Dame in football; the only thing to do is search for moral victories. Lynnfield, in an early 4-2 win was the other culprit.

The Lions were 5-6-2 last year, the best mark in school history. With two games left on the schedule, Weston and Wayland, South has an opportunity to earn its first .500 record. Both tilts should be tough, though. Weston in 8-2 in the league, just behind Lincoln-Sudbury in the standings and South just nipped Wayland, 1-0 in their first meeting this fall.

V.A. NEWSLETTER

The Veterans Administration today cautioned every veteran who sells a home purchased with a GI loan to get a "release of liability" before the sale is consummated.

Loan Guaranty officials say such a release could save the veteran considerable difficulty and worry should the purchaser ever default on the loan contract.

A veteran should request the VA office that guaranteed his home loan for release from further liability to the government before he signs the sales contract. VA may issue such a release if the loan is current and the veteran's purchaser agrees to assume all of the veteran's liabilities.

In addition, the Veterans Administration must be satisfied the person who buys the property is a good credit risk, and has sufficient income to meet the payments on the GI loan.

Unless a veteran specifically asks VA for a "release of liability," and gets it, he still is responsible for satisfactory completion of the financial obligation of the initial GI loan - should the new purchaser fail to make the monthly payments.

The veteran may sell his home to anyone - another veteran, or to anyone who has never been in military service. In any case, however, he should ask for the "release of liability."

If the veteran's purchaser obtains his own financing to purchase the veteran's home instead of assuming the veteran's GI loan and the GI loan is thus paid in full at settlement, under certain conditions the veteran may then have his loan guaranty eligibility restored.

"Release of liability" and restoration of GI home laon guaranty details are available at any VA office, or from veterans service organization representatives.

Questions and Answers

Q — I am a veteran of World War II who has just reached his 65th birthday. Am I entitled to a VA pension?

A — You may be eligible provided your income from all sources does not exceed $2,300 a year if you are single, or $3,500 a year if you have dependents.

Q — Can an eligible veteran buy a used mobile home?

A — Yes, provided the used mobile home is the security for a loan previously made or guaranteed by VA, or for a loan guaranteed, insured or made by another Federal Agency. However, present VA regulations provide only for loans on new mobile homes.

Q — Is the educational allowance I receive under the G.I. Bill taxable?

A — No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider this benefit taxable income.

Q — Does the $12,500 or 60 per cent VA loan guaranty limit the amount I can pay for a home?

A — No. You can pay as much, or borrow as much as your ability to pay. However, VA will limit its guaranty to the amount you specified.

Task Forces To Investigate Area Mental Health Problems

Several task forces were named to look into problems in the Medfield - Norwood Mental Health and Retardation Area at the board meeting held recently at the Norwood Hospital and chaired by Mrs. Barton Smith of Westwood, president. Members of the board representing the eleven towns in the Medfied - Norwood area have been enlisted to explore problems on drugs, half-way houses, tax support for services, AMIC and 750 children, community programs including clinics and alcoholism.

The re-organization of Medfield State Hospital into units and sub-units according to geographice groupings of patients, staff and facilities was presented by Dr. Robert Cseer, superintendent of Medfield State Hospital and area program director. Patients coming to Medfield State Hospital from the area will have the same staff and be housed in the same buildings. Even within the Medfield - Norwood unit staff are being assigned t othree sub-units for treatment to further localize and personalize patients with staff and community resources. John Hart, M.D., head of the Medfield - Norwood unit also participated in the discussion.

In addition, Dr. Cserr described his proposal to coordinate all mental health and retardation services, including those now provided by Medfield State Hospital, community clinics and possibly Wrentham State School into a comprehensive system in the eleven towns in the area.

The development of a comprehensive mental health plan for the area will be part of the work of the area boards mental health advisory committee, according to its chairman, Dr. Benjamin Murawski of Westwood.

Plans to approach town officials in Canton, Sharon, Walpole and Medfield for tax funds for mental retardation programs was reported by John Sullivan, Jr. of Dedham, chairman of the Mental Retardation Advisory Committee.

Task Force participants will include the following members of the area board:

Drugs: Dr. Benjamin Murawski (Westwood) and Mrs. Robert Adams (Plainville).

Half-way Houses (Harry Finkel (Sharon) and Mrs. Ellison Dodge (Canton)

Tax Support: Thomas Sell (Needham) John Sullivan, Jr. (Dedham) and Mrs. Ellison Dodge (Canton)

AMIC and 750 Children: Dr. Maurice Vanderpol (Needham)

Community Programs including clinics: Mrs. Joseph Walsh, Jr. (Westwood), Mrs. Hilda Gibson (Dedham) and Stephen Barrett (Needham).

Alcoholism: Miss Margaret Keady (Norwood) and Mrs. Eugene Nelson (Norwood).

If your old refrigerator is to be stored or discarded, take the proper precautionary steps to reduce the possibility of child entrapment. Remove the door.

Buffalo Burger A Hit in Nepal

By HARIHAR KRISHNAN

The humble hamburger, America's gift? to the world's culinary culture, finally has made it to the remote mountain country of Nepal.

Katmandu, capital of this kingdom wedged between India and China in the snowy Himalayas, now has a typical American cheeseburger and hamburger restaurant called "Aunt Jane's."

The chief source of customers is a colony of nostalgic Americans stationed in Nepal. And though the burgers are made from buffalo meat rather than beef, they taste almost like the ones in Kansas City.

"Aunt Jane's" opened July 1 in Katmandu's fashionable — by Nepal standards — district of Ganga Path. It has become an instant success, thronged by members of the diplomatic corps from both sides of the Iron Curtain, bell - bottomed youngsters, hippies, students and journalists.

The proprieter is Mrs. Jane Elliott Martin, mother of two girls and wife of James H. Martin, the director of the Peace Corps in Nepal.

"It must seem funny that a woman who set out to find a career in theater in America has now ended up opening a hamburger joint — of all places —in Katmandu," Mrs. Martin said.

The Martins were active for 10 years in local Republican politics in Albany, N.Y. James Martin was a member of the Albany County Board of Supervisors and ran for the state senate as a Republican.

Finally giving up politics and their home in Albany, they joined the Peace Corps, and Katmandu has been their home for the last nine months.

"I was getting bored doing nothing except playing bridge with the girls and gossiping with the diplomats' wives," Mrs. Martin said, stealing a few moments from her customers and her Nepali cook, Narayan Khadji, to whom she speaks in a mixture of English, Nepali and Hindustani.

"I had always wanted to do something like this — out of the ordinary — but a restaurant was the farthest thing from my mind since I hate cooking and kitchens," she added.

"The reason the burgers are buffalo burgers is it is a crime in Nepal to kill cows — sacred animals — for beef.

"It hasn't made any difference as buffalo burgers are just as tasty," Mrs. Martin said.

N.A.A. Lions Topple Wayland Warriors 28-0

The N.A.A. Lions won their fifth Pop Warner Conference League game from the Wayland Warriors 28-0 last Friday evening.

The Lions playing more aggressively since the Brookline loss, completely outplayed the Warriors in every facet of the game.

The Lions took the opening kickoff and drove 70 yards in 12 plays for the score with halfback Ed Tompkins going in from the six. Tompkins rushed the conversion for an 8-0 advantage.

On Waylands second play, the ball was ripped loose and recovered by tackle John Amicangioli. Wayland regained possession on a pass interception, however they couldn't budge the big blue defense and had to give up possession via a punt. The Lions went on a 50 yard march culminating with a score on a 15 yard pass from Matt Sabetti to end Al Flynn. Tompkins rushed the conversion and the Lions led 16-0.

In the second period, Sabetti threw a 42 yard scoring pass to Tompkins. The Lions' scoring was capped in the third period when fullback Jim Vidakis bulled in from the one.

Quarterback, Matt Sabetti played his greatest game as a quarterback. Matt, who hit on 7-10 passes for 142 yards and two touchdowns, was hampered by the fact that he was playing fullback and part - time quarterback up until three weeks ago. The intensified work in the quarterback area is beginning to come to light as Matt continues to improve. Sabetti completed two passes to Flynn, Dave Proia and Ed Tomkins and one to John Amicangiolo.

Defensively, everyone impressed and made the job of picking "Hitter of the Week" a very tough job for the coaches. However, "Richie" Steffans a diminutive defensive halfback earned laurels by making 7 unassisted "bruising tackles".

Other standouts were Mike Mosca, Frank Otten, Dave Fialkow, Joe Pepper, Jim Vizakis, Amicangioli, Sabetti, Pete Arnold, Priola, Al Flynn. Flynn is another player who made a transition of positions a few weeks back and is excelling at linebacker. The Lions return home this week to host the Sudbury Warriors at Newton Highland playground at 1:45 p.m.

In other action, the "red hot" Newton Tigers recorded their 4th consecutive shutout and pulled out an exciting 8-0 victory over the Wayland White. The Tigers are now 3-3-1. The Mustangs took it on the chin from the Wayland Reds 42-0.

In the Pee Wees, the Jets and Huskies clinched playoff berths via victories. The Jets defeated the Warriors 42-6 and the Huskies beat the Raiders 22-6.

This week the Tigers will host Sudbury on Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. On Sunday starting at 11:00 a.m. the Centre Jets and Highland Huskies will meet for the first place. The battle will preview the championship game to be played the following week. Immediately following the Mustangs will meet the Brookline Rams and then the featured Midget game between Sudbury and the Lions, and finally the Pee Wee Raiders and Warriors. All games this week will be at the Newton Highlands Playground.

Hut Bowling League Results

The Hut Bowling League recently completed the first third of their schedule at the Riverside Lanes. The League is run under the co-operation of the Newton Recreation Dept. The program provides both team competition and handicapped inndividual play.

After five weeks of exciting bowling the Chiefs(5,507) maintain an 85 pin edge over the Vikings. Andy Linn and Henry Tailliaq have complimented the play of Peter Medoff and Captain Bob Worden in leading the dquad to first.

Fighting off an early season slump, the Vikings are now challenging for the top slot. Saul Rubin and Captain Nick Siciliano along with Larry Cullen and Harold Sternberg make up the team. Those fabulous New York Giants round out the top three at 5,368. After a hot start they have fell but, they are capable of catching the leaders if they can get the hot hand for a couple of weeks. The Giants are Captain Frank Gable, Brian McDonald, Neil Levitan and Malcom MacMillian.

Rounding out the standings we have the Chargers in fourth followed by the Jets, Saints, Dolphins, and the expansionist Cowboys.

Steve Pozzi heads the list of the top bowlers. Along the way he tallied a league high, 133. He also maintains high no-mark and shares the lead in spares with Worden at 24. Mike McClary isc in second totaling 1,866 and landing a four string high of 405. A slumping Brian McDonald completes the top three.

Following are Worden at 1,807, Siciliano, Brian Cutrone, Alan Freedman, Gable, Pete Hite and MacMillian.

AIDS SCHOLARSHIPS — Planning the annual Dinner Dance of Women's Scholarship Association are (left to right) Mrs. Morton Kliman and Mrs. Marvin Milton, co-chairmen and Mrs. Stanley Golembe, President, all of Newton. The "Gay Nineties" event will be held on Saturday evening, November 13th at the Sidney Hill Country Club. Dancing will be to the music of Jerry Davis. There will be door prizes, favors, and old-fashioned entertainment. Women's Scholarship Association annually awards some $25,000 in scholarships to local girls who attend area colleges and universities.

Youth Center To Sponsor Concert-Dance This Friday

Thanks to the last minute effort of some concerned citizens, teenagers from Newton will once again have the opportunity to participate in an "Open Halloween Activity".

With the curtailment of funds this year, through the usual channels for Halloween city-wide activities, the Newton Youth Center was left with the possibility of not scheduling an activity for the first time in many years. There have been approximately 600 students present each of the past four years at the Youth Center opening program.

John Penney, upon being approached by the student leadership, started the ball rolling to gather some support through his commission and Fred Uehlein formed a citizens committee to help locate private funds to provide the youth with seed money so that they could proceed with an activity for all of Newtons' youth.

The Youth Center's Student Executive Committee, under the chairmanship of Marilee Bouzan, assisted by Michael Aronson as Vice-Chairman, Kathy Monahan as Secretary, Richard Stomberg as Treasurer, Marian Zeles and Kathi Arsenault as Program Co-Chairmen, are planning a Concert - Dance with three bands providing entertainment. Concert will be held at Warren Junior High School at 1600 Washington Street, West Newton on Friday, October 29, from 8 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. Members of all six youth centers are participting in organizing and running the program; youths from all over the city Newton are invited.

Religious Leaders At Oct. 17th Gathering Approve Pakistan Aid

At a general meeting held October 17 at Temple Shalom, member of the United Religious Social Action Leaders of Newton gave unanimous approval to a series of programs aimed at helping the millions of refugees who have fled into India to escape the devastation now taking place in their homeland, Bengla Desh (East Pakistan) and which has already taken at least a quarter million lives.

The Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders present voted to endorse and to help publicize through their churches and temples the student "Day of Fast for Bengla Desh" scheduled to take place in the schools of Newton, as well as throughout the nation, next Wednesday (Nov. 3).

Miss Liz Koss, a student from Warren Junior High who is active in the Newman House Student Social Concerns Committee, explained how students are being asked to give up their lunch on this day and instead to donate its cost to refugee relief for the seven million Bengali men, women and children who, having fled into India, now find themselves without adequate shelter, lacking medicine for the diseases with which they are racked, and literally starving to death.

As part of their own response to the leadership which these students are taking, all those present agreed to urge the churches and temples of Newton likewise to make the week of November 5 a time in which to publicize the plight of the families caught up in what has been called the "single greatest human tragedy in modern times," and in conjunction with this to take up a collection in a manner appropriate to the individual church or temple.

Among those present for this interfaith meeting at Temple Shalom were Rabbi Rothman; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lorant of the Social Action Committee of Temple Shalom; Mr. J. Wendell Yeo, Chairman of the Council of Ministries of the Centenary Methodist Church of Auburndale, with Mrs. Paul Deats of the Social Action Taskforce; Mr. Robert A. Carleo, Vice President of Newman House and Co-Chairman of the United Religious Social Action Leaders; Mr. Maurice Perlman, Chairman of the Social Action Committee of Temple Mishkan Tefila, with committee member Mr. Sidney Coven who is also a Co-Chairman of the United Religious Social Action Leaders; Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Boemer, Social Ministry Commission Co-Chairmen of the Lutheran Church of the Newtons.

Mr. Boemer is also a Co-Chairman of the United Social Action Leaders as well as moderator of the October 17 meeting.

Also: Dr. Francis Drinan, Christian Service Commission Chairman of Sacred Heart Parish; Mrs. Dee Handspicker, a member of the Christian Outreach Committee of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church; the Rev. David S. Hill of the First Methodist Church of Newton; Mrs. May Takayanagi, a representative of the Church and Community Committee of the Auburndale Congregational Church; and Dr. Stuart B. Martin, Coordinator for the United Religious Social Action Leaders as well as for the Joint Christian Service Commission Conference of Newton.

Student members present include: Mr. Mark Freudenberger from the Methodist Church; Mr. J. Howard Apelak from the Andover - Newton Theological School; and from Newman House, Mr. David Thorp, Mr. Joseph Reidy, Mr. Chris Doolin, Miss Beth Carleo, Miss Liz Koss and Miss Barbara Staszesky. Resource persons for the evening were Mrs. Louise Bruyn and Miss Marylee Hughes.

DiBenedetto To Speak On Don Quixote

Cervantes expert Dr. Ubaldo DiBenedetto, director of modern languages at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, has been invited to deliver a paper on Cervantes' classic novel, "Don Quixote," at the Annual Convention of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese on Saturday (Nov. 6) at the Hotel Statler in Boston.

The title of the paper Dr. DiBenedetto will read at the convention is "The Satirical Aspect of Don Quixote: Is Philip the Target of Cervantes' Attack?"

Dr. DiBenedetto is known for a recent study, published both in Spain and the United States, entitled "The Three Faces of Don Quixote", which was praised by scholars and critics in both Spain and the U.S.A.

Newton Students Plan Relief Day Nov. 3rd For Pakistan Refugees

Students from a number of schools through the City of Newton have been meeting at Newman House the past two weeks to organize a student Day of Fast for Bangla Desh (East Pakistan)" next Wednesday (Nov. 3). Their goal is to collect money and call public attention to the vast refugee problem being caused by the millions of persons who are being forced to flee from East Pakistan into northeastern India in order to escape death and destruction within their own homeland.

On November 3 students in the 17 high schools, junior highs and colleges located in Newton will be asked to give up their lunch and donate the money to help stem what, in the absence of truly massive and immediate aid, is well on the way to becoming the greatest human tragedy in modern times." It has been estimated that between 250,000 and 1,000,000 of the Bengali people have already died, either from wounds inflicted by West Pakistan troops, or by disease and starvation.

Kathy Putnam, a Newton High student working on this relief project, stated that: We are planning to go hungry for one day, to help men, women and children who have been starving for the past six months."

Every 20c we collect," added Naomi Goldstein from Warren Junior High, will sustain a refugee child in all his basic needs - food, medicine and shelter - for one day."

A special center for the Newton student project has been established at Newman House. Information, leaflets, posters and November 3 "pins" are available at this headquarters each school afternoon from two to four. The headquarters' phone numbers are 969-8074 and 527-8016. We are hoping," said Kathy Anderson who goes to Newton South High, that students will get in touch with us from those schools which do not yet have a Bangla Desh committee."

The funds collected will be sent to Oxfam, which is the English equilavent of CARE and probably the most experienced agency working in the refugee area. The dollars donated will be used in India to buy supplementary life-support materials: high-nutrient foods, multivitamins, powdered milk, medicines, sanitation services, basic clothing, corrugated plastic shelters and tarpaulins. What is especially appealing to us about the Oxfam effort," explained Liz Koss, who is from Warren, is that by buying materials in India, they not only get them for far less than they would by buying elsewhere and shipping, but this policy also injects cash into an already starved Indian economy."

Chriss Antonellis, who has since mid-August served as liaison for the Newman House Student Social Concerns Committee to the Friends of Bagla Desh located at Philip Brooks House in Harvard, announced that as a preliminary to the November 3 "Day of Fast," an authority on the East Pakistan situation, probably a native Bengali now residing in the United States, will be invited to speak at Newton High.

In addition to the students named above, the following have been involved in the initial organization of the November 3 project: (from Newton High) Dianne Blue, Claudia Lebel, Christine Bresnahan, Jeff Albert, Cathy Perlmutter, Willow Sheremata, Robert Smerling and Mary Ellis; (from Our Lady's High) Jack Terry, Steve Morreale and John Antonellis; (from Murray Road) Daniel Hellerstein; (Newman House Social Concerns Moderator) Barbara Staszesky.

As a final note, persons who may not be approached for a contribution by their church or temple, are invited to send a check to: Newton Students United for Bangla Desh, c-o Newman House, 442 Walnut Street, Newton 02160.

Parking Ban Reversed At Underwood

Some students and some teachers will be especially pleased with decisions made by the Street Traffic Committee at its last meeting.

Teachers at the Underwood School will now be able to park on Vernon St. between Eldredge and Baldwin Sts. from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on school days. Parking restrictions will continue for the late afternoon and evening hours.

At Boston College, parking restrictions have been lifted on both sides of Crosby St. off Commonwealth Ave., with the exception of 170 feet north of Hammond on the east side of Crosby St., and 200 feet north of Hammond on the west side of the street. These portions, where the road curves, will become tow-away zones.

On B'nai B'rith Party Committee

Several Newton members of the Mayflower Chapter of B'nai B'rith are on the committee for the organization's annual Halloween party to be held this Sunday (Oct. 31) at Boston City Hospital.

Mrs. Stanley Gaffin of Newton Centre and Mrs. Edward Cutler of Newtonville are co-chairmen of the party. Also on the committee are Stanley Gaffin, Irving Rosenthal, Mrs. Gerald Briskin, Mrs. Harry Glasky, Mrs. Morris Gordon, Mrs. Edwin Kaplan, Mrs. Martin Michelson, and Mrs Norman Stiller, all of Newton.

Installation Of New ADL Members

New officers and members of the New England Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith will be installed at the Board's annual dinner and meeting at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton next Wednesday night (Nov. 3).

The meeting will also feature an address by Benjamin R. Epstein of New York, National Director of the Anti-Defamation League. The New England Regional Board will honor Sol Kolack of Waban and Isadore Zack of Quincy for their 25 years of devoted service to the ADL in the New England Regional Office. Judge David A. Rose of Newton, Chairman of the National Executive Committee of the ADL, will speak in behalf of the Board.

Lawrence Y. Goldberg of Providence, R. I., who has resigned as chairman of the New England Regional Board to accept a position with the Nixon Administration in Washington, will turn over the chairmanship of the board to Simon Scheff of Newton, well-known Boston attorney.

Other officers and new board members who will be installed are: Chairmen for Standing Functional Committees: William I. Cowin of Newton, chairman, Civil Rights Committee, David E. Grossman of Newton, vice-chairman; William R. Sapers of Brookline, chairman, Community Service Committee, William M. Ginsburg of Brookline, vice-chairman; Arnold M. Soloway of Newton, chairman, Program Committee, Mrs. Bertram Paley of Brookline, vice-chairman; Philip Krupp of Brookline, treasurer; Sidney W. Grossman of Newton, associate treasurer.

New members of the board include Sidney L. Kirshner and Arnold Rubin of Newton and Lewis H. Miller and Harry Starr of Chestnut Hill.

Mayflower Women Meet On Nov. 3

The Women's Mayflower Chapter of the B'nai B'rith will hold a meeting Nov. 3 at Temple Reyim on Washington St. in Newton at 8:15 p.m. Guest speaker at the affair will be Miss Mary Tierney, writer for the Boston Herald-Traveler.

Co-Chairmen for the event are Mrs. Ruth Faro and Mrs. Gerda Freund. Refreshments will be served by Mrs .Vicki Members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

An acre of cotton requires up to 800,000 gallons of water.

Newton Residents To Chair Sessions At Nerem Meeting

Two Newton residents, Mr. Norman Zimbel and Mr. Jurgen Elkan, will chair sessions at the 25th IEEE-Northeast Electronics Research and Engineering Meeting which will be held November 2-5 at the Sheraton Boston Hotel and the John B. Hynes Civic Auditorium.

Mr. Zimbel has organized two sessions, "Software and the Minicomputers" and "Why A Minicomputer?" for the special NEREM conference on Computer Applications; and Mr. Elkan has organized one on "Broadband Communications."

BE PROUD

Give once. And for all.

Take pride in your community . . . and do yourself proud, by giving now to United Fund. Your one gift aids many worthwhile agencies and efforts, community wide. The ill, the aged, the needy benefit . . and so do you, for whatever helps our neighbors help our. selves. Youth and youth groups benefit . . . and so do you, for whatever helps the young helps us toward a truly brighter future. Of course, it's easier . . . to give just once. And it's better, too . . . for with just one gift, you help many.

West Newton Couple Dedicate New Student Center At Curry College

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn paid high tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Drapkin of West Newton for their contributions to higher education at the dedication of the $900,000 Frieda and Joseph Drapkin Student Center at Curry College in Milton, on Wednesday, Oct. 20.

Speaking at a dedication luncheon in the new facility, Mr. Quinn said, I am here to acknowledge the honor paid to Frieda and Joseph Drapkin for their kindness and generosity to Curry College and its student body."

The state official said, I have always championed higher education in Massachusetts because we should offer educational opportunities beyond high school to all of our young people. And I am referring especially to private higher education.

One of New England's particular strengths," the attorney general continued, has always been in private higher education. It is extremely important now more than ever that private higher education be supported."

In closing, the attorney general turned to the Drapkins and said, "This event was made possible by this wonderful couple. I'm proud I live in the same community with people like you."

President John S. Hafer of the College introduced the attorney general and presided at both luncheon and the outdoor ceremonies. Mrs. Drapkin unveiled the name plate on the exterior of the 20,000 square-foot brick structure.

Tribute to the Drapkins was paid by Dr. Leo C. Donahue, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the College, and Timothy Garvey, President of the College's Student Senate. Donald S. McNeil, Director of Development at the College,described the structure.

The new Frieda and Joseph Drapkin Student Center contains a number of facilities, foremost, of which is the student dining hall, capable of seating 450 persons. In addition, there is a snack bar which can seat 76 persons and a small dining room with a capacity of 68 seats.

Other facilities in the building include a commuting students' lounge containing locker facilities for 375 students; a modern bookstore, and the campus post office.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

First Baptist Church Arts Festival Continues Sunday

Dr. Gene E. Bartlett will preach on the subject "Finding Church Again" at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre during the 10 a.m. worship service this Sunday (Oct. 31).

At 6:30 p.m. the Fall Arts Festival will continue with a showing of the film "The Island" which tells of one man's family struggle for survival as the sole inhabitants of a small island.

Next Wednesday (Nov. 3) at 1:45 p.m. an instrumental concert will be presented at the church by high school students from the Newton area. Kathleen O'Donnell, Flute, Margaret O'Donnell, Oboe, Susan Blank, Cello, and Frances Bayes, Piano will present works by Vivaldi, Albioni and Hindemith. Kathleen, Margaret and Susan are members of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra, and all four girls attend Newton High School. Kathleen will solo in the Hindemith Sonata for Flute, Margaret will solo in Albioni Sonata for Oboe, and the four girls will play the Vivaldi Concerto in D minor.

Susanne Peck, Violin, and Joseph Singer, Piano, students at Newton South High School, will play "Frasquita" by Fritz Kreisler. Joseph will perform the First Movement of Sonata Op. 13 ("Pathetique") by Beethoven.

Another feature of the Arts Festival is its second art exhibit in the church chapel, consisting of works submitted by artists of high school age from Newton, from the Marlboro schools, and the Museum School in Boston. The exhibit is open Monday through Friday from 2-4:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited to view the exhibits and attend any of the Festival events.

ENEMY OF EXCESS FAT — Edith Berman, author of brand new book, "How To Stay 10 Pounds Slimmer", is the co-founder of The Diet Workshop and will be at the main office on 317 Washington St. in Newton Corner at 8:00 P.M. on Nov. 3rd. She is currently touring the country and appearing on radio and television telling about her struggle with her own 75 pound loss and how she locks her refrigerator at night in order to keep her weight off!

Workshop Co-Founder To Speak Here November 3rd

Edith Berman, the author of a brand new book called "How to Stay Ten Pounds Slimmer" (based on the Diet Workshop guide to weight maintenance, published by MacMillan in September), will address the Newton Diet Workshop office on 317 Washington Street, Newton Corner. The public will be welcome without charge to hear her speak.

This book provides a new conept in weight control for those people who may wish to lose ten pounds or less and for those dieters who've lost their unwanted pounds and who now want to learn how to really stay thin without giving up enjoyable eating. After all, losing weight is only half the battle, keeping it off is the real test of a good diet.

The diet plans used in this book are approved by Dr. Morten B. Glenn, past president of The American College of Nutrition. He is quoted as saying, "This book truly presents a way of staying thin. It makes a major contribution in the area of weight control that is least understood; the problem of true weight maintenance."

The author, Edith Berman of Lincoln, is the Director of Research and Development and Co-Founder of The Diet Workshop, and she has conquered her own weight problem by losing 75 pounds and then maintaining that loss for over 5 years. She has worked tirelessly to develop new and unique methods for dealing with the difficulties involved in weight problems in people of all ages.

Anyone wishing to attend may do so at no charge and more information may be obtained by calling 244-5847 in Newton. Mrs. Berman will welcome questions and will be available for discussion after her talk.

Cribbage Board Display At The Newton Library

Cribbage boards abound at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, where Barrie S. Greiff, M.D., of Newton Highlands has lent his collection for display.

A triangular cribbage board, a box board that folds for traveling as well as a copper and nickel board with ivory markers made in England are part of the collection.

Other boards vary from a rectangular with sophisticated ivory inlay to one with carved clapsed hands made by men at the Portsmouth Naval Prison about 50 years ago.

Dr. Greiff's avocation developed as he browsed in antique shops with his wife Carole, an avid antique buff. Anyone interested in talking about cribbage boards should call him at 527-2798.

The Cribbage boards together with a complementary book selection will remain on view through mid-November at the Main Libary.

The committee members for the event are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. William Barr, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Mael, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiner and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Tenenbaum.

Further information may be had by calling 244-6129.

Jefferson Asks Tenant Rep for NHA

Alderman Matthew Jefferson has urged fellow members of the Aldermanic Housing Committee to consider asking for the appointment of a tenant representative to the Newton Housing Authority.

Most committee members were cool to the proposal because at present it would require denial of the Mayor's appointment of Mrs. Donna Berman to the NHA.

There are only five slots on the Housing Authority, and the aldermen, according to Solicitor Melvin Dangel, do not have the power to expand the size of the board. The city's next opportunity to appoint a new member to the Authority will not come until 1973.

Aldermen Jefferson and Joseph M. McDonnell pointed out that if Mrs. Berman's appointment is approved, "it will foreclose the possibility of having a tenant represeentative."

Declaring that Mrs. Berman is "the most qualified candidate that has come along within my memory," Alderman Alan S. Barkin expressed reluctance to postpone approval of her appointment. No action was taken on the suggestion.

Laymen's Sunday At Upper Falls Churcr Oct. 31

The First United Methodist Church of Newton Upper Falls will observe Laymen's Sunday on October 31st. The 10:45 a.m. worship service will be conducted by Herbert Downs, Lay Leader, and Kenneth Newcomb.

The sermon will be given by Mr. Newcomb, who will speak on the topic, "The Winds of Change." The Choir will be directed by Mrs. Anne Melvin, with Mrs. Betty Southwick, the new organist, playing.

On Sunday evening, October 31, members of the First United Methodist Church will attend a joint Mission Program on Africa at Central Congregational Church, Newtonville. The program begins at 6:30 with refreshments, and the speakers will be Edward and Shirley Deweolf on the topic, "Rhodesian Reminiscences." Those interested in attending may contact Mrs. Richard Anderson (332-4882).

This is the first of three programs; the other two will be held at November 7 and 14 at the same place.

Named To Board Of Trustees Of Industrial Fund

Mr. Lawrence L. Suttenberg of 5 Montrose Street, Newton has recently been appointed to the Board of Trustees of the Horace Cousens Industrial Fund, by His Honor Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

Arts and Crafts At Newton YMCA

The Newton YMCA offers two exciting programs in Arts and Crafts. The first class is a Crafts program for children 5 through 7 years old. The second class is a crafts program for children 5 through 7 years old. The second class is a crafts program for children 8 years old and up.

The instructor for these classes is Laura Ives, a resident of Newton. Miss Ives is a crafts major at Mass. College of Art. Her work experience in this area has been a Crafts Instructor at the Newton YMCA, Camp Meadowbrook, and a ceramics instructor at the Williams Elementary School in Auburndale.

The classes will begin next Thursday (Nov. 4) for 6 weeks. Class enrollment is limited. Registration must be in person at the Newton YMCA. For information about the classes, contact the Newton Y at 244-6050, or drop in during Youth Department business hours 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

WILLIAM I. COWIN

Cowin Cited At Jr. Chamber Of Commerce Affair

William I. Cowin, Newton, State Secretary of Consumer Affairs, was chosen as one of the three Outstanding Young Men of New England at the 23rd Annual Convention of the New England States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Cowin, 33, has worked as Legislative Aide to U.S. Senator Edward W. Brooke, and as Special Counsel to Boston Mayor Kevin H. White. He was chosen earlier this year as one of four Outstanding Young Men of 1971 by the Mass. Junior Chamber of Commerce.
merce.

Mr. Cowin lives at 85 Country Club Rd. with his wife, the former Judith Arnold of Waban.

Named Physician On NEMCH Staff

Dr. Shapur Naimi of Chestnut Hill has been appointed a Physician, Cardiology Service, on the full-time staff of New England Medical Center Hospitals.

His promotion from the post of Assistant Physician to Physician was announced by the hospitals' Executive Director, David L. Everhart.

Dr. Naimi also is an Associate Professor in Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. Naimi graduated from the Birmingham University School of Medicine in England with high honors in 1953 and remained there six years for postgraduate training. He came to the United States in 1959 when he began his long affiliation with Tufts-New England Medical Center, first in a research capacity at NEMCH.

He resides at 265 Woodland road.

Newton City Committee OKs GOP Candidate Recruitment

The Newton Republican City Committee last week gave its full support to the Candidate Recruitment Committee established by the Massachusetts Republican State Committee. The purpose of the new committee is to locate qualified candidates to run for House and Senate seats in 1972.

"The creation of a Candidate Recruitment Committee," declared Julius L. Masow, Chairman of the Newton GOP, "is an effective step in the direction of making the party visible in more contests throughout the state. We in Newton certainly support the move."

Speaking of registration figures "which are directly related to primary election activities," Mason said.

"We have reason to believe that there are many more Republicans than the voter registration records now reflect. A good many voters now registered as 'Independents' have strong Republican leanings. They are not identified as Republicans because of the lack of primary contests. Primary contests would bring these voters to the polls in support of their particular candidates and thus result in their enrollment as Republicans."

"The Newton Republican City Committee," Masow added, "feels that we should encourage contests among Republicans to stimulate this primary action."

"We are also urging the State Committee to encourage all local committees to give equal recognition to all Republican candidates prior to the primaries. In our opinion, such action will stimulate interest in such contests. The coming election year of 1972 finds Republican policies and administration winning increasing public favor and we should move to improve the party enrollment figures."

A resolution stating these points was voted by the City Committee and sent to the Chairman of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee.

-Political Highlights-

But the hard fact is that if Alabama Governor George Wallace stays out of the Presidential race, there will not be any place for the conservatives to go except into the Nixon camp.

Whether President Nixon could draw any substantial support from the young voters, regardless of who his Vice Presidential running mate is, is another question. There is considerable doubt that he can.

When Mr. Nixon signed into law a bill allowing boys and girls between 18 and 21 to vote, he handed over a big advantage to the Democratic party, in the opinion of most political pundits.

Election officials in many Massachusetts communities estimate that about half the eligible youths in that age bracket are taking advantage of the right to register as voters.

Of course, there is no real reason they should do so in communities which have no elections this year, and the percentage of youths registered probably will rise before next year's Presidential election.

But the likelihood is that President Nixon will have a difficult time drawing a respectable percentage of the new vote which he was partly responsible for creating.

Black Candidate On Ballot Would Aid Nixon's Chances

President Nixon's chances of achieving reelection to a second term will be improved if Georgia State Representative Julian Bond is correct in his flat statement that there will be a black third candidate for President on the ballot next year.

Bond, incidentally, received some delegate support at the 1968 Democratic national convention in Chicago even though he was not old enough to serve as President.

Representative Bond is opposed to running a black candidate for the Presidency in 1972 but told a group of reporters at a recent breakfast in Washington that he is certain one will be on the ballot.

He would prefer a "deal" with one of the Democratic candidates for President, under which the candidate would be promised the solid support of the black delegates at the convention and the backing of key black politicians in the campaign in return for a large number of top-level appointments in his administration if he were elected.

While Bond did not say so, it was evident to his listeners that he believes the presence of a black man on the ballot not only would make the "deal" less attractive to the Democratic candidate but also would reduce the likelihood that a Democratic President would be elected.

In recent Presidential elections the black vote has gone overwhelmingly to the Democratic candidate. A black candidate obviously would cut heavily into the black vote.

The proposed "deal," to which Bond referred in his breakfast talk, has been discussed at three meetings of prominent black politicians, including Mr. Bond.

See Denial of Free Speech At Northeastern University

The action of Northeastern University officials, in cancelling ceremonies planned to dedicate a building named in honor of John A. Volpe, former Governor and now the Secretary of Transportation in President Nixon's Cabinet, was deplorable and reflects poorly on the manner in which that university is being administered.

It was a denial of free speech and open discussion, two of the hallmarks of any great university, and it dealt a devastating blow to the prestige of Northeastern University—a blow from which the institution will be a long time recovering.

In accordance with custom, the person, in whose honor a building is being named, picks the principal speaker, and Volpe chose U.S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The Northeastern Student Council voted to stage a demonstration against Mr. Mitchell but notified university officials that it would be a peaceful one.

University officials then called off the dedication, declaring that they did so because of the threat of violence and the fear that the campus would be invaded by outside radicals and that someone might be injured.

In effect, the Northeastern University officials conceded that they can't dedicate one of their own buildings in orderly fashion because the speaker at the exercises was to have been a controversial public figure.

Student leaders now are critical of the action in cancelling the dedication program, asserting they were not challenging Mr. Mitchell's right to speak. But they obviously are trying to absolve themselves of any responsibility for an unfortunate incident.

Who Should Get New Jobs? Federal Funds Fan Dispute

The state-wide president of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees has charged that the city is not following federal priorities in hiring under the Emergency Manpower Act.

According to the Manpower Act, first preference for the 25 new municipal positions created under the $216,000 federal grant is to go to Vietnam and Vietnam-era veterans, the handicapped, welfare recipients, and unemployed or under-employed Newton residents.

The union official Howard V. Doyle, contends that Newton is using the federal funding to "supplement its budget," rather than to employ the jobless.

In letters to Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas and to the Regional Manpower Administration, Doyle complained that the city dismissed 14 street department employees at the same time it began hiring under the new program.

Mayor Basbas replied that the purpose of the Act was to stimulate the hiring of unemployed professionals for positions in city government.

Recently dismissed street department workers were temporary summer employees, he said, and were laborers not qualified for new positions created with the aid of federal funding.

New positions created with the aid of the federal funds include a computer programmer, a traffic engineer, a personnel director, and an assistant public works director, as well as five firemen, six policemen, and a policewoman.

Federal law provides that no more than one-third of those hired may be professionals.

A Vietnam-era veteran, a Board member of the Chamber of Commerce, and a secretary, are the first of the 25 to be hired under the Manpower grant.

Newton contributes $24,100, or 10 per cent, for a total Manpower hiring budget in Newton of $241,000.

Contradicting the implication that Street Department laborers could not be transferred into the newly created professional positions, Louis Rufo, president of Local 800 of the Municipal Employees' Council, declared that the city's assistant street commissioner began as a city laborer.

Rufo added that the purpose of the Manpower Act is to provide work for "people who have a hard time finding jobs," such as non-English-speaking persons.

Alderman William Carmen also criticized the city's implementation of the Manpower Act. Funds should be used to hire additional trash collectors, he declared, charging that the transfer of city workers from other departments to trash collection had created a cutback of services such as street-cleaning and collection of fallen leaves.

Dr. Potter Is Director Of Music For Play

The Newton Country Players have tapped noted musicologist Dr. Sewell B. Potter of Newton Centre as music and choral director for their initial production of the season, a musical detective story for children entitled "Sam Stiller, Private Eye" or "Footprints on the River".

The original "who-dunnit" for youngsters of elementary school age is directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill and the next matinee performance is slated for Sunday. Oct. 31, at 2:30 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton. Gratuity is 75 cents per person.

Author of several textbooks in music, Dr. Potter has instructed in the many phases of this subject at Salem State College (Mass.), Johnson Teachers College (Johnson, Vt.) and at Curry College (Milton, Mass.), where he held the position of Professor of music.

He has directed music for a number of community theatre productions including "Guys and Dolls", "Man of La Mancha", Ausky's "The Dybbuk" and Goldfaden's "Die Macheskefeh" (The Witch). This summer, in his capacity as executive director of the Nantasket Youth Center, he composed music for and directed a musical version of Paddy Cheyefsky's "The Tenth Man".

Educated at Boston Latin School and Harvard University, Dr. Potter holds a PhD in Musicology. Additional training in composition was received at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. His extensive educational background also includes the study of piano with Nicholas Slonimsky, Hans Ebell and Jesus Maria Sanroma; harmony with Walter Piston; and composition with Gardner Reade and Irving Fine.

Previous children's plays produced by the group, embarking on their 16th year of community theatre activity, include "The Sleeping Princess", "Mr. Pepper's Penguin" and "The Tale of the Donkey."

The Newton Country Players are a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents, who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels. President of the Players is Mrs. Margaret Annis of Newtonville

For additional information concerning individual membership or theatre party sponsorship, call Mrs. Annis at 244-3507 or write to P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159.

Cyclist Sees Bike Thefts Providing Funds for Drugs

Possibility of a link between drug abuse and the rash of bicycle thefts that continue to plague the Newtons has been advanced recently by a Newton man.

Richard Bostwick of 103 Ripley Street, Newton Centre, is a semi - professional cyclist who also maintains that this form of thievery is likely to intensify before it corrects itself.

A Polaroid empoyee who cycles to Cambridge, weather permitting, each day, he declares that bike thefts are not confined to Newton and adjacent suburbs and that thieves operate in urban and exurban settings and on an interstate level as well.

Bostwick is preisent of the Charles River Whellmen association, a leisure - time group of dedicated cyclists. He has close acquaintanceship with the world of bicycling, and states unequivocally that the existence of a black market in bicycles, particularly expensive European imports, is an accepted fact in cycling circles. But proof worthy of official investigation is lacking at this time, he said.

"I believe there is a clear connection between drugs and bike thefts," he said in a recent interview. "A good bike can be turned into ready cash almost instantly. The drug user is in constant need of funds. And stealing a bike is like stealing candy from a baby — it's far less risky than breaking and entering."

Blackmarket prices, according to Bostwick, confirm the crime-link theory. They are dumping prices, frequently 80 per cent below list price. A ten-gear Raleigh racer costing roughly $275 at legitimate rental can be picked up in the underground for as little as $70 he maintained.

A number of gangs or rings are suspected, Bostwick said. He told of a fellow Wheelman who, robbed of a costly hand-built cycle, contacted a gang leader whose whereabouts he had learned through the cycling underground. He got the right gang but not the right bike. It had gone quickly to a no-questions - asked buyer.

Charles River Wheelmen attracts members from the reaches of the greater metropolitan area. There is a strong Newton contingent. Members are men (70 percent) and women (30 percent) who have advanced from amateur enjoyment of cycling. The rite of passage is usually marked, Bostwick explained, by purchase of a ten-gear as opposed to a three-gear cycle.

Endurance and speed divide membership into three categories: leisure, intermediate and road racer. Several Newtonites are among the 275-body membership.

Alderman Allan Barkin of 540 Parker Street, Newton Centre is the most prominent local member. Other buffs include: Edward J. Hirschman of 72 Withington Road, Newtonville; Mrs. Gloria Jaffe and family of 8 Bullough Park, Newtonville; Veronica Lanzier of 288 Auburndale Ave., Auburndale; the Edison Trumbull family of 19 Chase Avenue, West Newton; David and Ellen Zavadil of 83 Herrick Road, Newton Centre; and Michele Zibit of 48 Farquahr R., Newtonville.

The program is uncomplicated and is structured around group rides in scenic and-or challenging terrain. Rides are geared for leisure, intermediate or road racer cyclists. While leisure riders may do 25 miles on a given tour, the intermediate cyclist may chalk up 50-75 miles. According to Wheelman Vice President Rodney Huck frequent stops at ice cream stands are a requisite for good riding.

A sampling of this fall's tours included a leisure ride through Bedford, Carlisle and Billerica; a 30-mile ride through West Newbury, Amesbury, Merrimac and Newburyport; and a 50-mile turn through the Halifax, Plympton, Carver area. The annual Century and Half-Century rides involving distances of 100 and 50 miles respectively are a seasonal climax.

Several Wheelmen are long - distance cyclists. Two recorded a run from Seattle to St. Louis last summer. Another pair have become sufficiently engrossed in cycling to launch new careers in bicycle shops.

The Wheelman's season is punctuated by a series of meetings of a semi - educational nature. This year they are being held in the Lars Andersen Auto Museum in Brookline. The museum has a good selection of historic bicycles including the mid - nineteenth century "bone-shaker." No major changes have been made in basic bicycle structure since the turn - of - the - century.

President Bostwick explains the lure and present popularity of cycling this way:

"A 19th century cycling enthusiast described bicycling as the most independent of sports — and correctly I think. You can enjoy solitude with only the company of the bike, and it can match any mood in which you may approach it."

For persons who wish to cycle with like - minded peers, the Wheelmen tours are a logical step. About 30 riders gather for a given tour, Bostwick estimated. Hard-core cyclists will ride to starting locations, sometimes 50 miles from Boston by bike. Less hardy members travel by cars outfitted with bike racks.

Bostwick maintains that bicycling has replaced jogging, as the country's "pop" sport for logical reasons. "Jogging is fine but you can only go so far," the Newtonite said. Cycling, he suggests, has almost limitless horizons, citing as a case in point a European bike tour the Wheelmen are considering for next summer.

Bicycling is a low-cost sport, Bostwick added. A good ten-gear bike can be had for about $125 (although custom-made jobs for the deeply committed may run to three times that amount). Sunglasses rather than specially - ground goggles, racing shoes and toe clamps, gloves, possibly a regulation hockey helmet for crash protection, shorts for man and sweat suits for cold weather are maximum sophistications for the cyclist.

Cycling also provides pleasant and inexpensive transportation, Bostwick said. He views his ride to work as an efficiency, combining travel time and exercise time. He has frequently soared past traffic jams on Commonwealth Avenue feeling, in his words, "not superior but far more fortunate."

The theft problem currently cancels out cycling's other main advantage: no parking hassles. Bostwick is against on - street parking, recommending that cycles be taken inside buildings whenever possible. Bike should be locked to stablized objects (pipes, posts, etc.) Heavy motorcycle chains coated in rubber are now considered the best protectors.

Bostwick warned that bike thieves will steal saddles, gears, wheels as well as the form itself. Bolt - cutters currently in use make butter of the most intricate locks, he said. If a bike must be left outside, he advised, lock it in a well-lighted spot so the would-be thief can be seen before he succeeds.

Bicycling is a healthy sport and a relatively safe one, the Newton man maintained. Traffic isn't the big hazard. "It's smaller things like wet leaves, sewer gratings in which wheels can get caught, car doors opened suddenly or loose - running dogs that cause the freak accidents," he said.

Several Wheelmen now wear and advocate helmets following a tragic death this summer: a cyclist, totally, unprotected, catapulted over the handlebars after a dog attack; a split skull and death resulted.

LEADS WHEELMEN'S CLUB — Richard Bostwick of 103 Ripley Road, Newton Centre, is a semi-professional cyclist who suggests link between drug users and local bicycle thefts. Bostwick heads Charles River Wheelmen's club.

Debate But No Decision On Low-Income Housing

The topic of low - income housing moved back and forth like a badminton shuttlecock at the meeting of the Aldermanic Finance Committee.

Aldermen in a joint meeting of the Housing and Finance Committees debated the merits of a proposed $5000 study of housing needs, discussed the possibility of building low-income housing on the sites of present substandard tenements, and advanced a proposal to require privately developed housing to conform to Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) standards, but after two hours of back - and - forth argument, took no action in the sphere of low-income housing.

On the proposed housing study: Alderman Louis I. Egelson Jr. argued that "we owe it to our citizens" to have a "more accurate" study based on the newly available 1970 census data.

"We study things to death," was the reply from members of the Finance Committee. "We've committed ourselves to 200 units, and we haven't got any yet," charged Board President Wendell R. Bauckman.

On low-income housing in the Newton Lower Falls Redevelopment area, Alderman Egelson stated that he'd like to see the number of units reduced from the present plans for 68 units. No other community has more than four," he maintained.

On the proposed Crescent St. site, abutting the Myrtle Baptist Church, several aldermen declared themselves opposed to any low-income housing on the site. "Let's not aggravate a difficult situation," remarked Alderman Alan S. Barkin.

Asserting that people in the area refuse to hear of housing on the site unless the Recreation Department's truck garage is removed, some aldermen commented that the Mayor is getting figures on how much it would cost to relocate the depot at another site.

On the Victory Field site, Egelson said that the Nonantum Improvement Association had agreed not to oppose 24 units of housing built by a private developer. Egelson stated interest in a plan proposed by developer John Matthews, to offer six units of low-income housing in duplexes scattered around the city, in return for permission to build 24 units on Victory Field.

"Our objective is to build low-income housing not just to let the Housing Authority build it," Egelson maintained, favoring a private developer approach.

In reply to the argument that Housing Authority planned to put up a better quality structure than those proposed by private developers, Egelson suggested that private developers be required to conform to MHFA standards.

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell replied: "I'm the alderman from the ward (Ward 1), and I say four units and the rest open space."

Added McDonnell: "If we let the Housing Authority build a few units, people will see that it's not so terrible, and the opposition would diminish at least 10 decibels."

Alderman Matthew Jefferson, also opposed to private development of the land, said: "The private developers don't build for families. If we do give this to a private developer, I'm going to insist "on family housing, not these one and two - bedroom apartments."

On taking substandard housing for Housing Authority sites, Egelson suggested removal of a Dalby St. building, and replacing it with housing for the elderly, "which the people in the area would accept."

"First you have to have relocation housing," was McDonnell's reply.

Egelson also suggested tearing down boarded-up tenements across from the Davis School on Waltham St.

Asking aldermen to bury their differences and agree on three of the proposed sites, Wendell Bauckman, president of the Board of Aldermen, pleaded: "If we can agree o three sites, at least we've broken the schism. We've been wrestling over 4 units. I cannot comprehend how people can oppose four units of housing."

On the Circuit Rd. (Upper Falls) site: Alderman Adelaide B. Ball declared staunch opposition to having low-income housing mixed with the housing for the elderly slated for the area.

Asserted Alderman Harry Walen: "Upper Falls is in the middle of intensive urban renewal. We're not going to let them unload 40 more (low-income) families into that elderly project."

When reminded by Bauckman that "we're talking about four units, not 40," Walen retorted, "And I'm talking zero."

After further discussion, however, Walen declared himself ready to consider compromise plans.

Some aldermen contended that before housing proposals were approved for any area of the city, there should be further public hearings.

"If you listen to the people in any area of the city, you wouldn't do anything," maintained Barkin.

"And that," said Alderman Jason Sacks, "is exactly what we've done."

School Committee Disputes City Figures on Tax Rate

The impact of School Department expenses on the tax rate has been exaggerated by some city officials, School Committee Members charged Tuesday night.

Based on figures presented by John E. Gilleland, Assistant Superintendent for Business Services, the contribution of school expenses to the tax rate was $58.80, or less than half the tax rate, as compared with $62.80 for other municipal expenses.

In another phase of Gilleland's report on school expenditures, performance bonds for school maintenance and construction contracts were scored as a nuisance, a delay, and an added expense.

"Seven projects are being delayed" including installation of bleachers and six carpets because of difficulty in finding a bondsman to insure the contract, Gilleland declared. The schools were almost prevented from providing transportation for handicapped children, Gilleland added. "We had made arrangements with an exemplary contractor, but the insurance company suddenly just decided not to take on that kind of insurance any more."

When there is a dispute about performance of a contract, as with roofing contracts, bonds prove "uncollectable", Gilleland maintained. "We pay two or three cents per foot for roofing bonds, but if even a bird walks on the roof, it's a violation of the bond. These bonds aren't worth the paper they're written on."

School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith suggested a meeting of Gilleland, School Committee members and representatives of the City Solicitor's Office to discuss possible recommendations for changes in the state laws requiring performance bonds for school construction.

In other action, the School Committee approved a request by the BBC (British television) to film the Emerson School poetry class of Miss Susan Rioff as part of a documentary on young artists, discussed whether a school custodian may donate his time to an organization meeting in a school facility, and questioned the defacto policy of open enrollment or "shopping around" for kindergarten classes.

For six additional consecutive weeks classes in a wide variety of subjects will be held and a prominent member of the Greater Boston community will lecture each evening, followed by a brief coffee hour.

On November 2 the speaker will be Dr. Uri Ra'anan, Professor International Politics, Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy who will speak on "Soviet Policy in the Middle East." Dr. Ra'anan is also an Affiliate of the Center of International Studies at M.I.T. and an Associate of the Russian Research Center at Harvard.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

All are invited to the Sunday services at First Church of Christ Scientist at 391 Walnut st., Newtonville, which will begin at 10:45 a.m. The aspect of the nature of sin, which like the Halloween mask that hides one's face, obscures one's true identity, will be brought out at Christian Science services in the Bible Lesson-sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment."

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be read: "The likeness of God we lose sight of through sin, which beclouds the spiritual sense of Truth; and we realize this likeness only when we subdue sin and prove man's heritage, the liberty of the sons of God."

"But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end and everlasting life," a Bible selection states.

Dr. Fraser To Speak At Goodwill Industries' Dinner November 18

Doris S. Fraser, Ph.D., of Auburndale, newly appointed Director of the Massachusetts Bureau of Developmental Disabilities, will be the featured speaker at the 46th annual dinner program of the Springfield Goodwill Industries.

The event will be held at the Willow Glen House Restaurant, East Longmeadow, Thursday, Nov. 18.

Dr. Fraser is widely known in her specialized field as author, speaker and administrator.

During the past four years, she has been in the state government, serving as a Consultant on retardation in the Office of Planning and Program Coordination, and since 1968, as Director of the Bureau of Retardation in the Executive Office for Administration and Finance. The Bureau of Retardation now becomes the Bureau of Developmental Disabilities.

Prior to entering public service, she was the Coordinator of the Massachusetts Mental Retardation Planning Project, which was conducted by the Medical Foundation, Inc., in Boston. She was also associated with the Law - Medicine Institute, Boston University, and the Mental Health Commission of the Massachusetts General Court.

Dr. Fraser received her Bachelor's Degree from McGill University, and holds a Master's degree in Social Service from Boston University. She is also the recipient of a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Brandeis University, class of 1971.

Born in Canada, Dr. Fraser has resided in Newton for 13 years.

Granted Early College Leave

Bernice L. Auslander (Mrs. Maurice), assistant professor of mathematics at Wellesley College and a resident of Everett Street, Newton, was on early leave from the College for the academic year 1971-72. Wellesley College grants early leave to junior members of the faculty to allow them to continue study and research before the traditional sabbatical year.

During her leave, Mrs. Auslander spent the fall term at the University of Illinois in studies of algebra and mathematical economics, and divided the spring term between Queen Mary College of London University and the London School of Economics. She ended the year's leave with participation in a conference in Germany.

Mrs. Auslander holds the B.A. degree from Barnard, the M.S. degree from the University of Chicago, and the Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

Saltonstall In Post To Aid 'Y' Building

Senator Leverett Saltonstall has accepted the position of Chairman of the Citizens' Committee in the "Y" Building Fund Campaign for Newton and the Western Suburbs.

General Chairman, Newton Mayor, Monte G. Basbas, made the announcement at a special meeting in his office attended by the Senator, Building Fund Associate Chairman Lawrence L. Sutenberg and William F. Quinn, Robert G. Hennemuth, Associate Chairman, Corporations, John Underhill, Jr., Associate Chairman, Weston and Chester L. Mosher, Executive Director of the Newton "Y".

The Citizens' Committee, which will ultimately number several hundreds, will function within many communities served by the "Y". Its members will serve as a "voice" for the "Y" in their communities, interpreting the role of the "Y", the necessity for expanding "Y" services through new and larger facilities, and encouraging broad and generous support of the "Y" Building Fund Campaign.

Replying to the Mayor's enthusiastic endorsement of his acceptance, Senator Saltonstall insisted that the need for a new "Y" was acute. "Unfortunately," he said, "the existing facilities are more than sixty years. old and much too small. There just isn't enough room for all those who would like to participate. This situation must be corrected." He urged everyone "to support this advaneurt in good citizenship."

The Senator is the most recent leader to respond to the Newton "Y"s desperate need for new and expanded facilities. At present, 15,000 persons each year -- from Newton, Wellesley, Weston and 91 other communities within a 20 mile radius--are being crowded into a building that was constructed 60 years ago to accomodate 1,500 young men.

As a consequence, membership is limited, outside organizations often must be denied use of the facilities, and the development of new activities has had to be curtailed. In a time when membership needs continue to grow, the "Y" is unable to grow without a substantial increase in its building and facilities.

Selective solicitation toward the Building Fund goal of $3,000,000 has already begun with the "Y" Family; Trustees, Directors, Staff, the Business Men's Athletic Club, the "Y" Ladies Auxiliary, etc. Assistance will be sought from business and industry as well as local and national foundations.

Campaign leaders insist, however, that success depends upon the total community effort, both from those who know and use the "Y" and those who recognize its value to the community, whether they use it or not.

Under the Chairmanship of Mayor Monte G. Basbas, a campaign leadership cadre of 43 men and women has been recruited, representing all the primary communities served by "Y". Campaign solicitation will begin just after the first of next year and conclude by June.

Takes Chairman Post

Former U.S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall accepts chairmanship of the Citizen's Committee from Mayor Monte G. Basbas, general chairman of Newton "Y's" Building Fund campaign.

Church Women United Mark World Day Here

World Community Day will be observed by Church Women United in Newton on Friday, November 5, at 10 a.m. at St. Philip Neri Church, Beacon Street, Waban.

Mrs. William W. Carpenter of Auburndale, who is the Celebration Leader, explains that the theme for this world-wide observance is "Build a New Earth."

To dramatize the waste and pollution that are practiced by most of us, everyone who attends this meeting is asked to bring some trash which has been found in our yards, on the sidewalks, streets, or playgrounds of our city and, from this, a monstrous rubbish sculpture will be created by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brewer.

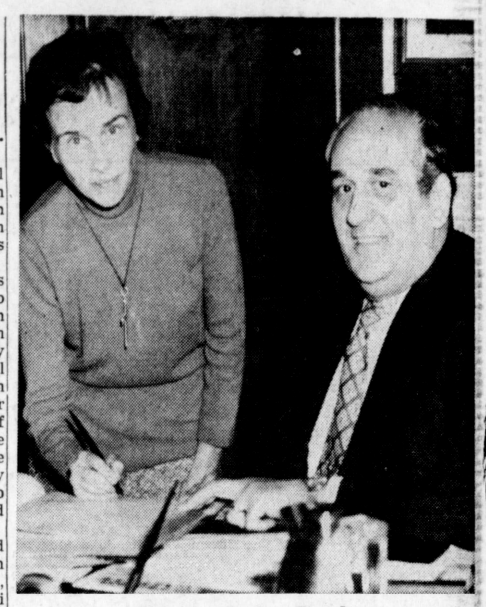

After a brief business meeting, Mrs. Carpenter will introduce the speaker, Mrs. Rita Barron, Water Resources Chairman for the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts and also Director and Information and Education Chairman for the Newton Conservators, who has chosen as her topic, "Conservation in Newton - Who Needs It?"

The prayer service will consist of a chorus of women from various churches in Newton who will participate in a litany stressing the world's ecological problems.

The offering from this meeting will go to Intercontinental Mission Projects approved by Church Women United. The money will be used for ecological causes such as the ministry in the national parks; also for regional conferences of African Women at which these women will plan for the improvement of community and national life, and for aid to Minority groups in the United States.

Coffee will be served following the meeting with Mrs. William H. Harney, Jr., President of St. Philip Neri Guild, heading up the hostesses who are to be Mrs. Cosmo Camoscio, Mrs. James Fitzgerald, Mrs. Dominic Franchi and Mrs. Steven Umina.

All interested women in Newton are cordially invited to attend.

School Enrollment Likely To Drop 8 Per Cent By '75

By 1975, four years from now, there will probably be 1400 fewer students in Newton schools, according to a report presented to the School Committee Tuesday night by Vincent Silluzio, School Department Director of Research and Evaluation.

This anticipated eight per cent drop in enrollment is due to a sharp decline in the birth rate. In 1954, when the present senior class was born, there were 1800 births in Newton. In 1970, there were only 944.

Despite an influx of more than 200 parochial school transfer students, city-wide enrollment declined by 287 students this year.

Assignments of sixth-grade elementary school students to junior high schools have been adjusted to balance out available space, Silluzio explained. Sixth graders from Angier were sent to Meadowbrook rather than Warren Junior High School, and half the Ward School sixth graders, who previously went on to Weeks, have been sent to Bigelow. Taken together, the Angier, Beethoven, Bowen, Hyde, Memorial, and Peirce Schools had a total drop in enrollment of 200 students.

Various methods of equalizing classroom size were discussed by the school committee, including combination kindergarten - grade 1 classrooms, use of teacher aides, and elimination or transfer of teaching positions.

Principal Arthur Laughland of the Hyde School in Newton Highlands told the committee that an unanticipated enrollment of 24 students in kindergarten classes (due to entrance of 9 pupils after Sept. 1) had been offset at least for the fall semester by the addition of a student teacher, a work-study student, and a college student volunteer, but cautioned that the addition of student aids was a "stop-gap measure".

Referring to a previous proposal by School Committeeman Alvin Mandell to eliminate 35 teaching positions from the citywide staff, School Committeeman Richard M. Douglas commented, "Now we've heard of two classes in which it's impossible to provide teacher aides. This is a consequence of being statistical on a city-wide basis."

Superintendent Aaron Fink agreed that across-the-board faculty reductions would have an undesirable impact on certain schools.

Assistant Director of Personnel Hope F. Danielson reviewed changes in faculty assignments, noting that a sixth grade teaching position had been added at the Davis School and a sixth grade and a kindergarten section eliminated at the Angier School.

VOTE YES ON THE CHARTER QUESTION 1

We, the undersigned, support the proposed Charter because it is well organized and readable, clarifies ambiguities, pinpoints responsibility more clearly, and allows greater citizen participation while retaining most of the features of the present charter which have withstood the test of time.

We believe that the proposed charter is a vital step toward a document more suited to these times than the present charter of 1897.

MAYOR
CHARTER REFORM, WHERE DO YOU STAND?
Some items in the proposed charter are good and it's too bad they could not have been separate questions on the ballot. But, on the whole the reforms will cost the taxpayers more money, particularly Sestion 3-2. Check it out yourself, therefore I will vote NO on the charter reform question.
